PRICE, FIVE CENTS

REPORT OF THE WATER BOARD.

Statement of "Certain Petitioners."

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As it was declared at the late town meeting, "out of order" for the meeting to "act" as heretofore since the town was incorporated, on printed, final reports of town officers, and allow the meeting to differ from or expunge any portion of said reports, I have been requested to state through the STAR the objections "certain petitioners" had to a statement in the water board report which did not fairly represent the position of the petitioners on the fishing question.

The report says: "This fall certain petitioners asked the Board to issue permits to fish in the water supply reservoirs. As the town had recorded itself by due process as opposed to possible contamination of the water because of fishing and other action, the request was denied."

Without expressing any opinion of its own on the subject, the water board claims as a reason for not granting fishing permits that the town "had recorded itself" as opposed to such healthful, well-regulated fishing as the petitioners respectfully requested. What kind of fishing was "expressly asked for"? In the language of the petition itself healthful, restricted fishing privileges were requested "under such rules and regulations as may best preserve the purity of the water." The town never "recorded itself" as opposed to such fishing as the petitioners wanted, but it did once record itself for a period of eleven days as emphatically opposed to such lawless fishing by people from all over the county, who fished every day in the week including Sundays. The town did "record itself" against such skating, fishing parties, hockey games on Sunday and other "possible contaminations" of our water supply as the water board freely allowed during 1908-9 without making the least effort to stop such unlawful proceedings. The water board have very unfairly stated, and stated it many times before it appeared in this year's town report, that Winchester fishermen were responsible for the lawless fishing and "other action" which shocked the town in the winter of 1908-9 and led to a vote being passed almost unanimously at the March 1909 town meeting taking the fishing control of the reservoirs away from the town water board and requesting the State Board of Health to take charge of the sanitary condition of water supply. None of the 1909 petitioners, or in fact any Winchester fishermen, had anything to do with the lawless fishing and "other action" of 1908-9 and it is unfair and unjust to make such a statement, even by implication, in the 1910 town report. They did not petition for that kind of fishing and it is wrong to say they did.

As a whole how has the town "recorded itself" regarding healthful, sanitary fishing in its two hundred acre reservoirs? The town records will tell the story better than any statement of the water board. The North reservoir was completed and water let into the town water pipes September 24th, 1874. That same year the reservoir was stocked with one hundred and fifteen black bass weighing from three quarters to two pounds each by the water board for the purpose, so it is stated, of assisting to purify the water and affording healthful fishing to Winchester citizens. No fishing was allowed until 1879 to allow the fish to increase in numbers. From 1879 until 1894 (15 years) fishing permits were issued to Winchester citizens by the water board and not one single case of misbehavior on the part of fishermen was reported to the town. On the contrary the water board reported that the "experiment" of fishing in such a large reservoir worked well and recommended its indefinite continuance. Seventy five permits were issued the first year permits were issued. During this period, the State Board of Health constantly watched over the sanitary condition of the water, as it was a new supply gathered in artificial reservoirs, and not once in over one hundred examinations did it call any attention to anything unhealthy connected with fishing, as conducted and regulated in the Winchester water supply reservoirs. Certainly the town in its first twenty years of water supply history did not "record itself" by due process" as against such well regulated fishing as the 1910 petitioners asked for.

In 1894 the Middle and South reservoirs had been completed. The reservoirs now covered two hundred acres in place of the original sixty acres making a water area five times as large as Boston Common, the town owning 7/10 of the land under the water. It also owned over two hundred acres surrounding the reservoirs, making over two hundred acres in all. The State had taken for park purposes, all the woodland surrounding part of the town, thus insuring the water shed from contamination. In their 1894 report the water board said: "The natural relations of Successful Years.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

The Methodist Episcopal Church in Winchester tendered a farewell reception to their retiring pastor, Rev. John R. Chaffee and to Mrs. Chaffee on Friday evening, March 31st. The vestry was decorated for the occasion and more than two people assembled to say "Goodbye." Rev. J. H. Mansfield delivered a very fitting address presenting to them at the close, a well filled purse of gold as a testimonial of the love and good wishes of their people. Mr. Chaffee responded, heartily thanking the donors, and wished for the church great success and prosperity. Mrs. Shared Clay, president of the Ladies' Aid Society returned the thanks of this vigorous body for the constant and sympathetic assistance which Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee had given the ladies in their work during the entire term of the pastorate.

Little Miss Powers in behalf of the Junior League presented to Mrs. Chaffee, their president, a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Mrs. John N. Mason read a poem very fitting for the occasion.

Miss Joan McLellan—as always—rendered nicely two vocal selections.

Refreshments were served in a dainty manner. The donors were: Mrs. Frank E. Crawford, Mrs. E. L. Dunning, Mrs. Charles A. Dodge and Miss Mae Richardson. Mrs. Chaffee's Sunday School class of young ladies served the refreshments. Rev. and Mrs. Chaffee are leaving a host of friends in Winchester.

Last Sabbath Mr. Chaffee preached his farewell sermon from the text: "Anse let us go hence," to a large audience, and he held the marked attention of his hearers to the close. He leaves the church in excellent condition financially and spiritually. There has been a net gain of 60 members in the past 4 years. The New England Annual Conference meets with the Harvard Street Methodist Church Cambridge beginning Wednesday, April 5. Bishop Neely presiding.

FOUND BROKEN RAIL.

On Thursday evening of last week, as Patrick Dempsey, employed by Kelley & Hawes Co., was going to his work he found that a section of the track on the Wolcott loop of the B. & M. had been broken up by a passing train. The rail was broken at the switch to the siding at Jiggs and Cobb's Linnery, about three feet long gone.

Mr. Dempsey hurried at once to the switch tower at the centre and notified operator Tenney, who stopped the two Wolcott trains which were due at that time and notified the section men.

The trouble was discovered shortly before six o'clock, it being thought that the twelve minutes or six train loosened the rail, and one of the cars, as it passed over it chugged a some ten feet.

It is the trouble never discovered by Mr. Dempsey the train would have undoubtedly been wrecked.

WORKING FOR THE COMMON GOOD.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In your last issue the following paragraph appeared under the title "Observations."

"All of our departments are on a similar enough but some are worse than others and where they have any East Ap. Com. to deal with they play loose with it. This year it gave the departments all they asked for."

It has been suggested to me that such criticisms if unanswered are liable to be accepted. It also occurs to me that as the criticisms appearing under this title are unsigned there are doubtless many among your readers who regard them as editorial utterances for which the publishers of the "STAR" are responsible.

I therefore request that you will allow me to state in correction that in seventeen instances the amount recommended by the Appropriations Committee was less than that asked for by the departments and that the Committee internally recommended the postponement at least of three other appropriations not included in the report.

Without attempting to quote the exact amount of the reductions made by the committee, I think I am safe in stating that if the committee had recommended and the town voted all that was asked for, the tax rate would have been well over twenty dollars per thousand.

I think it is only fair to state also that the Appropriations Committee found that for the most part, while those in charge of the various departments are enthusiastic and desire liberal appropriations to carry on the work which they believe should be done, they are willing and glad to co-operate with the Appropriations Committee as all are working for one common end and that is the welfare of the Town of Winchester.

Yours very truly,
Addison R. Pike.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE AT SUFFRAGE MEETING.

The meeting under the auspices of the Winchester Equal Suffrage League on Saturday evening last was a great success if the size and character of the audience offers proof. The speakers, Mrs. Henry Villard of N. Y., and Miss Sylvia Parkhurst of England were greeted by a large audience of the most thoughtful men and women of Winchester, who listened with marked earnestness to earnest pleas from both speakers for justice to women in the matter of suffrage. Mrs. Villard is a charming woman, the worthy daughter of her father William Lloyd Garrison who in her earliest years imbued his views concerning all reforms. She attacked the subject from the American point of view, bringing out arguments and conditions existing here and stating her sympathy with Abraham Lincoln's statement that "No man is good enough to govern another" the word man here being used for mankind, including women. Miss Parkhurst explained the very different political conditions existing in England—explained the rise of the so-called Militant Suffrage party there and gave a graphic description of the brand and minority treatment of the women who had felt that more vigorous measures were necessary than those that had been used for so many years with so little results. She spoke with remarkable clearness for one so young of understanding of the situation in her own country, and showed plainly how unauthorized had been the measures used against them, how terribly they had suffered, but without faltering because of better in the justice of their cause. Listening to her one could not fail to be impressed with the utter inability of one not conversant with English history—with the methods of which alone men have achieved their franchise, to judge fairly of the work of the suffragettes through the garbled reports of unfriendly American newspapers. Slips inviting men and women who believed in suffrage for women, were distributed through the audience, asking them to join the Suffrage League, which has more than trebled its members during the last year. The slips also suggested that literature concerning suffrage for women would be sent to any who tell they would like to know more about it.

ROGERS CUP.

The final roll-off in the Rogers Cup contest was bowled on the Calumet alleys last Friday night, resulting in the capture of the prize by Phillips C. Simonds. The contest started with twenty contestants, the preliminary roll-off reducing the number to ten, and the semi-final match to five.

Following are the scores of the bowlers who reached the finals:

Simonds	64
Gibbrie	54
Campbell	507
Beggs	575
Richardson	574

The cup was donated for the tournament by Mr. Charles C. Rogers, vice-president of the club, being of silver, highly ornamented, and standing about nine inches high.

The newly elected President of the Calumet Club.

CALUMET CLUB OFFICERS.

The annual election of officers at the Calumet Club was held last Saturday evening at the club house, resulting in the election of the following:

President, George B. Davis
Vice-President, Charles C. Rogers
Secretary, Edgar M. Young
Treasurer, Curtis W. Nash
Directors, to serve for three years:
Arthur W. Dean
Vincent Farnsworth
James H. Gerlach

WINCHESTER ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

The second season of the Society was brought to a triumphant close last Monday evening when the orchestra played the following program:

I. Introduction—Andante con moto
II. Vivace non troppo
III. Adagio
IV. Finale Allegro maestoso assai
Pouchetti, 2. Dance of the Hours
Tschankowski, Andante Cantabile, for Strings
Massenet, Overture, for Strings
M. Marie (Sindborg, Sindborg, soprano, sang these songs:
Oh! Quand je dors.
Aretie des Deux Avores, de Gretry (1779)
From the Land of the Sky-blue Water Calm

Old Swedish Folk Song
Go not, Happy Day, Benj. Whelpley
The Town Hall was filled almost to the last seat with music lovers of this and neighboring towns who listened with most appreciative interest to the varied program.

It would be obviously unfair to compare this company of amateurs with a body of professional players but it is not going too far to say that the orchestra has, in these two seasons, reached a point where they can feel sure of playing even as difficult a program as this last one in a way to give great pleasure. Many members have not missed one rehearsal throughout the season and this enthusiasm and faithful work have told in a correspondingly steady gain in solidity and balance of tone and in light and shade. In spite of the fact that this was by far the most difficult of the six programs which have been played, the orchestra overcame the technical difficulties with surprising ease and Mr. Little is to be congratulated on his handling of the orchestra and his intelligent and musically reaching of the different numbers.

The Symphony which was shortened by cuts in the first and last movements was played in a manner that was interesting and musical. The beautiful slow movement was exceptional for its cleanliness and balance of tone. "The Dance of the Hours" from Viacomia with its fairy-like opening, which develops into the various dance rhythms ending in a mad whirl was delightful and was played with much grace and spirit. The string number from the famous string quartet is always welcome and the quality of the muted strings was refined and delicate.

The ballroom overture was played with a confidence which was remarkable in an organization of this kind and implies goes to show what can be done with earnest workers and careful attention. In fact the whole concert was marked by sincerity and earnestness which insures for the orchestra a high place among amateurs and it is hoped that enthusiasts will permit of the continuance of the orchestra which has already become a feature of the town. Winchester should be proud that it possesses an orchestra which is second to none in completeness and ability, among non-professionals.

It has been suggested that a choral work might be given next season with full orchestra and a chorus drawn from the choral society of the Fortnightly and the school singers.

Mrs. Simonds gave much pleasure with her beautiful voice, and the Swedish Folk Song was especially pleasing not only from its rendition but also from the beauty of the composition. Mrs. Farnsworth accompanied with taste and the audience sympathized with her in being obliged to play on a piano that had its pedals put out of commission.

Mr. Little is thoroughly in earnest and is conducting with ever increasing facility and deserves the greatest credit for his patience and care in handling a band of amateurs that cannot be driven like professionals, but must be led with tact which he seems to possess in a wonderful degree.

Mrs. J. Shepard Ford, who has been spending the winter at the Parker House, Boston, has taken up her residence for the summer at Atlantic Hill, Nantasket.

CHILD NEARLY DROWNED.

*Considerable excitement was created yesterday noon by the story that a small child had been drowned in Mystic Lake, it being said that the little fellow was a son of C. H. Lewis. A child of Mr. Lewis' did come very near drowning, but latest reports are to the effect that he will probably recover from the wetting.

In company with Kenneth Flanders, the five year old son of Wallace F. Flanders, Jack, the four year old son of C. H. Lewis, was sailing toy boats in the lake at near the Redding estate on Lakeview road. The first intimation of trouble came when the Flanders boy ran to the maid at his home and told her that Jack had fallen off the wall into the water and was drowning. She rushed to the lake, but was unable to see the child. Two men working on estates nearby came in answer to her calls, one of them finding the child and taking him from the water.

He was then unconscious, and it was thought questionable whether he could be revived. Telephone calls to the doctors found most of them out, and so the men worked over the boy in an attempt to resuscitate him without delay. When the doctors began to arrive they came in quantity, and by that time signs of life were apparent. The child was taken into the Redding house and wrapped in hot blankets and other remedies tried, and it is thought that unless nothing develops he will recover. He was unconscious about a half hour, and had not the men promptly found him in the water and vigorously worked to revive him, would undoubtedly have drowned.

The credit for saving the child was due to Mr. Fred Stowers of Wolcott, a carpenter who was working at the Redding house. Mr. Stowers had taken lessons in that kind of work and his knowledge proved invaluable, his draining the child and continuing artificial respiration until signs of life were shown.

THOSE GRADE PLANS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will you kindly give space to the following letter, which will give the citizens of the town information in regard to the grade of the streets that were reported for acceptance at the last Town Meeting.

J. P. Boutwell, Chairman

Board of Selectmen,
April 5, 1911.

Mr. J. P. Boutwell,

Chairman Board of Selectmen,
Dear Sir:—Relative to the discussion at the last session of the annual town meeting as to the absence of grade plans of the streets presented to the town for acceptance as public ways, I desire to reiterate my statement to you that grade plans were on file at the time of acceptance of the streets, and had been in the town engineer's office for several months prior to the date of the meeting. The only thing which was truly said against the method of procedure in accepting the streets in question, is that the grade plans were not in the hands of the moderator on the night of the meeting.

Respectfully yours,
James Hinds Town Engineer.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

One of the highly appreciated friends of The Spectator sends the following beautiful prayer that was recited along with others when the body of William E. Glendon was deposited in Westminster during the early hours of May 26, 1898. The thought of the good lady is that as The STAR has such a wide circulation, the beautiful sentiment expressed will have a tendency of bringing peace and quiet to many a disturbed and bereaved one:

"O God, the God of the spirit of all flesh, in whose embrace all creatures live, in whatsoever world or condition they be; I beseech thee for him whose name and dwelling place and every need thou knowest. Lend, vouchsafe him light and rest, peace and refreshment, joy and consolation, in paradise, in the companionship of saints, in the presence of Christ, in the ample folds of thy great love."

"Grant that his life (so troubled here) may unfold its self in thy sight, and that a sweet employment in the spacious fields of eternity. If he hath ever been hurt or maimed by any unhappy word or deed of mine, I pray thee of thy great pity to heal and restore him, that he may live with thee without hindrance."

"Tell him O gracious Lord, if it may be, how much I love him and miss him and long to see him again; and, if there be ways in which he may come, vouchsafe him to me as a guide and guard, and grant me a sense of his nearness, in such degree as thy laws permit."

"If in aught I can minister to his peace, be pleased of thy love to let this be; and mercifully keep me from every act which may deprive me of the sight of him as soon as our trial-time is over, or mar the fullness of our joy when the end of the days hath come."

"Pardon, O gracious Lord and Father, whatsoever is amiss in this my prayer, and let thy will be done; for my will is blind and erring, but thine is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think; through Jesus Christ our Lord."

"Lord, support me all day long of this troubled life, until the shadows lengthen and the evening comes, and the busy world is hushed, and the fever of life is over, and my work is done. Then in thy mercy grant me safe lodging, and a holy rest, and peace at the last. Amen, Lord Jesus, Amen."

The majority of the houses in Winchester use lamps of the gas or electric variety, but there are a few where the old fashioned oil lamp is still in use. The Spectator has found a pleasant cheeriness in the warm, yellow glow of the oil lamp which is not always obtained from the whiter light of either gas or electricity.

In his study room The Spectator has substituted an oil lamp for the electricity with which the room is equipped. Some of his admirers may view this as a step backward but The Spectator is satisfied. The good man in charge of The Spectator's quarters understands the care of a lamp and that counts for everything. For the benefit of the few who do still adhere to the old fashioned lamp The Spectator is going to give the secret of the lamp's care. Once a week The Spectator's lamp is thoroughly overhauled. The oil receptacle is washed in hot soda water and drained thoroughly. Next, the part of the lamp through which the work is turned is taken apart and boiled in soda water until every particle of dirt has disappeared. This also is dried thoroughly. The lamp globe is cleaned every day with newspapers and cloths, but is never washed. The oil receptacle is filled to within an inch of the top. If these suggestions are carefully followed those persons who use oil lamps will have no occasion for complaint on the score of poor light or smell.

In discussing the value of newspaper advertising a prominent merchant gives The Spectator to understand that his advertising campaign in the STAR has been getting results entirely unexpected. "I have proved the efficiency of advertising in the STAR," he said. "I have advertised special articles and have had a long run in them. That is the best advertising test there is."

Said a prominent townsman to The Spectator a day or two ago: "The STAR seems to have the proper edge-spirit. It is patriotic without being servile, 'moral' without being financial and can stand straight without bending over backwards." Newspapers of the type of The STAR are a blessing to any community."

The other day a Main street gentleman told within hearing of The Spectator a child story that is good enough to be put in the STAR. A little fellow's mother had told him that she should put him to bed if he disobeyed her in a certain matter. Temptation overcame him, and when his mother started to hush him duty calls of anguish filled the room. "But, sonny," said the mother gently, "I told you I should punish you in this way if you disobeyed, and mother must keep her word, you know." Between muffled sobs the youngster managed to say: "You needn't break your word, mamma; couldn't you just change your mind?"

The Spectator is pained to learn that a man shot his neighbor's annoying tele. In justification of his action the man says: "To have my sleep broken by continual nocturnal howling of a cat would seem to justify a man in killing the obnoxious creature unless it be assumed that the life of a cat is of greater importance than the health of a man." The Spectator understands that the owner of the feline will ask for the prosecution of the slayer.

A visitor to Winchester from Northern Vermont last Sunday tells of a remarkable experience. The club will open the year in a most prosperous condition, and the coming season will probably be an active one on the Mystic Lakes. Owing to the large number of Winchester people who have canoes or boats on the lakes the club opened an additional building last season for berth room, and with the numerous regattas planned for this year with the Medford Boat Club, which is also very active, it is anticipated that the club will be the centre of interest during the summer.

The large attendance at the Town Hall last Saturday evening shows that a great many persons in Winchester take a deep interest in Woman Suffrage whether they believe in it or not.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of club members at the annual meeting of Monday afternoon, April 10. Tea will be served.

The last lecture of the course in Household Economics, given by Miss Frances Stern of the Institute of Technology, was full of suggestion and help. "The Cost of Living and the Division of the Income" is a subject of vital interest to all and those who were so fortunate as to hear Miss Stern will well regard her lecture. The lecturer's interest in the subject was very evident from her great enthusiasm and her personal touches and apt stories did much to enliven the practical talk.

Miss Stern said in part: Household management is no longer a matter of intuition, but a business, of which the woman should have absolute control. To it must be given time, thought and study in order that the greatest efficiency may be obtained with the least expenditure of money and effort. It is necessary that the woman, whose economic function is the spending of money, have the right mental attitude toward living. She must think in order to control the cost of living. There must also be a willingness on the part of the house-maker to limit her wants. Wants do not always mean needs and the latter must be carefully discriminated from the multitude of the former. One ought also to have the requisite knowledge as to why we need and what constitutes pure air, good food, healthful clothing and sanitary houses. The house-maker must be conscious of her ideal, must know how to make practical application thereof to get the best results in the health and happiness of the family. Sunlight and pure air are absolutely essential to right living. Food cannot fulfill its function without air, good health and good plumbing cannot exist under the same roof. Clothing made in a sweat shop should not find a buyer. Few people have any real knowledge of food nutrients and their proper combinations. Food is to many rather a question of amount and variety rather than of nourishment. A family spending $12 a month for food was found to be getting more nutrition than one spending $24. Hauling steak, pumpkins, and dried apples are more nourishing and less expensive than rib roast, oranges, and grapes. The greatest extravagance is practiced in the buying, preparing and use of food. It is much more expensive to buy in small quantities, so that in this respect the rich woman has the advantage over the poorer one. The buyer should not only insist upon receiving only such produce as is in good condition but should also see that full measure is given. The cooking, too, must be carefully looked after, for much good food is spoiled in this process. The high cost of living is often attributed to woman's waste of material. The garbage man gets too much of what might be used to good advantage. It is often said that a French family can live on what an American woman throws away.

Needler, as Dr. Ehot points out in one of his books, does extravagant expenditure always mean greater happiness. Strawberries in January are not as good as strawberries in June, and it one has had them for six months, one's enjoyment of them when at their best is somewhat dulled. Again, it is very doubtful whether a person who has hot-house flowers all the year round appreciates them half as much as the one who has to wait till he can prepare his own little flowered out of doors and then watch the tiny green shoots develop into the full-blown flower.

The division of the income was illustrated by means of a chart. A family of two adults and three children was taken as a basis and three salaries considered, $1000, $2200 and $4000. In each case about 20 per cent is spent for rent and about 15 per cent for clothing. But whereas the man with the $1000 income spends about 50 per cent for food, the man with the $2200 income spends only about 25 per cent. So only a small per cent is left for the poorer man in the so-called region of choice—that is, amusements, education, recreation, religion, etc. The class deserving the most sympathy is the one with the $2200 income, for they have the training and education of the rich but little with which to satisfy their desires.

Women could be of much help to each other if they would compare the ways and means of spending. There is no better way to do this than for each spender to keep accounts. Most women object to this, because figures are bother some. But accounts can be kept quite simply by merely making each day in a little book carried about with one a note of the purchases made and at the end of the month transferring these items to the larger, classified account book. This record studied and carefully weighed will suggest many ways of economizing, and the great educational value of knowing how our money is spent cannot be overestimated.

ORGAN RECITAL.

The last organ recital of the series of a monthly organ recitals given at the Church of the Epiphany will be given next Sunday afternoon at 4.15. Mr. J. Allen Wilson, organist, will be assisted by Mr. Arthur S. Allen, instrumental baritone.

The programme will be as follows: Allegro Moderato Mendelssohn "On the Sea" Mr. Allen Adagio (from Fifth Symphony) Beethoven Mr. Allen Pastorale Fauré Palm Branches Fauré Hosanna Mr. Allen Lemmens

Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon returned from Des Moines yesterday and is again staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Harris where he will remain until the programme is ready for occupancy. At that time his family will come from Des Moines.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

The former Reynolds estate at the corner of Washington street and Lincoln street, at present belonging to Mr. Philip Blank, is being considered as the place for the proposed cottage hospital. The Boynton house on Cambridge street, is also being considered. Mr. George Harrington, it is said, has offered to give $4000 for the purpose of demonstrating whether such a hospital is needed in Winchester. The project to be given a two years' trial.

The waterways improvement committee held a meeting at the Town Hall building Monday evening and organized with Lewis Parkhurst chairman. The matter referred to the committee by the annual town meeting was considered, and it was decided to employ an expert landscape architect and have him study the situation as well as improving the sanitary conditions of the various ponds and streams throughout the town. The matter will be entered upon at once, and the committee expect before long to have a comprehensive plan of the entire situation to submit.

Several Winchester people were among the large audience which packed the Arlington, Town Hall, last Friday evening to see the really delightful production of Sheridan's classic "The Rivals" by the Arlington Woman's Club. They were full of enthusiastic praise for the performance, and for the whole-hearted way in which these women played the various parts without any compromises in lines or costumes. As one gentleman remarked, they were not only vastly more convincing in their men's dress, but actually seemed the more modest from the very fact that no one emphasized her femininity by any change in the conventional costume. It appears that the town will again enjoy base ball this summer. William Callahan, captain of last year's team, being already in the field with time for 1911. It is planned to have the first game on the 10th of April with the Medford team, and a series of games with a number of strong amateur teams has already been arranged.

On account of other meetings the regular meeting of the V. M. C. A. Auxiliary will be held Thursday, April 13, instead of Tuesday at 10 a. m. The meeting will be held with Mrs. Henry Smalley. Work for a poor family. Basket lunch.

IMPROVEMENTS OF THE COUNTRY CLUB.

Many improvements have been planned for the Winchester Country Club golf course. The changes probably will not be completed, ready for regular play until well along in the season.

The third of little holes are to be lengthened, the latter appreciably, and the play at the fourth hole will be resisted until the tee where the green has been in the past.

With these improvements the Winchester links will be one of the best in this part of the country.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Winchester is so rich that even town property in the business centre is completely lost sight of by town officials.

Another piece nearly as advanced in value by the Assessors last year 82 per cent, over the previous price. A gold mine must have been discovered on it, as there has been no advance in any other centre land for many years.

Why not settle with the centre property owners in the grade crossing abolition on the basis of what their properties would be worth if the Commission's plan prevailed?

So the STAR thinks the grade crossing matter will be brought up again at a near future town meeting. What lot, to appoint another committee? I will agree that of necessity it would be better than the last one, but what is the use? Let's wait until a tangible proposition under House bill 1413 is put up to us and give "committeeing" a test.

One more committee on ponds and streams let loose, and this one has some money to spend too, and I hope it will invest in a motor boat and make good use of it in these spring months when the water is high and they can reach the sources of the rampant Aberjona. It is not only a waterily but a weighty subject and calls for much prayerful work.

Does any citizen know when a full re-evaluation of the town was last made? The earliest valuation list I happen to have before me is that of 1904, and the 1910 list shows no changes on land or buildings over the greater part of the town. We certainly ought to have a full re-evaluation this year and I believe the town will approve of any reasonable expense to obtain it. This is not a country town, but a suburb of Boston, and values do not lie dormant.

I trust that at the next town meeting we will have presented for adoption some common sense rules and not the absurd ones we have been acting under for some time. Let the selectmen and town council attend to it.

The valuations committee should cease to be a commission very important work and let it do what it is to do.

It has need of much back bone, and should get results some way and get them this year, too.

Brother Spates needs a press agent. He could not buy a ruler without authority from the selectmen of course, and they did not have it to give, so why get stirred up over what some romancer may have said or was reported as saying. We all want lots of things we think we need, but when we cannot have them get along very comfortably without. Hire a little dinky ruler.

I wonder if our School Committee will demand the usual increase next year if the number of pupils is no larger or perhaps smaller than now? If they do, what can we do about it?

Far more new speakers than at any previous town meeting and they spoke well to the movement appears to be spreading and perhaps by next year our Committee and some of our old timers may be relieved of some of the weighty affairs of state that have oppressed us and distressed others in past town meetings.

The present legislature does not improve with experience and the House is the limit. The Senate has done very well so far, but on certain measures it will go wrong. The executive is a very strong man and cannot be influenced, for bad or good.

George C. Ogden.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

There is no reason to be astonished at the success of "The End of the Bridge" at the Castle Square. Among plays of recent years it has no rival for its straight forward plot and vigorous characters, and it will therefore begin its sixth week on Monday with every sign of continued popularity.

Every player helps to make for the success of "The End of the Bridge." Mr. Craig is an excellent Dr. Garret, Miss Young a delightful Jane Manning, while Miss McManis's Peter is one of the most charming little boys ever seen on the stage. The other roles are well acted by Mr. Hassell, Mr. Walker, Miss Cole and Mr. Hickey.

Sullivan Brothers, the well known hatters, have bought out the shop formerly operated by A. Latorle on Main street. The shop will be run as usual under the new management, Chris and Bob Sullivan conducting both places.

Base ball practice has been going on during the week and the boys are showing up well. Warren G. G. last year's pitcher, will be in the box again this year, with Crapster, Wilde, and Downer as substitutes. Muncke and Marchant are showing up well behind the bat. Capt. LeBue will play at short this year, with Donovan or Prime taking his place at the first, where he has played the last two seasons. Flynn is booked for second and Hilton or Pierce at third. Among the candidates for the outfield are Donovan, Moulton, Thompson, Matthews, and Anderson.

The first game is next Wednesday, April 12, at Wakefield. Everybody should go over and give the team a rousing start for a winning season.

The tenth number of the Recorder will come out next Tuesday.

At a meeting of the class of 1911 held last Thursday, Margaret Mason was elected class historian, Marguerite Waldmeyer and Walter Kramer Prophets, George LeBue, Saint-Simon, and Eunice Homer poet. It was also voted to have the class day exercises strictly private.

The Winchester School Recorder is too slow to live, long. (April number of Allen School) Father 1. But it has been improving lately, and we hope the next number will be much better.

The first prize, two one dollar tickets, for the posters advertising the class play was awarded to Francis Getty and the second, two seventy-five cent tickets, to Katherine Fiske. The judges were Mr. Herron, Mr. Wixom and Miss Hill. Others who handed in posters were Small, Robinson and Barbara Pratt, two.

WORLD IN BOSTON SOON TO OPEN

Great Missionary Exposition to Have 20,000 Demonstrators

EXHIBITS FROM MANY LANDS

Entire Mechanics Building in Boston to be Occupied For Four Weeks Beginning April 22nd—Native Life and Mission Work All Over the World Will Be Shown in Brilliant Scenes

Preparations for the great missionary exposition officially known as "The World in Boston," toward which for months past, the interest of church leaders, Christian workers and business men of Boston and a considerable section of New England, has been directed, is rapidly maturing, and on Saturday, April 22, the doors will open. This notable religious undertaking, the significant name of which has become familiar to multitudes through the columns of the newspapers, will occupy the entire Mechanics building on Huntington Avenue, Boston, for a period of four weeks.

An appropriate program, embracing addresses by leading speakers, will inaugurate the opening on April 22, of this unique demonstration of the great enterprise of missions. Samuel B. Capen, LL. D., of Boston, chairman of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions; Bishop William Lawrence, of Episcopal diocese of eastern Massachusetts; President W. H. Faunce of Brown University, Providence, R. I.; Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., president of the United and World's Society of life of the non-Christian countries to which they are assigned. The picture shows two women in the African village demonstrating the pounding of grain by native Africans and the preparation of the flour thus formed, for food.

AFRICAN VILLAGE SCENE

The musical feature of the Exposition is the Pageant of Darkness and Light, to be presented every afternoon and evening in the great pageant hall. More than 3500 people have volunteered for the choir and platform of the Pageant. There are five episodes covering the four quarters of the earth, north, south, east and west, with a closing scene, in each of which 200 persons will take part. The music is difficult, but beautiful. There are not only grand hymns, but choruses which thrill with their intensity, marches which make the hearer beat time involuntarily and selections which are highly dramatic or tragic. The Pageant was presented in London in 1908 to crowds of people every day. It was regarded there as one of the greatest religious spectacles of the century.

Those who have been chosen as soloists include Miss Blanche Towle of Boston, as soprano; Miss Adelaide Briggs of East Somerville, Mass., as contralto; Mrs. Francis Annisley of London, Eng., mezzo-soprano; Mr. Henry Garvey of Philadelphia, tenor; Mr. Frank Cony of Philadelphia, bass; Mr. William Gustafson, Jr., of Boston, as baritone.

WORLD IN BOSTON HAS FINE POSTER

Design of Great Missionary Exposition, Becoming Known Throughout New England

The official poster of "The World in Boston," bearing the design of the cross and the Arab, is becoming very familiar throughout New England. It is one of the means by which the great Missionary Exposition to be held in the Mechanics building, Boston, from April 22 to May 24, is being made known.

The design is used on "The World in Boston" stamps, of which nearly a million have been issued, an attractive button bears the same picture; the cover of the Exposition Herald has the cross and the figure and it will be seen also in the handbooks and in the programs. The posters which are appearing on the billboards and the walls in the Boston street cars also carry the same characteristic design, and it has been reproduced in a small size to hang in churches.

An idea of the striking poster may be had from the picture. The cross, which bears a view of the globe of the world, is blue, and the ground tint is yellow. The robe of the figure is gray and the lettering is red, there being four colors and many tints.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

An exceptionally good list of features for B. F. Keith's Theatre the week of April 10th is now in preparation, and when the full bill is announced it is confidently predicted that it will be one of the strongest offered in that house during the entire season. It is sufficient to say that one of the features already engaged is Louis Simon, who will produce one of the funniest sketches ever put on in vaudeville, called "The New Coachman." A new feature of the week will be Lou Anger, a Western comedian in a German soldier character. Barry and Wolford will be seen in a new comedy called "At the Song Booth." Oscar Lorraine, the wonderful impersonator of famous violinists, and a big feature for the children will be Maude Steckney's Circus, with some of the most intelligent trained animals that have ever been seen on the stage. Annie and Elsie Corley are also booked for that week.

Among the signers of a brief sent to every member of the State House of representatives, was Honorable Samuel J. Elder of this town. The brief was signed by many eminent Boston lawyers and called attention to what is considered the objectionable character of a bill pending in the House providing for trial by jury on the issue of fact in certain cases of contempt of court. Mr. Elder has taken a prominent part in this opposition and says that the legislation is not called for and will benefit only guilty parties who are seeking to delay or defeat just and wholesome laws, orders and regulations.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The Congregational Sunday school anticipates an unusually pleasant and in the Church vestry this evening, as it is the first opportunity that has been offered the young people to meet the pastor informally. Mr. Hodgson expressed his regret that it was necessary to exclude all under the age of sixteen from the parish reception and so the boys and girls are going to have him all to themselves tonight, to the exclusion of their elders. The social hour will be preceded by a short entertainment which will begin promptly at 7:30.

The recent changing of the mile from Boston to Winchester Highlands, by the Boston and Maine (N. Y. N. H. & H.) has caused an end of comment both in this town and others which were all affected by the elastic measurement. This increase in mileage has been taken up by the board of Railroad Commissioners, and a preliminary investigation is already under way. A man well qualified for such a work has been appointed by the board to give those portions of track on both railroad systems on which the mileage has been increased. He will make a preliminary report of the result of his investigation and the commissioners will then decide whether or not action is necessary.

Sunday was one of the coldest April days in Winchester's history, the thermometer not going above 35 degrees all day. Mr. J. F. Bacon, former skating champion of America, and Mr. George H. YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

While The Spectator is of the opinion that it would be hopelessly effeminate in a man to be a professional housekeeper, he knows one gentleman who does, nevertheless, co-operate with the "lady of the house" in a multitude of ways in maintaining a high standard of order throughout the house. Here are a few of the ways in which he assists:

1. Straightens disarranged pictures.
2. Picks up pins and scraps that have found their way to the floor.
3. Confines the scattering of cigar staves to the receptacles alone.
4. Helps his wife do the dishes.
5. Rearranges disarranged furniture.
6. Maintains a general neatness.

In the opinion of The Spectator the strict observance of these six rules may truthfully be called the most gallant of real gallantry.

A layman has some old Bibles in his library, some of them being dated back to the early part of the sixteenth century. Several of them would bring a considerable sum if placed in the market for sale. The Spectator himself has a Bible dated 1724 but has never made any inquiry to determine what money value is attached thereto. It has been in the Spectator's family since 1791. Some copies of the Bible are almost beyond price. Copies of the Gutenberg Bible, the first book ever printed, are so rare that experts place the price at $91,000, though none are offered for sale at any price. At the last sale, the Ashburnham copy of 1807, was for $20,000, but today twice that amount would not buy the book. Next to the Gutenberg Bible comes the Psalter, the first book ever printed with a date. The date is 1457. It offered for sale this Psalter would also bring $50,000. A copy in the same Psalter, but of later date, 1459, when last publicly sold brought $12,000. It is now owned by J. P. Morgan, but the price he paid is private and unknown. The Vanderbilt copy of the Bay Psalm Book, printed at Cambridge, Mass., in 1640, was purchased for $5,000 but would easily bring $10,000 at the present time. The Bay Psalm Book, of 1640, was the first book ever printed in the country. The number of existing copies, has much to do with the price of a book.

A Pleasant street gentleman dispensed this bit of philosophy the other day: The old-fashioned man who found fault with his wife now has a son who prefers to find another wife.

A young man gives The Spectator to understand that the reason he makes it a rule never to become engaged to a two-faced girl is because he is afraid somebody else is kissing one of them.

"What makes that man so fat?" inquired a child on an Arlington bound car in an outburst of rage. "Be quiet, dear," said the child's mother, "I think it's food."

The other day The Spectator saw a barefooted and bareheaded boy and asked him if he didn't have shoes. "My mother only lets me wear shoes when I go to school," he looked very rugged so The Spectator presumes it is doing him no harm.

On a Woburn car The Spectator overheard a couple of gentlemen discussing woman's headgear, one of them said that fashion is becoming same again and has decreed that the merry widow inverted washbowl and other "creations" which the women folks have been using as "hats" for the last three years shall be cast aside. It doesn't matter now what sort of hat the ladies wear or whether they wear any at all, remarked the gentleman. "All they have to do is to wear a cap, and this cap may have any sort of ventilation in and the fancy in the wearer." The Spectator can't help wondering why men will worry themselves over women's problems. It doesn't give one anything. Whether they endorse the unbecoming "creations" or condemn them with a ready-made makes no difference to the ladies in Winchester or elsewhere. It was said by a wise man long ago that man is a worm, and what can a worm hope to do a compass by bristling against the details of fashion? There was a time when husbands were in authority in their own homes, when their wives were law in their own households, but that was in the good old days when wives were subject to their lords and when physical force was not in the domestic that has lately overtaken it. Man has consigned to his own undoing, and he is paying the penalty. Some in the penalty moreover is in the form of millinery bills.

The people who are coming to Winchester are of the most desirable type and mean a great deal for the future of Winchester. The reputation of Winchester as a residential town is spreading far and wide. The Spectator is proud he lives here.

There are many persons who give advice and some who seek it, but the few who take it are unimportant.

The kind of person who looks before he leaps hardly ever has to jump sideways.

A gentleman with the toothache had to explain to all the friends he met that his gums didn't feel very strange.

A most interesting sight was witnessed on Saturday by the residents of Hillcrest. A lady accompanied by a young girl met a neighbor on Highland avenue the other day when the latter said, "I believe my two children are coming down with the whooping cough." "O, I am so glad," said the young girl, "because I can now play with them." She was just getting over the whooping cough, and was not allowed to play with other children.

The ringing of the private box at Bacon's Felt Mills on Saturday morning caused considerable excitement, it being thought that the mill was on fire. Many sufferers from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using an atomizer. For their benefit we prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful, pain-relieving Cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No poison nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray is so remedy that relieves at once. All druggists sell, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 24 Warren Street, New York.

Woburn is working hard for the extension of the Mystic Valley boulevard to that city. They are not particular whether it be an extension of the Mystic Valley one from Winchester or a new location.

It is fifty years too soon to pass upon the question of erecting a statue of Gen. Benjamin F. Butler. It is impossible to consider his merits or defects where he left so many political enemies who are still living.

There is strong evidence that a direct nomination bill covering the State and County offices will be reported by the Legislative committee which has the matter in charge. This will place good government upon the shoulders of the citizens.

The town of Lincoln in town meeting instructed its Town Clerk to cast one ballot for "no license," and then the vote was declared unanimous. Now, however, this procedure is declared illegal, and the villagers are in a quandary as to how the town stands on the liquor question.

A majority of the members of the Mass. House of Representatives have expressed themselves as being in favor of biennial elections. Should the constitution be amended for this purpose, we believe that it will only result in a loss of political interest by the voters of the State. It is a step away from the people, and will only be of benefit to the insubstantial office holder.

A recent decision of the Supreme Court is to the effect that the State Board of Health and many local boards have been exceeding their authority in making regulations for the handling of milk. The decision affects the dip can, the milk bottle and other recent regulations along these lines.

There is no question but that the work of the Appropriations Committee serves as a check upon extravagance. All who have served upon that Committee and the town officials will admit the correctness of this statement. The Committee acts upon information that is not readily accessible to the citizens as a whole, and while their conclusions may seem at variance with the opinions of some citizens, yet investigation will show that their work is well and thoroughly done.

A colored boy who lives in the neighborhood of the Chinese laundry in Church street has been annoying the proprietor by throwing articles into his place of business. The trouble between the two culminated on Monday noon, when a well placed missile hit the Chinaman, determined to stop the nagging, he chased the colored boy through the centre and up Main street. He proved a good sprinter and made the capture, shaking the youngster thoroughly, much to the amusement of the crowd. It is believed that this particular laundry will be left unmolested by the colored youth in the future.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In reply to the chairman of the last Ap. Com. I would say, that having served five terms upon that committee and four upon the board of Selectmen I speak from past experience and do not believe either the committee or the town officials have changed much since in their attitude to each other, which is similar to that of Daniel and the Lion, neither cared for the other. I am a thorough believer in the Ap. Com. principle but only as a committee to investigate, report and advise, but an everlastingly opposed to allowing its reports as a guide or to be used without full discussion. What is needed on the committee is better informed minds supplemented by five hundred such minds in the town meeting, and when you get the consensus of opinion of such a representative body, will have something to be proud of. The chairman of the last Ap. Com. admits that some of the town officials did not take part in the town meeting and it looks to me as if they were the fellow who have the largest appropriations and not the "pikers." The committee made a very good report but there was opportunity for considerable improvement, as was made evident in the town meeting. The committee suggested absolutely nothing to keep down the tax rate, some of its members believed in the "pay as you go" plan, which is neither fair nor right for a municipal corporation like ours, and the other members said there was a reason why they did not report the alternative but they didn't give it. Why? I think we will have to have a fair committee, self appointed to investigate and report as soon as the Ap. Com.'s report is out and analyze it. As for "Observations," I am in the frame of mind of the Scotch lassie as to her lover.

I think our representative in the House gave the right answer to a citizen, who should have known better, as to the effect on his mine (polished) car, if he favored our grade crossing bill, when he replied that he was ready to listen to any of his constituents' reasons why he should favor or oppose any measure excepting that reason.

In refusing to let the reservoirs be put to pass the following motion: That our distinguished fellow citizens who have recently settled an important international salt water fishing dispute of long standing be a committee of one to investigate and report upon the vexed question of fishing in our reservoirs. Having become an authority upon salt water fishing he ought to embrace the opportunity to study the fresh water fishing question and thereby perform a great service to his town in this most heated some problem which cannot be settled in patent cases, like our smaller grade crossing abolition matter, but must either be abolished or a free rent given to fish. We must have this burning question settled for we shall have no peace of mind until it is, but lengthy pieces in the STAR and much trouble in town meeting. Some simple minded citizens may say it would be more probable in every way to improve the waters of our ponds and streams so that the fish would return to them, but of course no attention should be paid to them as they are two childish, childish and this practical world and our reservoirs were established for fish preserves.

I am informed that at the hearing upon the laying out of Ogden-Stimmes road it was stated that agreement by it without damage claims was made conditional upon the latter being given to the accepted street. This had been stated in the town meeting there is no doubt which name would have been selected and it is not too late to change it now. An explanation is in order.

The town should build its cement walks as there is nothing difficult about it and they should cost less so built and we would also get just what we wanted.

Greater Boston, Bigger Boston, Road Boston, Metropolitan Boston! Well, let there be a council and let it agitate.

Agitation has made Massachusetts what she is, the best legislating state in the Union. This is a pink tea measure anyway and it is laughable to see now the proponents and the opponents work themselves up into almost a frenzy over it. I can easily imagine this council of forty riles and towns making a majority report signed by twenty-one and nineteen separately minority reports.

BASE BALL.

The strong Wakefield High school base ball team defeated Winchester High in its first game at Wakefield last Wednesday afternoon by the score of 9 to 0. The visiting team played a fairly good game but their errors and the equipment's hit came at just the right time for the opponents.

In the last inning Wakefield made four runs; then Winchester held them for three innings and the fifth when they made two, and in the seventh, three. Several times Winchester had men left on third base.

Matthews excelled for the visiting team, making only one error which, by an assist resulted in an out, one hit and two stolen bases. Rogers also played well for Winchester making two put outs and five assists. Gordin struck up fairly well in the box striking out six men and allowing only one base on balls, although Wakefield hit freely.

The nature of the game was the three base hit by Monte.

Three of Winchester's best players are at present, excluded on account of their studies.

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. FELL FROM STAGING.

An accident at the Episcopal Church on Monday forenoon resulted in the injury of two stone masons employed in the erection of the new addition now under construction. The injured men were J. W. Tynan of 44 Mt. Vernon street and Fred Stevenson of Clark street.

The men were at work on a staging about fifteen feet above the ground. In some way Tynan lost his balance and made a mis-step over the edge of the staging. In trying to save himself from falling he caught hold of Stevenson, both men falling to the ground. Stevenson was the more fortunate, in that his fall was partly broken by the body of Tynan, who was underneath.

Tynan received a broken collar bone and contusion, and Stevenson was badly lamed about the hands and face. The men were taken to their homes and both are expected to recover in due time, although Tynan's injuries are considered serious.

TEACHERS' CLUB.

The Teachers' Club held the last of their indoor social meetings, Friday, March 31. The members and their guests were entertained by readings by Miss Hendrix, and a play entitled "The Paper Match." The parts were taken as follows: Miss Moulton made a very charming young girl, while Miss Tyson as the maiden aunt, took her part to perfection. Mr. Bowles, as Sam, the husband of the young man, was exceedingly good in his part, and Mr. Hoffman, as Corporal Brown, knew just what was expected of him. The last of the evening was spent in dancing. Sandwiches and native were served.

The committee in charge of the evening consisted to Miss Fudge, chairman, Miss Marlen, Miss Hill, Miss Stott, Miss Sanborn, Miss Hendrix and Mr. Herron. The next meeting will be in the nature of a picnic.

CHAMP CLARK'S SPEECH.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will you please give the enclosed space in your next issue. These remarks of Speaker Champ Clark were made at Wm. J. Bryan's birthday gathering at Lincoln, Neb., March 20th.

Winthold Tuck.

Champ Clark said: "We have met on this auspicious occasion for purposes of personal friendship to celebrate the birthday of one of the three most prominent contemporary Americans—the greatest living orator, perhaps the greatest ever lived—a man dear to the hearts of his countrymen and admired by millions in foreign lands, who, by his splendid bearing and lofty eloquence, has elevated the American character and popularized the theory of representative government in every civilized country, whose magnificent advocacy of right, justice and equal opportunities for all our citizens with monopolistic privilege for none, has given him a high and secure place in the history of our times."

"We are here to felicitate him upon the anniversary of his birth. 'O fortunate, O happy day,' not only because we admire him as an orator, statesman, philosopher and humanitarian, but because we love the man, William Jennings Bryan. From the bottom of our hearts we wish him many happy returns."

"Shakespeare says: 'To gild refined gold; to paint the lily; To throw a perfume on the violet; To smooth the ice; to add another hue unto the rainbow; Or with taper light to seek the beauty of Heaven to garnish, Is wasteful and ridiculous excess.'"

"To this category of the superfluous might well be added any attempt at eulogy upon the great American whom we have assembled here to honor. In his case the language of eulogy has long since been exhausted and I shall not endeavor either to repeat or to add to it."

"Up to date Bryan has been a strange tale: To originate and advocate as a pioneer important measures for the amelioration of political and social conditions and the perpetuation of the republic with a force, fervor and eloquence rarely equaled and never excelled: To be denounced bitterly, mercilessly and brutally for so doing; To be thrice defeated for the presidency, for their advocacy, and then to see them adopted bodily and enacted into law by his political opponents while he is still in the prime of life. There is no doubt out of the Arabian Nights more incredible than that which will be the most mysterious puzzle with which the Twentieth Century, the Simsbury of the Twentieth Century will have to unravel and explain."

"Republicans have not adopted all measures advocated by democrats in the last twenty years, but they have adopted so many that it is absolutely true to say that certain things which they denominated as anarchism when first proposed them have now been adopted by them as true political gospel. It is also true that in sixteen years the republicans have enacted into law a great remedial measure which was not first proposed by democrats, and which is more they could not have passed them through the house of representatives without the aid of democratic votes. Almost every measure on which the good name of Theodore Roosevelt rests was elected from democrats; while those on which his bad name will be fastened, his new nationalities and similar measures, were originated by republicans. The badly borrowed, wicked, varied away and converted to his own use and to the benefit of the republican party and democratic position which was beginning to popular to be ignored or shunted out of the way, and then, though he lived them upon the statute books by democratic votes, he claimed not only the lion's share of the glory, but all the glory for himself and the republicans. In all these matters the democrats acted on purely patriotic principles. Knowing full well that he and his would monopolize the honors we supported them because they would benefit the people."

"In proposing democratic measures and in getting them passed by democratic votes and then in claiming all the honor or himself and his party, his pupil and protégé, President Taft follows his bad and selfish example."

"The first example in recent times of republicans seeking and appropriating their own uses a democratic principle as in the regulation of railroads, a measure originated by that immortal Texas democrat, Judge John H. Reagan. Democrats finished Roosevelt and Taft the votes to force bills regulating railroad rates through the house and received no thanks. True, the roll calls showed a large republican vote for them, but the republican votes for them would have been few and far between had the democrats not stood there solid as a stone wall and the republicans voted with us, thereby making a virtue of necessity; but when the tributes were won the thanks of the administration and the honors were bestowed not upon the democrats to whom they properly belonged, but upon the republicans who were drafted into service. Democrats acted from principle and patriotism."

"The latest example of a twentieth century traitor to a democratic principle and getting it through the house by democratic votes was in the Canadian reciprocity matter. Democrats endorsed it in caucus almost unanimously, and in the house all the democrats except five voted for it. President Taft and his floor leaders in the house, Mr. Samuel Walker, McCall, of Massachusetts, could not muster even a majority of house republicans for it; but the next day after the house democrats pulled the president out of a hole, he promptly wrote a letter of thanks and congratulations to Bryan, McCall and the republicans, whom was a direct slap in the face to the democrats. This letter to McCall is a document as full of untruths as his appearance in print since Goldenrod entered into office. But as the democrats have been all getting reciprocity for years and as President Taft began advocating it only recently, we voted for it as a matter of principle and patriotism, asking no favors of thanks and we got none."

"While, however, we neither asked nor expected the thanks or favors, and received none, a man cannot help philosophizing on what a personal and official humiliation democrats saved President Taft and Representative McCall from when they could not line up even a majority of house republicans. Democrats voted for it because it is democratic and is therefore right and not to pull the president out of a hole, though they did pull him out of a hole and fair minded men of all parties will declare with one accord that he might have remained from thanking McCall and the republicans for a victory they did not achieve, for a performance which but for democratic votes would have been the greatest humiliation inflicted upon a president since the days of Rutherford B. Hayes."

it because it is democratic and is therefore right and not to pull the president out of a hole, though they did pull him out of a hole and fair minded men of all parties will declare with one accord that he might have remained from thanking McCall and the republicans for a victory they did not achieve, for a performance which but for democratic votes would have been the greatest humiliation inflicted upon a president since the days of Rutherford B. Hayes."

WHAT IS A DOLLAR?

The Rev. George Wood Amersson of St. Louis, Missouri, recently made a few remarks before the Pilgrim Publicity Association of Boston on the almighty dollar. "A dollar is not an insignificant thing. It is of great value. Here is a dollar—what is it? 'Legal tender,' says one. It is more than that; this dollar is part of my life. It is one of my yesterday's. I worked hard the other day and earned a dollar. In the evening I could have thrown it away, saying that money is nothing, 'but I looked at it and said: 'This is all I have in tangible form of one day of my life; I will save it as I would guard my life; tomorrow I need not work, for my yesterday will secure the services of someone else who can perform my task. But I prefer to keep the dollar and earn another, and thus as I guard my health in order to take care of the future, I guard my dollars which are my past. My dollars are my yesterday's, and I shall save them until I have sufficient of them to work while I sleep. Only the product of their effort makes sure a well-cared-for old age free from worry.'"

THE SUNDAY SUPPLEMENT.

Criticism of the Sunday supplement of the average newspaper, especially the "comic" section, which is supposed to appeal to children, has crystallized in a movement toward reform, led by the Federation for Child Study, the League of American Pen Women, the International Kindergarten Union, the Council of Jewish Women and the Child Welfare Committee, working with the League for the Improvement of the Children's Comic Supplement. They believe that by arousing public opinion, those responsible for these supplements can be made to see the necessity for improvement, and can be induced to heed the movement. It has come from the comic sheets. These comic sheets are in no way advisable for children to peruse. They are vulgar, make a jest of good order and good conduct and are reprehensible from almost every point of view. Like almost every department in our daily papers, they slander to the illiterate and vulgar and the lowest ranks and aims of the American people. But this is what sells papers—(Winthrop Advocate).

GREATER BOSTON SCHEME.

The committee of the Legislature on metropolitan affairs stands 9 to 6 against the plan of the Boston Chamber of Commerce for a Real Boston. No formal vote has been taken, but a poll of the committee shows this result:

Against: Senators Milligan of Natick and Brown of Medford and Representatives Thomas of Quincy, Balford of Newton, McKersin of Hull, Lomasney of Boston, Parker of Woburn and Newton and Connelly of Boston.

In favor: Senators Stearns of Cambridge and Murray of Boston and Representatives Cushing of Boston, C. L. Carr of Boston, Rideout of Somerville, Ryan of Cambridge.

It is understood that the proponents of the measure are convinced that they cannot get it through in its present form and that a compromise is being considered.

But why a compromise, when the sentiment in the entire district is so strongly opposed to every part of the scheme?

BOSTON THEATRE.

Channery O'Leary, in Augustus Pilon's splendid production of "Barry of Ballymore," will be the attraction at the Boston Theatre for a limited engagement of two weeks, April 17. The play is from the pen of Rida Johnson Young and from all accounts stands at the head of its class as an Irish play. The characteristic atmosphere of the story is one of its chief charms. It deals with the adventures of a young artist.

The story is well wrought and there are many delightful comical situations of the delicate sort that are seen in the O'Leary productions. Irish songs abound in the piece and Frederic Knight Logan, a well known musician, has composed some charming incidental music for it. The scenic and costume embellishment of the production are unusually fine as may be expected from a Pilon presentation of any play.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Unquestionably the largest attraction that has been announced for a while in the last ten years comes to B. F. Keith's Theatre next week. His "The Day Before," two of the biggest dramatic successes in recent years. It was put on in New York at the 4th Avenue Theatre, and would have continued there indefinitely had not Mr. Keith or-

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The local union met last Friday at the home of Mrs. J. C. Adams at Dix Street and the members turned themselves in completing the Easter gift to the Willard Settlement, two dozen napkins and a dozen towels being thus contributed. Plans for the anniversary meeting were made. In May the Union will have been organized for thirty-five years and the occasion will be observed in appropriate fashion. Mrs. Katharine Leete Stevenson, president of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U., is to speak. Further details will be announced later. At the close of the meeting the hosts served light refreshments.

Every member who was at the meeting and others, both members and friends, sent in contributions for the Easter box for the Flower Mission which Mrs. Adams packed and sent.

The Flower Mission now has its headquarters at 15 A Beacon street, and any one in that vicinity the day before Easter can gain some idea of its beneficent work by looking in upon the workers there. In passing it may be said that they are always glad to help, either for the parking or the distribution.

The reports of progress in temperance reform in various parts of the world are most encouraging. In Ireland there has been a vigorous campaign waged by the priests who recognize the necessity of total abstinence. In one town every man, woman and child signed the pledge. This was partly in County Clare. The next thing the priests led the children to the public house and had them take out savings bank books. At Limerick 10,000 signed the pledge and in many other cities there was an awakening on the subject which means much to the island.

Monte opened the campaign for the re-enactment of the prohibition law by having Captain Hobson of San Diego come speak at a Neal Dow anniversary meeting. A long list of good speakers has already been engaged to oppose the strong forces brought to bear by the liquor dealers and their allies. It would be a sad day for Maine if the open saloon were permitted to return from exile. Granted that liquor is still sold, it has not the sanction of the law, but like burglary and other evils is under the ban of the better classes. Local option may be satisfactory as a temporary expedient but a State like Maine cannot afford to take a step backward.

HOW TIRES SHOULD BE WASHED.

Washing tires and washing a car are two different propositions. Water alone should be used to wash tires and as little of it as is necessary. After every run the envelope should be wiped clean with a damp sponge or well-wringing cloth.

A common mistake made by motorists is to mix kerosene with the water. This may be advisable when washing the body of a car to remove mud and dust from the varnish, but it should never be done when washing tires because kerosene softens rubber. This fact can be readily proved by immersing a small piece of rubber in kerosene and allowing it to soak. The rubber will soon swell and lose its elasticity. The reason for this is apparent. Kerosene is rich in fatty properties which remain after the evaporation of the gases. Every time a tire is washed with a kerosene mixture the rubber is deprived of more of its strength.

When washing tires it is best to simply dampen a sponge with clean water, care being taken that the sponge is not soaked and dripping. Then wipe the tires dry with a cloth or handkerchief.

This, and many other phases of the tire question are intimately covered in the "Book of Bifenium" sent free to motorists upon request by the Michelin Tire Company of Milltown, New Jersey.

FROM MORTON L. SCRIBNER.

Friend Chris— I received your card today and was glad to hear from you. Time is going fast with me—it will be six months April 21. Have succeeded time so far, and have wicket, running—everything, O. K. I like here very well as there is some class to this town and nothing some. The Marine Corps is filled up most of the time, so a fellow has got to be some man to pass. I have quite a number of applicants and pass out out of about every ten. I have a fine office here on the best street in the City. I don't expect to go to Mexico, but if there is any trouble I don't stay in recruiting duty unless I am put in double trons. I would want to be with the boys, you bet. Bad weather here, rain and snow and a little sun. This is a great city for steel plants—large ones. I think it will be some time before I see Winchester again. I have put on 14 pounds since I enlisted. I shall try for the Philippine Islands first chance I get. Hope this finds you all well, regards to all.

I remain your friend,

Original of Falstaff.

Sir John Falstaff was the original of Shakespeare's Falstaff and in his day was a confirmed buff for the jests of the town and borough of Southwark. Though he had fought at Agincourt, when Jack Cade invaded the borough, he showed great cowardice. When Cade was put some way off Falstaff hid himself and fortified his house and garrisoned it with various of the French wars. On the arrival of Cade, however, he withdrew his garrison and fled to the Tower, leaving his neighbors to the mercy of the rebels. Falstaff's misadventures seem also to have been another source of popularity, for, having married a widow named Scrope, he seized her property and kept his stepson out of his inheritance during his own lifetime—London News.

Many Uses of Sand.

The sands of the sea are singularly useful. They are of primary importance in glassmaking. They have an important place in warfare, as a bank of sand twenty inches thick is proof against machine rifle shots. The electrical properties of sand show that it has positive conductivity, although a real of silica, the chief constituent of sand, is negative.

The sloughing effect which occurs when a stretch of wet sand is pressed by the foot is due entirely to an alteration in the piling of the sand grains. Normally the grains are close together, but abnormal piling is brought about by pressure of the foot, the space between the edges of the grains being enlarged and the water drained away. If the pressure of the foot is continued the sand becomes water than over, the partial vacuum quickly bringing water from the surrounding sand.

In quicksand the moving character is thought to be due to the impulsion between the grains of gasses from organic matter. —Chicago Tribune.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The End of the Bridge" bids fair to be the remarkable sensation of the season at the Castle Square. Its seventh week begins on Monday, and crowded houses will be the rule at every performance. Miss Lincoln's play, it should be remembered is given twice each day, afternoon and evening. The one hundredth performance is fast approaching, and when it arrives it will certainly be celebrated with a great deal of enthusiasm. Mr. Craig's acting as Dr. Garret is especially notable, and Miss Young's Joan Manners is also a feature of the performance, while the Boy Peter is acted with astonishing realism by Miss McDannell.

(16) What is the probability for national greatness when the rulers and the people are corrupt?

(17) Verse 18—What relation does the success of a people bear to their religion?

(18) How many centuries will the prosperity of this country continue if we forsake the precepts of Jesus Christ?

(19) Verses 19-20—Why is it impossible for a really happy people to be turbulent and revolutionary?

REV. C. W. BLACKETT
New Pastor of the M. E. Church.

HIS FIRST SERMON.

Rev. C. W. Blackett is a Strong Man and Able Preacher.

Rev. C. W. Blackett, the newly appointed pastor of the Methodist Church, preached Sunday morning to an audience that filled the auditorium. His theme was "The Church, a monument of the faith and resurrection of Jesus." He began by saying the two greatest monuments of the life, death and resurrection of Jesus was the Christian Church and the Christian Sabbath. The text was Eph. 2: 20, 21. "Built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself the Chief Corner Stone, in whom all the building truly joined together groweth into a holy temple in the Lord."

The preacher said "Some of the finest literature in the world was written in prisons and dungeons of Babylon's Prisoners Progress, Madam Guyon's Lyrics and the prison Epistles of St. Paul. Ephesians is one of the prison epistles. Its theme is a holy church on earth and in heaven. The apostle develops this theme by a number of beautiful figures, among them the figure of a temple. This figure would appeal strongly to the Ephesian Christians because of their acquaintance with the temple of Diana in their midst, one of the finest buildings of the ancient world. But they had reason to fear the foes whose forces centered in that temple. If he could succeed in building in their thought the vision of the spiritual temple, the redeemed and purified church, then tears would vanish in the glory of that which was to be.

The preacher then began to speak about foundation. He said, "If you are to build a cottage a foundation laid in the gravel will suffice, but if you are to build a Bunker Hill Monument it is better to go down to the solid rocks. When God was about to build His Church he went to the bed rock of his own eternal nature, and out of this He gave us Jesus Christ, the corner stone.

The Church's sure foundation is Jesus Christ the Lord.

In speaking of the Superstructure, he declared the material is brought from everywhere. No nation, no race has a special claim upon him. If the first of the martyrs was a Grecian Jew we must not forget that the Chinese finished as noble heroes of the cross.

The material is transformed. God has a way of working it over, and then of conforming it to the pattern of the cornerstone.

Then this temple is a growing temple. Some men question that. The difficulty with them is that they mistake the scaffolding for the building. There is a great deal of scaffolding about the Christian Church. There is the scaffolding of denominations, the Methodist scaffolding, the Episcopal scaffolding, the Presbyterian scaffolding, the Catholic scaffolding and what not. Now people mistake their own bit of scaffolding for the building. At that is growing they say the church is growing, and it is not growing they say the church is declining. I do not think scaffolding is a bad thing. I believe it is a good thing. But I think that some day God will send the celestial workmen and they will pull the scaffolding down and then in all the majesty of the Creator's great design, in all the beauty of his spiritual workmanship, the dream of God from eternity, a redeemed, and purified and glorified church will stand out for the admiration of the universe and a dwelling place of God for ever and ever.

In an ancient book is found the suggestion that sometime the master will come and touch the wall of his temple and all the several stones will be welded into one solid stone. The suggestion is a worthy one. He there is little per manency. Here there are temptations and sins and pains and partings. By and by these shall be passed for ever.

"There we shall see his face
And never rivers sit,
Drink of the rivers of His grace
With Christ eternally shut in."

WORK OF THE WATERWAYS IMPROVEMENT COMMITTEE.

The Waterways Improvement Committee, shortly after their appointment, met at the Town Hall and completed their organization by electing Mr. Lewis Parkhurst as chairman, and Mr. Everett N. Curtis as secretary. In view of the importance of the work placed in the hands of the committee, it was determined at their meeting that they would at once begin to carry out the purposes for which it was appointed. Upon considering the matter very carefully and after diligent inquiry, the committee decided to employ an expert to study the situation and to report thereon. Mr. Herbert J. Kollaway of Newton, Massachusetts, who was highly recommended by Mr. Frederick Law Olmsted, and endorsed by the entire Metropolitan Park Commission. A few days later the committee engaged Mr. Kollaway to make the proposed investigation, and in company with him carefully went over the entire ground beginning at the mouth of the Abenaki and continuing northward through the town. All matters of interest were specifically brought to the attention of the expert, including the surface drainage of the town, the location of the sewer, the position of the local and metropolitan sewers, the effect of the maintenance of the Whitney dam and the effect of lands above caused thereby, the influence of present manufacturing establishments, and numerous other matters affecting the sanitary, economic and artistic features of the problem.

The maps and data in possession of the various departments of the town have been placed at Mr. Kollaway's disposal, and Mr. Arthur E. Whitney and others have kindly volunteered to furnish the expert with such knowledge and assistance as they are able.

Mr. Kollaway has promptly begun his investigation, and is now at work upon the various phases of the situation. As soon as he has been able with reasonable diligence to give the subject the consideration and study which it demands, and has worked out the engineering and topographical features of the waterways and developed a plan, his report will be rendered.

POP CONCERT.

Pretty Toilets, Charming Music and Decorations.

The post-Lenten season of festivities was ushered in most auspiciously Tuesday evening by the annual pop concert in the Town Hall, given by a committee of women in aid of local charities. The affair was an unqualified success. The gathering of men and women who occupied seats at the tables where dainty refreshments were served included the leaders in the affairs of the town.

The decorations were on a very elaborate scale, the motive being Japan and its flowers. The effect was carried out in streamers, festoons and garlands suspended from the rafters and chandeliers. Many varicolored paras lent an added charm to the scene. The young women who served the refreshments were gowned in Japanese costumes and made a pretty picture indeed.

Those who assisted were Bertha Adams, Norma Benet, Barbara Blank, Pauline Blank, Elinor Briggs, Dorothy Chase, Celia Cox, Elmer Dean, Katherine Edgett, Frances Foster, Gretchen Hucgini, Isabel Hunt, Doris Gould, Una Kinsley, Ruth Lawrence, Mildred Lee, Pearl Longley, Leah McIntosh, Helen Meincke, Eleanor Morris, Marion Root, Helen Rowe, Pauline Sweetser, Anna Tindall, Edith Vandebogert and Marjorie Waldner. Marion Barry, Alice Ray, Georgia Young.

The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Mrs. Frank A. Cutting, Mrs. George H. Root, Miss M. Alice Mason, Mrs. Percy W. Witherell and Percy W. Witherell.

The Japanese idea was even extended to the college fees which bore such names as "Cui-no-sato," which translated meant banana Royal, or "Nunila-Garva," which was strawberries on vanilla. "Samidome" was chocolate on vanilla. "Asaborake" meant walnut on vanilla. "Fenbiki" was chocolate walnut on vanilla. "Matsu-no-ki" pine-needle on ice cream, etc.

The concert program was as follows: March, "Daughters of America," Louise Overhure, 111 More King, Adam Solo for cornet. Selected.

Nelson Bernier Selection, Faust. Gnomon Melodies from the Arcadians, Monckton Selection, the Italian Prince, Earl.

A Run Dance, Madame Sherri, Horatia In the American Parlor, Meacham Selection, the Chocolate Soldier, Strauss Selection, the Girl of My Dreams.

Grand march, Tambores, Wagner Beautiful Blue Danube, Strauss.

The last musical number, the "Blue Lullaby Waltz," by the band, was played with the hall darkened, except on the stage, where Miss Mary Kellogg appeared in a live artistic interpretation of the waltz.

Seated at the tables were: Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Sanborn Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barry Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clark Rev. and Mrs. J. H. McNeill Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Palmer Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wallis Mr. and Mrs. G. REV. AND MRS. HODGDON GIVEN RECEPTION.

A most attractive reception was held on Tuesday evening at the Congregational Church. The weather was all that could be desired and a large number of people attended.

It was the regular pastor's reception, which is usually held in the fall, but it was necessarily postponed to await the coming of the new minister and his wife, the latter arriving last Saturday.

The ladies who had the social in charge were Mrs. Dr. Ordway and Mrs. Ralph Redden and they received with Mr. and Mrs. Hodgdon. The ladies were dressed in white and Mrs. Hodgdon carried a large bunch of Killarney roses. The decorations on the platform back of the receiving party were very beautiful, especially the large potted bush of Ranunculus, pink carnations, lily of the valley and lilies. Four ladies presided at the table and poured chocolate and coffee: Miss Kate Pond, Mrs. H. P. Hemmell, Mrs. M. V. Tomkins and Mrs. M. H. Lombard, and later in the evening their places were filled by Mrs. Wm. Snow, Mrs. A. E. Smith, Mrs. William Herrick and Mrs. Henry Ordway. Ice cream and cake were served by the young ladies.

Music was furnished by the Boston orchestra and the airs were more lively than those usually heard in the vestry, they were well suited to the occasion, which was made more delightful by representatives from the other churches, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf, Mr. Robert Metcalf, Mr. and Mrs. Parkhurst, Dr. and Mrs. Cummings, and others being among them.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The Dramatic Committee of the club will have the meeting on Monday afternoon in charge, and two plays will be given—"Friday afternoon in the Village School," and "The Register," by Howells. The cast will include several members of the club, and there is every indication that this will be a most successful production. Ladies will be requested to remove their hats at this meeting.

The ladies are reminded that the proposed increase of membership will be voted upon Monday.

MAY PARTY.

The May party committee, Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, chairman, has made arrangements to have the beautiful decorations used in the Town Hall for the Pop Concert, retained for the May Party which is to be held on Saturday, April 29, from 2 till 5.30 p. m.

Tickets may be obtained of Mrs. Wm. E. Cummings, 6 Elmwood avenue, Tel. 455, and of Mrs. George Everett Pratt, 5 Grove street, tel. 316-1 until Thursday, April 27, when they will be on sale at the drug stores of Messrs. F. N. Abare and F. H. Knight.

CHILD BADLY BURNED.

On Wednesday noon, Henry O'Melia, the five year old son of John O'Melia, of Loring avenue was badly burned while playing with fire near his home. In company with two other children the O'Melia boy was near the fire, his clothing catching from the flames. He was seen by Daniel Reardon, who was attracted by the cries of the children, and the fire extinguished by tearing off his clothing. A physician was called, who ordered his removal to the Mass. General Hospital, where he was placed on the dangerous list.

"THOSE GRADE PLANS."

Takes Exceptions to Present Methods of Town.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

My attention has been called to a letter published in the STAR of April 7th written by the Town Engineer, with reference to "Establishment of Grades" of streets, presented by the Selectmen at the town meeting for acceptance.

That letter was written for publication, at the request of the Selectmen, and it allowed to go unmaneuvered might create a false impression regarding existing methods of procedure in establishing grades for streets.

The whole discussion arose through remarks which were made at the last Town Meeting. I wish to say at the outset that I have no desire to criticize the Board of Selectmen either individually or collectively and I considered it a privilege and duty to vote for every one of them at the last election. Neither have I any wish to find fault with our town engineer, who I believe is trying to do the best he can under existing conditions. The only reason I had for objecting to the manner in which we accepted streets was that I felt very strongly that we were not proceeding in the best manner and that we would sooner or later reap the rewards of our neglect. When the various streets were presented for acceptance at the town meeting, I noticed that no mention was made, in the motion, of the establishment of grades for these streets and I asked the Selectmen, through the Moderator, if such grades had been established. I was surprised to learn that the Selectmen did not seem to know whether this had been done or not and one of their members left the hall to telephone the town engineer to ask if such grades had been established. This reply was that on one street he did not think it necessary and on another it had been done. To this method I must take exception. No profiles of streets were mentioned at the town meeting and today I feel sure that on none of the streets accepted at the last town meeting have any grades been legally established.

In the engineer's letter, above referred to, occurs this conclusive statement:—"The only thing which can truly be said against the method of procedure in accepting the streets in question, is that the grade plans were not in the hands of the Moderator on the night of the meeting." I am not a lawyer, but it is my law, and the only thing that is necessary, is for the Moderator to have in his possession a piece of paper, the contents of which he nor the citizen has the slightest knowledge, and reference to which is in no way mentioned in the "warrant" or "motion" made at the town meeting, constitutes a legal method of establishing the grades of streets, then it would seem necessary that, at every town meeting, the Moderator be officially searched to see what else he may have, (in his inside pocket) that we are unwittingly voting upon.

Of course such a "method of procedure" is too ridiculous for serious consideration, but it is also two important matters to settle with and if we wish to have those things done in a proper or legal manner we must go at it in the right way.

After some 35 years experience much of which has had to do with municipal work, I have seen the folly of allowing these matters to go at those ends and then pay the penalty therefor. I have no hesitation in saying that there is scarcely a street in town which has a properly legally established grade. It is, in fact, an attempt to change the grade of those streets, to the injury of any abutter, may lead to endless and expensive law suits against the town. In fact, I understand, that at the present time there is a possible suit pending and the town has no "established grade" to fall back upon. It was to guard against just such things as this, and to safeguard the town's interest that I objected to the acceptance of streets without "established grades."

How antiquated and careless our system (or rather lack of system) is, can best be understood by comparison with the manner in which these things are done in the "up-to-date" towns.

In those towns plans and profiles of the streets are drawn on the same sheet of paper. The warrant, calling the town meeting, notifies the citizens that certain streets are to be presented for acceptance in accordance with plans and profiles and the motion for acceptance also refers to said plans and profiles. These streets are posted on the meeting so that the citizen may understand what they are voting on. After acceptance these streets are signed by the Selectmen and Town Clerk for identification. How much more business-like this method of procedure is than our "ship-hod" method of neglecting to accomplish what we wish to do.

I know it is not a pleasant matter to disturb existing conditions and one is apt to get oneself disliked for suggesting any changes from old ideas and customs. But we should realize that Winchester of today is quite a different place than was Winchester of 25 years ago. And if we are to keep our beautiful town abreast of the times, we must adopt modern and improved methods of town government.

I am sorry that the Selectmen did not seem to take my suggestions in the spirit intended. There is much more that could be said about acceptance of streets where it is pretty hard to find that "Public Necessity and convenience" requires such acceptance; and conditions of acceptance are not always uniform. All citizens should be treated alike in these matters, and no favoritism shown. But this letter is already too long and these matters can be discussed at some other time. D. W. Pratt.

ARMSTRONG—CREIGHTON.

The wedding of Mr. Robert W. Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Armstrong of Highland avenue, and Miss Emily K. Creighton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Creighton of Lynn, took place at the home of the bride's parents, 142 Washington street Lynn, on Tuesday evening.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Owen J. White, pastor of the Washington street Baptist Church, and was largely attended by friends and relatives of the couple.

Mr. P. Douglas Armstrong, brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Bessie E. Creighton, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mabel Case, Miss Marian Johnson and Miss Alice Black of Lynn, and Miss Clara Hopburn of Freehold, N. J. The bride was given in white satin, with Brussels lace and pearl trimmings.

The residence was decorated for the wedding with roses as the predominant flower, white roses being used exclusively in the room in which the ceremony was performed, with pink in the living room and red in the halls and reception room. The large garage on the estate was connected with the residence by a covered passage and used as a supper room.

The couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. Creighton, their parents. The ushers were Messrs. Albert M. Creighton of Lynn, Russell B. Armstrong of Winchester, Frank S. Hanney of New Bedford, Dr. Arthur V. Rogers of Winchester, Percy O. Dorr of Springfield, Frederick J. Driscoll of Brookline, Edwin F. Breed of Lynn, Rev. Arthur P. Pratt of Bellows Falls Vt., Ivan H. Joslin of Melrose and Hugh Montgomery of Cambridge.

A special electric took the Winchester guests there and return.

Following their wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside on Fletcher street, this town.

My dear Mr. Wilson:—I am sending you a mail-bag full of the seeds, which the government issue for free distribution in the hope that you may know of people who would like to have them for their gardens. I feel quite certain that there are many who would make very good use of these seeds and I should be much obliged to you, if you would see that suitable quantities of them are given to those whom you know who would be glad to have them.

Sincerely yours,

The Changed old Town.

AS SING IN THE FOLLIES OF 1978.

Words by Lew Duckstakker. Music—The Grand Old Rag. Take it home and try it on your accordion.

There's a feeling comes a creeping
Over me when I am sleeping,
As I listen for the keping
Of the water o'er the dam;
And it starts my heart a thumping,
Also sets my blood a pumping
When I hear the water jumping
For I know just where I am.
I look around for the railroad tracks
There're not in sight;
It don't seem right,
The Center I see; But the streets are all free—

No Subway there; No tracks in air.
Gracious! You're a changed old Town.

Chorus.

Your a changed old Square
From what used to be there;
But I take it all for the best.
You have lost your tracks,
And that job of Mac's
Tending gates, now has gone with the rest.

Now the Town will grow
With rapid strides, I know,
For you can't keep a pretty place down,
And railroad tracks should be forgot.
Keep your eye on the dear old Town.

After all the agitation
Of the Town's small population,
Looking for emancipation
From the crossing in the square
From some one's mighty moule,
Came the dream of easy trouble.

As he saw a poor ki yoodle
By the train tossed in the air,
He had read about the old canal;
It struck his block,
Gave him a shock—

He says "O! G-r-r! A good thing I see.
A trolley-boat line! won't that be fine?
How much better for the dear old Town."

Chorus.

Your a changed old Square
From what used to be there,
But its all for the better I know.
Now the trolley-boats glide
Regardless of the tide,
On the wind, or the rain, or the snow,
And our dogs can roam
Far away from home.

And the worst they can do is drown.
For railroad tracks are all forgot.
Keep your eye on the dear old Town.
With a little million men in their shoes
But to work at different sources,
He had continued all his forces,
And the digging soon began,
But by then 'twas easy seeing,
For they, the old canal, were trailing,
So there was no chance for failing,
If they followed where it ran
They worked at night and they worked in the day.

They dug it wide,
And deep it lay,
Bridges built o'er it on shore to shore,
Grass and green banks all kept Clean.

Gracious how it changed the Town.

Chorus.

Your a changed old Town,
But no more do we frown
When we walk from Mt. Vernon to Main,
Now we don't have to wait
For an eighty-car freight,
Or any other old kind of a train.
The trolley boats skim by While your battling an eve,
With no danger of knocking you down;
So railroad tracks are all forgot.
Keep your eye on the dear old Town.

Sixty miles an hour they travel,
With no care for rails or gravel,
And no swatches to marvel
As they speed upon their way,
There's express boats for the drimmers
And there's freight boats for the hummers;
Either you late sure class hummers,
And they travel night and day.
They load the cars on the boats at Boston,
To Lowell they fly,
See them spin by,
Moving along just as smooth as a song
No noise they make; It's a pleasure to take

A trip to the changed old Town.

Chorus.

You're a changed old Town,
Since men of renown,
Such as Carter, and Tick, and some more
Made it a matter of tradition,
How they howled for abolition
When the crossing in the center made them sure

Now they can rest in peace,
Their howling ever cease,
And in heaven will wear a golden crown,
For railroad tracks are all forgot.
"They" kept their eye on the dear old Town.

TURTLE CAME BACK.

One day last autumn Daniel Sullivan of the Woburn singing crew, while passing the pond near the junction of the Woburn loop and main line saw a large turtle which he later captured.

He brought the prize to the turntable house where it was secured with a piece of wire in the tablepit. The turtle disappeared and search was unavailing until yesterday, in the same place that he was caught six months before.

Thomas Daily, another freight brakeman found the self same turtle two miles away from the house with the large piece of wire through its shell.—(Woburn News.

AN AID TO NURSING.

What the Social Service Committee is Doing.

The following report was made by Mrs. Cornelia McA. Houghton, chairman of the Social Service Committee, at the annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse Association last week. This committee has been found of considerable assistance to the Association during the past year and the very able report of its work will show.

Report of Social Service Committee.

Social service in connection with the work of the Visiting Nurse Association in Winchester, is bringing the work done by the nurses to a more satisfactory finish, putting itself in touch with individuals and associations working along the same line, as a help to the patients, and conserving the strength and time of our physicians and nurses.

To this end and through the generosity of Mr. George Harrington, the room which the association has occupied for some time was opened as an office or headquarters on Jan. 19th, '11. A few necessary articles were bought, more were given by friends believing in and interested in the project and a telephone installed on the same line with the one in the Nurse's Home, enabling us at all times to be reached and satisfactory response to calls given. This office is open daily from three to four o'clock in the afternoon, when one of our physicians takes the responsibility of work which is outside the nurses' province.

There has been held every Thursday since that date, the Mother's Conference, under Dr. Putnam, with an attendance of 83 and an average weekly attendance of eight mothers and babies. The baby is weighed, its general condition noted, directions as to the proper care of the child and the care and preparation of its food given, and where the mother needs help in carrying out the physician's orders the nurse gives the necessary instruction in the home. Miss Billings has made in connection with this particular work 131 calls in the 70 weeks. On Wednesdays, at the same hour, the tuberculosis class meets, with Dr. Brown in charge. The average attendance is 100 patients. The association has had during the year eight tuberculosis patients, 2 have died, one at the State Sanatorium at North Reading, one returning from the Westfield State Hospital a few days before his death, and one young girl who has been at North Reading the past year and is reported as improving.

Of the patients attending the class, and under the care of the nurse are two patients who have returned from the State Hospital, who are doing well, and three new cases.

The class work, the regular visits of the nurse to the home of the patient who assures proper food and conditions, makes this branch of the work more satisfactory than ever before. Since the opening of the office, 61 surgical dressings have been done, 5 casts fitted to glasses, 2 patients measured for rubber stockings, 3 operations and 85 calls made upon us. The social service work has been equally encouraging, but it is not possible to give it in detail; domestic help has been procured when sickness incapacitated the mother, employment found for those needing it, suitable homes found for two children whose mothers are out at service, nursing care provided for a chronic invalid at a reasonable fee, satisfactory to both patient and helper. In this case the nurse has given the necessary teaching to the helper and visits frequently, thus insuring the best care to the patient.

Nourishment has been provided in many cases during the period of need and we have done work in connection with the Children's Aid Society, Boston Children's Hospital. The social service and tuberculosis department of the Mass. Gen. Hospital. We desire to thank our doctors for their generous co-operation, hoping we may increase in usefulness to them, and the friends, who have aided us with their interest and gifts.

Besides Mr. Harrington's gift of $500 for this new department of the association's work gifts as follows have been received: New shades for the office, a gas stove, white enameled ware, basins, pitchers, instrument tin and hot water kettle, 12 baby blankets, a tea service, 1 pr. baby scales, 1 baby weighing basket for members of the colored church, 2 nickel soap dishes, 1 couch, 1 hospital screen, 1 pr. hospital scales, 2 receipted bills for work done for the association, 1 rubber stocking, 1 abdominal band, 1 set of surgical instruments for use in the office or Dr. Carter, $1 from a friend, 1 clock for office.

Respectfully submitted,

Cornelia McA. Houghton, Chairman.

APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE

How the Work is Done and Appropriations Scrutinized.

For the benefit of our readers we give a brief summary of the thoroughness of the work done by the Appropriations Committee, believing that by so doing the effort of the committee will be more understood and appreciated.

Immediately on organization, sub-committees are appointed. These sub-committees are charged with the duty of acquainting themselves with the needs of the departments assigned to them and they not only examine into the proposed expenditures for the coming year but look into the expenditures for the past year. When their investigation has been completed, they report to the whole committee, and they are then examined and sometimes cross-examined and if the information obtained in this manner is not sufficient a further investigation is made.

As soon as possible after the end of the year each department submits in writing an analysis of its expenditures for the past year and a statement of its needs for the coming year.

This is examined by the whole committee in connection with the reports of the sub-committees, the departments appear before the committee and are examined, every member of the committee having an opportunity to ask questions. Notes on the appropriations are first taken and then the budget is carefully gone over as a whole.

The information which the committee thus obtains is the more complete than it would be possible to obtain in any Town Meeting or perhaps in any other manner, and any other method of examining into the advisability of making appropriations would not be as effective. It frequently happens that as a result of the inquiry made by the committee it is possible to offer suggestions to the departments which result in a saving of money to the town.

As an example of the thoroughness with which the work is done by the committee it might be stated that the sub-committee on highways and bridges personally viewed all the streets, ways and town property upon which it was proposed to make expenditures.

This committee, while it believes in progress, yet it exercises a watchfulness over all contemplated expenditures, and that there shall be no extravagance, thus saving to the town considerable money.

GLOBE THEATRE.

"The Virginian," a dramatic version of Owen Wister's fascinating story of the Wild West, comes to the Globe Theatre for two weeks, commencing April 24th. As is well known to the majority of theatregoers, "The Virginian" in its dramatized form is in four acts—the first at Uncle Haver's house, the second at Judge Henry's ranch, the third act at the camp of the horse thieves, and the fourth act in Medicine Bow, Wyoming. The play version was arranged by Kirke La Shelle, assisted by the author, Earle Ryder's characterization of the Western range rider has been pronounced exquisite in its manly sincerity and an ideal conception of Owen Wister's hero. The play is known to be a carefully studied depiction of types and scenes in the far West when most of the States were their territories. The characters are skillfully drawn, and there is none of the highly colored material usually associated with stage portrayals of life on the plains.

The La Shelle Virginian Company is headed by Earle Ryder. The impression of physical strength, of manly self-reliance, seems to have found its suitable expression through the portrayal of this cowboy hero by Mr. Earle. Noel Travers will play the part of Steve, Augusta True will be seen as Molly Wood. Others in the cast are Charles R. Gilbert, Henry Holaday, Eleanor Wilton, Marie Dantes, Wm. H. Leaden and Frank Vail.

Let's talk it over—When you live a car here, we are interested long afterwards to keep down expense—That's economy—Information without prejudice—Call up Wm. 2168 Winchester Garage. G. O. Fogg, Mgr.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Entered at the post-office at Winchester as second-class matter.

The clerks in the postoffice are entitled to a rest day, and no fair-minded person will begrudge them Sundays, the same as is accorded to most everyone else. It won't cause suffering if we don't get our mail on Sundays.

Personal taxes are, as is customary at this time of the year, receiving much attention. It is claimed that the laws are defective but the proposition is a most difficult one to settle, from whatever point of view looked at.

Automobilists should give the fire apparatus the right of way to fires and not hinder their progress. Then, too, this rash of automobiles adds to the danger of the firemen from accidents and the general public as well. Give the firemen every opportunity possible.

President Mellen of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R., has given sleepy Boston a severe shaking up. Now if the Chamber of Commerce will take Mr. Mellen's advice to heart and do something and throw overboard the Greater Boston scheme, it will accomplish something of a benefit to that city.

If a street was started across the pond to the plain, the inhabitants would not, probably, be called upon to pay the increased price for having their ashes removed. A dump at this place would not only be convenient, but it would give the town a street, exclusive of the right of way, at no expense.

The entire country mourns the death of "Josh Winslow's," or as he was known in private life, Denman Thompson. The loss is felt particularly in Winchester, the home of his brother, the late T. E. Thompson, and where the latter's widow still resides, because of his frequent visits here and the many friends he made.

The Lexington High School boys evidently do not attach much importance to a promise, else if they did they would have come to Winchester last Saturday afternoon and played ball with the Winchester boys as they had agreed to. They did not care enough to even send word that they would not come. The master of the Lexington school should inculcate in these young men the importance of keeping their word.

WILLIAM A. BATES.

William Alexander Bates, a well known resident of this town, died suddenly last Sunday. His body was discovered on Sunday on the estate of Hon. Samuel J. Elder at Myopia Hill, it being presumed that he had come on Saturday, he having left his home on the morning of Saturday.

Mr. Bates resided with his wife on Lagrange street. He was 80 years of age and the last surviving member of his family.

He was a very successful and much respected man. His health failed him several years ago and his physician advised him to retire from business, which he did, and to remain out of doors as much as possible.

Being a man of very fine education, having studied medicine, botany and natural history, he was greatly interested in his out of door life and he enjoyed it much. He was constantly in the woods which surrounded the town and he often went to Winthrop, where he had relatives, to hunt snipe birds and to fish.

Mr. Bates was a man who had traveled extensively.

He had never taken an interest in town affairs.

The funeral services were held from the residence on Tuesday at one o'clock, Rev. Joel Melvill, pastor of the Unitarian Church officiating. The remains were taken to Forest Hills.

BISHOP LAWRENCE AT CHURCH OF EPIPHANY.

Bishop Lawrence will preach at the Church of the Epiphany next Sunday evening. The service will be at 7:30.

The public are cordially invited to avail themselves of this opportunity to hear Bishop Lawrence.

OBSERVATIONS.

Editor of the Star:

Oh, yes, the Ap. Court. have been good committees, but none of them have ever known it all. None of us are any great experts on municipal government, much less specialists, and make many mistakes. Why not instruct this committee in being in the budget based upon a certain estimated valuation and a fixed tax rate? This would be it down effectually and the year's work would not suffer in any department.

The State House not only lacks fire protection, but ventilation and intelligent running of its electric and heating plants. What is needed there is new blood.

Mr. Olin and Mr. Farnes have been figure heads in their offices for several years. A number of other State offices are so filled.

At this writing the bill amending the Boston Charter act has had but one reading in the House and must take two more before going to the Senate. What the House voted was to substitute the bill for the report of Metropolitan Affairs Committee "leave to withdraw" and the bill then took its first reading and is still away back in the calendar for its second reading. It will have a stormy time before it gets through the House and will be buried in the Senate if it gets there.

The third resolve is still in Senate Ways and Means where it has been since reported by Committee March 27. The bill asked for $6,000 for life, and Committee reported $5,000. The same committee reported in favor of paying to the widow of Clerk John L. Andros his salary for the balance of the year. It went through the House, was reported against by Senate Ways and Means and was rejected by the Senate unanimously. It looks doubtful for the third resolve.

By chapter 146 of this year cities and towns may establish art commissions. Let's have one for our grade crossing.

By chapter 147, Falmouth may appropriate money to advertise itself.

April 17th there were still three hundred and fifty bills not reported upon by the various committees of the legislature and all of the hearings will not be completed this month. Spenser Walker seems to have lost all control of the House, and it looks like a July first session. Even

Will be issued by the Winchester Co-operative Bank, May 1st. Applications for these New Shares may be made at this office or through the mail.

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

SPRING BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

With the four matches in the spring bowling tournament at the Calumet Club during the latter part of last week the teams split up considerably and it would be hard to pick any one as a probable winner. The scores were as a whole rather low, although the matches between teams 2 and 6, and 1 and 5 were productive of some good rolling. On Sunday's single of 152 was the highest of the week. Team 1 rolled a total of 1474 in a well bowled match, Caldwell having the highest total with 314.

MEDFORD 3 WINCHESTER 2

Before a large crowd, the Winchester A. A. base ball team lost their first game of the season, to Medford by the score of 3 to 2. Patriots' Day. The game was close and interesting throughout and but for the failure of the home team to hit when men were on bases, the score would have been different. The Medford pitcher showed wonderful control by putting three men in succession after allowing the bases to be filled.

NAMES ARE TOO TAME.

So Thinks "Frederick W. Coburn Regarding Designations in the Middlesex Fells.

In his "Saturday Samplings" in the Boston Herald, Frederick W. Coburn took his readers out to the Middlesex Fells and its miniature zoological garden.

After plucking the wild animals and the possibilities of the Zoo, he continues:

The half-holiday enthusiasm of the crowd for wandering in the Fells, very evident since the street car service in Spot pond was opened, prompts a second inquiry of the rambling sort in which the summering person is permitted to indulge.
It may be pertinent to ask whether nothing could be done to give names of better class to the physical features of this reservation.

For there is a little lesson in the psychology of popular appeal in a New York woman's career at that when in Boston she often takes the trouble to some picturesque named suburb, just to find out if the place lives up to its designation.
She is sometimes disillusioned when she reaches a jerry-built village, but the impulse on which she acts is correct. A writer in a New England paper recently expressed pleased disappointment at discovering on his first visit that the Middlesex Fells were huer, more charming and more romantic than he had been led to suppose by noting on the map such names as Pond street, Elm street, Pine hill and Long Pond. He expected, he confesses, to encounter something as tamely tiresome as "Washington street," "Main street" or "School street" in the average American town. Instead he wandered for several hours in a lake region as gloriously beautiful as a bit of transplanted Adirondacks.

Others must have felt the same way.
To add, indeed, to the allure of the miniature mountain heights reserved for the benefit of 1,000,000 people it was a lucky circumstance that, instead of the title designation, "the woods," which sufficed whole generations of New England Yankees to describe an expanse of tract of unfettered rocks and mossy gullies, Sylvester Baxter had the imaginative foresight to import a word which by its very musical dress lends distinction to the park.

It is probably safe to assert that thousands of people have visited "Middlesex Fells" and would not have been interested to enter "the woods."

Except, however, for the primary name the map of the Fells tells a sad story of that poverty of the American vocabulary and Aural imagination which has elsewhere given us a many East, West, North, South and Centre Southfields.
Fine old glacial scraped stumps of an antique mountain system, with peaks and prospects worthy to be singly poets and with intervening valleys where the earliest white violets appear, have been stuck with such unmeaning designation
as Bear Hill, Deer Hill, Pine Hill, White
Hill, Saddle Hill, Money Hill, Black
Rock and Bushy Rock.

The stroller who studies the map of the Fells which the park commission has placed at convenient points in the Fells, looks in vain for any word to give him a sense of the place. He must content himself with the earliest white violets appear, have been stuck with such unmeaning designation
as Bear Hill, Deer Hill, Pine Hill, White
Hill, Saddle Hill, Money Hill, Black
Rock and Bushy Rock.

1 Chron. xix:29.

(1.) Verse 21—To what extent may we trust the reasoning and deductions of a bright, and good boy, seven years of age, upon matters with which he is familiar?

(2.) What immediately preceding events had led up to the boy Josiah (Jehoshaphat) being crowned King of Judah?

(3.) Verse 1—Who was Jehu?
(4.) Zibiah was the mother of the boy King Josiah, but who was his father?

(5.) Verses 2-3—Is the statement here made that "Jehoshaphat did that which was right in the sight of the Lord all his days," literally, or his forfeiture correct? (See 2 Chron. xiv: 17-22.)

(6.) Take two men, both previously good, in responsible positions of great temptation, both having been religiously trained, one having a wife and the other a good ancestry; one of them late in life becomes a bad man—on the law of averages which is it, and why?

(7.) Verses 4-5—What method or rule should we adopt in giving money to the church?

(8.) What is the relative obligation, upon a man for keeping up his own house and the house of God?

(9.) Verses 6-8—What were the priests hidden by the king to do with the money which the people brought in, and how did they carry out their orders?

(10.) Why is it either wise or unwise, for a man to be the treasurer of his church?

(11.) What is your opinion as to what these priests did with the money?
(12.) Which is the right, or better place to collect money for God's cause, and why, at the houses of the people or in the church?

(13.) Verse 9—If Jehoiada had gotten up a series of concerts, or lectures or bazars, or tea meetings, or had set the women to making quilts and selling them, instead of asking the people to give their money direct, would it or not have been more in keeping with God's plans for financing His church and why? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(14.) What modern plan for paying money to the church, most nearly answers to put her into a chest at the church door, and what is the advantage of the plan?

(15.) How many instances can you recall of dishonesty in handling church funds, and how do they compare with the number who can recall of dishonesty in banking and other business institutions?

(16.) Verses 11-12—Ought a church to gladly pay the regular market value, or should it expect to get work and material for less?

(17.) Verses 13-16—Should a Christian church spend money for style, or for suaveness effect, or for anything beyond that necessary for comfort?

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

The biggest thing ever in vaudeville has been the verdict in regard to Paul Armstrong's "A Romance of the Underworld," which has been doing business at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week. This mammoth production with no less than 35 speaking parts or more to be found in the average four act play, has been the talk of the town, and it was to be expected that it would be held over for another week. It will be headed by Ned Clarendon, famous comedian of Lew. Dick-son's, and Misses, assisted by William N.
Hobbs, formerly in London with Dorcas & Co. Another strong feature will be Jack & Violet Kelly, the Australian stock chasers. On the same bill will be Lyons & Yoon, the wonderful street stunts. More & Belle Hartman, the only duo in the line of comic entertainment, and New & Mabel, the West coast comedienne who created such a sensation when she last appeared in Boston, the Marjorie-Tina & equilibrium, and other features will complete a ten act only strong bill.

Home Course In Health Culture

XIV.—Disease Prevention in the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.
Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association

WHO would not give a trifle to prevent what he would give a thousand worlds to cure? For Young who wrote these words, had a habit of "seeing things at night," but not in the popular sense of this expression. He wrote "Night Thoughts," but saw very clearly the principle which the medical profession is now carrying out well expressed in the homely and phrase, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Scourges of the Past.

The horrors of pestilence and miasmatic disease that afflicted our forefathers are almost unbelievable in these days, and yet during the dark ages they were accepted as a matter of course.

IMPROVED WINDOW VENTILATION

Have plenty of window space and so arrange your rooms that they are thoroughly ventilated and well lighted.

Of course and variously advised in "hints of death" or "the evil one," he is calling to the point of view.

We do not read in the brightly illumined pages of history that "the" was a common, and to say general, affliction of the court of France and that the great Napoleon suffered from this trouble because he knew his cause or simple treatment. It seems difficult to realize that in the old days a person who was not pockmarked from smallpox was an exception in the streets of London.

The custom of sleeping in bunks in the wall, of using rushes or straw for floor covering, in the meshes of which refuse scraps from the table and other filth were allowed to accumulate, was regarded in the old days as a natural and healthful mode of existence. The custom of dipping germs infected fingers into large dishes of food containing the general supply for the family was followed by the Four Hundred during the middle ages, when the "black death" and other scourges spread a desolation of which it is difficult to form any conception in these days of comparative "sweetness and light."

But we must not lay too much flattering motion to our souls. Taking into account the advances in science and knowledge of the causation of disease, we are today relatively free of the neglectful and careless habits in defiance of disease risks are still common enough and are responsible for a tremendous waste of life.

The Fall in the Death Rate.

In the registration area of the United States the death rate has fallen from 19.6 per 1000 in 1880 to 15.3 in 1908. In Massachusetts the death rate has fallen from 19.4 in 1880 to 17.5 in 1907. In England and Wales it has fallen from 19.5 in 1880 to 14.7 in 1908, in Sweden from 17.1 in 1880 to 14.0 in 1908, and in France from 22.8 in 1880 to 14.0 in 1908.

This is a splendid showing, but when we analyze the material from which these figures are derived we find that the death rate among young people has fallen more than 50 per cent, while the death rate among the middle aged and elderly has either been slightly affected or markedly increased, according to the locality investigated.

In Massachusetts the increase in the death rate at advanced ages is really startling and doubtless reflects a condition general throughout the country.

We know that the degenerative diseases affecting middle life and old age—apoplexy, heart disease, Bright's disease, arterial diseases, etc.—have increased 100 per cent during the past thirty years in the registration area, and an increase in the mortality at the ages affected would naturally follow, such as is exhibited in the Massachusetts statistics.

But the limit of prevention and improvement among the infectious diseases that affect young life has not yet been reached. These diseases, such as typhoid, cholera infantum, infectious mononucleosis, etc., should be absolutely eradicated.

Proper sanitation, especially in the rural districts, is greatly needed and a more thorough observance of the precautionary measures against tuberculosis and other infectious maladies.

Prevention of Degenerative Diseases.

Diseases of the heart, kidneys and blood vessels (apoplexy, paralysis) are caused by high pressure living, over-eating, intemperance, any condition involving undue nerve strain. What may be done to guard against these troubles? The most rational protective measure is to treat your body just as you would treat your business or your automobile or your yacht. Have it overhauled and examined periodically. What would you think of a man who put out to sea in a vessel that had been used for years and never overhauled or inspected for leaks, boilers, pipes or stoves? Is it not obvious that he invites shipwreck? But the average mechanic, farmer or business man will embark on a life voyage and with an ill something goes wrong before he comes to an overhauling, and then too often in his excitement and foolish egotism he derides the physician who warns him and boasts that he will outlive the doctor or the insurance company that refuses to carry his risk.

Value of Periodical Examinations.

It must be apparent that this human machine should be periodically examined for evidence of commencing strain and impotence. Many a valuable life could be saved for years of happy and useful existence if the early symptoms of disease were detected and the manner of living changed. A downward course may readily be checked if the disease has not gone too far. The wise man, therefore, will consult his doctor at least once a year and listen patiently to advice regarding the habits of eating, drinking and housing. The periodic inspection of the whole family is also desirable. Give the children a chance to be molded and guided to health and strength instead of permitting them to grow up like weeds in untrained vines. The correction of eye troubles, removal of adenoids, tonsils, etc., proper habits of bathing, eating, etc., may completely change the destiny of your child.

These principles are coming to be recognized as of such extreme importance that one large life insurance company has arranged to give to its policy holders the privilege of free medical examinations once a year, believing that the saving of lives will more than offset the expense involved.

Care in Choice of a Home.

In choosing a habitation remember that sunlight, fresh air and dry soil are money savers. By properly choosing your location you may save the interest on the mortgage in doctors' bills. See that your home is on firm well drained ground. Made ground, however carefully packed and graded, is very likely to cause dampness in the cellar and around the foundations. Do not settle near a marshy pond or stagnant stream if you can help it. A southern exposure is desirable.

Have plenty of window space, and so arrange your rooms that those most constantly occupied—bedrooms, living rooms, etc.—are thoroughly ventilated and well lighted. The best room in the house should be used by the family, not by a personal guest. If the soil is damp the subsoil must be drained below the foundation and the cellar floors and walls thoroughly renovated. Absolute dryness may be attained by having hollow walls. Bricks are undesirable for cellar walls, as they absorb moisture. Stone is likewise porous and retains moisture. Slate or cement coverings will obviate the danger.

Heating.

If you have a hot air furnace be sure it is of good quality, gas proof and that the air supply is drawn from outside and not from the cellar or any damp or dusty location. See that a water reservoir is attached to the furnace and kept filled.

If other methods of heating by direct radiation are employed some provision should be made for changing the air of the room. Many special ventilating systems have been invented, and if means permit these should be investigated and a desirable one installed when the house is built. Stagnant, vitiated, overheated, dusty or damp air is a menace to health. Exclude these conditions from your home. It can be done.

Water Supply.

If there is no general water supply system in your locality, beware of shallow wells, surface springs or water from any doubtful source. A deep driven well far removed from any possible source of contamination should be secured, if possible; otherwise obtain water, held in a state of cemented cistern, or surface water should always be boiled.

I have elsewhere dwelt upon the importance of proper sewage disposal, but it cannot be too often stated that the old fashioned methods employed in the country are barbarous and unworthy of a civilized nation. Study this question carefully and adopt a system, whether surface irrigation or portable dry earth closet, etc., that will protect your family and your neighbors from disease. If greater care is not exercised in this regard the state must step in and act vigorously to protect the community from typhoid, bacillary dysentery and other maladies due to soil pollution.

The Home Atmosphere.

It is not sufficient to keep physical germs out of the home atmosphere. The germs of discord, strife and viciousness are also prejudicial to health. A household where nothing ever happened and everything always worked smoothly would be a great bore, but there is a "golden mean" characterized by patience, forbearance, system and order in the household relations and government.

When the Pipe Bursts

WITH a telephone in the house the plumber is within instant call. You can get him quickly. He grabs his tools and hurries to your home. In a few minutes the repair work is done.

In emergencies like this the telephone is invaluable. Delay may mean serious damage—always inconvenience. Nearly every plumber can be reached from the city or country residence by the universal Bell system. Ask the Local Manager what a telephone will cost in your home.

GOVERNMENT PAP.

The Democratic members of our Congress seem to have entered upon the investigation of government expenditures in dead earnest. The investigating committee headed by Mitchell Palmer in Pennsylvania claim that a sum of $182,680 can be made in House salaries without injuring the service, and that recent developments it would seem that this might be easily accomplished. Among the remarkable discoveries was the finding of the name of the chief clerk's daughter, 13 years old, on the payroll as clerk to the doorkeeper at a salary of $200 a year, while there is nothing pertaining to the doorkeeper's services that requires a clerk, and if there was, a more competent person than a child of 13 years should have been employed, at a salary of $1200 a year. During the Spanish war 38 extra policemen were added to the capital force to protect it from imaginary danger, and they have received their salary ever since. They will now be dropped from the force and $3000 a year will be saved. Two telephone operators were employed on private line between the War Department and the House wing of the Capitol before the introduction of the telephone and they also have continued to draw a salary of $1000 each, although the telephone service has been dispensed with. The names of other clerks whose services had been done away with several years ago were found on the pay roll. Their salaries amounted to $2500 a year but have been cut off by the report of the investigating committee. It may be a good thing after all that the Democrats got control of the House and have set to work cutting out unnecessary expenses which prevailed under Republican rule, providing there is not corresponding will to limit government pay for the booters of the Democratic party.

REV. FRANK W. HODGDON.
Installed as pastor of the First Congregational Church.

ECCLESIASTICAL COUNCIL

Installs Rev. Mr. Hodgdon as Pastor of Congregational Church.

The installation of Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon as pastor of the First Congregational Church of Winchester took place in that church yesterday afternoon and evening.

An ecclesiastical council which was called to approve the action and sanction the choice of the church convened in the vestry in the afternoon. It was composed of past and present members of the churches in the Western Conference, viz., the Congregational churches in Bedford, Billerica, Burlington, Cambridge, Lexington, Malden, Medford, West Medford, South Medford, Melrose, Littleton Highlands, Reading, North Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Wilmington, Second Church, Winchester, Woburn, North Woburn and Monksville. In addition to these, the following other churches were also invited to participate in the council: the Plymouth Church, Des Moines, Iowa, from the pastorate of which Mr. Hodgdon was called to Winchester, the Union Ave. Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., the Harvard Church, Brookline, the Pilgrim Church, Boston, the North Avenue Church, Cambridge, the First Church, Newton Centre, the North Church, Haverhill, the Center Church, Lynnfield, the First Church, Concord, N. H., and the First Church, Meriden, Conn.

The following clergymen were also invited: Rev. Asher Anderson D. D. of Boston, Rev. Albert E. Dunning D. D. of Boston, Rev. William E. Dunning D. D. of Boston, Rev. Albert E. Dunning D. D. of Boston, Rev. Henry P. D. of Lexington, Rev. Charles C. Merrill of Winchester, Prof. John W. Plummer D. D. of Cambridge, Rev. Cyrus Richardson D. D. of Nashua, and Rev. Charles R. Seymour D. D. of Mount Vernon Heights, N. Y., a former pastor of the church.

The council organized by the choice of Rev. Dr. Henry H. French of Malden as Moderator, Rev. Thomas Sims D. D. of Melrose as assistant moderator and Mr. Samuel Upham of Cambridge as Secretary. Mr. Hodgdon the pastor-elect then presented the following statement of Christian belief and experience:

A paper read by the Rev. F. W. Hodgdon before the Council of Installation at the First Congregational Church of Winchester, Mass., April 27, 1911.

When I was a boy at the age of eighteen, I went one evening to a prayer meeting which was in charge of my boyhood pastor and life-long friend, Rev. Nehemiah Boynton. As Dr. Boynton spoke that evening in his earnest and tender way, a deep longing for his soul, I seemed to be in the grip of some new and unseen power. A violent trembling got hold of my being so that I could scarcely walk or speak. That night I gave my life to Jesus Christ and in a few weeks united with the church.

It so happened that my employment kept me in the company of a man who had a mean disposition. Hatred under ordinary conditions, this man in me seemed to madden him and inspire him to pour forth unnumbered torrents of profanity and give way to outbursts of scorn and ridicule.

Soon after uniting with the church I revealed my plan to go to Phillips Academy seeking an education. This man of wrath resented this later scheme as if I were breaking caste with him, and one day in the presence of sympathizers took occasion with a bitter sneer to declare that the next step in my, to him, insane course would be to enter the ministry. It is impossible for me to describe how that prediction of his filled up every nook of my interior being and fascinated me into unconsciousness of the spirit in which it was uttered. I had never thought of such a thing. Instantly I felt again as if I were in the grip of the unseen. The suggestion didn't seem a stranger to my soul though I knew it really was. From that moment I have never felt that I could be anything but a minister. Even when the ministry has brought its burden and I have wondered if I couldn't do as much good for the world in a life that was easier, deep down I have never dared seriously to consider any other occupation.

I have not related these incidents in my experience because there is anything remarkable or mysterious in them but simply because they are mine giving a glimpse of my beginnings; and, if I analyze my spiritual possessions correctly, giving the basis in experience of my most cherished convictions.

God is Spirit and so is man. Communion with Him is a profound reality. He can use anything there is to talk with and He does. When I say He is Spirit, I mean that there is in Him among other realities the essence of that which I feel myself really to be. There is all the vitality I can appreciate. I do not mean, this is I and Him. The sun is my light. My light is not all the light. Other orders of being know rays I do not and the photographer's plate is more sensitive than the retina of my eye. Yet for me the sun is light; my light. Other light is interesting but not essential; that is, I do not know that it is for me.

God is Spirit. The statement is anthropomorphic. He is what I am in essence. He wants me and I need Him. He loves me. He loves me first and comes to me and talks to me. My soul seems made with tremendous forces coiled up within it. It awaits a touch from the outside. It is as ready for the call of God as a seed is for the spring sunshower. "Any kind of an incident, it only happens at the right moment, may become the medium of a whisper from God which stirs and unmakes and remakes the soul." Anything at any time may serve to let in the holy energizing spirit of the loving and seeking God. My soul cannot thrive except under the conviction that the Father has found in me His child and that I His child am honestly seeking to do those things which please the Father. "My God is the God of my soul. One of my favorite pastimes is to journey myself and watch as I follow flowers grow and floating fleecy clouds, the transformations wrought by my experiences in my soul. My one passion is to keep my soul on top."

I like the metaphysical game. But to me it is a game. I am perfectly willing to call the grand blanket generalization God. I am equally willing that it shall be called any other name that to logic means the same thing. The formula is necessary to relieve Paul James' baby from the predicament of never being able to find himself into the feeling that the universe has ceased to be for him "one big, blooming, buzzing confusion."

But the three letters G O D employed by the metaphysician to symbolize his unnameable absolute have not one particle of the spirit-content that the word God has for the Christian heart and soul. The failure to make this distinction between a name in logic and the Father of our spirit is a prolific cause of intellectual activity which is intellectual activity for intellectual activities sake.

The God of man as spirit comes to man in men. This profound truth underlies the universal instinctive tendency to hero worship and explains the ambitious attempt of idolatry to apotheosize huge personality. The human soul almost madly demands a God personal and reachable. The words on some being are remembered, cherished and revered because they make the dumb, unlearned longings of the many articulate. They are spirit—they are life.

For me God personalized and concentered Himself in Jesus Christ. Jesus has for my soul the supreme religious value. His words are spirit and they are life. He has said the final thing and said it so that I will stay said. He has found my soul. I feel sure God had Him to do it. I don't think God could do it any better. Jesus has done it and I love Him. I don't explain Him. Such a personality furnishes a very fascinating metaphysical plaything. I enjoy the exercise. But I mean that the serious, solemn business of living and in holy fellowship, I don't explain Him. I feel no need of it. When I love a person my relation to him is spiritual. I love him. I accept him. All that concerns him, height, weight, elemental composition, genealogy, etc., are interesting, but more interesting because I love him, but they do not enter as consistent, determinative factors into my affection. They cannot create it; they cannot destroy it. They are entirely outside the realm of holy spiritual communion. So I accept Jesus. When I look to the God of my soul Jesus fills the whole field of vision. I can't see God around the edges of Him anywhere. Thus He is to me and I believe God wants Him to be, all of God my soul needs.

The mission of the spirit of Jesus with that of other men produces everywhere by a kind of soul-chemistry a new spiritual compound of such marked characteristics that it may be quite accurately described as a new type.

The transforming power of this Christ force is perhaps the supreme marvel of history. It creates the new type out of every kind of human material in spite of racial distinctions and traditional differences. By the way this personality has worked ever since God let Him loose on this planet we have had demonstrated that His mission is to all men and we have in His conquests this latest incontrovertible evidence of the most fatherly Fatherhood of the God who did it, in the actual brotherhood and fellowship of individuals of the new type irrespective of "race, color, or previous condition of servitude."

The redemptive power of the spirit of Jesus is as wonderful as His transforming power. So long as there is a spark of life left in a sin-sick being the energy of His projected personality with no apparent diminution of potency because hampered by centuries of middle-men unites with that remnant to produce that same unmistakable superior type of spirit life. It seems to me that we are here in the presence of an energy as mighty and as dependable, as persistent and pervasive as the force of gravitation.

One of the marked characteristics of the new type created by the indwelling spirit of Christ is its vital and active path in life eternal. It was the great enthusiasm created by belief in the resurrection of Jesus that gave us the church. Personally I rejoice that the moral and spiritual history of the race under that sublime conviction is to me God's pragmatic method of justifying the ways of Jesus to men. Nothing ever worked better. No seed ever produced more acceptable fruit. No faith ever fostered a more sublime spiritual beauty. I am grateful for scientific assurance that in the scheme of evolution "death is not a necessity, but simply one of nature's devices for the furtherance of life" and for the scientific suggestion which has as much satisfaction for my soul as demonstration could have for my vision that "it we can turn heat into motion, and motion into electricity, and electricity into light, but can by no process reduce them to nothingness" then the human spirit which is the highest kind of force manifested on this planet can be no exception to the general law of the continuity of energy. Or to pace it off in George A. Gordon's seven-league boots. "We do not discover our ideals; they discover us. They find us as Samuel found David among the sheep-tolds, lost to the dignity of existence under its dead monotony and they appoint us in the name of the Eternal. We do not create our ideals; we make it behold them bright with an everlasting light. They do not originate in human hearts; they rise like stars out of the infinite. They are objectively real; mountains as we base men are born and whose steps they are to climb. They are the forms which the ethical character of the Eternal assumes in the human imagination and their sublime claim is 'Ye therefore shall be perfect as your Heavenly Father is perfect.'"

"Sanctification in man is but the expression of the Godhood beyond man; and when the Sonhood declares its judgment in favor of the deathless life that declaration is not of man but of God."

A sequential impetative of the new type of life in the individual produced by the union of his spirit with that of Jesus is the Church. The church is the product of the passion of Jesus for oneness, the oneness of disciples in fellowship, the oneness of His own with Him, the oneness of all in communion with the Father. So deeply convinced am I of this truth that it is my own belief that the grip of Christ upon the hearts of men can be quite accurately measured by the intensity of Christendom's passion for fellowship and union. The church is not an expedient, a voluntary organization; it is inevitable so long as people in numbers give their hearts to Christ. "It is not made from the outside in realization of an ideal. It springs out of the interior genius of the Christian spirit. It is because we are. Fullness of being is its supreme justification. We sometimes hear it said that the church is not practical. It is supremely practical when it is actually a church. There is nothing more practical than the practice of the presence of God. There is nothing more practical than the working of the spirit of Christ in men, the realization of the truth that we are sons; meeting life's duties, gifts, losses, joys, pains, as such. There is no more business, social, or personal ethics outside the practice of the supremacy of the spirit of Jesus.

There is nothing more practical than love. Take it out of life and there would be none of the splendid activities we call business. The more of it we have the more business we have. Men are made for each other. No day ever revealed it so clearly as this day. We are ransacking the globe for new companionships. The practice of brotherhood is the one great business of life. The church is intensely practical. This criterion of the church to which I have referred arises I think out of a mistaken notion of the nature of the church. It regards the organization as a machine rather than as a living organism. It looks for action. That is not bad, but being, fullness of being, with adequate vision, always lies back of efficient action. Much doing is mere "diddling." The first great concern of the church is to keep the organization itself in shape by worship, by enlistment under the religious ideal of all the faculties in the attempt to realize the presence of God and by vital fellowship, that the soul shall have its full chance. If the church is not true to itself it cannot be true to the world. It can't give the world what it hasn't. If it cannot co-ordinate and harmonize its own constituent parts it cannot solve the world's social problem. If it cannot discipline its own interior life it cannot reform world affairs.

It cannot keep the spiritual and eternal regnant over every form and all organization it cannot offer redemption to the lost.

It cannot practice brotherhood without itself accepting racial, traditional and social differences, it cannot bring the heathen into the kingdom of God. For the sake of the world it must sanctify itself, but it must sanctify itself.

The hugeness of the demand now made upon it is my apology for this emphasis which I lay upon its static quality even in the face of being under-sold almost to regard it as an end in itself. There is a mighty sense in which it is an end in itself, a constituent part of the eternal kingdom. And as such it will do more for man and God to stand, just stand, and having done all, to stand. Stand in the matchless dignity, glory and serenity of its vaster spiritual realizations than it can by shuttlecockish acrobatic gyration and breathless ubiquity.

The social problem in its various phases is the burden of our modern souls. But that burden has been created by the flaming realization that we are sons. It is as deep-seated as being itself. No scheme will solve it. The only plan that ever works is a man with a purpose. The social problem will be solved only by the increasing consciousness of our spiritual nature and by the practice of the principles of the spirit of God. The church can make no other contribution than her own transparent, sanctified, spiritual life. It is enough for the disciple that he be as his Master.

The church must sanctify itself. It must neglect nothing in its endeavor to discover and realize upon all of its worship resources. It must spare no cost and shun no pain necessary to take advantage of every possibility in the adolescent period of youth's spurge in the kingdom of God.

It must take steps to provide for an educational outfit to train youth morally and religiously that shall at least match the dignity, continuity, thoroughness and effectiveness which the same youth discover when they are taught reading writing and arithmetic. You can't impress the child mind with the superiority when parents habitually neglect it and when the institution which the child is told is the most sacred in his community gives him the cheapest outfit it can, consistent with mere decency. If the Bible is the book we say it is then surely it deserves as competent teachers as biology or the dead languages, cost no more. It is history reveals that on the war front it deserves teachers who can point out God's working.

Following the council, a banquet was served in the vestry of the church. Deacon Charles E. Sweet presided and addresses were made by Dr. Boynton, Dr. Anderson, Dr. Richardson, Rev. Mr. Noyes, Rev. Charles R. Seymour, D. D., of Mt. Vernon Heights, N. Y., Rev. Henry E. Dodge of Winchester, Rev. Charles C. Merrill of Winchester, Samuel Carter Esq., of Cambridge, Rev. Vincent Ravi, Cambridge, Rev. George H. Reed of Concord, N. H., Rev. Thomas Sims D. D., of Melrose and others.

The Council having voted to approve and ratify the action of the church, services of installation were held in the evening in the presence of a large congregation. The preacher of the occasion was the Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D. D., Moderator of the National Council, and who, then pastor of the North Church in Haverhill, received Mr. Hodgdon into church membership. The incorporation of Winchester and the installing matter by the Rev. Ambrose W. Vernon of Brookline. The scriptures were read by the Rev. Arthur S. Beale in Stoneham. The charge to pastor was given by the Rev. William Ewing, D. D., of Boston; Augustine Newton, late pastor of the church, and the right hand of fellowship was extended by the Rev. Stephen A. Norton, D. D., of Woburn and the concluding prayer by Rev. Thomas Sims D. D., of Melrose. The benediction was pronounced by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hodgdon. The committee having in charge the arrangements for the installation were Messrs. Charles E. Sweet, James W. Cameron, Arthur W. Hale, George S. Cabot, John K. Myrdock, Edward C. Baldwin, Abner Bowers and Ralph Redden on part of the Church and Messrs. Henry C. Robinson, Frederick S. Snyder and Preston Pond on the part of the Society. The tables were in charge of Mrs. Ralph B. Redden and Mrs. Clarence E. Ordway assisted by a corps of young ladies.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The club entered on a new year of work Monday afternoon. The meeting was in charge of Miss Folts, first vice president, Mrs. Nichols' continued illness preventing her from being present.

For weeks past, the members of the club interested in the drama have been rehearsing, and the result of their efforts provided the entertainment for the afternoon. "The Register," a farce by W. D. Howells, was presented with the following cast—

Edred Reed	Mrs. Farmer
Henrietta Spaulding	Mrs. Elv
Oliver Ransom	Mrs. Root
Samuel Gimbridge	Miss Mason

After a ten minute intermission, the curtain parted to reveal, "Friday Afternoon at a Village School," and Miss Mason, as a typical school-marm called her scholars to their desks. Songs and compositions added to the interest of the exercises.

The two plays were coached and staged by Mr. Sylvester H. Taylor. The following ladies of the club took the part of pupils:

Julia	Mrs. Breen
Laura	Mrs. Bourne
Clara	Mrs. Goddard
John	Mrs. Bird
Charlie	Mrs. Merrill
Maria	Miss Hazelline

"A BATCHELOR'S ROMANCE."

A Play in Four Acts by Martha Morton, Cast

David Holmes, literary critic of the Review, Kenneth Caldwell, Martin Beggs, his secretary, George LeDuc, Mr. Savage, a man of letters, Harold Farnsworth, Harold Reynolds, on the staff of the Review, Lowell Smith, Gerald, David's brother, Harry Donovan, Mr. Mulberry, an antique literary man, George Baker, James, servant to Mrs. LeDuc, James Flinn, Sylvia Somers, David's maid, Ammie Symmes, Helen LeGrande, David's sister, Helen Meincke, Harriette LeDuc, her friend, Eunice Homer, Miss Clementina, a maiden lady, Marguerite Waldmeyer, "Produced under the personal direction of Mr. Robert Hayes Burham."

This charming comedy was presented by the senior and junior classes of the High School at the Town Hall last Saturday evening and certainly no amateur performance of recent years has surpassed it, not to say equalled it.

Martha Morton's story of the middle aged literary recluse, who had put off visiting his ward, the child of a dead friend, for so long that he had forgotten the flight of time, since the baby girl came under his charge, and when she finally forces herself upon his notice awakes to the fact that she is a fairly girl, just budding into womanhood, is a charming bit of refined comedy and it was rendered the other night in a most graceful and sprightly manner and with a keen appreciation of the most delicate passages, which were handled in a most artistic way.

Kenneth Caldwell, in the character of David Holmes, was most satisfactory. He looked the part thoroughly and throughout the evening was convincing as the refined, sensitive literary man, who had long ago perceived the vanities of the world and had protected himself from them with his book, his books and a few true friends. One of these was Martin Beggs, an old man, a broken down literary hack, now acting as David's secretary, and George LeDuc, gave a splendid ves, an unusual piece of character acting in the part. So also did Marguerite Waldmeyer in the part of Miss Clementina, a maiden lady. Her dramatic manner, her "best black silk," to say nothing of the nuts and black shawl and the precise arrangement of the hair, loudly proclaimed a parody for a belief in original sin, a bestowing of facts upon the unregenerate and the giving of a whole-some, though unpleasant, advice to the unfortunate. All these amiable characteristics, however, could not chill the warm and tender heart underneath, which continually came to the surface when most needed. Helen Meincke as Mrs. LeGrande, David's frivolous widowed sister, and Eunice Homer, as Miss Leicester, her friend, were excellent as society women, to the manner born. Harold Farnsworth, Harry Donovan and Lowell Smith filled the minor parts of Mr. Savage, Gerald and Harold most acceptably and James Flinn, as the butler and George Baker as Mulberry, were also good, though they only had what the late August Daly was wont to call "thinking parts."

But the star of the evening, it must be admitted, was Ammie Symmes, as Sylvia Somers, David's ward. Who though admired and sought by many, could find no man in her estimation equal to her dear old guardian, "Mr. David," and he, so kind to her affection for him, though he himself secretly loves her, that she fairly has to propose to him herself in order to open his eyes. Miss Symmes was simply delicious. She portrayed the straightforward honesty of the country girl and the charming naivete and bubbling joy of unspoiled youth in a manner that drew rounds of spontaneous applause from the large and brilliant audience.

Mr. Burham, the coach, is to be complimented on the smoothness of the performance and the thoroughly artistic rendering of the more delicate parts of the play. The committee in charge, composed of Mary Flinn, Dorothy Furbush, Kenneth Pratt, mgr., Nancy Brigham, Katherine Fiske, Dexter Futen, assisting, Kenneth Caldwell, Harold Farnsworth, Lowell Smith, is also to be congratulated for selecting a play so well suited to a High school production.

THE MAY PARTY.

For two years on account of outbreaks of sickness in Winchester the annual May Party of the Unitarian Church had to be abandoned.

This year however every thing is favorable and the beautiful old custom will be resumed.

It is not possible to celebrate this festival in the northern part of the United States as it was and is celebrated in England, out of doors with the May Queen and other adjuncts. The weather there would make such an undertaking very uncertain. But many of the traditional features can be kept by having a day of merriment for the children.

In the recent celebrations in Winchester the day has taken the form of an entertainment where the idea of spectacle has been developed as something for the children to see rather than to take part in. This year the committee proposes to return to the earlier custom of simplicity, where all the children will enjoy themselves in an afternoon of dancing. There will be a May Pole but after that all the children are expected to dance.

Among the Winchester people cast for parts in "Cupid's Handicap" the musical comedy given by the Junior Charity Club in Jordan Hall, Boston, last Saturday evening, were Mrs. Edgar Young, Mrs. Bernice Hillton and Miss Marela Hazellon. Miss Florence Coggan, formerly of Sheffield Road, Winchester, was also among the number.

HEALTH BOARDS IN JOINT MEETING.

Woburn, Winchester and Stoneham Members Confer.

Members of the Woburn, Winchester and Stoneham Boards of Health met Thursday evening, April 20 at city hall, Woburn, in the Board of Public Works room and a lengthy and very interesting conference upon health matters was held. Winchester was represented by Dr. Allen, (chairman), Dunforth Comins and Marshall W. Jones. Mr. Hinchliffe represented Stoneham and Doctors Stewart, Carroll and Mr. Curry, Woburn.

Dr. Stewart invited and introduced Dr. Allen in Winchester who was the first to suggest that such boards would come from health boards in neighboring cities and towns getting better acquainted.

Dr. Allen has had eleven years of experience in health legislation and is deeply interested in sanitation and municipal health. He briefly outlined a series of policies by which in his judgment Woburn, Winchester and Stoneham could by co-operation greatly assist each other. Other matters such as general routine work the doctor believed could be better worked out by individual methods.

The principal matters in which Dr. Allen advised co-operation were the regulation of carrying for cases of contagious diseases and milk inspection. He said that the large milk dealers were willing to furnish milk from certain specified dairies, the milk to be approved by local inspectors. This milk comes into Charlestown and is kept apart from the general supply. The milk could be inspected by one competent man for all three municipalities and considerable expense saved.

Along the same lines the doctor advocated the choosing of a bacteriologist and positively said that with a secure card system thoroughly compiled the purity of milk to the consumer is assured. It developed that Woburn pays its inspector and bacteriologist $4000 per year, Winchester pays its inspector $500 and expenses, and Stoneham pays $500. The salary in total amounts to $5000 and the contribution of Dr. Allen was that by combining the work a far better and improved system of inspection and analysis could be maintained. Mr. Hinchliffe of Stoneham strongly supported this suggestion and said that he had no doubt that under similar conditions Dr. Allen would be able to do the same.

Mr. Curry and Dr. Allen then took up the question of carrying for contagious cases in the expense attached to this line of work. Having the district of it was shown that Winchester pays on an average $500 a year for the care of contagious cases and Stoneham $1000. Winchester is difficult to properly care for because of the low cost of care. To pay $5000 per case to outside hospitals.

Proposed was the building of a hospital. Dr. Allen and Mr. Curry, chairman of the Woburn and Stoneham were in the same opinion. The possibility of using the new contagious hospital in this city for the care of contagious cases in the three municipalities was seriously considered. The cost of maintenance to be divided among those interested. Dr. Curry of the local board was strongly in favor of this being done if it was feasible. It was proven feasible and said the convenience of such an institution would greatly aid all physicians in the handling of such diseases and that in some cases lives might be saved by the opportunity afforded to administer proper and effective treatment.

It was decided to inspect the building on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock and Dr. Sheehy, chairman of the Stoneham Board of Health, will be there if possible. It was thought that if a central hospital of this kind were established at Burlington and Wilmington might become approved and be willing to contribute to it and its support.

Other interesting methods of doing business by the different boards such as the collection of swill, ashes, house refuse, etc., were talked over. The collection of swill costs Winchester less than $500 a year and was done by contract up to seven years ago but many people complained about the quality of the service and the contract system was abandoned. Mr. Hinchliffe said the collection of swill and ashes in his town was carried for by contract, the last contract costing $550 and the town had received splendid service. He said that W. C. Collins, a Winchester man, held the contract. In Woburn licenses, for which a fee of 50 cents is charged, are issued to all persons desiring the privilege of collecting house refuse of all kinds, excepting swill. About 100 of these licenses are issued every year and the collection costs the town nothing, the householder paying all bills. Dr. Allen said that very satisfactory results are secured in this way.

By the morning adjourned. Dr. Allen reported the Woburn Board to be fully conversant with the advisability of maintaining this plan in picking and Refrigerator Co. to be established in this city, saying he spoke in behalf of the people of Winchester, and Mr. Hinchliffe of Stoneham also urged the utmost caution on the part of the local board.

Dr. Allen said he had similar meetings would be held from time to time as closer relationship and a better acquaintance between health boards would be productive of good results. It there were cheaper methods of handling the business of health departments, other than his methods, and still maintain a high standard of efficiency he would like to be informed of the fact and at the same time he was quite willing and anxious to give somebody else the benefit of his knowledge and experience. It was deemed advisable to await the possible revision of health laws by the Legislature before doing anything definite about combining the duties of milk inspector and bacteriologists in the three municipalities. If the powers of local health boards are not interfered with, it is quite probable that a joint effort to improve the system of inspection at reduced cost will be made.

The meeting was a pronounced success and the discussion which began shortly after 8 o'clock and continued until ten, was very interesting and instructive from beginning to end. — [Woburn News.]

BASE BALL.

The High school base ball team met its second defeat last Saturday on Manchester Field at the hands of Lynn Classical High school by the score of 7-3. The game was fast and interesting in spite of the cold day. The local team lost the game on account of poor base running for in the second inning three hits in succession failed to bring in runs, the runners being caught between the bases. A rally in the ninth was stopped by the hidden ball trick. The feature of the game was the playing of Prime and Girk. The former obtaining two singles and a triple, while the latter obtained a double and triple.

"OUR WIVES."

Winchester Council, No. 219, K. of C., have for the past month been preparing, under the efficient direction of the veteran Fred J. Rice, a large number of plays, entitled "Our Wives." The play will be staged May 4, in the Town Hall, and a successful performance, Mr. Rice will have the honor of staging one of the most eventful amateur shows ever given in Winchester.

The talent is purely local and Mr. Rice had a choice lot of eager aspirants to choose from, so the cast is the very best that his experience could procure. Tickets are selling fast and indications of a packed house are in sight.

There will be dancing after the show.

POSTAL CARDS TO BE CREAM COLORED.

Cream colored postal cards printed in red ink are to take the place in the old cards at common place black ink design. It is said that the new cards will be of more attractive appearance. Last year the government issued $71,000,000 postal cards, the total cost of which was $273,000, or $34,000 in excess of the cost of the cards issued the year preceding, against which so many complaints had been made. The new cards will cost approximately $55,000 more than the present card.

MONEY.

I do not believe in the doctrine that if you want to make your wife happy all you have to do is to give her plenty of money. I do not believe that possession of money and happiness are synonymous. Women want love first of all if they are provided with the right instincts. The great problem of today is the making of money. It is unquestionably the occupation that engages the minds of the vast majority of people. But from what I have seen of life and those leading it when one has obtained a competency money is superfluous. Just like an excess of what is not needed to round out the theory and give it a business appearance. Piling up wealth then he comes the piling on flesh and greatly bladders the viewpoint of the best things of this life.—John Burroughs.

Let's talk it over—When you buy a car here, we are interested long afterwards to keep down expense—That's economy—Information without prejudice—Call up Win. 216-8 Winchester Garage. G. O. Fogg, Mgr.

GLOBE THEATRE.

"The Virginian," a dramatic version of Owen Wister's novel of that name, prepared by the novelist and Kirke La Shelle enters upon its last week at the Globe Theatre on May 1. The play is the best of its kind which has been presented on the stage for a quarter of a century. All the characters in the play without exception are definite and convincing. "The Virginian" is a character with a rough exterior, but a heart of gold; he is coarse, like his fellows, but there are many excellent traits which even his surroundings could not eradicate. The development of the man under the soft influence of pure affection, his manliness when animated by a sense of duty and his physical courage in scenes of danger, combined with a touch of romance, makes him a strong winning character and a true son of the plains.

The spring and summer season at the Globe and Pictures will open on Sunday evening May 7th. The same high grade acts and animated pictures such as the management has been giving in previous seasons will be given, and for the opening week several new and novel acts have been engaged.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Enactments upon the statute books that are not supported by public opinion are not worthy to be called laws. Either they are not enforced at all, in which case they are no better than so much waste paper, or if they are enforced they become oppressive. — George H. McCallahan.

JUNIOR PROM.

The junior promenade and reception to the senior class at the High school took place last Saturday evening in the Town Hall and was attended by a large gathering of parents and friends.

The pupils were very fortunate in having the use of the decorations which were left from the "Pop Concert" for the Junior Prom and the class play. With the large 1912 banner, and the two class shields he side it, in a prominent position, and the matrons with a background of palms, the hall could certainly not have been more fully decorated. The prom, was well attended and proved a success in every way. The matrons were: Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. Smart, Mrs. V. A. Wombs.

The committee in charge was: Katharine Fiske, Dorothy Furlish, Esther Parslow, Harold Farnsworth, Harold Wheatley.

The Legislature in joint session has elected Albert P. Langtry of Springfield Secretary of State for the balance of the year. Mr. Langtry is a gentleman of ability and thoroughly equipped for the office.

Gov. Foss does not believe in allowing towns and cities of this Commonwealth to carry on public business just as they please, and therefore has asked the Legislature to appoint a State Finance Commission.

The Town Improvement Committee of the Reading Woman's Club have arranged for the annual "Clean Up Day" to be observed Saturday, April 29. Here in Winchester a man is constantly engaged in this work in the business section of the town.

"One of the best advertisements a town has is its good roads," says the Mansfield News. "In these later days when automobile rides are planned those towns having bad roads are shunned. Just as visitors talk about a big store, just so do autoists talk about a town having good roads, and that town gets visitors."

But it costs a lot of money to repair the roads.

In his Arbor Day proclamation, Gov. Foss makes a practical suggestion when he says, "Classes of school children under the direction of their teachers should plant seeds or set out saplings according to some carefully arranged plan, and thus not only help in building up the future of our woodlands, but learn a valuable lesson in systematic co-operation. To plant a tree in the school house grounds and teach the children to take care of it, guard it from injury, study its growth and beneath it to the children who shall follow them, is surely worth while."

LINEN SHOWER.

Miss Alice L. Sands was pleasantly surprised at a linen shower given her by the members of the Winchester Soanette Club Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Elma A. Larson on Eaton avenue, Woburn.

Miss Sands was placed beneath a large red heart which was suspended from the ceiling and as the young ladies present simultaneously pulled the red ribbons which were attached to the heart, the heart broke open and a shower of hand embroidered towels and confetti descended upon the prospective bride. Later a charming dish luncheon was served, the table decorations and refreshments being in the form of red roses, hearts and cupid.

Those present were Misses Alice, Cassie, Ida and Jennie Sands and Gertrude Cameron of Winchester and Misses Anna Gage, Elsie Parker, Elsie Patterson, Louise Turner, Mabel Rosenquist, Elma Larson and Mrs. Ida Carling of Woburn.

W. H. S. NOTES.

The candidates for the crew resumed practice on Tuesday afternoon. At present Capt. Kramer is sick, but he is improving and will soon be able to take up his duties again. The date for the essays of the Fort night Contest expired last Monday. The same contest was carried out in seven other towns, but Winchester was the only one who had all the scholars of the Senior Class compete.

A compilation of the work of the report cards showed that 90.1 per cent. of all the pupils received an average mark above 70 per cent. the required mark for passing.

The Class Play proved to be such a success that the managers are to give it over again in the near future.

CHILDREN'S EXCURSION.

The children of Winchester are to have the privilege of an especial excursion to the great Exposition called the "World in Boston" on this Saturday morning, April 29th. Special cars will leave the depot for Medford at twenty minutes before eight in the morning, and returning will leave Mechanics building Boston at eleven o'clock.

The management of the Exposition are planning to make this visit of the children very interesting and instructive to young people, and we feel sure that they will succeed as those who have already attended the Exposition say that there are enough interesting things to make the young as well as the old want to go more than once. Here will be seen the life of many lands, the houses and the costumes of the people, also moving pictures and tableaux without extra charge. For this special occasion only those children who have not passed their thirteenth birthday, and those who are to look after them, (one adult for every twelve children) are to be admitted. This is to give the children a chance, which they cannot get during the regular hours of the Exhibition. The admission has been placed at the small sum of five cents. Parents who allow their children to go, may feel easy about their care since those who have been selected to accompany the children are persons of experience and special fitness for their tasks, and the matter of transportation has been arranged so that there will be but one change of cars, and that at Winthrop Square, Medford.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

How many citizens recognize that real estate pays about five times as much of our tax levy as personal estate? Should the proposition be anything like that?

In Dedham real pays only two and a quarter times more.

Governor Foss' expert has reported many queer things in town government, but he has not mentioned that many towns get their annual reports after they have held their annual town meeting. Imagine any public service or private corporation doing that. When will municipal corporations learn simple business principles?

I challenge the statement of a speaker at a public meeting this week. "That Romney was not believed in by many Boston people," and on a vote being taken but one man stood upon that side and he said he was a stranger and only opposed one of his statements.

When Norman Hargood, the editor of Cutlers, was asked at a Ford Hall meeting recently, if there was a single independent daily newspaper printed in Boston, he answered: "The Boston Commonwealth is a very independent weekly paper, and the Springfield Republican also, and I have a high regard for each of them." Draw your own conclusions from his answer to the question asked.

In the following towns the assessed personal exceeds the real estate: Weston, Lincoln, Cohasset, Falmouth, Easton, Boxford, Grafton, Dover, Milton, Mattson, Lancaster, Wellesley and Hopedale. In the last named it exceeds three to one and in Dover town to one. Most of these are tax delinquent towns.

Governor Foss is the first, within my time it has been any satisfaction to me to make suggestions to, and he is glad to receive them from anybody, provided they are specific and to the point. Governor Douglas had a like opportunity, but was a bit traveler. The present Executive is the wealthiest we have had and the most democratic and independent and strives, in spite of the fact that he succeeded the best Governor, in my opinion, we had had up to his time. Governor Davenport was a very strong man dragged down to defeat by a decadent party. Joe Walker is far and away the strongest Republican in sight, but he is like a yacht trying to tow a boat with its masts in the bow and covered with barnacles and moss. If little Louie Frothingham should be the candidate selected to run, he will not be mentioned in the dispatches election night as even an "also ran" as he will be left at the post. Poor old P. O. G.

I am glad to see such signs of life from the Waterways Committee, but let it not forget that few people understand water, facts and plans and what is needed is sketches, which all of us can grasp when we know the locality. If the citizens think that a proper carrying out of this whole scheme will be a matter of small cost, they are greatly mistaken, as it is a big and expensive project, but at the same time worth while.

If Boston is to censor the theatres let it subsidize them.

The Greater Boston Council bill and the Anywhere Boston Charter bill will keep each other company to defeat. No legislation, however, is needed to form a council and it is really wanted, instead of a chance to talk about it, it will be done. The Government would not be opposed to that kind of voluntary association.

A good way would be for citizens to state how much increase over their present personal tax they would stand for. Most of them will agree to an increase provided all are treated alike and the experience of assessors here and elsewhere has been that very few sworn returns can be got unless forced by repeated increases. Our assessors state that they are going to make a thorough revaluation this year and much good should come of it as no complete valuation has been made for a great many years, and while values in some localities have increased none, in others they have more or less, most likely more, and I believe our total valuation should be increased a million and

When the Committee on Railroads is able to have an executive session it will report our bill, but it is almost as slow as we have been. A citizen who is afraid our vote of 205 to 5 in favor of the town plan will be forgotten, is reminded that at our recent annual meeting the vote in favor of it was unanimous.

"Thousands are backing at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is backing at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are backing at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

SPRING BOWLING

TOURNAMENT.

The teams in the spring bowling tournament at the "Colony Club" have been making every endeavor during the week to capture every point possible, this week and next finishing the rolling. Teams 6 and 2 led at the opening, it being an almost even thing between them. The former made a straight win from team 10, but the best team 2 could do was an even break with team 7.

The scores are running remarkably even without being particularly high. Woods put up the highest single of the tournament on Friday night with 140 flat, and this will probably stand.

Following are the scores:

THE SAD LAMENT OF AN INCUBATOR CHICKEN.

I'm a sad and lonely chicken,
And your hearts will surely sicken
When I tell the woes I've suffered from my birth:
For I've never had a mother,
And my father doesn't bother
To look after all his children round the earth.
I'm an incubator chicken,
And my woes began to chicken
When I broke the shell that covered my poor form:
Not a single cluck relieved me,
And no feathered breast relieved me
When I trembled at the coming of a storm.
In the place of my mother
I was given a wooden mother Who is colder than the weather in the spring.
As she has no claws for scratching
She's no business to be hatching.
But would better be about some other thing.
I myself, and many others—
Pluffy sisters and wee brothers—Scratch until our feet are weary of the work:
But this mother does not pity,
And she never sings a ditty;
So we've come to think her nothing but a shirk.
Oh, good gentlemen and ladies!
As you love your little babies,
Please take pity on all broods of orphan chicks;
And whenever you'll have others,
Give them good old feathered mothers 'Steal of putting little birds in our fix.

DEAD BIRDS COST HIGH.

While Easter bonnets are parading the plumage of birds that cluck, cluck, peck, tosses in hotel and cloth products in the last year that amount to over $100,000,000 every person in the United States, have been reported here today as chiefly due to the destruction of these feathered insect eaters. According to statistics just gathered by the government biological survey at Washington, officers of the National Association of Audubon Societies declare that the cost of living has been raised to over a billion dollars by the destruction of birds that eat insects and rodents that would be largely wiped out if their natural food was not protected from the feathered men, birds, larks and peewees. Every year that such natural enemies are destroyed, the insects, the insects eating species higher prices must be paid by the human consumer for vegetables, fruit, cotton cloth and many other necessary staples, it is predicted.
On last year's cotton crop alone a loss of between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 is shown to be borne by every one who uses a bit of cotton goods, principally because the birds that destroy this pest are being killed. While Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Missouri, Alabama and Arkansas are now impregnated with this costly crop plague, ornithologists report that bird life is becoming so wasted throughout the whole cotton belt that the bird weevil may soon spread over every plantation with little exception from the natural forces that help to hold it in check. Every dollar's worth of such damage that the bird guards could prevent, it is pointed out, must come in pennies from the pockets of the American people.
Almost every article of food except meat has been found to come to the consumer today with an added cost to cover many millions of dollars of loss that the government experts have proved is largely due to the increasing lack of insect eating birds to drive away the pests that are spreading over the fields.
Such staples as corn are now known to all sorts of a supply that means lower prices, in some measure, on account of the depletion of the wild birds and the consequent increase in their noxious insect prey. If the orchards, fields, gardens and plantations of America were not being guarded by fewer and fewer of these insect eaters each year, the records show, their yield would be increased and the price of their products lowered.
"Though the Easter season is saddened by the sight of wild bird feathers on bonnets, there is this year a plain economic reason for revolt of this show in the findings of the government experts of the Department of agriculture," said T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies, at its headquarters, 141 Broadway. "We have just heard of the hitchhiking of 15,000 meadow larks, whose diet is proved to consist of 75 per cent of non-destroying insects, in one Georgia community. For every one of such insect eaters that is killed we must all pay in increased costs in food and clothing. When Americans come to realize this, we hope they will all join with us in working for the protection of the birds whose loss means agricultural prosperity and plenty."

BOSTON THEATRE.

In "The Old Town," George Ade's musical comedy, is a farcically-inclined story which might as well be played without music as with the musical intrusive score furnished by Gustav Linders, providing of course, that David Montgomery and Fred Stone continued to play the two leading characters.
They laid the foundation of their empire in "The Wizard of Oz," "Strengthened in "The Old Town" with a pressured cordiality of welcome that belongs to the few American's favorite entertainers.

"The Old Town" ran nearly the entire season of 1909 at the Globe Theatre, New York, and the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago, and played a most successful five weeks at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, beginning last November, the same notable cast which found favor here.

stars of B. F. Keith's Theatre on weekend what is more probably one of the biggest hits put on in years. Howard been any greater favorites on the vaudeville stage, will be seen in their lovely and amusing country classic, "Back in popular favorite, and a new feature will

XV.—Germs In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.

Copyright, 1911, by American Press Association.

THERE are "good germs" and "bad germs." Just as there are "good trusts" and "bad trusts," "good bacteria" and "bad bacteria." In some respects resembles "trust-busting." Publicity and the light of day are supposed to be correctives for bad trusts. Sunshine and fresh air will unquestionably restrain the activities of bad germs.

An example of a good germ is the bacillus found in sour milk. Tablets containing these germs are now used in medicine for the treatment of intestinal trouble. It having been found that they destroy certain harmful bacteria that flourish in the intestines. In fact, the "elixir of life" in the form of antacid sour milk may now be purchased at soda fountains, but whether it is a real elixir and actually prolongs life by killing off the bacteria that produce old age has not been fully passed upon by science. However, these bacilli are quite useful and are also employed in the treatment of lifeless processes in the nose and mouth.

Diseases Due to Germs.

It is not so long ago as only about fifty years that learned men were willing to debate about "spontaneous generation." It was contended that the microscopic organisms that were found in certain fermenting and decomposing fluids were "spontaneously" dooryard. Burn or bury all garbage or refuse. Keep your stable floors clean and wash them occasionally with hot soap-suds solution. Use other common sense to twelve quarts soft soap and water. Manure heaps or cesspools should be disinfected with powdered chloride of lime.

Flies find a splendid breeding ground in a stable. Sewage vaults should be cleaned frequently and disinfected and protected from flies by chloride of lime or milk of lime. A filthy pail is also a fine breeding place for flies. Pails should be so built that they may be flushed out and cleaned. The manure is a valuable fertilizer and may be stored, but should be covered with dry earth, chloride of lime or crude oil.

The task of keeping flies out of the house is a difficult one. Screens and fly hater, fly paper, etc., only mitigate the evil. The rational method is to prevent breeding.

The mosquito does not carry the germ of malaria on his feet, as the housefly carries the typical bacillus, but in his salivary gland.

The mosquito is known as the "intermediate host" of the malarial parasite. In other words, the parasite is received into the digestive tract of the mosquito and hospitably entertained and developed until it passes into the salivary gland, from which it is injected into the next human that the mosquito bites.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, MAY 5, 1911

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE.

Sixteenth Annual Meeting—Reports and New Officers.

The sixteenth annual meeting of the Home for Aged People was held in the small Town Hall, Monday evening, when the reports of officers and directors were presented and also officers and directors elected for the ensuing year. It has been a quiet year at the Home, no deaths and but little sickness, everything moving along with the customary smoothness that has characterized the workings of this benevolent institution since its formation. The number of inmates is five.

Mr. Preston Pond, the president called the meeting to order and after the presentation of the reports of directors and treasurer, which are printed below, and the voting of a number of new members, the following officers were elected:

President, Preston Pond.

Vice-Presidents, Jere A. Downs, Mrs. E. Florence Kelley, Mr. Marshall W. Jones.

Secretary, Charles F. Dutch.

Treasurer, Harry C. Sanborn.

Auditor, George H. Carter.

Directors for two years, Miss Alice F. Symmes, Mrs. Mary M. Foster, Mrs. Sarah Nowell, Mrs. Frederick S. Snyder.

Directors for one year, Mrs. Fredland E. Hovey, Mrs. John E. Emery.

Directors Report.

18th Annual Report of the Board of Directors. To the Corporation of the Home for Aged People in Winchester.

Your Directors respectfully report that the functions of the corporation have been quietly and efficiently performed during the past year. The admission of Mrs. Emily B. Craig to the Home last May filled the house to its present capacity of five. The established policy of keeping the corporate property in good condition has been followed. The expenses of the corporation are small. No compensation is paid for administration or superintendence except for the Matron in charge, who, with one servant, carries on the housework. The other expenses of administration are negligible. Practically all, therefore, of every dollar contributed is expended directly for the purpose in view,—the support and comfort of the household.

In the accomplishment of these purposes, we have had the co-operation of the Matron in every way and as usual the personal as well as the financial assistance of many of our townspeople. We recommend that special effort be made to increase the number of members of the corporation, since thereby we gain not only needed financial aid but also a greater circle of interested workers and friends.

We have gratefully acknowledged the receipt of $100 in accordance with the will of Mary A. Stronds. This, according to established policy, has been added to the permanent funds.

For the Directors,

Charles F. Dutch,

Secretary.

GOOD THOUGHTS.

"Do you know all the rocks along the coast?" said a passenger to the pilot of a coast steamer. "No," was the quiet reply "but I know the places where there are no rocks." That was a good answer. It is not necessary to a successful life that we should have an intimate or extensive knowledge of the vices and follies of the world. There has been a tendency for some time to proclaim the need of making youth, especially, aware of the pitfalls and snares that beset the unwary. The value of such knowledge is very doubtful. The "horrible example" is not the best means of instruction. It may be like some drugs that assist in the cure of disease, but leave uncomfortable effects behind. The philosophy of "The Old Book" is good today, "whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things." Phil. 4: 8.

MAY PARTY PRETTIEST YET.

The annual May party given under the auspices of the Ladies' Friendly Society furnished a spectacle at the Town Hall last Saturday afternoon that will provide pleasant memories for some time to all those who attended, both old and young. The pretty costumes of the little folks, the handsome pop concert decorations and the music and animation furnished a most enchanting scene. For the past two years sickness in town prevented the holding of the May party, but this year everything was just as it should be, so that the enforced postponements appeared to give added zest to the pleasures.

Much praise is due the committee in charge for the excellent manner in which all the details had been arranged, there being not the slightest resemblance of a hitch.

The participants were:

May Queen—Carlene Murphy.

Page—Jack Sanborn.

Maid of Honor—Ruth Whittington.

Bridesmaids—Rebecca Rose, Wilhelmina Ross, Helen Woods, Ann Zeal, Sally Thompson, and Rhoda Case.

Four Little Maids—Elizabeth Chamberlain, Marjorie Mosley, Barbara Forbes, Elizabeth Dwinell.

May Pole Dancers—Ruth Hammond, Milora Davis, Elizabeth Passano, Myrtle Dunn, Helen Ireland, Louise Alexander, Winsome Abbott, Georgiana Brown, Virginia Massman, Georgianna Waters, Margaret Adams, Leslie Brown, Priscilla Sweetser, Joan Abbott, Katharine Starr, Ruth Caldwell.

Committee—Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Mrs. George H. Root, Mrs. William E. Cummings.

May Party Patronesses—Mrs. Joel H. Metcalf, Mrs. John Abbott, Mrs. Frank A. Cutting, Mrs. Philip Hammond, Mrs. George Adams Woods, Mrs. Wm. R. Chamberlain, Mrs. Hermon H. Murphy.

"OUR WIVES"

An Excellent Presentation of this Sprightly Farce.

The friends, admirers and supporters of Winchester Council, No. 210, Knights of Columbus, assembled in force in the Town Hall last night to witness a thoroughly enjoyable performance of the sprightly farce, "Our Wives," and to participate in the dance which succeeded the play.

The hall was a veritable bower of floral beauty, being profusely and most artistically decorated with a wealth of verigated blooms fashioned by clever fingers and so artistically copied from nature that one could readily imagine the fragrance. Trelises of sweet peas screened the balcony; honey suckle vines trailed over the windows; Chinese wisteria climbed the walls and there were cables of Japanese chrysanthemums, festoons and ropes of roses and masses of flowers of many species. Japanese umbrellas, Chinese lanterns and Mikado banners contributed to the harmonious and effective ensemble.

The laughable little farce, with its comedy of errors, its funny situations and amusing complications was presented with a spontaneity and naturalness that would have done credit to the most audacious exponents of light drama. There was a remarkable absence of the staggish, that usually characterizes amateur performances and the production served to prove that Winchester possesses dramatic talent of no mean merit. The personal of the cast was well chosen; each personation admirably portrayed, and the entire performance a matter of congratulation for Mr. Fred J. Rice the director, also labored so earnestly to attain the successful accomplishment of the play. And if enthusiasm and plaudits count for anything, there was abundant evidence of appreciation.

Following was the cast:

Roswell Chandler, a retired merchant, Leon E. Day

Walter Blair, his son-in-law, Martin J. Caulfield

Oscar Siebel, composer, J. Frank Davis, Jr.

Lloyd Deveau, a chronic invalid, Henry R. Glenlon

Mallory, a reporter, Howard S. Cosgrove

John Stanton, detective, Nicholas J. Murray

Expressmen, Joseph Mawn, Henry J. Lyons

Gilda Deveau, Miss Lillian I. Kane

Mrs. Chandler, Miss Emily M. Dowd

Bessie Blair, Miss Katherine E. Lehan

Julie, a French maid, Miss Francis T. Noonan

Messrs. Day and Caulfield were irresistible and provoked hearty laughter.

Mr. Henry R. Glenlon, as the irritable, irascible, county husband, furnished some remarkable good acting.

Mr. J. Frank Davis, Jr., as the operating composer made the most of the part assigned him and Messrs. Cosgrove, Murray, Mawn and Lyons filled their respective parts most acceptably.

Miss Lillian I. Kane, as the wife with operative ambitions, filled a difficult role, and Miss Frances T. Noonan, her maid, who was at her heels, was equally successful in her situation.

Miss Lehan, as the trusting wife of Walter Blair, and Miss Emily M. Dowd as her sophisticated and more strikingly clever for amateurs, so that each and all acquitted themselves splendidly, and were the recipients of beautiful floral tributes.

Special features between the acts consisted of solos by Miss Madeline N. Dowd of Boston Opera Company, who has a soprano voice of peculiar sweetness and extensive range with fine shadings and power.

Little Miss Kathleen Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kennedy, a promising pupil of Mr. W. S. Stickle of Back Bay Academy, Boston, danced a Sailor's Hornpipe and Irish jig in costume with charming unconsciousness and alacrity.

Mr. Edmund T. Sheehy contributed two songs in a mellow bass voice that were received with hearty enthusiasm.

The duet singer, Mr. James V. Haley, G. K., was ably assisted by Messrs. Wm. J. Dwyer, Dr. Richard W. Sheehy, Dr. Jas. H. O'Connor, Dennis F. Foley, Frank E. Rogers, Frank T. O'Donnell, Patrick J. Glenlon, James H. Gaggerty, Wm. P. Callahan, Henry O. Young, James H. Brine and John S. O'Leary.

The entertainment was not only a success artistically and materially but it was directed towards procuring some requisite moneys for the Knights of Columbus hall.

Whenever the Knights of Columbus are called upon to lend their aid in a case of charity or to provide entertainment that would contribute towards the end the response came with a spontaneity, heartiness, and unselfishness that did honor to the aims and sentiment of the organization, and it should be a source of gratification to all who realize their meritorious aspirations that the receipts of last night's entertainment will assist them in obtaining their requirements.

HAROLD FEATHERS.

Harold Feather passed away yesterday at the home of his uncle, Mr. Fred Branch, 797 Main street, in his 21st year. He had recently come to Winchester from Bradford, Eng. intending to make his home here. Funeral services will be held at the home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Mr. Sinter. The interment will be in Wildwood.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

Prof. Charles Ziehl will lecture on "William Morris" before the club on Monday afternoon.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance as this is the last meeting of the season. Please come promptly to the business meeting, as the subject of free classes, guest day, gentlemen's night, and other equally important matters will be discussed.

SHORTAGE OF RAIN

HAVING ITS EFFECT.

The shortage in the rainfall for the past three years is beginning to have its effect on the quantity of water in the reservoirs. There has been a drop of about three feet, three inches from what it was a year ago at this time and the supply continues to decrease. The Water Board will be compelled to call upon the Metropolitan Water Board for a supply to help tide over the shortage. This, however, is a remote contingency, and probably will not have to be resorted to. It was in anticipation of just such conditions that the Water Board to install meters. Already about one-half of the houses are metered, and the Board will continue on this course as rapidly as possible until the entire town is under measured service. This it is expected will conserve the supply to a considerable extent and postpone for an indefinite period the necessity of calling for water from the Metropolitan Board.

There are several manufacturing plants and farms here in Winchester that use great quantities of water, and these will be obliged to get their supplies from driven wells in case of an emergency. But this is also a remote contingency.

The Metropolitan Water Board, it is said, is not so anxious to secure our reservoirs for storage purposes as it was some years ago. They having ascertained that these reservoirs cannot be filled by gravity and that the water would have to be pumped. And again they have to all the cities and towns that they can permanently provide water for.

The occupants of houses that are not provided with meters, will in all probability be restricted in the use of water to wet down gardens and lawns during the coming summer, unless the water in the reservoirs should keep up to where it is at present. Those having meters can use all they want, but they will have to pay for it, so that there will be no danger in their case of an extravagant use or that the water will be allowed to run during the night time.

RECEPTION TO REV. CHARLES W. BLACKETT, D. O.

The Methodist Episcopal Church tendered a very cordial reception last evening to Dr. C. W. Blackett and family in the parlors of the Methodist Church. Mr. N. H. Seelye was in charge and Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Armstrong assisted Dr. and Mrs. Blackett in receiving. Mr. Nestor W. Davis was in charge of a goodly number of attentive young gentlemen as usher.

Mr. Seelye on taking the chair gave a few words of greeting to all present and then introduced Miss Marguerite M. McIntosh as soloist, and Miss Louise A. Keeler as accompanist of the evening. The two songs were finely rendered, and pleased the audience.

The chairman then called upon Mr. Alfred S. Hall, Esq., to give a welcome in behalf of the community. Mr. Hall expressed great pleasure in being called upon to assist in welcoming Dr. Blackett to the town as one of Winchester's new pastors. Among other things, he said, that many a man who successfully did his duties in his work whether clergyman, lawyer, doctor or any other calling, must of necessity give himself up to a life of unremitting toil, and that Winchester presented to Dr. Blackett a good field for work, and playfully remarked that he judged that the new pastor was well equipped physically, and in every other way to meet the demand.

Rev. Henry F. Hodge, pastor of the Baptist Church voiced a cordial welcome in behalf of the churches. He said he had labored in Winchester for twelve years, and had enjoyed the work, and he welcomed Dr. Blackett to a share in the work the churches were trying to do in this community. Rev. Mr. Metcalf made a pleasant impression (with his contentment beginning with good nature) as he characterized with apt illustration some of the points he had observed in the different denominations.

Mr. Robert M. Armstrong a charter member of this church established 38 years ago, was introduced as the appointed representative of the church to welcome Dr. Blackett as pastor of the church. Mr. Armstrong was glad to voice a warm welcome in behalf of the church to the new pastor, and his wife and his four promising sons.

Mr. Seelye then introduced Dr. Blackett to the audience. As he arose to speak one could see that he was a man of power, that by Winchester that came a pastor well equipped by a long and careful early preparation for his great life work of leading men to God. Dr. Blackett's words were well chosen and impressive. He said he had come here almost a stranger but he had already commenced to feel at home. He planned to build up the church and also to be interested in affairs of the town as well. If there were any people who did not go to church he wanted them for his people, and should seek diligently for them, and also for the children for his Sunday school as the best means of laying the foundation of a future strong Methodist Church. His address claimed the closest attention of his hearers. Mr. Seelye then surprised the pastor's wife, a winsome lady sitting by his side by asking her for a few words. Her ready, modest response was charming.

The exercises closed by singing. "Blest be the Tie" and prayer by Rev. J. M. Mansfield. The Ladies' Aid Society, with its President Mrs. Sherard Clay, assisted by Mrs. John N. Mason, Mrs. R. M. Armstrong, Mrs. George C. Ogden and Mrs. Leon E. Cronch as porters, and a host of bright young girls as waiters then served refreshments.

Miss Lillian Frazer left town for north Conway N. H. where she has accepted a position as matron of the Memorial Hospital.

A FORTUNATE DISCOVERY.

Many Fires During the Past Seven Days.

When Mr. Mendon, a farmer in the Hill district was on his way to Boston with a load of vegetables at three o'clock Monday morning, he discovered the ell of the Smith house on Ridge street in flames. There were no signs of life about the house, and concluding that the occupants were asleep, Mr. Mendon quickly started to arouse them. The inmates had to vacate the house in great haste, having only time to get out in scanty clothes. Mrs. Josiah L. Smith, an invalid for many years, was carried out of the burning building by Mr. Edward Verville and Mr. Smith. Occupying the house were Mr. Lester F. Smith and family, and their aged mother, Mrs. Josiah L. Smith—all six persons. They were cared for at the house of a neighbor.

But for the timely discovery of the fire, the occupants would, in all probability, have been suffocated by the dense smoke. The origin of the fire is a mystery, as there was no fire in the house during the night.

The house is situated in Winchester close to the Arlington line, and a telephone call brought the chemical engine from the latter place to the scene of the fire, the remainder of the apparatus being sent back when it was found out that it would not be needed. At the same time an alarm was sent to Winchester, the department quickly responding and all the firemen could do was to watch the burning house, there being no water, and the fire too far advanced to permit the use of the chemical. The house and contents were entirely consumed.

Other Fires.

The alarm Friday night from box 26, Main corner of Herrick street, was false. Saturday the department was called out for a dangerous brush fire on Cambridge street, opposite the Boat Club house. It was necessary to use chemicals to extinguish it.

Sunday evening, at 9.20, there was a false alarm from box 44, on Main street, opposite Canal.

When the alarm from box 13 sounded at about nine o'clock Tuesday evening the firemen and all others who knew the location of the box had visions of a large conflagration. Box 13 is a private one and is on the large plant of the Winchester Manufacturing Co. on Cross street near the station. The wind was blowing a gale and the air was as cold as it is during the first of March, and the drivers of the apparatus thinking they had a hard task before them, may have nerved their horses to the scene a little faster than usual, so that very quick time was made in reaching the box. The firemen also made a quick run up the tracks of the railroad or through the streets, or across lots, whichever way would bring them to the scene the soonest possible knowing full well that every minute might be precious. It was a great relief to them, however, to learn when they arrived near the huge building that the fire was not there, but in one of the coal sheds of the Parker & Lane Co., close to it, which was burning quite freely. No time was lost in turning streams of water onto the fire which was quickly extinguished. But it was some time before the firemen recovered from the scare and had resumed their usual composure, for an alarm from any of these private boxes in town portends a big fire.

The roof of the shed was damaged but little. The fire probably caught from the sparks from a passing locomotive.

Tuesday evening previous to the alarm from box 13, a telephone call summoned the firemen to a brush fire on the Brooks estate on Grove street near the Methodist line, and it was while working here that the alarm from box 13 was sounded calling the department to Cross street.

The alarm from box 41, corner Main and Lake streets, Wednesday evening, was for a fire in the barn on the old Holt estate on the former site. When the department arrived the fire was burning briskly and a great deal of water was used before the flames were subdued. The building was used as a storage house by the heirs of the Holt estate and it was well filled with old and very valuable furniture made of expensive wood—heralds that have accumulated in this old family for years. The goods were badly damaged, and the loss cannot be figured in dollars and cents.

MOTOR FIRE TRUCK.

The creditable performance of the Arlington motor chemical truck at the burning of the Smith house on Andrew's Hill last Sunday evening, very forcibly calls Winchester's attention to the need of a similar piece of apparatus in this town. With our many hills and comparatively large area, which is increasing at a very large rate, it is impossible for a horse drawn piece of apparatus to give the proper results. Many towns have realized this already and have remedied the situation. Winchester is held back by lack of accommodation at the present time and the impossibility of erecting new fire quarters until this grade crossing problem is solved.

A MAD COW.

There was excitement aplenty on Main street near the junction of Washington street Wednesday forenoon. A man was leading a cow to No. Wolburn that had been purchased in Somerville. Like the horse trader, this Somerville man warranted the row sound and kind—a kind of a family pet, whose owner had parted with her and a shower of tears. There was something that the animal did not like as it approached Winchester, and she commenced to make no end of trouble for the owner. It balked, pulled and ran at times dragging the man, along the street, while at other times he was running away from the infuriated animal. When the pair arrived at Main and Washington streets the man with clothes nearly torn from his body and bruised on legs and arms, and completely exhausted, made a quick turn of the leading rope around a telegraph pole. Here the cow did everything but stand on its head, its voracity preventing anyone from approaching. Kelley & Hawes' hay rack was brought into requisition in the hope of leading her to her destination. But it was no use, the crowd that had collected being unable to latch her to the wagon. Finally, Mr. Bennett arrived on the scene, and with a rope around the wagon and proceeded to lasso the beast in the Western style. And he did it, not once, but twice.

After much difficulty the cow was finally tied up—subdued, yet full of fight.

With vengeance in his eyes, the owner, after having his wounds attended to by the Doctor, started back for Somerville and the dealer. What took place when they met is not known. He had purchased a mad cow that was unsound under any and all conditions. The poor animal in its crazy antics broke out one of its horns close to its head, leaving an ugly wound.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

In a town not many miles from Winchester there is a bright, little chap whose parents are ambitious, well supplied with the goals of this world, and perfectly clear in their plans for the young son. He is to be trained for a professional career, with nothing spared that will make for his material progress. And when he is in the morning; an automobile takes the father and mother "to town," sometimes for a return for himself, then not until the shades of night fall. More than once the Spectator has seen the little fellow out late at night looking down the street for the familiar car. And when it comes he is talked to a bit and sent to bed, alone. He is an affectionate boy, but is simply starved; loves play, but is secluded from too close contact with other boys; is a natural chatterbox and yearns to tell all his little pleasures and woes, but has no one to turn to, with willing ears and ready sympathy. The Spectator wonders what manner of memories that boy will have, and what manner of man will he be, missing the individual mother-guidance and comradeship of a father who grows closer to him with the passing of every year?

The Spectator wonders how many readers of the STAR remember in George Eliot's "Mill on the Floss" how the childish griefs of Maggie Tulliver faded away under the magic of her father's "Never mind, little mind?" With her father's facility for dropping on the wrong side of things there was abundant need of the comforting word, but it was hard to her frequently wounded spirits to know that her troubles would be shared. Children take their words pretty much to heart, and if there is no one to say "Never mind," the little grievances must leave an imprint that will come back to disturb later life. A child can dispense with luxuries and playthings far better than with having sympathy and companionship, and it pays parents to think about them from the heights of their greater years and cultivate a kinship of interests. They do, in the main, and the Spectator would point out that it is because they do so generally that the neglected child stands out conspicuously and presents such a pitiable figure.

A medical friend of The Spectator's gave him to understand that persons who are not happy, are always remarkable for good health. It is up to the ladies who read the STAR to speak right out with "Don't believe it, you mean thing."

Just because a person talks to "Cent" that as if he would scare her to death is no sign that he isn't hempenked at home.

A clergyman goes The Spectator to understand that the throwing of well-dressed destroys the impressiveness of this latest service, and occasionally gets into people's eyes. Two youthful honey-mooners of The Spectator's acquaintance handed this proposition very well. And the train departed from the station, with their seal under a moonlight, the groom carefully swept up every particle of the rice. A few minutes later, Mr. and Mrs. Newlywed invited to dinner a company of people who had displayed the most athletic prowess at the wedding. After all present had gazed over the medium appeal of a gorgeous pudding, the bridegroom remarked calmly, "It ought to be good; it was made out of the rice you gave us the day we were married." Aperson don't have to sit around at weddings with a glove yard written all over his face in order to be a gentleman or a lady. There is a party going on, a setting out into the dark and possibly the storm that brings the occasion perilously close to tears. Anything that kindles merriment and obscures the too fat horizon has business no matter how trifling. But people show pretty clearly at weddings what they really have laid. If you take chances on sporting the unique and radiant fragrance of the honey-moon by a physical dignity, you have not outgrown the stage of childhood, no matter how classy your manners, or how heavily loaded with dollar signs your clothes may be. The newly married couple, under the embarrassment of a novel experience are entitled to a monopoly on each other's society. When the present reaches even to the distant fun, and mementoes are thrown over the bride's shoulder it becomes time for some youngsters of older growth to be well spunked and put to bed by kind mamma. At least that is The Spectator's opinion.

A man in a near by town has applied for a divorce because his wife chased him out of the house with a red hot poker, broke a board over his spinal column as he was climbing the back fence, and finally threw a dish of soup at him when he came back. Some men become unhappy over the most trivial circumstance.

Can you judge a woman's morality by her manner? A lady informs The Spectator that she can pick them out as fast as she takes a look at their gowns, just as Miss Grace L. Hotellings of the true arts department of the Teacher's College of New York says she can. Now these ladies don't astonish The Spectator in the least by their assertion. Not that The Spectator can also assert the women after one brief look at their gowns, but he has heard such remarks as the foregoing before. So has nearly everyone in Winchester. Being a mere man, this wonderful insight to women into the hidden meanings of crepe de chinguan and muslin a la lan has interested The Spectator enormously. He has pondered over it and inquired into it and observed the course of scientific analysis with the result that he is prepared to state that any woman who dresses considerably better than any other woman is a "mean old thing" and that said other woman has "very little use for her."

"That's what I call gross negligence," as a groceryman said, when his clerk broke twelve dozen of eggs.

You should have heard the "scolding" a certain woman here gave her husband the other night. It was something terrible. Hubby didn't say a word to her, but he just said to himself: "And in some countries there are men who voluntarily have a dozen, and sometimes even more!"

The Spectator.

Mr. Lester Smith of Winchester writes us as follows: "Read the item about Old Uncle Asa yesterday in the Winch Journal, which made me think that on April 19, 1896, he took a hard rap on the head by a horse, which was certainly going some!" We should say so, Mr. Winch Journal.

Before finally deciding upon your place of residence for the summer, don't forget to take into consideration the fact that Winchester continues to be the model summer resort.

As the train for Boston leaving Wengemere at 10:45 Monday forenoon had started a young lady got into the steps on the wrong side of the train and before her predicament was discovered and the gate opened, the train had got considerably below the bridge that spans the river. She did not appear to be disconcerted at all.

Readers of the STAR should not fail to visit the exhibition room of the Arlington Gas Light Co. on Main street corner of Converse place. Labor saving utilities can be seen here that will surprise many modern housekeepers, and make cooking one of comfort and not drudgery. For cooking in summer, gas surpasses all else.

IS YOUR HUSBAND A CRANK?

Nine times out of ten his shoes are the cause. Bring me a pair of his shoes and have them REPAIRED, and you will have the happiest time this side of your honeymoon.

I don't "fix" shoes; I repair them. And there is a whole lot of difference between "fixing" and REPAIRING.

I have a full line of all the popular grades of rubber heels, and am proud to say that among my patrons are the Elite of the 400 of Winchester, where I have done business for 30 years.

A pair of rubber heels, properly adjusted to your shoes, will wear twice as long and give you ease and comfort. When they are "fixed" on, it is entirely different.

Don't blame the blacksmith if he puts your watch out of commission, and don't blame the man who "fixes" your shoes. Bring them to O'Laughlin and have them REPAIRED.

TUBERCULOSIS CAUSES 10 PER CENT OF CHURCH DEATHS.

Statistics showing how serious a problem tuberculosis is to the ordinary church congregation were published today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in a bulletin on Tuberculosis Day.

From reports received from over 725 churches, with a membership of over 312,000 communicants of twenty denominations, and from 208 cities and towns in 12 states in various parts of the country, out of nearly 7000 deaths in 1910, over 700 or 10.4 per cent were caused by tuberculosis. This means 2.24 deaths for every thousand members of communicants.

While the percentage of deaths from tuberculosis as compared with other diseases is not higher in the churches, according to these figures, than in the country at large, the tuberculosis death rate, as shown by the church returns, is higher per thousand communicants than that for the general population in the Registration Area of the United States, which the Census Bureau gave as 1.87 in 1900.

"The National Association," the bulletin says, "does not, however, consider the statistics received from ministers comparable from the point of view of accuracy with those reported by the Bureau of the Census. A sufficient number of returns from a great variety of churches have been received, nevertheless, to indicate that one of the most serious social problems the ordinary church has to consider, is that of the devastation of its membership by tuberculosis. The need for education from the pulpit and in the home is apparent. Every minister in the United States is asked to give this subject some attention during the next two weeks."

WHOLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Entered at the post-office at Winchester as second-class matter.

The Massachusetts Senate has voted down the income tax measure, the vote being 10 to 11. The vote against it was solidly Republican, the Senator from this district, Mr. Bowen of Melford being one of the voters against it.

We have received Hon. Samuel W. McCall's speech on reciprocity with Canada, delivered before the U. S. House of Representatives on April 21. This speech was the ablest and most convincing in favor of reciprocity of the many delivered, and we would suggest two readers of the Star that they procure a copy. There is no member of the House who receives more attention from the members and the country than does Mr. McCall when he makes a speech. He always talks to the point and is convincing.

Albert F. Langtry, who was elected secretary of State last week, is serving his second term in the House. Two years ago he was a candidate for State Treasurer, but withdrew and Senator Stevens of Somerville was elected. Mr. Langtry is editor and publisher of the Springfield Union. He is married. He is a Mason, a member of the Middlesex Club, of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, the Massachusetts Editorial Association and is serving as its president, and was formerly a member of the Republican State Committee. He has for years been a member of the Massachusetts Press Association, and has the respect of his fellow editors to a remarkable degree. He is an exceedingly strong and cheerful man, one who will carry his personality into his new office and which will certainly result in benefit to the State.

WINCHESTER ORCHESTRAL ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Winchester Orchestral Association was held at the residence of Mr. Dwight last Tuesday evening. The Treasurer's report was presented and it was a great satisfaction to learn that at the end of the Orchestral's second season there is a small balance on the right side of the ledger instead of a deficit of nearly $150 as there was at the end of the first season.

It was voted to change the name of the organization to the Winchester Orchestral Association instead of Winchester Orchestral Society and to designate the orchestra as the Winchester Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra has grown to the proportions of a "grand orchestra" and it aims to render only classical music, including a symphony, at each concert.

It is the desire of the committee to increase the number of low-priced seats for the benefit of those who feel they cannot afford to pay Boston Symphony prices with the added expense and chaf of attending concerts in Boston and yet are hungry for such music as the Boston Symphony offers. The demand for such seats was very strong at all concerts this past season, showing an appreciation of the work of our orchestra by the general public.

Subscription blanks for next season will be mailed to associate members in a few days. The number of associate memberships has been slightly increased to meet the increased expense that may occur next season. Application for these various memberships may be made to Sylvester Taylor, Secretary.

REV. JOHN H. MANSFIELD.

On Friday, April 28, occurred the 83rd birthday of Rev. J. H. Mansfield. His pastor, Rev. C. W. Blackett, conceived the plan of its celebration by publicly reviewing the augmented class meeting from the vestry of the church to the pleasant home of these veterans of the cross on Crescent road. At eight o'clock the friends entered and, in a completely filling their large parlor, Dr. Blackett, in warm words, announced the purpose of the evening as a celebration of the birthday by holding a class meeting (which, in his mind, should be the most precious of all informal religious meetings) which he proceeded to lead. Before the closing hour, Dr. Blackett presented Mr. Mansfield with the latest book of Bishop Henry W. Warren of Denver, who was converted under the influence of Rev. Mr. Mansfield, while they both were in college. Between the leaves was hidden a bookmark of shining gold, as a birthday token, from friends. Mrs. Leon Crouch then presented to Mrs. Mansfield a new velvet choker, as they wished that she, too, should enjoy a birthday. A large number of congratulatory letters, postcards, and gifts, were also received from relatives and friends from all over New England, where they are both well known and greatly beloved. Rev. and Mrs. Mansfield are the parents of Mrs. John N. Mason of Mt. Pleasant street.

Mrs. Mary Heron, wife of Jacob F. Emerson, mother to Mrs. Harry A. Wheeler of this town, passed away yesterday at her home, 13 Monte St., West Roxbury. She was a former resident of Winchester.

At a meeting of the Winchester Town Committee held this week, William A. Kneeland, Esq., of Highland avenue, was chosen a member of the Committee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Frank P. Carpenter.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Mr. Pratt is absolutely right in his contention on street grades, and I have the impression on my mind it was upon his motion a town meeting voted a few years ago that in the future the Selectmen should establish the grades of all proposed new streets before submitting their lay out to the town meeting for acceptance.

The attempt to make the present right of way bill apply to those cities and towns which have accepted a different act is a violation of the referendum principle which the Democratic party stands for. The only thing the present House is consistent in is badness. May we never see its like again.

The reason for Walker had in favor an opinion that the legislative convention in the fall of 1910 was last week because he accepted it, against his wish, in the spirit of compromise. He was right in wishing to agree to more than one roll call on the preliminary motion, and the Democrats knew he was right, but cannot be blamed for trying to make a little political capital for next fall. The interesting phase of the contest was the Republican's distrust of their own members, although they had twenty-six majority. It is seldom indeed that party measures are won by votes from the opposition party anywhere.

I have been asked where any very great expense can be made in connection with our ponds and streams? The proper and complete plan means dredging out to some extent and filling in to a very much greater extent, and this last will require arrangements to take care of the water in freshet times, which means the enlargement of openings through the railroad embankments and of all bridges over the streams, if the points between the main line and the Woburn loop and east of the main line of the railroad are filled in to the extent they should be, the building of retaining walls and the attendant beautification.

It seems to me unfortunate that Selectmen are not permitted by appointment a single fire engineer, but under the old law must appoint not less than three. I tried to get this law amended a few years ago but corporate opposition of a personal nature defeated it. If there is any line of work that calls for individual authority, it is in the fire department, particularly when a fire is on.

School committees may now expend school money to supervise play and games on land under their control and in equipment thereof.

If the question was asked which town of Massachusetts has the greatest per capita wealth, most everybody would answer Brookline, but the town of Dover has nearly twice as much.

The Governor's special messages have been coming along thick and fast and while they are vile there is getting to be a feeling they are too frequent. The legislature is clogged with work now, and the fear of staying beyond the 4th of July is the only thing that will send the members home by that time, so it cannot spend much time on extra work. Our legislatures are seldom more than six months apart.

Our gas company had a hearing before the commission May first for authority to issue new stock, at which time it developed that these were the companies: the Arlington Gas Light Co., The Massachusetts Gas Light Co., the holding association, and the Light, Heat and Power Co., a producing and engineering company, and each got a share and the officers and stock holders were the same.

BASE BALL.

Winchester High took a decided stand in the game against the strong Medford High school team at Medford last Wednesday afternoon. It was anybody's game until the last inning but finally after twelve innings Winchester won 2-2.

As Gubbin, the regular pitcher, did not go, those who wait from Winchester expected to see their team woefully slaughtered. But Mobbs pitched an excellent game resulting that he never pitched for the High school before. That the infield made nineteen assists and that twenty-two were put out at first base shows that the infield played an excellent game.

However the visiting team did not get its runs altogether by its own means as it was allowed twelve bases on balls and the opponents made six errors.

The decisive run was made in the first of the twelve innings when Donahue knocked a long fly to deep right with one out and the bases full. After this was caught LeDuc on third, had time to run on, thereby winning the game for Winchester.

It was an interesting and exciting game to see in spite of the cold and those who were unfortunate enough not to be able to attend, missed what will undoubtedly prove to be, the game of the year.

REGULAR MEETING

First Monday Evening of Each Month, 7 to 9.

(If a holiday the following evening)

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

Address all communications to the Bank and not to individuals.

The proposed investigation of the United Shoe Machinery Company of Boston by the United States Government will be of interest to Winchester people as the Company has been so closely associated with Winchester. The company is charged with violating the anti-trust law and also with selling machinery to foreigners at better terms than to American citizens.

The Right Rev. William Lawrence, D. D., Bishop of Massachusetts will preach in Mechanics' Hall, Stoneham, Tuesday, May 9, at 7:30 p.m. He comes to administer the rite of confirmation to members of All Saints Mission.

NOTICE

Depositing leaves and other refuse in the public streets and the burning of same there, is a violation of the town by-laws, constitutes a source of danger to passing houses, and fills the streets with litter which the town is obliged to cart away at great expense.

For these and other reasons, all persons are requested to stop this practice and thereby to assist the Street Department in keeping the streets clean and free from obstruction.

So great has the nuisance become that the officers of the street and police departments have been directed to enforce the by-laws on this subject.

INTERESTING FACTS.

The first report of President Keller of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company presents some interesting facts in a condensed form.

The total number of telephones connected with the New England system at the end of 1910 was 388,022, this including sub-license, associated and connecting companies.

The 712 mileage required to furnish service was 7342,04, of which 442,166 miles, or about three fifths of the total, represented wires placed underground.

The total number of employees was 10,153.

For 1911 the estimated appropriations are as follows: for new construction and real estate, $1,000,000; for repairs and depreciation, $4,000,000.

The net earnings were slightly less than in 1909, and the profits, after allowing for certain depreciations of stocks and bonds, were $700,797.27, but 1910 as against $864,974.42 for 1909.

A lot note in the balance sheet calls attention to an interesting point. The Highway Commission during its investigation of the title schedule, showed that not only was the stock not watered but that the independent appraisal showed property largely in excess of book records.

WESTERN STATES AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The Women of Massachusetts will have to look to their laurels and bestir themselves in earnest if they do not want to be left far in the rear in the march of progress. Legislators in various states have had the question of equal suffrage recently brought before them. With equal suffrage an assured fact in five states, the following results of legislative action are significant and reassuring:
California Legislature 98 yeas to 17 nays;
Kansas 121 yeas to 41 nays; Oregon and Nevada two to one in favor; Illinois 31 yeas to 10 nays; Montana 38 to 32; Maine 71 to 66; Massachusetts 69 yeas to 161 nays! Some one has said that the sun used to rise in the east, but now it rises in the west. One of the most statured lawyers in Massachusetts says that the arguments for equal suffrage cannot be refuted—they are sound—but "woman suffrage is wrong" by which he must mean, what he forgot to add, in my opinion, "since it agreements for action are right, it would seem to follow naturally that the action itself is right." It is to be hoped Massachusetts, usually in the forefront of reform, will not be the last to do her women justice.

M. E. A.

INJURY TO WOMAN SUFFRAGE

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Daughters of the American Revolution have again met at Washington and adjourned without actual bloodshed.

"I do not believe that the national Democratic convention at Charleston, in 1860, where passions seethed and which precipitated the awful war between the states was more intense in feeling or that gathering of men than was manifest here in the aggregation of women over the election of the chief officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution."

That was the observation of a gray-haired gentleman who had been a looker-on at the D. A. R. Convention at which a feminine near relative was an attending delegate. Truth is the conduct of the normally good and amiable women comprising the ostensibly peaceful and patriotic organization has been such as to cause the judgments of both sexes greatly to be gripped. It is not uncommon talk that a resultant of the misbehavior of leading members of the several delegations has injured it seriously in the estimation of many.

For one thing it has caused a renascence of sentiment of men inclined to look favorably upon the proposition to grant suffrage rights to women. It is also said that the venting of passions at these women's conventions have caused not a few to resign from the organization and deterred many from joining it who are qualified for membership.

GETTING EVEN.

The story is told in Boston that the reason the Fastest Way was driven to New York, (where it is now being played at the Republic Theatre) was because of a grudge. Members of the Boston city council have passes to all the shows, same as Beverly and other cities have,
and the pass is usually good for father and friends. One night when the house was full a Boston city father went to the Hollis theatre with a number of friends and could not find any good seats. The father's noted for being "tough" about his friends and the city father told them so very plainly. There was a good friend of the Mayor and he helped him and got some of the children to help him.
When the Fastest Way came he had his revenge and it paid a costly one to the show folks. Other theatres who are more liberal were not molested—

(5.) Verses 5-10—Who was the "understanding in the visions of God," or is it a special gift to a few, and why?

(7.) What did the prosperity of Uzziah appear to depend upon?

(8.) What are some of the things mentioned which demonstrated Uz-ziah's prosperity?

(9.) In the light of time and eternity, what do you consider as the highest type of a prosperous man?

(10.) What are the degrees of de-plan for nations to settle their dis-were king of another country with whom we had a misunderstanding, why would there be no danger of war?

as nations, guilty or innocent before God, for the vast sums of money they spend annually in preparation for war? Why?

(15.) Verses 16-18—What proportion of men are drawn nearer to God, and what proportion are driven to the Devil by earthly prosperity?

(16.) Why is it that so many are spiritually hurt by prosperity?

(17.) After Uzziah had had such unmistakable experience with God, how do you account for his moral lapse?

(18.) What motive do you suppose prompted Uzziah, to insure the advice of the priests of the temple?

(19.) What are the sins which an exalted position, or great riches, tend to develop today. (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(20.) Verses 19-23—Was the disease of leprosy supernaturally inflicted as a punishment, or was it contracted in a natural way?

(21.) Does God in these days send disease upon people in any other way than through the laws of nature? Give your reasons.

the highest service we can renmay take some self denial to do this, but what good can be ac-

The Price Consideration

Some people have the impression that they cannot afford to make purchases at this store, which is nearly always a mistaken idea. MACULLAR PARKER COMPANY make a forty-dollar ready-to-wear suit. But they make a twenty-five dollar suit as well, which has just as careful attention in the making as the higher-priced one, and is, by all odds, a suit impossible to duplicate anywhere else for twenty-five dollars.

From an economical standpoint, and taking into consideration the various points of style, materials, workmanship and fit, the various departments of this house offer a line of goods of such superior quality and worth, that the buying of them is extremely profitable.

XVI.—Emergencies In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.
Copyright, 1911, by American Press Association.

NOTWITHSTANDING all that has been written and uttered regarding "man's infirmity to man," the first impulse of the average man is to help a fellow being in distress. This is well exemplified by the agility with which half a dozen people unskilled will chase a bat that has been driven off.

When accident or disease occurs in the household, however, successful assistance is not so easily rendered as in the case of the wild blown bat. The most willing hands and heads may bring injury rather than relief through an excess of zeal and ignorance of how to direct it.

Fainting Spells.

Ordinary fainting spells, excluding cases of unconsciousness, due to heart disease, kidney trouble, apoplexy, etc., may be due to a number of causes—lack of food, indigestion, eye strain, lack of sleep, etc. In such cases the patient should be placed in a reclining position, with the feet higher than the head and the clothing loosened about the neck and chest. Cold water dashed in the face will usually suffice to restore consciousness. Aromatic spirits of ammonia inhaled or if the patient is able to swallow fifteen to thirty drops in a wineglass of water is a good restorative. Strong ammonia should not be applied to the nostrils of an unconscious person, as extreme irritation of the mucous membrane may result before the patient becomes conscious of it.

An impending faint may be prevented by having the patient place his head in his hands and lower it between his knees while sitting down. This strain ed position tends to retain the blood in the upper portion of the body and prevent the bloodless condition of the brain, which is responsible for the unconsciousness.

The natural impulse is to raise the head and body of a patient who has fainted. This is the worst possible thing to do. Feet high and head low is the rule.

Sunstroke.

The symptoms of sunstroke are very high temperature, ranging from 104 to 112 degrees F., congested countenance, heavy breathing and much unconsciousness. This condition may be mistaken for apoplexy if the temperature is not taken.

The remedy is, in a word, cold. If it is not possible to give a full ice cold bath, cold cloths should be applied to the head, neck and chest and the extremities bathed in cold water. The application of cold must be continued until the temperature drops to normal and a normal if it rises.

The symptoms of heat exhaustion are the reverse of those above described. The temperature may be subnormal, the face is pale, and there is a condition analogous to shock, with a bloodless form.

The treatment must be directed against these conditions. The application of heat to the body and extremities is necessary by means of hot water bags, bottles, etc. Coffee, essence of ginger or other stimulants should be taken internally. The reclining position is also indicated.

Caution.—It is not unusual for physicians to be called in such cases in hot weather and find the patient's head loosely elevated by anxious friends and cold applications being as liberally applied. Although this condition is due to heat, cold will only aggravate it.

Convulsions, Etc.

In true epilepsy the patient should be made as comfortable as possible during the attack and prevented from injuring himself.

Convulsions in children may be due to comparatively trivial causes—teething, indigestion, worms, etc. Sometimes a convulsion is the first sign of a serious neuro disease, as infectious fever, pneumonia, etc.

The child should be put in a hot bath (100 to 104 degrees F.) for about five minutes. This will usually control the spasm, and the patient can be put to bed and other necessary measures taken, especially cleaning out the bowels, which may be more rapidly accomplished by an enema. A physician should, of course, be called.

Surgical Troubles.

Sprains.—In this condition there is laceration of ligaments, blood vessels and other structures surrounding a joint. The first treatment is to place the injured part in hot water and apply hot cloths for half an hour. The joint should then be bandaged, not too tightly, and kept in rest until the acute swelling and tenderness subside. Alternate applications of hot and cold water poured over the joint from a pitcher are often beneficial. It is a mistake to attempt continuous self treatment of a severe sprain. Attacks of suffering and crippling may result from neglect to secure early surgical aid. The X ray has demonstrated that supposed simple sprains are often complicated by fractures.

Fractures.

When a limb is fractured the first step is to apply a temporary splint in order to prevent needless injury to soft parts by the ends of the fractured bone. Any stiff material, an umbrella, rolled up newspapers, canvas, etc., may be bound to the limb by handkerchiefs, towels or bandages until surgical aid has been procured. In fractures of the leg one leg may be bound to the other. If the skin has been broken the fracture is termed compound, and extreme care is necessary to prevent further laceration or infection of the tissues.

Wounds.

Slight punctured or lacerated wounds are often neglected or improperly treated, owing to the fact that no medical aid is sought. For the reason that blood poison and lockjaw are not uncommon following comparatively trivial injuries all wounds should be cleansed as quickly as possible with peroxide of hydrogen, turpentine or some antiseptic solution. A sterilized gauze pad should then be applied and held in place by rubber adhesive plaster or gauze bandages. The use of strong antiseptic solutions in wounds is no longer customary. When the wound is infected, as evidenced by heat, redness, swelling or discharge of pus, the parts should be cleansed frequently with peroxide of hydrogen and a simple wet dressing applied as follows: A gauze pad is bandaged over the wound and kept moist with a saturated solution of boric acid or soda in boiled water. Antiseptic solutions kill germs, but they also interfere with the natural reparative work of the body cells.

Dangers of Carbolic Acid.

Carbolic acid should be banished from the household except in the form of carbolic vasoline. This preparation may be useful to apply to cuts or sores in emergencies. Soluble carbolic acid constantly applied to the extremities, fingers, toes, etc., have been known to cause gangrene.

Every useful purpose served by carbolic acid as a household remedy can be served by simple morpholine or oleoline, such as a saturated solution of boracic acid or the official liquor antiseptic of the United States Pharmacopoeia. Added with several parts of water, this latter preparation may be used whenever a cleansing antiseptic wash is required.

Burns.

Probably nothing causes more excitement in the household than burns or scalds, and this explains why first aid is so seldom properly and promptly applied.

The most convenient and perhaps the best remedy to apply is ordinary lard. This may be applied in powder and the parts wrapped in clean linen cloth, gauze, etc., and then covered with cotton, or the bandages may be saturated and kept moist with a strong solution of the soda. Distillers should be permitted with a needle that has been sterilized in boiling water, but the skin should not be removed.

When a burn is very extensive immediate proper dressing is difficult, and it is extremely important to reduce the shock and protect the burned area from the air. This may be quickly done by placing the patient in a warm salt bath, keeping the temperature between 94 and 104 degrees F. Such treatment is often continued for a long time, replenishing the water, of course, as it becomes contaminated. Stimulants internally are called for.

Ear Emergencies.

Accumulations of wax or foreign bodies in the ear should be removed by syringing with warm water or saturated solution of boracic acid. Insects may be suffocated with a few drops of pure sweet oil and then removed by syringing with warm water. It is a bad practice to use oil in the ear for the removal of wax. If syringing with warm water does not suffice a physician should be consulted.

Karoke is usually due to inflammation, which may develop into suppuration and abscess. It should be applied by means of hot water bags, hot dry poultice or turpentine. U. S. P. or hot fomentations. Hot water may be poured into the ear while the patient reclines on his opposite side and the heat retained by covering the affected ear with cloths saturated with hot water and the whole covered over with a flannel pad.

Bleeding From the Nose.

In old people or those with a tendency to apoplexy a hemorrhage from the nose may prove a relief and should not be too hastily checked. Where it is desirable to check a hemorrhage the application of cold to the nose and back of the neck will often prove effective. Syringing with peroxide of hydrogen is also an excellent emergency remedy. Syringing with a hot salt solution at a temperature of 125 degrees F. is another efficient measure. If the temperature of the solution is lower than 125 degrees it will only aggravate the hemorrhage.

THE OCCIDENT AND ORIENT UNITE.

In Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Panace Bill's Far East Which Comes to Boston, May 15th to 20th.

The interesting announcement is made that Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Panace Bill's Far East will exhibit as indicated above. A remarkable event is announced in the late taking from public life of the old scout, "Buffalo Bill," who is making a last tour to each city he now visits—a victory.

Two vast enterprises are now allied under one management. The union of Buffalo Bill's Wild West with Panace Bill's Far East brings together two great factors in out-door entertainment. The Far East contingent will be represented in an Oriental spectacle of great beauty and splendor, introducing many picturesque types which inhabit the remote East. In this scene and as a particular feature, Ross's Musical Elephants, imported at an expense of $200 per week, will introduce then remarkable exhibition; playing various musical instruments, dancing, and in other manners exhibiting their remarkable sagacity and wonderful training.

The chief scenic feature will be the battle of Summit Springs, a reproduction of one of the deciding conflicts in Indian warfare; a battle in which Custer participated and in which he shot and killed Chief Tail Bull. In a Holiday at "T.E." Ranch will be pictured the pleasures and pastimes of the plainsman, cowboy sports and a dance upon the green.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Andrew Mack, the Irish singer who has won wide popularity as a dramatic star, has been making one of the greatest successes of his career during the past few weeks on the B. F. Keith circuit and he comes to Boston next week. Mack is not only a splendid singer with a wonderful voice, but he is a remarkable good story teller. He will head an exceptionally strong bill, of ten makers: Jack Wilson, and his company in a new version of "An Unheavenly Darktown." Claude and Fanny Usher in their comely sketch "Fagin's Decision," introducing the famous "Sparrows." Rivoli, an Italian character comic artist who enacts an entire play by himself. New owners will be Lee White and George Perry, in singing and dancing specialties. Fench, the strong man, will also appear, and other features will be the Visconti Brothers, wonderful acrobatic players, and Rawson and June, the bewitching throwers.

MOTHER'S DAY.

The setting apart of special days for the commemoration of great events or for honoring characters is a very old custom. The churches of Christendom have a full calendar, and the suggestion of another day could scarcely be received with favor. But when, a few years ago, Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, advocated wearing a white carnation, on the second Sunday in May, in honor of Mother's Day, a great many hearts responded with the thought that if any persons in all the world were worthy of special remembrance these persons were All Good Mothers. Three years ago Miss Jarvis' idea was taken up quite generally. Firms presented their employees with white carnations; the Los Angeles Examiner gave away 30,000 of them. Even the Bowers had its part in the celebration. Men who had not seen their mothers for years pinned a white flower on their breasts in their honor. Some of the churches are putting in special services, and in some others where there is a distinct objection to deviate from the ordinary ecclesiastical calendar many men are wearing the white flower just "for mother's sake."

"I love old mothers—mothers with white hair.
And kindly eyes, and lips grown softly sweet
With murmured blessings over sleeping babes.
There's something in their quiet grace
That speaks the calm of Sabbath afternoons.

"Old mothers! as they pass with slow-time's step
Their trembling hands cling gently to youth's strength,
Sweet mothers! as they pass one sees again
Old garden walks, and roses, and old loves."

MASONIC REUNION.

Members Who Laid Foundation of Present Success.

There are ladies' rights and gentlemen's rights and so often do we read of them as taking place among all organizations that they are looked upon as simply matter-of-fact social events. But it remained for Mr. Percy W. Witherell, Master of William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., to introduce an innovation

WILLIAM PARKMAN.
Whom the Lodge was Named After.

that is likely to become popular in all social organizations, and that was an Old Members' Night. It was a happy thought on his part, and the innovation, for such it was, proved to be a very happy event to the older members of William Parkman Lodge, who turned out in force last Tuesday evening—men who now but seldom leave the evening fireside. In all there were considerably over a hundred present, including old and recent members and the reunion was thoroughly enjoyed. The Lodge now has a membership of 261. Mr. Warren Johnson was the oldest member present, he being the first man to receive the degrees after the Lodge was chartered in 1865. He was honored in remarks by Master Witherell and presented with a handsome bouquet of cut flowers.

ALBION K. P. JOY.
The First Master of William Parkman Lodge.

Mr. Johnson, who is 84 years of age was so overcome by the tribute, that he could not find words to express his gratitude.

During the early part of the evening the first degree was conferred on two candidates, and there were two admissions to membership. At the conclusion of the regular business, Samuel J. Elder, Esq., after complimenting Worshipful Master Witherell for his thoughtfulness in inaugurating this pleasant feature of an Old Members' Night, gave a most interesting informal talk on the Hague Tribunal proceedings, and at the finish he was presented with a handsome bouquet of pink carnations.

The members then adjourned to the banquet hall to partake of refreshments and enjoy a social hour. It was one of the pleasantest evenings in the history of the Lodge, and no doubt will become an annual feature.

The following have been members of the Lodge for thirty years and longer:

STRAY THOUGHTS.

VIII

Public, and Private Libraries.

The rapid increase in the number of public libraries, during the last fifty years, has given to every one, whether old or young, opportunity to read the best of books without expense. In many cities there is scarcely a village or town which has not within its limits a good public library. Besides the public libraries, there are at present in the country thousands of excellent school libraries in both elementary and high schools. These school libraries furnish pupils with the means for convenient reference when in search of information not found in the ordinary text-book.

In the public libraries, people of all ages have access to all grades of literature, from the popular novel to scientific works that deal with the deepest problems which concern us. These libraries have given a mighty impulse to learning, and have led thousands of men, women, and children to become intelligent readers.

Literature.

The term literature conveys a somewhat indefinite idea to most of us. In fact, almost all reading matter may be classed as literature. Even the dictionary makes no attempt to draw a hard and fast line between what is and what is not literature. "Webster" says, "Literature is the collective body of literary productions embracing the entire results of knowledge and fancy preserved in writing." This definition is certainly broad enough to satisfy the poorest writers, and too broad to satisfy the best. A second definition, also from "Webster," expresses more nearly, I suspect, the interpretation put upon the term by most scholars. "Literature is the class of writing distinguished for beauty of style or expression, as poetry, essays, or history, in distinction from scientific treatises, and works which contain positive knowledge."

The fact is, however, that every one may have his own interpretation of the word. Personally I doubt whether, in the opinion of most educated people, it is altogether "beauty of style or expression" which constitutes literature. Literature is rather beauty of expression coupled with nobility of thought—thought which tends to noble character, and has a moral uplift for anyone, young or old, who reads, understands, and feels the healthful stimulus of words which give to thought its expression.

Literary Fiction.

Of the books usually drawn from the public library, a very large proportion would fall under the head of fiction.

For many years this tendency of the general public to read fiction in preference to other forms of literature, was derided because it was felt that fiction belonged to a low form of literature,—that it was debasing, and tended to distract the attention of readers from the more serious concerns of life. This feeling of distrust towards fiction was so marked a generation ago that many librarians, in their annual reports, called special attention to the matter, deprecating the tendency of the times, and showing that efforts had been made by the attendants in the library to check the evil as far as possible.

This distrust of fiction had its origin partly in a too familiar acquaintance with some of the popular novels of two or three generations ago, and partly in a misapprehension of the end and aim of the best fiction. Few men, women, or children, in any community, are endowed with a full catalogue of virtues; most of them have a few. The writer of fiction has the inestimable advantage of constructing his own characters. Mr. Watson (the MacLure) author of "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush," once gave an address in Tremont Temple, Boston, in which the present writer had the privilege of listening. While speaking of his books, the doctor remarked that people had asked him where he had found his character of Doctor MacLure. He had told them the doctor said, that he never found Doctor MacLure; he had made him. He had known many physicians, and each had some admirable characteristics. He had taken from several of them such characteristics as he considered most admirable, and had made Doctor MacLure.

Here we find the secret of the powerful influence which some works of fiction have over its readers. An idealized character, for good or for evil, portrays with wonderful power what the soul of the reader most loves or hates, and inspires the reader to renewed efforts to choose the one and to avoid the other. A reader of such fiction learns to read more truly his own character which, possibly for the first time, is clearly interpreted to him, the "fictitious composite" showing in bolder relief the peculiar traits which lie hidden in the reader's sub-consciousness. These hidden traits may be of such a nature that they must be crushed out before a more perfect manhood or womanhood can be attained. It is fiction that paints vice in an attractive form, a form which vice

The reading of one or two works of suitable fiction in all grades of the public schools above the fifth is strongly recommended. These books should be read at home, and the stories then re-told and discussed in class, thus giving the teacher an excellent opportunity for imparting wholesome ethical instruction.

MANY FIRES.

During the past ten days the firemen have been earning their pay. The alarms have been frequent and at all times of the twenty-four hours. The employers of the call men are liberal and to a considerable extent are entitled to credit for allowing these men to go to fires. The wives are, however, grumbling a bit, because their husbands so frequently break up the night's sleep, and are so uncertain at meal times.

Everything is as dry as tinder these days, therefore extreme care should be exercised in setting fires.

Last Saturday forenoon a dangerous fire at Hillcrest from box 64 called the department out. Three houses and the Middlesex Falls were involved.

Saturday noon, an alarm from this same box brought the department to the corner of Prince avenue and Washington street for a brush fire.

Sunday afternoon the dump at the town yard kept the firemen busy for more than an hour.

Late in the afternoon a still alarm was sent in for a blaze in the rubbish in the rear of the Holt barn on Main street which was burned last week.

Monday forenoon an alarm from box 43 called the department to the corner of Main and Salem streets to a fire on the roof of the house occupied by Mr. Fred Branch. The fire was caused by a spark from a mattress being burned in the back yard. Damage slight.

At about half past five o'clock in the afternoon box 35 brought the firemen to the corner of Spruce and Oak streets when there was a chimney fire at the residence of Mrs. Kane.

Again at eight o'clock a hay stack on the premises of Mr. Michael Nelson on Cross street, claimed the attention of the firemen for nearly an hour. The hay was rained.

An alarm from the centre fire station called the department out yesterday noon for the brush fire on Andrews Hill, which had been burning several days. The fire was extinguished during the afternoon after several hour's work.

JANE RIPLEY HERRICK.

The late Jane Ripley Herrick passed peacefully away, in her 85th year at her residence in Winchester, on the 10th inst. She was born in Boston in 1827 and was the eldest child of the Hon. Charles and Amelia R. Hubbard. When she was about nine years old her parents removed to Chelsea, Mass., where she resided until 1879.

She was educated at the Academies of Charlestown and Bradford in Massachusetts. On December 20th, 1848, she was married in Chelsea, Mass., to Moses A. Herrick of the same city.

In 1874 she with her husband and family of five children made their home at Winchester, Mass., where she has ever since resided, taking letters from the Winthrop Congregational Church of Chelsea, Massachusetts, to the First Congregational Church of Winchester. She is survived by her five children: a daughter Mrs. Handel Pond, and four sons James A., William H., Rufus F., and Charles H. Herrick.

She was a woman of deep religious convictions and strong affections, and through all her long life, was devoted to church activities and benevolence of every kind.

Democratic in feeling and kindly of heart, she will be sincerely missed by a large circle of relatives and friends.

Dr. Charles F. McCarthy, who suffered a nervous breakdown last week is rapidly recovering, and is now able to be about his house. The report that the doctor had a stroke of paralysis was erroneous.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator heartily endorses the proposition to teach cooking in the public schools. The cooking question has been too long unsettled. It is time good cooking were the rule rather than the exception. Bad cooking has had a mill hand in the work of keeping the world half savage. It is remarkable how many women who think they can cook, who cook every day and three meals a day, and yet can't cook. The Spectator not so very long ago was the maintainer of the fact that a woman who can't cook can't count on being a good mother. She was intelligent and thoroughly satisfied that she was a kitchen queen, but she couldn't cook. She had raised half a dozen sickly children, buried her husband, and was willing to bury another. All her life she was accustomed to prepare her family's meals, and yet, despite all her experience, she was absolutely incompetent in the kitchen. To "eat after" her for long would have been fatal to any human, but she would have been indignant if told so. And to vent the statement she would have replied that she had not only been cook for her own family and others, but had kept boarders! All true and all that, for she could spoil more groceries than one man could pay for. But the point is that she is typical, it is to be feared, of a large class. There are literally thousands of good women in humble homes who are killing their families by the slow but certain process of her cookery. It is hardly too much to say that the Spectator to say that all people were properly furnished, then meals might be safely left to take care of themselves.

There is a man not very far away from here who not only cooks, but who puts both on it. He appears to be one of those persons who intend to get all the good things they can in this life, and not to run the risk of waiting until the next.

A gentleman informs The Spectator that he is greatly interested in the discovery of Homer J. Post, a graduate of the school of pharmacy of the University of Pittsburgh, namely, embalming that will maintain the human body a hundred years. The last act of Egypt. Post has been experimenting on rats, and has a number of mummies. He uses as paper weights, but his idea, and his large one which is used for a door stop. The Spectator doubts that this is one last of that madman's art, or ought to be, willing for the means to keep locked in the mystic chamber of the past. There is no need to keep the dead in perpetuity. The Romans and Egyptians who have come down to us in the form of mummies have added nothing to their dignity by sitting up for us, so to speak. They are not good lawyers. Their complexions are bad and their clothing exceedingly unbecoming. The Spectator can think of Cleopatra, for instance, and imagine her very beautiful, but if The Spectator was to stand upon her mummy in his peregrinations about Egypt he should look upon her as a very common sight, and say that Mrs. Anthony must have been hypnotized.

One day recently The Spectator overheard a group of Misses discussing val-dyke heads and everyone of them emphatically declared that they would forever socially ostracize any man sporting them. Personally The Spectator does not know what business it is of the girls whether they wear whiskers or not. A man ought to be allowed to be the supreme master of his own luncheon just as much as a fully goat is. If he thinks a moustache or a goatee or lambskins or wipers are decorative to his countenance or contribute to his permit to have his way with it, or to do, that has none too many privileges now, and he should fight to retain the few he has left in him. Besides, shaving is quite a bore when carried on at home and somewhat of an expense when practiced elsewhere. Moreover, fleecy whiskers contribute mightily to philanthropy. Mr. Carnegie would probably be lighted if he were faced. Mr. Rockefeller is the only considerable endorser who is hairless, and he isn't that because he wants it, so. Russell Sage was clean shaven, and all of us remember that he never gave anything except kindly advice to the needy. The second generation of Vanderbilts wear no beards and they don't even pay the preacher. Their father wore a fine band of fringe on each side of his face, and he founded Vanderbilt University. The Spectator might cite a hundred instances to prove that hair and charity go together.

While a clergyman in a town within a few miles of Winchester was officiating in church a few Sundays ago he observed several young men and maidens exchanging surreptitious smiles from adjoining pews. The pastor abruptly suspended his sermon and sharply rebuked the delinquents, declaring that a church was no place for flirtations and that the practice would not be tolerated longer. The good man evidently thought the idea of making the church attractive to young people was susceptible of being carried to a pernicious extreme.

The other day a well known man who was about to partake of some imported dried mushrooms complained that they were infested with live worms. When the presence of live worms in food products is held as a justifiable ground for their non-eating. The Spectator thinks those who refuse must be exceedingly fastidious. Among the pictures here in Winchester and elsewhere these devoted at verminous inhabitants has always been considered of inferior quality.

A gentleman dispenses some pretty sound philosophy when he says that just because a person smells of soap is no sign that he talks clearly.

It is an old proverb that the weather never moves without the crops preceding it.

Lots of people start their conversation with these words. "The trouble is."

One trouble of the person who feels he must swear to relieve his pent-up emotions is that he is so emotional.

EDWIN GINN FAVORS A WORLD ARMY.

At the sixth session of the conference of the Third National Peace Congress Mr. Edwin Ginn of Winchester spoke, saying that too much stress is laid upon the glorious side of war and too little upon its horrors. It is the reason for the continued popularity of international conflict. Mr. Ginn's words explained the scope and work of the World Peace Foundation and one of the most interesting proposals embodied in his remarks was that an international army be organized, similar to that which put down the Boxer uprising in China. Such a body, with individual national armies abolished, would result in an enormous saving, not only at the cost of wealth and property, but in the loss of life.

CO-OPERATION A GOOD THING.

The fire departments of Wakefield, Stoneham and Reading have made an agreement that they will respond to all alarms from boxes near the borders of either place, regardless of boundary lines. It is a good thing, and shows a willingness to co-operate. A few weeks ago there was a fire in a house in Lexington. The department of that town kept with the fire until it crossed the border line into Winchester. Then with their apparatus they went back home. Later the fire became a menace to Winchester property, and the local department had to go over and extinguish it. This was an act of selfish indifference and not creditable to the Lexington fire chief, considering the fire originated in that town. This is in marked contrast to the Arlington department, which is always willing to cross over the border and fight fires in Winchester. Co-operation is a good thing.

Don't miss seeing the World in Boston. The memory will last a life time.

John Doucette, who died at Wakefield recently at the age of 97 years, left 235 descendants. Now, what do you say, Old Rhodevelt.

Winchester has no doubt the best roads this side of Boston. This is owing to liberal appropriations, intelligent road building and a superintendent who stand well up in the ranks of the best road builders of the State.

The Boston & Northern Street Railway Company has received permission to purchase the Old Colony Street Railway Company. If the Old Colony's standard shall hereafter measure up to the standard of the other, it will be an excellent and satisfactory one.—[Charlestown Enterprise.

It is said that the legislators are having lots of fun with Expert Chase and his reports. But these Subns will find they can't laugh Mr. Chase's facts and figures down. That extravagance and shipwreck methods exist at the State House, it is only necessary to go through the departments in the building to form an opinion.

Canada, with its vast territory and a more scattered population, carries on its postal service, with, on the whole, lower charges than the rates charged—at least on second class matter—in the United States, and still shows a surplus of earnings, instead of a deficit. In the face of such a fact, it would seem that the first steps in this country, should be the careful examination and adjusting of methods.

The six million dollar fire at Bangor is causing many people to think what might happen to those closely huddled wooden buildings seen from the train as it passes through Somerville. Once a serious fire was started nothing could prevent their destruction. And the singular thing is that houses should be erected so closely together where there is so much land.

Why should there be any hesitancy on the part of our representatives in passing the bill now before the Legislature making it compulsory to tag cold storage products, so as to show the period of storage? It seems even more essential than the provisions of the pure food law, and that has done an immense amount of good in protecting the consumer from adulterated and impure articles of food.—[Athol Chronicle.

Is it not time to stop and think? The railroads in Massachusetts are regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Board of Railroad Commissioners, the Senate and House of Representatives, Committees of the Legislature, and many others who would like to. All of these require the railroads to employ constantly a corps of expert lawyers at a great expense. This week Senator Horr said "graft" at the Railroad Commissioners were not attending to business, and asked that the railroads be investigated for the past ten years. Without stating why, he left the committee hearing. Counsel for the railroads said that if this measure was passed, it would mean a cessation of all improvements for two years. Another measure was to practically place the management of the roads in the hand of the labor union. Can the railroads build up the State and Boston under such a handicap? Why not a fair deal for the railroads?

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A patent preparation concern, doubtless arranging a suit against itself for advertising purposes is about the limit in the advertising line. Even the Transcript got caught.

The following street signs on the Arlington Stomach electric car line sadly need replacement: Glen road, St. Michel road, School street, Irving street, the last one being broken for a year. The new Church street sign at the center is without "Arlington" miles," which was on the old sign and was a convenience to many travellers. The new Mr. Vernon street sign at the corner of Main street is not straight upon the post. Although we have a sign man on our board of Selectmen the street signs have not had much attention.

State Treasurer Stevens has been making an exhibition of himself, which is a tiring of his when hard pushed. It was so when he was in the House and Senate but on the whole he was an excellent legislator. A department which is well run should court the fullest investigation.

The Boston Transcript refuses to print any criticism of the Railroad Commission at present as it does not consider it timely, believing that it is best for the public to have perfect confidence in this board at present when it has so many important matters before it. The Governor however will send in a special message on another phase of this board's work soon.

If the fight between the Ogden and Symmes factions on that street name is to be continued I hope the town will take Hermon Murphy's suggestion and call it Signa Sachem road. This is not only more ancient name, but her people were the original owners of that territory, their title to which was probably better than that of the succeeding holders.

The Water and Sewer Board should prohibit the use of water for irrigating purposes unless a meter is installed. When I was on a committee of investigation several years ago with the late Henry F. Johnson we found more than one case where more than a hundred dollars worth of water was used in a season through the hose for which but three dollars was paid. We have always acted jealously on our hose charge. There is nothing in our water act which authorizes the use of water for irrigating purposes, anyway.

The Railroad Committee reported on Grade Crossing at unanimously Monday and would have before them, but for inability to hold executive sessions. Two of our citizens, ex representatives, have appeared since the hearing, but evidently made no impression. The Selectmen and town council should hurry up this question as we should have our town meeting within a month from now, and make it last longer than one session.

The legislature has not enacted any laws yet that are very bad and has decreed less desirable legislation than any previous one, but the session is young yet on the more important matters and there are plenty of them. The Governor is urging his special messages very shrewdly to keep questions before the public, and undoubtedly has the people with him, and this is the only way to get the press to print what the leg interests are opposed to and he knows it. There are many things that even local papers are afraid to print.

THINGS NEEDED.

The following materials are needed for the Playgrounds and Vacation School: worsted yarn, pieces of cotton and woolen cloth, bits of silk, ribbon, velvet, lace and dress braid, denim for bean-bags, silkateen, odd bits of embroidery silk, knitting cotton, railroad canvas, scrim, raffia, scissors, empty spools, pencils, crayons, tips of old kid gloves for pen-wipers and purses, cambric and linen for soap books, odd pieces of wall paper, dolls, gnomes, odd tennis rackets and balls, and hard pulls for the sand-boxes. Colored beads are very much used by the younger children and pins and needles are most necessary. Little trinkets of no use to the owner are especially valuable as prizes for good behavior and steady work.

Children's magazines, juvenile books are much desired.

The gift of such articles will be much appreciated by the Philanthropy Committee. They can be sent to Mrs. W. E. Comings, 6 Elmwood avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Clark of 3 Hill-side avenue are leaving town Sunday for their summer home at North Scituate. They will return to Winchester the first of October.

REGULAR MEETING

First Monday Evening of Each Month, 7 to 9.

(If a holiday the following evening.)

"Thousands are backing at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is backing at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are backing at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, MAY 19, 1911

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

PEACE RESOLUTIONS AD-VOCATED BY UNITARIANS.Unitarian Church Endorses Universal Arbitration.

At the Unitarian Church last Sunday the minister, Joel H. Metcalf, preached on "America and the War Spirit," with a text from Isaiah 2:4: "Neither shall they learn war anymore."

The speaker of the increasing burdens of war preparation, even in peaceable America, where 65 per cent of a coast two-thirds of her magnificent income is spent either for her war ships or in preparation for future conflicts. In 1910 the total expenditure for arms and munitions was $1,250,000,000. Of this $1,250,000,000 were for the military establishment $1,000,000,000 for the navy, $150,000,000 for the army, $25,000,000 for the public debt which was the result of the Civil War, $25,000,000 for military public works and miscellaneous expenses, bringing the whole sum up to nearly $1,250,000,000.

What is $1,250,000,000 to the government and to the people? It is a small sum, for the government has nearly twice as much, for war.

All the nations of the past which have gone to destruction were the victims of war. Nineveh and Tyre, Carthage and Rome, Babylon and Greece, all perished because they followed the cynical advice of Kipling and sent forth the best they had to be sacrificed upon the field of battle. What is the destruction of the West?

Mr. Metcalf then spoke of the title of sentiment that is now flowing toward Universal Peace.

He spoke of the wonderful response throughout England after President Taft's courageous words before the National Arbitration and Peace League, and Sir Edward Grey's great speech where he declared England was ready to enter into an unlimited Arbitration Treaty with the United States. He saw there a great opportunity to drive a nail in the coffin of War and make war forever impossible with England.

At the close of the service an informal meeting was held when the congregation unanimously adopted the following resolution:

Whereas: The President of the United States on March 22nd, before the National Arbitration and Peace League, declared that in his opinion all international controversies of whatever kind should be submitted to a duly organized court of Arbitration.

And Whereas: Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, has given this statement his deliberate and emphatic endorsement, declaring that such an unlimited Arbitration Treaty would settle the question of his Government and the British Parliament.

Resolved: That we convey to President Taft and the Senators of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts our hearty approval of such a movement and express the earnest hope that a treaty shall be entered into and duly receive the confirmation of the Senate of the United States which will make war between the English-speaking people forever impossible.

CLARK HOUSE BURNED.

At two o'clock yesterday morning the fire department was called to the house on Sheffield road owned by Charles Wyman, more generally known as the Clark house, for a serious blaze. The house was in the center of the block following a number of telephone calls from residents.

The house is being remodelled by Mr. Wyman, and the fire presumably caught from a pile of rubbish at the rear. The first information of the blaze was given from the residence of Mr. F. D. Cleveland, it being said that a fire was burning at the rear of the house and asking that a chemical be sent there. Other telephone calls followed immediately.

The firemen found the back of the house burning from the cellar to the eaves, and the residence was badly damaged before it was extinguished. After working about three hours the fire was under control. The entire residence was not destroyed due to the prompt and efficient work done by the department. The damage is said to have been between two and three thousand dollars.

BAD ACCIDENT.

Last night at 11:30 an automobile was wrecked on Main street at Carter's fall, and one man was killed outright and six injured, two having fractured skulls. The name of the dead man is Andrew E. Warren. The injured are Bartholomew T. Clancy of Woburn, Walter J. Shea, 364 Winsor street, Cambridge; James Buchanan, 484 Revere street, Revere; Martin Simpson of Wintthrop, Patrick McGarry of Boston, Bert Lincoln of Cambridge. The automobile was a large touring car, and was owned by Taylor & Palmer of 121 Huntington avenue, Boston.

The injured men were taken to the Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn. From investigation it is believed the shoe on the rear right wheel slipped, causing the fire to burst and the collapsing of the entire wheel. When the heavy car dropped to the street the entire machine tilted completely around and turned over.

A LIVE TOPIC.

Dean Hodges of the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge will speak Thursday, May 25, at 3:15 P. M., in the Congregational Church on "The Christian Social Pansy." The Dean's long standing close relationship to the practical work of charities and connections and his vigorous study of the whole matter of social betterment insure a quickening presentation on this day of the Christian to his community. While this meeting is under the auspices of the Woman's Bazaar Class of the First Congregational Church, it has been held with such a subject and such a speaker the meeting should be thrown open to the general public, men and women alike.

MAINE FISHING TRIPS.

Plea of a Stay-at-Home.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

All Winchester admits the enterprise of our local fishermen who so well advertise their going and coming as well as the big catches they always make, even before they start for Maine or elsewhere on their fishing trips. The stay-at-home fishermen who have to get their fishing at home, or not have any, would like it very much if our more enterprising and fortunate brother anglers would help us have a little fishing in Winchester such as we always have had up to within a few years. We could fish on holidays or on Saturday afternoons during the summer. It would be a great pleasure to many people who cannot afford such a way, especially those who make out-of-town water as we read about them in the STAR. If we cannot catch any fish in Winchester, it would make the STAR stories more interesting reading to even allow a home fisherman a chance to wet his line in the water. It is no great fun for a hungry man to see his well-kept neighbor eat. It only makes him more hungry, therefore, Mr. Editor, we wish our better wits would let-up on their STAR fish stories or help us a bit to get a little regulated fishing in Winchester for ourselves and families. It is almost cruel to tantalize us with such realistic fishing yarns as we have to listen to about town and yet not have the least chance to match them. We can stand the yarns well enough, if we could only get a little fishing ourselves, and it would only be a fair, gentlemanly thing for those who have all Maine to fish in and much more fishing lore than they can possibly keep to themselves, to help stay-at-homes have a little angling at home. Be generous Brother Anglers, and help us out. At least do not be too ostentatious in telling us of your great wealth of fishing enjoyment when we have not a chance to even catch a tail-pole at home.

FIRE IN MR.

CUTTING'S STABLE.

The firemen made a quick stop at a fire in the stable of Mr. Frank A. Cutting, 1143 Knoll, Tuesday afternoon, despite a handicap, that should be removed. The apparatus made record time in leaving the Central fire station and the hose wagon and ladder truck were quick to reach the fire, but the heavy steamer was too much for the two horses and consequently they were jugged out before reaching the scene, the first they could do being but little faster than a walk. The water pressure was not sufficient to reach the top of the building where the fire was, so the firemen had to wait until the arrival of the steamer when plenty of water became available. Quick and effective work was then made with the fire and it was soon under control. The south portion of the roof of the handsome stable was badly burned, but aside from this the damage was not heavy. An automobile, carriages, harnesses, etc., on the first floor were removed to a place of safety. The fire appeared to have originated in a manure chute, and as near as can be ascertained was caused by spontaneous combustion. The damage caused a loss of $500 or more.

The fire engineers should, as soon as possible, have a three-horse hitch for the steamer as it is altogether too heavy a load for two. The most effective use of this piece of apparatus is on the high-lan is where the water pressure is low, and the horses are unable to make any kind of true fit going uphill. On the low land the water pressure is at about all crises sufficient.

BASE BALL CHALLENGE.

W. H. S. team of 1895 challenges present High School team for game on May 30th.

Sixteen years ago our High school had a base ball team which finished its schedule with a record of ten games won and five lost, playing such schools as Malden, Medford, Melrose, Arlington, Wakefield and Woburn.

As is the case with most all such teams they were unable to play the same line up in each contest, and therefore the accompanying picture does not show every man who played on the school team that spring. It is, however, exceptional that a school team should after so many years be able to get together eight of its players represented in the picture, and in the place of the ninth man—Arthur Payne who is now in Texas—to be able to call upon Father Lyons of Lynn, who played more games with the team than did some of those found in the above cut.

Upon hearing it was possible for the old team to get all its men together they met at luncheon in Boston early in April, elected "Jim" Nowell their old captain, to continue in that capacity, and further voted to challenge the present High school team for a game for the morning of May 30th. This challenge has been accepted and the game is on.

Already four of the evening sessions of practice have been held by the old team and we venture to remark that unless the youngsters make a stand and pull themselves together they will think they are up against a team of Mike Kellias, Pop Ansons and Cy Young's all come back into their own.

Sixteen years is not a long period, but we cannot help but be impressed with the different conditions under which these two teams played. In 1895 there was no public play ground and that spring opened with so much building in progress on the old base ball field that new grounds had to be selected. A rough field full of ruts and hollows on Cabot street was the only place available, and much work was needed to make it at all suitable for base ball. To put these grounds in condition would cost a goodly sum unless the boys did the work themselves. It was badly decided to call upon James J. Fitzgerald for aid, he being young and not just the age where base ball loses its charm. Whether or not it was an uniform love for the game that prompted him to help, or possibly the pleasure it gave him to see the boys work, suffice it to say, he consented to let them have a horse and cart, plenty of picks and shovels, and a roller, agreeing to make the change as reasonable as he consistently could. Three or four afternoons of hard work on the part of the team resulted in enough ground being leveled off to make a fair diamond. The horse, cart, roller and tools were returned, but the management never learned the amount of James Fitzgerald's consistent charge.

Our recollection of Cabot field leads us to conclude that the play ground diamond is too smooth for them to play their best game, should they be chance be on the losing side. More of the spirit that has led up to this game is what is needed in our school and among the Alumni. If the latter would take more interest in our boys we believe there is enough material to develop teams which few of our neighboring schools could beat.

MRS. CHARLES F. FRENCH.

Mrs. Anna M. (Gandwin), wife of Mr. Charles F. French, of Allen street died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Horace H. Hazeltine of Arlington. She was 77 years of age.

Mrs. French was stricken with paralysis on Sunday during a visit to her daughter. She leaves a husband, two daughters—Mrs. Hazeltine and Mrs. Frank Hodges of N. Y.—four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral services will be held from the residence, No. 11 Allen street on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

PARISH HOUSE WARMING.

The house warming of the new parish house of the Church of the Epiphany was held last Wednesday evening, attended by about 250 members of the parish. Mr. M. B. May, in the absence of Mr. A. S. Higgins, chairman of the building committee, gave the report of that committee, it being followed by an address by the Rector, Rev. John W. Smith. Following this, the gathering adjourned to the new addition, where a social hour was spent in its inspection and partaking refreshments. The parish house will be used mostly by the Sunday school, the lower floor having the choir and guild rooms, with a hall for social gatherings above.

TOWN HAS PERMISSION.

This bill passed the House Wednesday without any opposition and will pass in the Senate by the first of next week and will become law by the last of the week, probably.

It is enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Section 1. It appears to the special commission appointed for the abolition of the grade crossing of the railroad and the public ways at the center of the town of Winchester that the method most advantageous to said town is more expensive than another method which would satisfy the other parties having to bear the expense of the abolition, then said town of Winchester, in order to obtain such more advantageous method, may contract with such other parties, including the Commonwealth, to pay a portion of such expense greater than that devolved upon it by the statutes, the percentages of the remaining expense to be borne by the various parties in the same proportions as is provided in the statutes as to the whole expense. In such contract the Commonwealth shall be represented by the attorney-general, the town by its selectmen acting in accordance with a vote previously passed by a two-thirds vote of the registered voters of the town present and voting at a meeting duly called for the purpose, and the railroad and railway companies by their boards of directors; and any contract obligation or indebtedness so established or agreed to in writing shall be valid and binding.

Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

PAYMENT REFUSED.

In a report of the meeting of the Woburn Board of Health held Tuesday evening, the Woburn News in its account of the proceedings had the following:

The clerk read correspondence relating to a case where a Woburn man with a settlement in Winchester had applied at the Choate Hospital for treatment and was unable to pay.

The man was treated last November and the bill sent to the Woburn Overseers of the Poor amounting to $84. The Woburn officials approved the bill and the treasurer paid it. The Overseers of the Poor then sent the bill to the Winchester Board of Health who said that they would consider it.

Several months had passed when the Winchester Board announced that the bill should have come from the Woburn Health Board within 30 days from the time the bill was incurred and since that board had not done this they were not liable and could not see their way clear to pay the amount. The Woburn Health Board then sent them a bill but it having passed the 30 days time limit they now refuse to pay the bill stating that they have no authority to settle it.

The House Warming last Wednesday evening was a great success, a time of real rejoicing. The people all seemed happy in the possession of their new parish home.

RECITAL AT ASSEMBLY HALL.

A piano recital by the pupils of Miss Hattie E. Snow was held in the assembly hall at the High School last Friday evening. The young folks were assisted by Miss Jean MacLellan and Mr. Albert Pickering. A large audience enjoyed the program of twenty-seven numbers and the artists received many encores.

Among the group of songs given by Miss MacLellan were: "Sing on, Dearest," "Loch Lomond," "The Sands of Dee," "Fred Clay," "Living Poets," "Martinez." Mr. Pickering's clarinet songs were also greatly enjoyed.

CASSIDY CASE SETTLED.

Town Wins Reduction in Award From $3000 to $3000.

The long drawn out Cassidy case was settled this week and the plaintiff given $3000 in full settlement. This case has been before the courts for many years, and was tried three times and each time an appeal was entered because of excessive damages. The town becoming more and more indebted to Mr. Cassidy. The first award was for $2250, the second $4000 and the third $3000. Finally the judge before whom the case was tried, although believing that the award in each instance was excessive, advised that the counsel for the town and Mr. Cassidy get together and settle the case, as he did not believe the town would fare any better before a new jury than it did with the preceding ones. This was done and Town Counsel Joslin has made a settlement favorable to the town in reducing the amount from $5000 to $3000.

A serious blunder was made when the claim for damages was first put up by the town that a settlement was not made then and there. It could have been done then for a few hundred dollars. But it appeared to be an instance where rednecks by juries in cases against towns and cities was not taken into consideration.

A number of years ago when the sewer was being built on Highland avenue it was found necessary to blast through a ledge near Wilson street. As far as the top of the trench was concerned it was severely covered so there was no danger from flying stones. Because of some reason the blast instead of going up shot out at the end of the trench and Mr. Cassidy, a town employee, who was some distance away was hit with a flying stone and injured.

BASE BALL.

The High school base ball team won its second game of the season on Wednesday afternoon by defeating Stoneham High school 17-2. The game was poorly played and slow.

In the first inning, Stoneham by the usual combination of hits and errors scored two and their only runs.

Winchester did not score until the fifth inning when, by two bases on balls, three hits, and several errors, they scored five runs. In the seventh inning, after Lannon had passed the first two men, Stoneham changed pitchers and Sweet, the new one, allowed seven hits. By these hits, together with Stoneham's many errors, Winchester scored ten runs. Again in the eighth inning Winchester scored two more by Stoneham's loose playing.

The feature of the game was the catch by Rogers who while running sideways, stabbed a fly high over his head.

WOBURN PEOPLE IN ACCIDENT.

Yesterday forenoon a two-seated carriage driven by James Brooks of Woburn and containing Mrs. Francis Harlow and Miss Merrill of that city met with a serious accident on Main street near the old Cutter place. The horse in some way became partially freed from the carriage, the shafts striking and frightening him. Before he could be brought under control the carriage struck a telegraph pole, throwing the two ladies out. The driver was rendered unconscious by his head striking against the canopy of the carriage.

Fortunately none of the party were seriously injured. The ladies were badly bruised and shaken up, but no bones were broken. Mr. Brooks received a cut on the head and was stunned, from which he recovered before being removed to a nearby residence. The carriage was badly damaged and the harness broken. The team was owned by Mrs. Harlow, Brooks being in her employ. Had the horse not run into the telegraph pole the carriage would have undoubtedly gone over the stone wall at that place, and the results would probably have been much more serious. After resting for a time the party returned to Woburn by electric.

MEN'S DINNER.

The men of the First Congregational Church had a most delightful time at a dinner given in the church vestry Tuesday evening. The men showed their appreciation of the event by almost completely filling the large vestry. Tables seating about eight persons each were arranged about the room and these were prettily graced with vases of cut flowers. Previous to serving the supper, there was an informal reception from 6:30 to 7 o'clock.

After the splendid dinner had been served, which took about an hour, Mr. Preston Pond, the toastmaster, in well chosen words, introduced as the first speaker the Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the church, who gave a very interesting talk on "The Municipal Resources of Democracy," dealing with the Des Moines commission form of government, the bringing about of which he was in great measure responsible. His talk was educational and instructive.

The next speaker was Dr. Cyrus Richardson who is beloved by the entire church membership. He came from his camp in New Hampshire expressly to attend the dinner, and his cordial reception must have been exceedingly pleasing to him. His talk, full of good suggestions and advice, was closely listened to.

During the dinner hour there was singing by the Adeline Quartette, and between the talks Dr. Hinds sang several selections that called for a number of encores. His singing was one of the features of the evening.

Mr. Henry C. Robinson, chairman of the committee, to whose efforts this most enjoyable evening was due, was most assiduous in his attention to all, and his cordial greeting made every one feel at ease. A committee, headed by Mr. Arthur W. Hale, was appointed to arrange for the next dinner to be held at some future date.

The committee having the dinner in charge was composed of H. C. Robinson, Marshall W. Jones, David J. Winton, W. A. Kneeland, J. H. Blaisdell, Robert W. Fernald and Preston Pond.

F. CHANDLER PARKER.

F. Chandler Parker, who entered the leather industry 61 years ago, and who has since remained an active factor in the local trade, died Wednesday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. H. Symmes, of this town, aged 82. Mr. Parker was born in Woburn Jan. 17, 1829, the second of seven children born to Frederick and Nancy (Thompson) Parker. He was a direct descendant in the seventh generation of Deacon Thomas Parker, who sailed from London in the ship Susan and Ellen March 11, 1635.

F. Chandler Parker was apprenticed at the age of 21 to John Cummings, the leather manufacturer of Cummingsville. Later he embarked in the business on his own account, being partner in several concerns.

In 1855 Mr. Parker married Miss Martha A. Hanson of Peabody, then South Danvers. She died in 1893. Mr. Parker is survived by his son, Wm. C., and two daughters, Mrs. J. H. Richardson of Erie, Penn., and Mrs. C. H. Symmes of Winchester. He had always made his home in Woburn, coming here to live with his daughter a short time ago.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator sees by one of the journals devoted to the interests of the newspaper fraternity that newspaper proprietors are considering the policy of reducing editorial salaries to the maximum of $500.00 per annum. To reduce editorial salaries to a maximum of $500.00 per annum may run some editors, but it won't touch The STAR. The editor of the STAR doesn't mind anything but he gets only $25.00 a year now!

The Spectator is in receipt of the following communication from one who signs himself "Wild and Woolly West."

Dear Spectator:—I would like to inquire concerning the rule for spelling the possessive of proper names ending in S. Out west we were taught that any proper name ending in S has as its possessive simply an apostrophe, but I find that nearly everywhere in Winchester it is spelled with an S. For example, the name Evans, Jones, Davis and other similar names seem to be uniformly spelled in this way for the possessive. I have been greatly puzzled because my tongue is a little too thick to pronounce such possessives as Moses's, Bridges's, Hodges's, etc. If the "i" is right on the name Evans then it must be right on the name Moses. What puzzles me more is the fact that the newspapers hereabout seem to follow two different rules in cases similar to the above mentioned; that is, some possessives of names ending in S are spelled with an S and some simply with the apostrophe. Kindly give me the rule of grammar which is followed in Winchester in the above cases.

Wild and Woolly Westener.

The Spectator goes to reply that it is a rule of grammar that the apostrophe and the letter "s" be added to the nominative form of singular nouns and to express the possessive case, though some writers have preferred to simplify the nouns by the addition of an apostrophe only in names ending in "s". The weight of authority is in favor of the former plan, though the latter could hardly be considered incorrect. When a plural noun ends in "s", the apostrophe and additional "s" may be added or not, either way is correct.

A large tramp cat one night recently in some mystic mansion made its way into the home of a certain lady who has six "antiquarian" felines in her house. The tramp cat in question has been known to whip dogs and it is said has killed other cats. Within a few seconds after the tramp cat had slipped into the lady's house there was an awful fuss. The tramp cat is said to have a special dislike for good-looking cats, cream cats and shaggy cats, and he proceeded to do his best to kick the entire six felines. The occupants of the house were awakened and lost no time in driving the tramp cat from the premises, but it was very plain that the animal was only getting warmed up when his onslaught was so vividly interrupted. The six badly-missed "society" cats looked and spat at each other until morning.

The Spectator agrees with his friend the philosopher that the man who is gaining ground should never be dissatisfied with his lot.

The fact that revenge is sweet causes some people here and elsewhere to bite off more than they can chew.

A physician this week explained to The Spectator that Metchnikoff's theory for the prolongation of life. It supplements the Bulgarian sour milk whose health he claims to kill the old-age-bringing poisons in the alimentary canal, with dates as food for the sour milk bacteria themselves. Prof. Metchnikoff's theory, as stated by the physician, is as follows and may be of some interest to readers of The STAR: The Bulgarian bacteria does its sanitary work by killing various poisonous substances that develop in the alimentary canal. The bacteria, however, must live, it flourishes best on sugar, but sugar is usually absorbed in the upper part of the canal, which gives the poisonous mucus, phlegm, etc., a chance to multiply in the lower part. Fortunately the experiments of Allen Burdick have shown that the sugar in dates reaches the lower intestinal tract and thus enables the Bulgarian bacteria to do its work thoroughly.

A "trial" weekly reaching The Spectator's desk gives the following account of a dance: "A second dance was given Monday night in the store room recently vacated by the Gould restaurant. It is reported there was not a woman or girl in the room during the entire evening, and of course the dances were dull and uninteresting. To be sure a dance without a girl is worse than breakfast without a cook. Men can't dance. There is nothing about a man's dancing to win particular interest. It is either aerobically or plumb labor, of course some men dancers are graceful, but who cares anything about a graceful man? The term 'polka as a dancing master' is almost synonymous. But it is very, very different with women dancers. Grace in pose and beauty of form are the woman who is to win—the very savor of life. No wonder the Greeks, who worship beauty's men now worship money. Frank dancing to its highest development. They loved art and they loved nature, and they saw that in combining art and nature with beautiful womanhood they came near to visualizing the sublimation of both. The Spectator has small patience with that order of man who sees grossness in the rhythmic movements of a dance done by a good girl either on or off the stage. To confuse sensuousness with sensuality is to see potter's lot in the most delicate ceramic.

A lady says that the woman who tosses her husband to mail her letters never knows when to expect answers to them.

The Spectator tries to be as kind as he is long-suffering, but it does rile him for the waste of his husband to wear his socks when The Spectator needs them himself.

NOT SCHOOL CENSUS.

A list of children in the town, fourteen years of age and under is again being taken this year. This list is made for outside parties and is in no way connected with the regular school census taken each year by custodian of the schools, Nathaniel Nichols. Last year considerable trouble was experienced by Mr. Nichols in taking his census owing to parents having imagined that the information previously given the canvasser applied to the schools.

A committee was appointed to look into the cost of a set of chairs for the Sunday school with Miss Ella Emerson, chairman, also a committee to draw up a constitution with Miss Alice Mason chairman.

Twenty dollars was appropriated to aid in the Pansage Fund and delegates were appointed to the annual meeting of the National Young People's Religious Union.

The fire department was called out twice on Sunday, first by a telephone alarm, for which box 7 was rung from the centre house, for a brush fire on Sheldahl West, and later in the evening for a false alarm from box 43.

MOTHERS' DAY SERMON AT THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Blackett preached at the Methodist Episcopal Church last Sunday evening on "To All Good Mothers." The sermon was listened to with great interest by a large audience that thoroughly enjoyed it. The text was Second Timothy 1:5. "When I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice; and I am persuaded that in thee also."

Timothy was one of Paul's choicest helpers and friends. He once declared he had none other "like minded." He was the constant subject of the apostle's prayers "without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day." He possessed an "unfeigned faith," and rightly so, for it was the faith of his mother and grandmother. The Bible clearly recognizes the influence at the home in making the man and the Christian, and especially the influence of the mother.

"The mother in her office holds the key of the soul, and it is she who stamps the coin of character, and makes the being who would be a savage, but for her gentle care, a Christian man." The speaker recalled many tributes of great men to their mothers among them Richard Cecil who said, "I tried when a boy to be an infidel but there was one thing I could never get over, I never could answer my mother's love and character. I stand today a living witness of my mother's love and faithfulness."

Henry Grady of Atlanta who when he felt that he was losing some of his earlier ideals went home to his mother and asked her to treat him as she did when he was a boy. "She gave him the dishes he liked and at eventide sang a familiar lullaby. Before retiring the big man put his head on his mother's lap and said the simple prayer, 'Now I lay me down to sleep. When I lie down I would bend over him and kiss him good night. After that experience of a few days back with mother Mr. Grady returned to his work with a shining face for he had a new vision."

Dr. Theodore Cuyler gave this testimony for forty-four years. "I have been preaching the good tidings of the Word, and would not change places with a king but I think if I ever would have been drawn to the service of Jesus Christ but for the faithfulness of that home preacher who rocked my cradle. At the starting point of nearly every minister's life stands a Christian mother."

Grover Cleveland on the eve of his election to the governorship of the State of New York wrote to his brother. "I have just voted, and I sit here in the office alone. If mother were alive I should be writing to her, and I feel as if it were time for me to write to some one who will believe what I write. Do you know that if mother were alive I should feel so much safer. I always thought her prayers had much to do with my success."

Greater than the brilliant qualities that shine in the mothers of great men are the constant qualities that adorn the lives of all good mothers. The self-sacrifice, trust, devotion, unceasing care, overflowing love of good motherhood is the fountain of the world's best life. It was by mother's knee we learned to pray. It was she who taught us the penitentials of Christian faith, love of liberty, hatred of oppression, and fear of God. There is nothing affects a child more than atmosphere. If anger, suspicion, uncharity and lack of love surround a child what wonder if it becomes hateful. But if love's gentleness, and especially if the spirit of a truly Christian life surrounds it there is no wonder if it becomes gentle, obedient and thoughtful.

Someone asked a successful mother the secret of her method and she said, "This is my secret, when in the morning I wash my children I prayed that they might be washed in the fountain of a Saviour's mercy. When I put on their garments I prayed that they might be clothed in the garments of a Saviour's righteousness. When I gave them food I prayed that they might be fed with manna from heaven. When I started them on the road to school I prayed that their faith might be as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. When I put them to sleep I prayed that they might be enfolded in the Saviour's arms." What soul could resist an atmosphere like that.

The speaker closed with a tribute to his own faithful mother.

There were few dry eyes in the audience at the close. Many men thought very tenderly of the mother in whose memory they had worn the white flower and some carefully preserved the poem on the evening calendar.

A Tribute to Mother.
A little boy, with a sunny face,
Plucked a sweet wild rose flower
To wear in the church on "Mother's Day."

When he wandered in scarce an hour;
A mother's smiling eye looked down,
To the "dearest one," with the heaven above.

A young man stopped on the city street,
And bought a blossom fair.
He wore the bouquet, his mother's flower.

With a thoughtful, chivalric air,
A knightly tribute for days of care,
The sleepless nights, unceasing prayer,
A grey-haired man culled a lily white

From an old-fashioned garden-plot—
He thought of the hands that planted it
And the tender, smiling face;
For the angel mother across the Way,
He carried, in memory, her flower that day.

Do the right thing if you have Nasal Catarrh. Get Ely's Cream Balm at once. Don't touch throat lozenges and snuffs, for they contain poisons. Ely's Cream Balm releases the secretions that inflame the nasal passages and the throat, whereas medicines made with mercury merely dry up the secretions and leave you no better than you were. In a word, Ely's Cream Balm is a real remedy, not a delusion. All druggists, 50 cents, or mailed by Ely Brothers, 50 Warren Street, New York.

BROKE RIGHT WRIST.

Mrs. R. B. Galusha of Hildrest, sustained a painful accident at the Park Street subway station, Boston, Monday evening. She was crossing from the platform of a Back Bay car to take a car for the North Station, when, on the rush of the crowd, a young man ran against her and she fell heavily to the platform. It was found that her right wrist had been fractured. She also sustained severe bruises on her left arm. Mrs. Galusha was able to accompany her husband to their home.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The thirty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the local union was held in the vestry of the First Congregational Church last Friday.

The members of the missionary societies of the various churches had been invited to be present to hear Mrs. Katharine Lente Stevenson, president of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union speak of her trip around the world as representative of the World's W. C. T. U., visiting nearly all the great mission stations in the interests of temperance. After brief devotional exercises led by Mrs. M. D. Kneeland, Mrs. Stevenson spoke of the solidarity of interests of all the missionary efforts and how deeply she became impressed with the fact that there is not only a common menace and a common need but the same kind of material with which to work for the uplift of the world.

The endeavor to bring about the knowledge of God on earth finds everywhere great barriers laid by those who should be helping. She instanced the remark of a missionary in Japan that a certain party of tourists had done much to undo the good work of ten years. The evils of intemperance in China as in many other countries are directly traceable to the people of so-called Christian nations. Almost every mission held is begging for white ribbon missionaries to do the work that is becoming increasingly imperative. Not only the so-called heathen people but those from Christian lands need the gospel of temperance.

The latter need especially to be taught the fallacy of the need of alcohol in the tropics, a fallacy so deep rooted that more than one Mohammedan has declared Christian as "one who drinks."

The speaker called attention to the exhibit in the World in Boston at the grave covering at the Altman—the bottles he had emptied of their spirituous contents.

In closing she urged a still closer relation between the members of missionary societies and the workers of the white ribbon, hoping that the time may come when they shall all be members together, and the use of alcohol shall be no longer considered fitting for mission workers.

At the close of the address, refreshments were served and an informal reception was held.

The Union appropriated a good sum toward the State work and appointed the following delegates to the County Convention at Holliston, next week, Tuesday, May 23: Mrs. J. C. Adams, Mrs. Henry Smalley, Mrs. Mary Winn, Mrs. Daniel Kelley, Mrs. J. M. L. Emmann, Mrs. W. A. Nicholson, Mrs. C. F. Gage, Mrs. Joseph Parker, Mrs. E. N. Loring and Miss Eugenia Elliott. Further particulars about the convention may be had from Mrs. Hamilton, the president.

Contributions of flowers for the Flower Mission will be gladly received by the superintendent, Mrs. J. C. Adams, Friday of each week.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Ely's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Ely's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and is made in Toledo, O., by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists, price 75c per bottle. WINCHESTER WON.

The Winchester's won their first game of the season last Saturday against the last Roman A. A. It was Roman's first defeat this season which they did not relish. To show how bad they wanted to win, they presented two professional, in their lineup under assumed names. Our boys outbatted them almost 3 to 1 and led all the way in what proved to be a fine contest. The features of the game was the battery work of Somerville and Liberty, the batting of Buxton, a timely hit of Murray which scored 2 runs, a home run by Kennedy and a sacrifice hit by Simpson which landed in the Aberjona, that looked good for a home run, but the left fielder jumped in the water after the ball and by a nice relay throw just nipped (bat) at the plate. The visitors excelled in holding and snappy throwing.

The attendance was small and not what it should have been for so important a game.

BASEBALL.

In a very close and exciting game, the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club was defeated in seven innings, by the Belmont A. A. at Everett last Sunday afternoon. The two pitchers were the stars of the game, Holbrook for Everett striking out nineteen, while Murphy for Winchester hit, struck out seventeen. Their batting also was good, each making two home runs. McEwen made several star catches of high balls, and caught well behind the bat. In the second with the bases full and one out, Murphy lightened and struck out the next two.

Up to the ninth inning Winchester hit, was leading, but the combination of a hit, two stolen bases and an error tied the score.

In the tenth Murphy doubled, with one out, and stole to third, but the next two men were safe outs and he was left Everett started twice and won the game, in the eleventh inning, although Winchester scored what seemed to be the winning run.

A. C. A. MEET.

Most Promising in History of Association.

The annual camp of the Eastern Division of the American Canoe Association will be held on Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, Mass., May 27th, 28th, 29th, and 30th. The Association has secured the use of Blake Island and Wapiti Island which are handy to the Tatassit Canoe Club and it is the desire to make this a camp where the canoe will be more in evidence than it has been in most of the camps.

Located near the famous Talassit Canoe Club of Worcester and other clubs on the lake it is the ambition to make this a record camp for attendance and good fellowship.

Worcester is central and easy to get to by steam and electric cars and ought to be the largest camp the Association rowing crews from the Worcester High School and the Kalamet Club of Worcester.

Tuesday will be the regular race day for the Eastern Division canoe championships and the list is as follows:

War Canoe, Club Four Single Blade, Single Single Blade, Club Four Double Blade, Single Double Blade, Tandem Double Blade, Tandem Single Blade.

Order of events subject to change. The War Canoe Race will sail to be the best ever pulled off in New England as there will be at least five crews in this race, all of which are anxious to win this year.

It is also intended to run an open sailing canoe race Sunday if enough canoes are entered to make an interesting race.

There will be a ball game Sunday, the Medford Boat Club against the World. The days ought to take care of themselves with the program outlined by the Regatta Committee, but the nights being dark must be made jolly in some way has had for a number of years. There will be something doing all the time, and in variety enough to suit all tastes. The camp being located on islands will make it more necessary than usual to use canoes in order to go and come at will, and it is the wish of the Vice Commodore John H. Howard of the Medford Boat Club, that the members will use their canoes as much as possible.

The regular steamers on the lake will stop at the islands, and there will be a launch connected with the camp. Canoes may be hired at the lake, but it is expected that members will send up their own canoes and outfit and make this a real canoe camp in practice as well as in name.

Wapiti Island is owned by the Elks and has been loaned to the Association without any restrictions and therefore will be used as the site of the "Moline Tent" and "Moline Crews." Blake Island is owned by a Worcester family and this island will be the home of those who are seeking rest and recreation.

The Regatta Committee has arranged a fine set of races for the meet. Monday will be a day for the "H. H. Hens" and the "Comers" and will consist of all kinds in novelty canoe races. There will also be races between eight oared boats the following has been mapped out: Saturday night will be the regular "free for all" which needs no introduction. Sunday night will be a treat in an illustrated lecture by Wm. Lyman Entenwood of the Mass. Institute of Technology on "Hunting with Canoe and Camera in New Brunswick." This lecture has made Mr. Entenwood famous throughout New England and is well worth going miles to see. Monday night will be the annual camp fire and "experience meeting." Tuesday night will be the only one and night in the entire meet as then we will be saying "bon voyage" to all of the jolly good fellows who have been reminded at what looks like the best camp yet.

Remember the dates and plan your work accordingly. Come early and stay the night.

A number of Winchester Boat Club members will attend and take part in the sports, including Hermann D. Murphy, E. Russell Murphy, James Newman and John Stenard.

BASE BALL.

The same old story again last Friday when Winchester lost to Reading High School, in its third league game, 14-2. The game was slow and very one sided all the time.

Reading started out with two runs in the first inning from an error and three hits. Winchester held them for one inning and then in the third they hit the ball to all corners of the lot scoring six runs. Winchester making two errors. In the fourth inning, Reading scored one run, four in the eighth, and one in the ninth, most of which were gained by heavy hitting.

Gould was in the box until the fourth inning, when he was replaced by Mohls. Winchester was saved from a shut-out in the ninth inning. Rogers started off with a hit, Mohls got to first by attempted force at second and then Prime got a hit which went through the right fielder, thereby letting in two runs.

THE TOWN OF WINCHESTER

WATERFIELD 1639

WINCHESTER 1850

NOTICE

Depositing leaves and other refuse in the public streets and the burning of same there, is a violation of the town by-laws, constitutes a source of danger to passing horses, and fills the streets with litter which the town is obliged to cart away at great expense.

For these and other reasons, all persons are requested to stop this practice and thereby to assist the Street Department in keeping the streets clean and free from obstruction.

So great has the nuisance become that the officers of the street and police departments have been directed to enforce the by-laws on this subject.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

While digging holes for the piers for the new Winchester Laundry building on Converse place a rather singular condition was revealed. Below a certain depth the holes rapidly filled with water, and it was supposed at first that it seeped through the ground from the Mill pond close by, but on close inspection it was seen that the water flowed from west to south, or in the direction from Vine street toward the Town Hall building. The general surmise is that the water comes from Wedge pond following a strata of sand to the upper end of the Mill pond.

Kelley & Haes are going to move the dwelling house now situated south of their stable on Railroad avenue to the Converse lot just purchased by them further up the street. At a meeting of the directors of the Winchester Bad Club last week it was decided to install gas in the club house. Seventeen new members were elected to the club also. This organization is becoming more popular in town each year and the non-resident list is now filled. A unique feature of the club is its maintenance of a fleet of canoes for use of its members who do not own boats of their own, making membership especially attractive to high school boys and families with young people.

One day recently a boy attending the Chapin School was late in arriving, whereupon the teacher asked him why he was tardy. Angelo replied that his mother was sick. "Is she very sick?" inquired the teacher. Angelo replied that "he guessed she was." "Does she have a doctor?" "She did have one," he replied, "but she sent him away." "What did she do that for?" asked the inquiring teacher. "Because," said Angelo, "he walked to the house, and my mother wanted a doctor who would come in an automobile."

MAKING WINCHESTER FAMOUS

Handsome Concrete Building for Winchester Laundry.

Work has just begun on a most Winchester people have noticed, on a new and most concrete building for the Winchester Laundry Company. This structure, on which the carpenters are now performing the preliminary operations, will not only shelter the various mechanical appliances of a large and expanding business but will be part of a scheme of the artistic development of the river bank. Hundreds of Winchester families have watched the growth of the local laundry from small beginnings to a leading position among the laundries of New England and, indeed, of the whole country, and many expressions of wishes for its continued prosperity are now heard.

achievements is the power station and the power and circulatory system of the Harvard Medical School group on Longwood avenue.

The constructive work is in charge of the Concrete Engineering Company, one of the foremost construction companies of Boston. Among many buildings which stand as the credit of this company is the Mori in Park Square, designed and constructed by them. They have many other important buildings underway at the present time, it is understood. It is intended to have the new laundry completed and ready for occupancy by August 1st.

The plans for the laundry have been under consideration for some time and as part of their preparation Mr. Downer has made many journeys to other up-to-date plants to get points to utilize in the present and future installations. At the same time the management of the com-

TENTH JUNE BREAKFAST.

Will Be Held in Town Hall on Saturday, June 3rd.

The Visiting Nurse Association, having to omit the annual June Breakfast last year, again calls together the entire community to break bread in true democratic fashion.

Every effort is being made to make the occasion as perfect as a gathering of so great magnitude can be.

The Association depends upon the whole town for the success. The cordiality with which people give time, food or money, even when it can be but little, is most stimulating to the ladies who have the Breakfast in charge.

The Breakfast will be served in the Town Hall on Saturday morning, June 3rd, from 8 to 9. The tickets will be 25 cents each. Music will be furnished during the breakfast by an orchestra of six pieces.

MRS. HARRIET E. DYKES.

Mrs. Harriet Evelyn Dykes, widow of the late Alfred Dykes, passed away at her home, No. 7 Warren street, last Saturday. She was 76 years of age. For over a year she had been a sufferer from heart trouble and to this was due the end, which came peacefully during her sleep.

Mrs. Dykes was well known to Winchester residents, having made her home here for the past seventeen years. She was a member of the First Congregational Church and the Forty-fifth. Her parents were Ruben and Fear (Perry) Collins, well known residents of Cape Cod, Mrs. Dykes being a native of Bourne.

Mrs. Dykes leaves one son, Mr. William P. Dykes of Ridgewood, N. J., and one daughter, Mrs. Helen L. Knowles of New Bedford.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the residence, Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiating. The services were simple, including verses of scripture and prayer. On Wednesday the Episcopal funeral service was held at the grace at Wareham.

REV. JOEL METCALF

AWARDED DONAHUE MEDAL.

Rev. Joel Metcalf, pastor of the Unitarian Church, and well known as an astronomer of merit, has been awarded the Donahue Medal by the Astronomical Society of the Pacific for the discovery of the only new comet of last year.

The comet is known as Metcalf's comet, with the official designation of 1910. The comet was a known comet, visible to the naked eye. Mr. Metcalf discovered the comet at his camp at Grand Island, Vermont, on August 10th of last year.

GAME MAY 30TH.

Manager LeDun, of the Winchester base ball club tried to arrange a game with the Houghton & Thilton team for the afternoon of May 30th. As they will not be represented on the diamond this season, he has booked the last Notre Dame's to meet the local boys on that date. They are composed of the fastest players around Boston and will represent Leo, Callahan the crack south paw in the pitcher's box with White catching. They are one of the best teams that the Winchester's will clash with this season and a last game is booked for. Don't forget the date, May 30th 3.30 p.m.

REV. JOHN W. SUTER

TO BE HONORED.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the graduation of the Rev. John W. Suter at this town from the Episcopal Theological School will be observed on the occasion of the semi-annual meeting of the Archdeaconry of Lowell, which will be held in Winchester at the Church of the Epiphany on June 13.

The preacher will be the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, D.D., of Washington, D.C., who was a classmate of Mr. Suter's at the Cambridge school.

NEW PARISH HOUSE.

Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, rector of St. Mary's Church, announced last Sunday that plans for a new parish house have been drawn and approved, and that work on its erection would begin about the middle of June.

NEW BUILDING OF WINCHESTER LAUNDRY CO.

The new building itself, as illustrated in this number of the STAR, will conform to the most exacting requirements of laundry work. It will be equipped with the most modern appliances known to the business. Mechanical carriers will be used wherever possible as well as other varieties of labor saving devices. The gravity process will be utilized, all goods being taken to the top floor and dropped from floor to floor through the various stages of laundering.

One disagreeable operating feature of the old plant which has often caused considerable expense and inconvenience will be entirely removed by equipping the new building with a thoroughly up-to-date system of electric drives by means of which many of the machines will have individual motors while others will be handled in groups by larger motors. Perfect ventilation will be secured by large exhaust fans on each floor. The sanitary conveniences for the employees will be of latest device. In the forthcoming installation it will be noticed that there is no front entrance. This absence is not due to lack of consideration for an impressive approach but simply because this reconstruction is merely an initial section of the final building. Such is the present growth of the business that a later addition of other constructive units is easily foreseen, and the design has been drawn with reference to the ultimate appearance of the plant. The new structure will be ample for the present purposes, having on each floor three thousand feet of floor space, or, with a total of four floors and the basement, about 12,000 feet in all.

The final plan contemplates removing of building around the present wooden structure with a concrete building of larger proportions which will make an expansive and attractive front and other architectural details—a laundry plant, in short, which it is expected will be a credit to the centre of the town, whether viewed from an artistic or a utilitarian standpoint.

An important part of the scheme is to beautify the grounds around the laundry providing a slightly driveway and seats under the trees for the use of employees at their noon hour and recess periods. This provision will be in accordance with the Winchester Laundry Company's present policy, for great success has followed its plan of allowing the employees a recess period each morning and afternoon and it has been proved that with the recesses more and better work is turned out by the same number of employees than was formerly possible without the rest period. As for the contribution to river adornment those Winchester people who have been disturbed by the unsightliness of certain portions of the banks of the Merrimack will be glad to know that improvement is scheduled to take place along at least one important stretch.

The architects whom the Winchester Laundry Company has secured for the work are Densmore & LeClear of Boston, young men who have had a large experience in mill and laboratory construction. One of their well known pany has of late been gratified by many evidences that they have already themselves achieved something of a reputation. Visits are becoming very frequent from experts in their own line among whom the fame of this Winchester institution has spread. While not very many residents of this town and the neighboring towns have ever accepted the laundry's cordial invitation to inspect the processes—evidently through not realizing how many interesting features are involved—it is very gratifying to Mr. Downer and his associates to know that they have caught the attention of laundromen all over the country. Scarcely a day goes by without some laundry expert dropping in to secure information or watch the workings of the Winchester system. A visit is just now expected from a laundromen of St. Paul, Minnesota, who has already adopted several suggestions from this plant and who has written of his intention to come East especially to see the laundry.

The growth of the Winchester Laundry has been surprising to many people, but not to those who fully realize both the general expansion of the business and the marked energy and skill with which this particular laundry has kept abreast of the times. Not every citizen realizes that statistics prove the laundries to be today the third largest of employers of labor and the seventh largest in volume of business in the United States. Throughout the country the apartment house, system of living and women's revolt from the crude antisepticism of the home laundry work is tending to force a very rapid growth of this industry with the result that more and more capital is being safely and profitably invested in its development. The laundry business of greater Boston is already one of the most staple and most rapidly expanding of all the local businesses. The Winchester Laundry has had, and for a long time to come will have, the benefit of this general expansion. At the same time it has been able to utilize advantages of position that are all its own.

The present business as many Winchesterians recall, was started by Young & Wilcox in March, 1868. Previously there had been no laundry in the town. In August of that year Arthur T. Downer took the business in charge. The number of employees was then six. For a collecting and delivering department there was one horse and a little yellow demurrat with a basket behind.

From that beginning the Winchester Laundry has prospered until now the employees on the payroll number 110. Employment is thus given to representatives of many Winchester and Woburn families.

Twelve wagons and an equal number of puns and horses are employed. Nine wagons are constantly on the road, and their routing has become a complex matter.

At the outset the business was mostly in Winchester, with a small amount in Woburn. At the present time the laundry covers the following places: Winchester, Woburn, Stoneham, Reading,

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

When the question is now asked "What is the most beautiful town in the United States?" the answer is not easy. But a quarter century from now, when the same question is asked, The Spectator believes the answer will be different, for, with a set purpose and operating upon carefully thought out plans of ornamentation and adornment, fully 200 towns are now altering the town beauty prize. It will require a long period to even approximately realize most of these beautification schemes, as in not a few instances they involve propositions that will entail a considerable cost. It is however, a most interesting speculation as to which, 25 or 50 years from now, will be regarded as the most beautiful town in the world. Perhaps it will be Winchester, but then, again, perhaps it will not be. But let us hope it will be.

There are fish stories and there are hen stories. Here is a hen story which The Spectator finds in an exchange reaching his desk. He simply passes it along. He would not endanger his reputation for veracity by making any claim for truth about this. It is said of Oscar Henze, a farmer of Clinton, Penn., that he went into his barn a few weeks ago and filled his bed with straw, not knowing that in gathering up the straw he had also picked up a hen's egg. So it was with great astonishment that he awoke one night to hear a "cheep, cheep," coming seemingly from the tick. The clucking continued. Mr. Henze decided to open the tick. He did so and after a short search found a newly hatched chicken.

The following story is told of a nearly pastor and a little five year old, though it is related to The Spectator as a fact. It seems that the pastor of the church, who is a great favorite with the children, makes a point of visiting the kindergarten department each Sunday for the purpose of telling the little ones a fable story. On these occasions after the story had been related the pastor usually asks the little ones as to what they think of it. On this occasion no one replying to the pastor's inquiry, a little five year old was selected and asked what he thought of it. To the surprise and consternation of the pastor who had related the story of Moses in the bulrushes, came back the answer, "It's all a dam lie."

The Spectator wants to say a word against the fly and ask that every household in Winchester determine to make the crusade against the pest more pronounced, more effective and more bitter than ever before. The fly is a deadly foe to mankind, a public conveyor of disease germs of almost every kind, a visitor to places that abound in filth and unwholesomeness, and an unwelcome intruder in our homes. The subject is not a pleasant one to dwell upon but The Spectator feels it his duty not to pass it by at this time. The fly must be exterminated, and it is the intention of The Spectator to help in the process. The Spectator is going to append here an abstract from an article from the pen of a well-known club woman. Every household in Winchester would do well to give it a careful perusal:—

"Once read a lunch setting forth of the arrangement against the fly, and you and I will give all the help we can to rid ourselves of a common nuisance and a common enemy. And if that is not convincing, listen while one who knows the misery of the fly outlines for our benefit the horrible excursions made by this little pest and the deadly burdens he brings back—then we will be willing to take greater precautions than ever before.

"In the very offensiveness of the fly story rests its greatest strength, for never again shall we be able to feast at a banquet when there have been the first unbidden guests—we have heard too much."

"It is bad enough to know that typhoid fever has been carried by the fly, heavily and lately, but it is even more disgusting to learn that he is guilty of spreading tuberculosis, which medical science is endeavoring to combat everywhere.

"One feels helpless in the realization that a fly may come to our doors and windows, bearing germs of many of the ills to which flesh is heir, and that eternal vigilance is the only watchword to keep him out.

"Screens, absolute cleanliness, protected food, covered garbage—yon and I may be faithful to all, but screens and else may be unimpaired for indifference, and so the fly multiplies and contrives his depredations.

"And that is why housewives are asked to lend a hand, woman's clubs are urged to help others, and public-spirited women everywhere are enlisted in the crusade against an enemy that scatters germs right and left.

"It won't do to educate a few and leave the masses in ignorance of the fly as a disease-carrier, and so the ugly story must be carried to every part of every city and hamlet.

"When we think of what has been accomplished in the extermination of yellow fever and malaria in the South and read of what is being done in other corners of the world, remote and near, to transform pestilence-spots into healthy abiding-places we have confidence in the assertion that it will not be many years before the housefly will be no more.

"It has been arranged, soundly and sentenced.

An alarm of fire from box 27 Sunday afternoon called the department to the Boone house on Grove street, sheds at the rear of the estate being on fire from burning grass. The blaze was extinguished with a line of garden hose and the damage slight. On Monday box 55 was rung in for a fire in the residence of E. L. Ashton on Oxford street. Inmates of the house saw smoke coming through the floor, and although unable to locate the blaze, called the department. The firemen were equally at a loss to find the fire, a thorough examination failing to produce any blaze, although the odor of smoke was very strong. After investigating the department left and no further trouble was encountered by the residents. What caused the smoke is a mystery, as there was no fire in the house except in the kitchen and the cellar was free of smoke at all times.

Two small boys applied for lodging at the police station last Friday evening. They gave their names as John Maylagan 12 years old, of Lowell, and Armande Porrier, 13 years old, of Lawrence. Word was sent to the home and the boys were taken back there Saturday morning.

WHAT IS THE MATTER?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I trust that you will print the following, being a despatch from Washington and taken from the Boston Record:

What is the matter with common education in Massachusetts, is being asked by many a Massachusetts congressman, and especially by Congressman Roberts of the Lynn district, who is becoming weary of trying to fill vacant the district is entitled to fill at West Point and Annapolis, the one for the army and the other for the navy?

Examination after examination of the most impartial kind is held, and without the least success. The boys go down before the examining board with an ease that shocks. Already there have been 12 examinations for the two vacancies, and each has failed to produce a successful candidate, and there are six more coming, three this week for Annapolis and three for West Point in June. Whether these will produce a successful boy remains to be seen.

The boys, of course, as a first thing must be physically perfect, but this is not the trouble. The young men are unable to weather the mental test they are put to. They seem to pass in English and history satisfactorily, but fall down before the test in mathematics (algebra, geometry and arithmetic), and almost with an ease as if they had never studied these subjects. Not a candidate that has presented himself for examination has managed to pass in these subjects. Why there should be a failure in geography is especially inexplicable. But somehow the boys do not grasp geographical facts. With respect to mathematics the explanation is not so difficult. Apparently the education given in Massachusetts schools is far below the standard required to pass West Point or Annapolis, whose standards are in truth exceptionally high. Is Massachusetts to blame? Apparently yes, for boys similar in type educated elsewhere in the United States pass these examinations.

Not Ready Thinkers Mathematically. The mathematical examinations at West Point and Annapolis require the candidate to do some independent thinking and rapid thinking at that. For this the Massachusetts boys appear unprepared. They seem to be accustomed to rote learning and can attack problems only that have been drilled into them word for word and line for line.

And it is not the common boy who fails but the High School graduate, and not only one school is to blame but High school after High School, town after town. The boys who have failed are graduated from the High Schools of Lynn, Malden, Stoneham, Wakefield and Chelsea.

And so morily do they seem educated at these places that no amount of coaching in private enables them to pass the army and the navy examinations. One boy especially went to an Annapolis preparatory school to be coached for the examination, but failed nevertheless. It is being surmised that the foundation training and what followed after is so defective that no amount of tutoring is able to polish off the boy. One boy even entered Wesleyan university and in freshman year decided to try Annapolis, and he tried the examination but failed.

Eight examinations have failed for Annapolis and four for West Point, and there are more to come seemingly. Inasmuch as other congressmen in the state report almost similar misfortunes in filling the vacancies, the Massachusetts system of education can look anything but pleasing in the sight of the army and the navy of the United States. Apparently there is real cause for inquiry.

LADIES' GOLF.

The event on the ladies' golf schedule at the Country Club this week was a Monkey Match in charge of Mrs. Edgett, which was played Tuesday afternoon. Five teams competed, the match being won by Mrs. Bowles' team—Mrs. Joshua Kelley, Miss Alice Skillings, Mrs. Chas. T. Mosman, Miss Elizabeth Downs.

Mrs. Edgett's team was second, Miss Isabel Hunt third, Mrs. Geo. A. Fitch fourth and Mrs. H. C. Day's fifth.

ARE WE BEYOND LIMIT.

Can Winchester Become a Part of Boston Postal District.

For some years past there has been considerable talk of Winchester entering the Boston postal district. According to the law, which is printed below, Winchester will be unable to enter the district if its boundary line is a great deal more than five miles from the boundary line of Boston, which in this case would be the distance from the Winchester-Medford line to the Charles-town line. It we are too far beyond the limit then we should work and strive for a government postoffice building. The law says "as near as may be." This is an elastic statement, so that Winchester may come within the prescribed limit. Can any of our readers inform the STAR of the distance from Charlestown to the Winchester-Medford line?

The law is as follows: "The Postmaster General, when the public convenience requires it, may establish within any postoffice delivery one or more branch offices (stations or substations) for the receipt and delivery of mail matter and the sale of stamps and envelopes; and he shall prescribe the rules and regulations for the government thereof. But no letter shall be sent for delivery to any branch office contrary to the request of the party to whom it is addressed.

No station, substation or branch post office shall be established beyond the corporate limits or boundaries of any city or town in which the principal office to which such station, substation or branch office is attached is located, except in cases of villages, towns, or cities of fifteen hundred or more inhabitants not distant more than five miles, as near as may be, from the outer boundary or limits of such city or town in which the principal office is located."

The Postmaster General in his report of 1909 says:

"The desirability of repealing so much of the act of June 9, 1906, as imposes a limitation on the establishment of branch offices and stations is again brought to the attention of Congress. Under this statute branches or stations cannot be established beyond the corporate limits of a city except in places of 1,500 or more inhabitants located not more than 5 miles distant. The restriction is inconsistent with the unlimited authority granted the Postmaster General to establish post offices. It prevents an important step toward a more business like organization of the service, as outlined on pages 13 and 14 of this report. It works a distinct hardship on residents of numerous suburban towns, preventing them from receiving city delivery service. It is urged that this restriction be repealed, in effect, by amending section 1071 of the revised Statutes so that it will read substantially as follows:

"The Postmaster General may establish branch offices at such places as he may deem expedient, and may also establish one or more stations within any post office delivery; and he shall prescribe the rules and regulations for the government of branch offices and stations."

The Postmaster General in his report of 1910, again advocates this recommendation, saying, "The application of this method to all the smaller offices in the immediate neighborhood of cities is highly desirable."

The First Assistant Postmaster General in his report of 1910 says:

In past annual reports attention has been directed to the advantages that might be secured by reducing the number of independent post offices through their conversion into non-accounting branch offices. The greatest benefit to be derived from such action lies in the simplification of the accounting system, but a decided improvement in the character of the mail service might also be confidently expected as a result of the supervision that would be given to the work at the branches by the postmasters of the offices to which they were attached.

MYSTERY SOLVED.

Key to Authorship of Anonymous Letters Suggested.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Many of your readers must be familiar with the ingenious attempts to prove that Hovey wrote the works attributed to Shakespear. The method is somewhat complicated, but a letter in last week's STAR offers an opportunity to make a simple application of the process. This letter was entitled "Maine Fishing Tips", and was signed "Angie Wynn".

It will be noticed that after the capital letter of the second word of the signature there are three small letters; let us strike these out. Now go back to the first word and also strike out the three small letters following the capital letter; and the one remaining letter change from small to capital. This is what we now have: instead of Angie Wynn, Angie E. Wynn, or, A. E. W.

How's that for an up-to-date puzzle solution?

Mrs. Sarah Minerva Perkins, aged 75 years, died at her home No. 11 Irving street on Sunday. She had suffered for some time from a form of heart trouble, and this with bronchial asthma was the cause of her death. She was the widow of late David Perkins. She leaves two brothers and a sister.

Funeral services were held from the residence on Wednesday at 2 p. m. Rev. Henry E. Hodge, pastor of the First Baptist Church officiated. The interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mr. Metcalf officiated at the funeral of Mrs. William Fleming of Harvard Observatory this week. Mrs. Fleming was easily the most distinguished woman astronomer the world has ever known. Her discovery of the new stars alone is sufficient to give her an indelible place in the development of modern astronomy. Miss Maria Mitchell was famous more as a teacher than a working astronomer but Mrs. Fleming's work on variable and new stars placed her in the front of the world's discoverers.

The meeting was held with the purpose of interesting the Woburn boys in canoeing and in forming a crew to compete for the Lawson Inter-Scholastic paddling trophy. NOTICE!

Personal observation by the members of the Board of Selectmen, coupled with constantly increasing complaints made to them by citizens of the town, lead the Board to call upon owners and drivers of automobiles to bear in mind the necessity for restraint in driving upon Winchester streets.

Driving automobiles through the thickly settled portions of the town at a high rate of speed is not confined to non-residents, but is indulged in by many residents, who do not realize, apparently, the danger to others, and, particularly, to young children who are forced to cross the streets many times in travelling between their homes and their schools.

The growing practice by dealers in automobiles of using the principal streets of the town to demonstrate the speed qualities of their machines must cease.

The Board of Selectmen believe that automobile owners intend to be reasonable in the use of the streets and desire to co-operate with the public authorities in enforcing the laws of the road.

This notice is sent out in the hope that a word of caution to all will be sufficient and render unnecessary a campaign for the strict enforcement of the laws by the police officers of the town.

MEMORIAL DAY.

How the Day Will be Observed in Winchester.

Following is the program for Memorial Day as prepared by John T. Wilson, Commander of A. D. Weld Post 148, G. A. R., and the following committee—S. H. Brookings, Henry Smalley, W. C. Haskins and Henry G. Richburg:

HEADQUARTERS A. D. WELD POST, 148, G. A. R.

DEPARTMENT OF MASSACHUSETTS.

GENERAL ORDERS.

No. 1.

WINCHESTER, May 15, 1911

1. The time set apart as Memorial Day calls us with ever echoing notes to commemorate the unparalleled sacrifices that kept and maintained our beloved country one and indivisible. One by one our comrades are vanishing and answering to the roll call upon the other side, and all too soon, the last survivor of that patriotic host that rallied to the Nation's defense in its great need, will have passed beyond all earthly portals. While any of us remain, it is a solemn and imperative duty resting upon us, one and all, to take part in the observance of Memorial Day and to allow nothing to interfere with our presence with the Post in the beautiful and appropriate tributes to our departed comrades.

2. In accordance with the General Orders from Department and National Headquarters, and in obedience to Rules and Regulations, Tuesday, May 30th, will be observed by the comrades of this Post as Memorial Day.

3. Members of other Posts, and all soldiers and sailors who served in the war of the rebellion are invited to turn out with this Post and join with us in the observance of the day.

4. Comrades will report promptly at Headquarters, G. A. R. Hall, at 2.00 p. m., in the regulation uniform—dark clothes, Kossuth hats with gilt cords, white belts and gloves.

5. All citizens are requested to put aside other duties and pleasures and co-operate with the Post in the proper observance of the day.

6. The Post will form on Mt. Vernon Street at 2.15 p. m., at G. A. R. Hall, and under escort of the Woburn Mechanic Philanthropist, Capt. J. Edward Graham, will receive the officials at the Town Hall.

7. Order of procession will be through Washington, Main, Church, Fletcher and Wildwood Streets to the Cemetery. Music by Everett Brass Band.

8. Comrades will assemble at 7.15 o'clock p. m. at the Headquarters, G. A. R. Hall, and at 7.30 march to the Town Hall, to attend services there.

9. Rev. P. Isaac Osburne of Winchester will deliver the address.

10. Senior Vice Commander, Henry Smalley, and Comrade Philip Maher are hereby detailed to decorate the graves of our comrades at East Woburn.

11. The attendance upon Divine Worship the Sunday next preceding Memorial Day has been so long a custom by our Post that it has become a part of the services of Memorial Day. Each comrade is particularly enjoined to turn out with the Post, Sunday, 28th inst., at 6.45 p. m. in uniform at the Post Hall.

By order of

JOHN T. WILSON,

Commander.

S. H. BROOKINGS,

Acting Adjutant.

Sunday evening, May 28th, at the First Congregational Church.

Comrades will assemble at G. A. R. Hall at 6.45 p. m., and march to the Church. Veterans residing in town are cordially invited to attend Church with the Post.

Sermon by the Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon of Winchester.

Exercises in the Town Hall, Tuesday evening, May 30th, commencing at 7.45 o'clock. Music will be rendered by children from the Public Schools under the direction of Mr. Ernst Makepeace.

8. America

My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing:
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrims' pride,
From every mountain side
Let freedom ring!

My native country, thee,
Land of the noble free,
Thy name I love;
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills:
My heart with rapture thrills
Like that above.

The audience are requested to rise and join in the singing of America.

THE JUNE WOMAN'S

HOME COMPANION.

The June Woman's Companion is interesting and useful in a great variety of ways. One of its splendid features, particularly entertaining and valuable at the present time is a description of a large number of "safe and sane" celebrations of the Fourth of July which actually took place last year. These reports are full of ideas and suggestions which, as fast as they are put into effect, will save legs, arms and lives. And the great point is that the children who enjoyed these celebrations had a better time than they ever had in the old war. The new terms of entertainment that have been devised, and that are reported in this month's Companion, are really amazing in extent and ingenuity.

The fiction in this month's Companion is notable. There is a splendid story by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, the last piece of work written by this famous author shortly before her death a few months ago. Other stories are contributed by Marion Hall, C. N. and A. M. Williamson, Zona Gale, Fannie Heaslip Lea and others.

Something unique and indeed aboriginal in the way of petition has reached Congress. It has come to Speaker Champ Clark and bears 66 signatures; in what looks like blood—every name in red. It is a protest from the Chippewa Indians at the White Earth Reservation in Minnesota against what they allege is an attempted legalization of fraudulent land sales on their reservation. The signatures are in the prints of thumbs dipped in poke-berry juice. The first name signed to the document is that of a chief, May-zine-he-gwon-nobe.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE

New Tax Method Proposed For

Forests and For Farms

PURE MILK BILLS ARE VETOED

Massachusetts Manufacturers Concerned Over the Tariff Situation—

Government by Experts at the State House

Governor Foss continues to send in veto and special messages to the legislature. One of his recent messages recommended the adoption of two constitutional amendments, one authorizing the great and general court to levy a tax upon incomes, and the other to permit the taxation of forest lands at a different rate than other property. The governor thinks that his proposition to tax forest lands at a rate different from other property presents a scientific system for the taxation of forestry. He says three-fourths of the area of Massachusetts is better adapted to forestry than to any other purpose and that Massachusetts is a natural forestry state, and he believes that the adoption of his plan would be the best thing possible for the development of rural life.

He is opposed to the proposition for a state income tax upon all incomes in addition to the present taxes on the ground that it would impose double taxation, but he favors a state income tax as a substitute for a part or a whole of the present tax on personal property and claims that this would not be an obstacle to a federal income tax.

Purity of the Milk Supply

By his veto of two bills intended to preserve the purity of the milk supply coming into Boston, Governor Foss has disappointed a number of those interested in the public health who had sought to protect the public against impure milk. Some of the newspapers have criticized him severely for his action in this regard. The Transcript says that both these measures were "in line with the best and most advanced public thought on the question of milk and milk supplies," and continues: "The governor seems to have taken a brief for the farmers entirely and to have accepted absolutely their side of the case. This simply shows into what errors an inexperienced person—governor or anyone else—may fall by consulting one faction."

The Transcript also criticizes the governor's veto of the resolve for putting the thousand copies of the report of the Massachusetts commission on the cost of living. The resolution was to have been made by the chairman and secretary of the commission, who were to "elucidate matters of temporary interest . . . bringing statistics up to date, and . . . otherwise revise the report in matters of fact as they may deem advisable."

The Transcript says the real source of the resolve was the extraordinary demand for this document. "It will be remembered," says the Transcript, "that it was used in the campaign with considerable force against Candidate Foss to refute his exaggerations placing upon the tariff the entire burden of the increased cost of living. The public may be pardoned for its assumption that there is direct relation between the findings of this report and the action of the governor."

Governor Draper is Vindicated

The supreme court of Massachusetts has vindicated Governor Draper. When Governor Draper vetoed the so-called eight-hour bill providing for eight hours for certain employees engaged in public work for the state, county, city or town, he was attacked in the most vindictive fashion by men styling themselves labor leaders. It mattered not that each time Governor Draper vetoed this measure he was advised by the attorney general that it was unconstitutional. The labor men opposed him viciously because he had the courage of his conviction and was not afraid to do what he thought right. Now, in answer to the direct question by the legislature whether the act would be constitutional, the state supreme court has replied that it would not. Governor Foss, it will be remembered, first vetoed Governor Draper to rein the bill and later condemned Governor Draper for his veto, and still later declared that if elected he would sign it if it came to him. That shows the difference in the calibre of the two men.

Manufacturers and the Tariff

The manufacturers of Massachusetts are much concerned over the tariff situation. They say they are in a state of uncertainty regarding future operations owing to the fact that the Democrats wish to make a radical revision of the tariff. With the house Democratic and the senate Republican, of course nothing can be done, but there is always the possibility that insurgent Republicans might vote in sufficient numbers with the Democrats to pass a measure which was not too radical. The Bay State manufacturers do not look for any general tariff bill at the present special session, but they expect the situation to be somewhat different at the regular session to December. They believe that session will give a good deal of time to tariff agitation and the Democrats will draft a general bill on which they may appeal to the country in the presidential and congressional elections of next year.

There is no optimism felt by Massachusetts manufacturers. The woolen manufacturers especially are feeling much depressed and are not making any extensions at the present time. Many of their mills are running only upon orders and their purchases of wool are from hand to mouth. Many of them believe that business not only will not improve but that, on the contrary, it will remain stagnant, or become even worse until the tariff uncertainty is settled, which may not be before 1913.

Some of them feel that the country as a whole is antagonistic to the industries of this commonwealth, although they admit that the state has always fared well at the hands of congress in the protection of its industries. These men feel that one cause for the bad feeling of the rest of the country toward New England is the fact that while this section has always been well protected there have been many shortsighted Massachusetts people who have not appreciated the treatment of the state but have continually demanded the abolition of duties on raw materials used in its industries while accepting the highest protection on its manufactured goods—an attitude of sublimated selfishness which could have no other result than to incur the antagonism of the rest of the country.

Regarding Government by Experts

The debate of the experts appointed to investigate the various departments of the commonwealth still continues. It seems to be agreed, however, by all concerned, that the value of the investigations so far conducted is nowhere near equal to the amount of money it has cost to date. Expert Chase, who went over the accounts of State Treasurer Stevens, found three or four minor mistakes in the accounts during the years which he covered in that office. He admits that he found not one single instance of dishonesty, and that the office appears to have been administered with scrupulous integrity. In the two hearings given Mr. Chase by the committee on ways and means, he failed absolutely to make good his suggestions as to the proper system of handling sinking funds. For that reason, perhaps, he tried to discredit the treasurer, although compelled to admit that he had found no evidence of dishonesty of any sort. The committee on ways and means is convinced that Mr. Stevens is an admirable treasurer and that he has conducted his office with the highest ability and integrity. The committee also recognizes the fact that the state treasurer himself cannot do all the work of the office and that to the clerks and subordinates must be left practically all the calculations and mathematical work which is to be done therein. All the mathematical errors discovered by Mr. Chase were of such a trivial character as not to invalidate or materially affect the work of the office. The majority of the committee on ways and means feels very strongly that the work of Mr. Chase, so far as the treasurer's office is concerned, has been of no value whatever, not only because his report contained errors, but because it contained no valuable suggestions either as to the administration of the treasurer's office or as to possible changes in the laws relating to that department.

Governor Foss' announcement that he would veto the fifty-four-hour bill as well as the bill for higher salaries for school teachers created a storm of protest. Mayor Fitzgerald fears that such action would mean his defeat this fall.

NURSING AS A CAREER.

It is said that nursing is one of the most inviting fields of human service and that its financial return surpasses any other occupation open to young women. It develops all the native graces of womanhood and leads the way to positions of trust and influence. The demand for more nurses is a world wide call.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses, located in Philadelphia, Pa., has undertaken to meet this demand by offering free scholarships to young women in all parts of the country. Room, board, laundering, incidental expenses, special financial assistance and railroad fare home on completion of the course, are provided. Length of course two years. Also a Special Short Course and a Home Study Course for those who must quickly prepare for self-support.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses is a benevolent institution conducted without hope of gain or profit in the interests of ambitious young women. Readers of this paper can get full information by writing the school at once.

(5.) Verse 2—What can churches and individuals do more than they are doing, to make the nations of the earth Christian?

(6.) Verse 3—When will nations begin "to beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks?"

(7.) There probably never was a time when the civilized nations were spending as much money on their armaments and navies as now, or were more thoroughly prepared for war, what does this indicate as to the coming of universal peace?

(8.) What is probably the cost per annum of (1) the standing armies, (2) the navies of the civilized nations?

(9.) If fifty per cent of the vast sum spent in preparation for war were spent in educating the nations in the folly of war, and in the sublimity of arbitration to settle disputes, how many years would it take to accomplish?

(10.) What would be the effect if the universities of the world were to establish chairs for teaching the folly of war, and the morality, and economics of peace?

(11.) When did you last listen to a sermon from your pastor on the crime and folly of war?

(12.) To what extent is the Christian church responsible for the present insane preparation for war?

(13.) If Jesus were now in the flesh and addressed public gatherings, what would he probably say about present day war preparations? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(14.) Verses 4-8—If the nations of the earth were to disarm and make a treaty of perpetual peace, what would be its economic, its social, and ethical effect?

(15.) What effect would perpetual peace have upon the evangelization of the world?

(16.) What can we do more, to arouse the average man to a realization of the stupendous folly and crime of war?

Occupation for Women.

Two women, maybe more, occupy novel positions in the business world in New York. These women are employed by a number of wholesale dress goods and millinery houses to entertain women buyers from out of town. They entertain the visitors at dinner, in the theater and make the sojourners' stay in New York pleasant. The expense, of course, is charged to the houses employing them. The individual charges of these women entertainers usually are about one-fourth of the total expense.

Really Hard Luck.

Four men were sympathizing with each other at an uptown hotel, according to the New York Sun. They were employees pretty well up on the staff list and two of them were assistant managers. They had indorsed checks for acquaintances that they supposed were all right, and, according to the rule, had to make good. "I'm worse struck than any of you," said the chief engineer. "The check I got stuck on was for $114 and the man who signed it is in jail."

Keep Clean.

Keep your house and your belongings clean. Let the blessed sun, the greatest physician in the world, get all through you and all about you. Get your full share of the free air of heaven. "Eat to live and not live to eat," as a sage philosopher of the long ago tells us. Keep your house clean in which you live and keep the "house" in which your life lives clean, and all will be well.

Will Inherit at Sixty-Five.

The will of Mrs. Mary Olmstead of Brooklyn, filed in the surrogate's office in Kings county recently, makes a provision that none of the legatees are to receive their share of the estate until they reach the age of sixty-five years, except in the case of the two grandchildren, who will receive their share when they become thirty-five years of age.

Rooster Hard to Kill.

A Buff Orpington rooster, missing for three weeks, was found wedged in the wooden foundation of a barn at Stanford, Kent, England. The bird was as thin as a ball, but now is growing as lustily as ever. It was twenty days without food.

Aurora Borealis.

According to a theory recently enunciated, the aurora borealis is formed of cathode rays, emitted by the sun and deflected by the terrestrial magnetic field in the upper strata of the atmosphere. The velocity of these cathode rays must be nearly equal to that of light, and very much greater than the velocity of cathode rays produced in the laboratory. Leonard concludes that these extremely "hard" cathode rays are emitted by unknown radio-active substances in the sun.

Flower Keeps its Freshness.

A common South African flower possesses the valuable property of keeping fresh for two months or more after cutting. It is a white star of Bethlehem, producing a compact spike of flowers on a stiff, erect stalk 18 inches or two feet long. The flowers are of a thin and papery tissue, all while except the yellow anthers. It can be sent over as a cut flower from South Africa to England, and then lasts for weeks in water.

Why Australia Has Thrived.

We believe it to be the case that the conditions of Australia, where reward is more proportionate to ability and effort, and less dependent than in an old country upon birth and favor, lead to the development among natives of the commonwealth, on the average, of greater activity of mind and body than is found among the natives of the United Kingdom. EDWARD T. HARRINGTON CO., 4 Common St. WINCHESTER

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A certain Winchester youngster of The Spectator's acquaintance has a way of indulging his wishes by dropping into correspondence with the various members of his family. They find notes from him on their plates or pinned in a conspicuous way to something in their rooms. One morning this youngster's mother found the following communication from her young hound pinned to a cushion on her dressing case:

Dear Mother—I need a new music roll, a new dickensery and a base ball bat. If you cannot get all at once get the hat. I can get along without the music-roll and the dickensery.

A young woman well known to The Spectator has been committed to a hospital for the insane. She became violently insane when the wedding she had planned was frustrated. The license had been obtained, but the wedding was forbidden by the family physician because of evidences of mental disorder. In the opinion of The Spectator it was a wise interference, the medical man's prudence being fully confirmed by the sudden development of insanity when the marriage was forbidden. It is not difficult to see many cases where similar interference would have saved unending anxiety, misery and suffering to parents and the deplorable inheritance of inevitable diseases to children. The time may come when the example set by the courageous physician who lives within a very few miles of Winchester will be more extensively followed; when it will even be more strongly enforced by law; and when it is, our hospitals for the insane and our penal institutions will be less crowded, and the tremendous tidal of misery will be appreciably reduced.

A woman has a just cause for complaint when The Spectator is told is a liar. Her husband is so generous that in order to reduce expense he insists upon going bareheaded around the house and wearing a discarded pair of his shoes when she goes out. If any woman could get a divorce solely that woman can. The legal doctrine of the unity of man and wife is not without its limitations.

A well known gentleman gives The Spectator to understand that the Lusitania movement does not appeal to him at all. This gentleman voices the feelings of a number of persons. The Spectator has had the pleasure of discussing the subject with them. He says that the objection rests upon the essential immorality of stimulating the military spirit. "America is not likely to be invaded," he says. "It is not necessary that we should satiate our youths with the spirit of militarism. We have drifted into a condition of international menace. And yet we have by no means reached the stage in which it is necessary to feed our young generation upon gun powder or cloth in khaki. The ideals of the rising American generation are still civic, still peaceful and industrial, and should remain so." In the opinion of The Spectator such counsel is wise. This country of ours will best serve its mission to the world by avoiding so far as possible being ensnared completely in the military ideal. When the boys grow up, they may serve in the militia. But other ideals should have first chance at them.

Every time The Spectator hears a man make the assertion that he likes hard work he cannot help believing that the man would get nearer the truth were he to say that he likes the results which it produces.

Quite frequently The Spectator likes to stand at the corner of Mt. Vernon and Main street and make a study of the persons who pass by. One thing The Spectator is convinced of and that is that one can never tell how happy or unhappy a man is by the expression of his face in public.

A gentleman lets drop the remark that the man who first advised the hitching of a wagon to a star must have had the aeroplane in his prophetic mind.

A shoeman who The Spectator patronizes gives him the information that gray is, in some respects, a more sensible leather for shoes than black. It is the color of the dust of the streets. It will not show the dust, as will black shoes. Lately The Spectator has been on the lookout for a man wearing gray shoes but has yet to see him. It is very evident that gentlemen wearing gray shoes are as scarce as hen's teeth.

The Spectator is delighted to give the following communication publicity. It is one of several which have been received at The STAR office recently:

Dear Spectator:—I hope you will not take it amiss if I express to you my warm appreciation of the admirable paper the management of The STAR is giving, the people of Winchester. To my mind The STAR at present comes pretty close to being an ideal paper. Clean, bright, newsy, attractively made up, well managed and ably edited. Everybody feels that the STAR is going steadily forward, and the people of Winchester are indebted to the STAR in more ways than one.

Thanks, many thanks, dear friend,
The Spectator.

For the past few years the Massachusetts Fish and Game Commission have been striking the Charles river with bass, white perch, brown trout, speckled trout and other game fish. In spite of the many people who fish and boat on the river the fishing is good in the secluded, upper portions of the stream. This year, according to the Boston Transcript, a large number of brown trout are to be put into the river as they are more gregarious than the speckled trout and better able to defend themselves against the black bass which is the most potent enemy at all fresh water fish. Newton, Waltham and other municipalities take water from the Charles through screens and filtering arrangements, but no objection has ever been made against the fishing privileges on the river the general public so much enjoy, the fishing not being restricted to any one municipality.

While the contest of putting the shot at the athletic meet of the high school was going on at Manchester Field last Saturday, Miss Marjorie Bradlock of Hildcrest, a spectator, was hit in the chest by one of the iron balls and rendered unconscious for a time.

TRACK MEET.

Last Friday afternoon the high school track team was defeated in the meet with Arlington High School, 51-17. Arlington kept the lead from start to finish and after the first two events Winchester hadn't the slightest hope of winning.

In the high jump Winchester was tied with Arlington for first place. Peneligan of Winchester and Cronin of Arlington each jumped five feet two inches. This was Winchester's only first place in the meet.

H. Reyeroff and F. Osgood of Arlington each gained ten points besides winning in the relay race, which was won by Arlington. L. Gould of Winchester secured one second place and two thirds, making five out of the seventeen points for Winchester.

Winchester was greatly handicapped by the loss of its captain, H. Wheatley and R. Cutting who were unable to compete.

The summary: One hundred yard dash—H. Reyeroff of Arlington first, Robinson of Arlington second, and L. Gould of Winchester third. Time—ten and three-fifths seconds.

Shot put—W. Low of Arlington first, thirty five feet, five inches; Tuck of Winchester second, thirty four feet, nine inches; D. Wheatley of Winchester third, thirty three feet, eleven inches.

Four-hundred yard dash—Osgood of Arlington first, R. Hooper of Arlington second and L. Gould of Winchester third. Time, thirty-six and four-fifths seconds.

High jump—Peneligan of Winchester and Cronin of Arlington tied for first, five feet, two inches and Ober of Arlington second, five feet.

Two-hundred yard dash—H. Reyeroff of Arlington first, L. Gould of Winchester second and Robinson of Arlington third. Time, twenty-four and one-fifth seconds.

Broad jump—Osgood of Arlington first, eighteen feet eleven inches; Johnston of Winchester second, eighteen feet, five and one-half inches; Farnsworth of Winchester third, seventeen feet, eleven and one-half inches.

One mile—Bell of Arlington first, Goldsmith of Arlington second and Laidlaw of Arlington third. Time—Four minutes, forty-six seconds. Relay race—Won by Arlington, H. Reyeroff, Hooper, Robinson and Osgood. Time, two minutes, twenty-three seconds.

The points went 5, 3 and 1 respectively.

HILL—BRIGGS.

Miss Margaret Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Briggs of Bacon street, and Mr. Dwight Bradford Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Hill of Bridgeport, Conn., were united in marriage on Wednesday evening by Rev. William L. Lawrence, formerly pastor of the Unitarian Church. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, No. 91 Bacon street, at seven o'clock.

Mr. Harold H. Freeman of Dayton, Ohio, was the best man and Miss Eleanor Briggs, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Gertrude Fisher of Brookline and Miss Susan Leland Hill of Worcester. Little Miss Phoebe May was the flower girl and ring bearer.

The ceremony was attended by a large gathering of intimate friends of the couple, the bride being very popular among Winchester's young people.

Following the ceremony a reception was held until eight, at the home of which Mr. and Mrs. Hill left on their wedding trip.

The ushers were Messrs. George M. Orr of Worcester, Chester W. Smith of Hyde Park, L. Winthrop Banta of this town and John K. Williamson, jr., of Bridgeport, Conn.

During the funeral services of the late Theodore C. Hunt on Sunday afternoon, Mr. D. Webster Hawes was struck in the head by the bit of one of the horses in a hack and received a slight cut. The animal reared, and when he came down the bit struck Mr. Hawes just above the ear. The cut bled freely and Mr. Hawes went to the Higgins residence near the Episcopal Church, giving rise to the rumor that he was badly hurt.

FUNERAL SERVICE.

The funeral of the late Theodore C. Hunt took place last Sunday afternoon at the Church of the Epiphany, with solemn and impressive services in the presence of a company which filled the edifice.

The large gathering of town-people, of the bench and bar of Massachusetts and of the representatives of military organizations, attested the esteem and affection in which the deceased was held in the community.

The services were conducted by the rector, Rev. John W. Suter, who met the body at the entrance of the church and preceded it up the aisle reciting the solemn sentences from the office for the Burial of the Dead. The casket, covered with the silken flag which had covered the casket of President McKinley at Canton, Ohio, was deposited at the church door, about which was banked a profusion of flowers and in front of which were planted the national and state flags, the regimental flag of the 48th Mass., in which Mr. Hunt was an officer, and the standard of the Loyal Legion.

The music rendered by the regular choir of the church, consisted of the chant "Lord let me know my end," "Alone With Me," "O Paradise," and the recessional "For all the saints who from their labors rest." Chopin's and Beethoven's Funeral Marches were rendered by the organist. The honorary pall-bearers were Judges Hammond and Sheldon of the Supreme Court; Judges Stevens and Hardy of the Superior Court; Hon. S. W. McCall, Hon. S. J. Elder, Hon. George L. Mayberry; County Commissioner, Rev. S. Gould; County Treasurer, Joseph O. Hayden and High Sheriff, John R. Fairbairn. The active pall-bearers were Mr. Hunt's three court assistants, Messrs. William C. Dillingham, Ralph N. Smith and Fred L. Putnam, besides Messrs. T. W. Lawson and P. G. Gray.

The ushers were: Alfred S. Higgins, Marcus B. May, Roland H. Sherman, Charles D. Jenkins, Dr. G. N. P. Mead and Dr. Ralph Putnam.

Among others who attended the services were: Judges Lawton, Watt and Schofield of the Superior Court; Edward B. George, Clerk of Courts for Essex County; Judges McIntire and Lawton in the Probate Court and Assistant Registers Esty and Harris; District Attorney John J. Higgins, Mayor Stronghness of Lowell, Judge Fisher of Lowell and Hon. Fred N. Wier of Lowell.

The interment took place on the following day at Framingham.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY.

Next Sunday will be Whitsunday. There will be service of Holy Communion at 11 a. m., and in the afternoon at 4.30 p. m., an opportunity for baptism.

The Sunday School next Sunday will hold its annual examinations, closing day being June 11th.

Next Thursday, June 8th, at 10 a. m., there will be the service of the ordination of priests. This will be followed at 11.45 by a meeting of the Archdeaconry. The members of the Archdeaconry will lunch in the Parish House at 1 o'clock. The Rev. George Edward Norton is to be ordained at this time. The preacher will be the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, D. D., Rector of St. John's Church, Washington.

McCRILLS—WHEATLEY.

Miss Leone Wheatley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wheatley, of Park avenue, formerly of Manchester, N. H., and John D. McCrills, son of the late John A. McCrills of Manchester, were married in Boston on Monday. Mr. McCrills was graduated from the Manchester High school in the class of 1902 and afterward was employed in the spinning department of the Amoskeag manufacturing company. He is now managing the carriage manufacturing formerly owned by his father.

WHAT IS BEING DONE FOR SEAMEN.

Interesting facts relative to the activities of the American Seamen's Friend Society, No. 76 Wall Street, New York, for the fiscal year have been compiled by the Rev. George McPherson Hunter, Secretary. The society has fifty-one men and women working for the spiritual and material interests of seamen in forty-five of the principal ports of the world. These men and women are active in helpful work, visiting the sick, feeding the hungry, caring for sin-ridden and destitute seamen of all nations.

The Society maintains a Seamen's Institute, at No. 57 West Street. During the fiscal year, the reading rooms of the Institute were visited by 361,123 persons, evidence in itself that it fills a want. The sailors who visited the Institute deposited for safe-keeping white ashore $38,712, and 39,528 letters were written and received by men who made it their temporary home. A nominal charge for lodgings is made to those men who can pay, but no deserving seaman is shown the door. The secretary's statistics are that 2,384 free lodgings and 2,113 meals were given away during the fiscal year.

The American Seamen's Friend Society not only looks after the welfare of seamen ashore, but follows them around many of the ports of the world. Whether the seamen are in Rio de Janeiro or Yokohama, for example, its representatives endeavor to protect them, regardless of race, color, or creed. It distributed 1,500 "comfort bags" during the year, and another side of its excellent work is the loan library plan. These libraries are stocked with good books and placed on ships for the benefit of the men on board. Letters are received from time to time from sailors, expressing their high appreciation of this branch of the society's activities. Last year 9,120 volumes were the loan library record. There were also distributed 8,518 Bibles and 26,519 pamphlets and books in foreign languages.

The American Seamen's Friend Society is eighty-three years old. Its main sources of income are voluntary contributions from persons who are familiar with its helpful work, and there are several who have sent the annual membership fee of five dollars for years. The society is hampered in its philanthropy through lack of funds. The extension in the Seamen's Institute is urgently needed, and Mrs. Russell Sage has promised $25,000 on condition that another $75,000 is raised.

1895 TEAM WON.

The 1895 High School team won from the present High school team on Tuesday morning, May 30th, by the score of 13 to 6. The "old timers" played a mighty good game, all things considered.

Smalley started off well in the box, striking out three men in the first inning, but as the game went on he weakened somewhat and gave more frequent bases on balls.

Father Lyons started the hitting for the '95 team by knocking out a two-bagger the very first thing. He tried to stretch it out for a triple but the ball got to third long before he did.

In the next inning Russell got on base by an error, stole second and third, and came in on Payne's long drive to right which was muffed by the outfielders. The third inning brought in three more runs for the "old timers". Orinway got a single, Nowell a base on balls, and then Redfern came up with a double that safely scored Orinway. Smalley singled, which brought Nowell in, and Redfern came in on Payne's error. In this inning the High school scored its first run, gained by heavy hitting.

In the fourth inning the '95 team came back strong with four more runs. Mobbs passed the first two men and hit the third, then, with the bases full, by Hilton's bad throw to first, Wellman and Mitchell crossed the plate. On Nowell's long fly to left field Father Lyons on third base tried to come home but was put out at the plate. Orinway scored by a passed ball.

After this slaughter of the youngsters the High school changed the battery and the "old fellows" failed to score so freely. Nevertheless they made two runs by a base on balls, passed ball, and an error.

In the sixth inning the tables turned and the High school scored three runs by three base on balls, two hit, and two errors.

The '95 team made the best of their last chance and in the eighth inning scored three runs, made mostly by the High school's errors, although a two-bagger by Wellman helped them out a great deal. The boys were afraid of Father Lyons so they hit him by a pitched ball to save a two-bagger or a triple. In the same inning the High school made two runs by a base on balls and two singles.

There were many interesting and amusing features all through the game. Dr. Orinway's slide home in the third and Father Lyons' fall, caused by his shoe coming off, when he was almost home excited much laughter among the crowd.

Nowell was the star player of the game, making an unassisted double play, stopping barehanded a hot liner almost out of his reach, and catching a fly which seemed as if it would be a sale hit between second base and right field.

There was a large crowd at the game who supported both teams well, the High school financially and the '95 team morally. Every body present enjoyed the game and those who were absent missed a great game and great deal of fun.

In a last game on May 30th the Winchester Base Ball Club lost its first game to the strong, Notre Dame team which is considered one of the best teams in the vicinity of Boston.

BASEBALL.

Winchester was saved from a shutout in the first inning when O'Connor knocked a homer, which went along the third base line and finally bounded off and got lost in the bushes outside the foul line in left field.

In the second inning the visiting team evened up the score by a two-bagger, sacrifice hit, and a bad throw by Stephenson over O'Connor's head. Winchester held them for the next three innings but allowed them to make three runs in the sixth. Broderick started off with a single and reached second on Cushing's attempted sacrifice which, owing to Sumerville's error, resulted in Broderick's getting third and Cushing to second. They both scored by Flaherty's error on an attempt to put them out at home. This left one man on second base who also scored by a single.

Again in the next inning the visitors scored three more runs. Murphy was given a base on balls and took third on Curley's single. Both runners crossed the plate on another single by Cushing.

He also scored from a third hit by Redington.

The feature of the game was the unassisted double play of O'Connor. He prevented about two runs in the ninth by stopping and catching a bare handed a swift liner over third base with a man on second and third. As nobody thought he would catch, or even stop it, the runner on third started for home and was easily doubled up by his starting catch.

The largest crowd this season on Winchester Field witnessed this game. All were either disappointed that Winchester did not win but nevertheless they saw a fast clean game.

ONE UNANSWERABLE ARGUMENT.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

"A Winchester Woman" has recently stated the one unanswerable argument against woman suffrage. Other reasons may favor the political equality of the sexes, but the dear ladies are too busy—too preoccupied, some with the task of housework, feeding and clothing children on small incomes (whose purchasing power is seriously diminished by the mess we men make of running our governments); others with the myriads of appointments with the milliner and the manicure, and with bridge whist. Too busy are women to be the profound students we men are of the theory and practice of the political sciences, we who "plug up" like so many college students before each outlet at depositing our votes with the ticket chopper. Too busy in five minutes once a year they are, to cast a ballot in route to the shopping district. Too busy to capitalize politically the housekeeping instincts in their sex—to secure adequate political representation of the greatest of all our occupational groups, the home makers. Too busy with the avocations once—and in provincial social circles still—singly denominated the only ones proper for the petticoated.

Not too busy, however, to read and gloat over the denunciation of their own sex in a glaringly inaccurate and mendacious magazine article from which, apparently "A Winchester Woman" has taken her incident concerning Colorado women voters.

Since all are so busy, may my lady, already heavily laden, be further crushed under the weight of the ballot? May the rising tide of social democracy be stayed by letters to the editor? May the paper pend impending over the American home be averted by the vaccination of our Sibyls in the anti-suffrage league.

Merely Mr. Mau.

The U. S. Geological Survey Press Bulletin says that the average quantity of water used daily in cities of the United States ranges from 50 to 150 gallons per capita. The quantity used each day for drinking is estimated to be about half a gallon.

The cashier of a prominent savings bank, says the Starch Independent, is responsible for the statement that a goodly sum of bad money annually finds its way into children's hands. This would seem to indicate a mean spirit on the part of grown-ups to take advantage of innocent childhood.

Rep. Wilton B. Fay of Medford has been waited on by Republicans in his district, urging him to stand for another term, and he has the matter under consideration, says the Boston Record. He is one of the hard working members of the house, but a new candidacy would break into the Winchester-Medford rotation understanding which gives two years each in turn.

Germany gives every possible encouragement to business enterprises, and as a result that country is going forward with leaps and bounds. The United States, by regulating and interference, is handicapping business to such an extent that it is becoming almost impossible to do business on a large scale in this country, so a prominent manufacturer of the state informs the Star. And he appears to be about right.

After June 1 there will be no opportunity for a quick marriage by going to New Hampshire, as a new law goes into effect on that date, like that of Rhode Island, which provides for a number of days' delay between the application and issuing of marriage licenses, giving interested parties an opportunity to verify the statement of the applicants for the license. It would be well for Massachusetts to follow the example of Rhode Island and amend its marriage law.

Whether crushed stone can be bought cheaper than it can be produced on a small scale is a matter which should be considered in deciding on the purchase of a crusher. Wakefield has decided to buy one and that is something to go by when Reading takes the matter up.—[Reading Chronicle.]

Winchester has a stone crushing plant, yet it can purchase crushed stone cheaper than it can make it. Nevertheless, such a plant is a good thing to have to take care of the stone that accumulates in the ordinary course of street work.

It was an outrage on the public for the contractor who is putting oil on Washington street to hold up the cars for three-quarters of an hour during the forenoon of Memorial Day and practically disrupting travel for the entire day in four towns. Travel on the electric was very heavy, hundreds of people being on their way to and from the cemeteries. At one time there was between three and four hundred persons waiting at the corner of Washington and Forest streets for the delayed cars. At the request of a police officer the man in charge absolutely refused to remove his apparatus from the tracks, he apparently not caring for the discomfort that he was causing to hundreds of people. The Italian laborers employed on the work acting in the same spirit, jeered at the car whenever an opportunity was given them to resume their trips. It was absolutely necessary to cut off travel on the street while this work was being done, then some other day should have been selected, and Superintendent Ellis of the electric road notified, who would gladly have looked after the comfort of the travelling public by getting them past the embargo. The Selectmen would never have permitted this outrage on Memorial Day had they known beforehand that travel on the street was to be cut off. However, the foreman should have recognized the rights of the people and had there been the least bit of accommodation in his make-up he would have done so.

W. C. I. U. NOTES.

The June meeting of the local Union is to be held Saturday, June 17, in connection with the entertainment of a group of children from the Frances E. Willard Settlement of Boston. Last year on the appointed day the heavy storm prevented the children from coming but this year it is hoped the weather may be propitious. Next week the Conference of Churches and Conventions opens its sessions in Boston and it is hoped that many of the members of the Union will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear vital subjects discussed by experts from all parts of the country. An unusually large proportion of the time has been assigned to drunkenness and its attendant evils. The sessions are to be held in Ford Hall, which is easy of access to Winchester people. The final programme will be published in the daily papers.

June 9 is Flower Mission Day, being so named because it is the birthday anniversary of Jennie Casseday in whose interest and enthusiasm the Union is indebted for the extension and systematization of what was at first a spasmodic effort to lend grace and beauty to the uncomplaining rigor of the early work. The burning zeal of the first white ribboners, inspired by a sense of the terrible needs of reform, saw little but the one straight line of attack. Later the necessity for flank movements against an enemy so well entrenched became apparent and the effort has been made to seize every advantage point. This has the additional advantage of making possible the enlistment of all sorts and conditions of women in the white ribbon army. Sometimes those of one idea look askance at anything but direct assault but there are other ways equally effective and in the long run perhaps more so. Certainly the Flower Mission has justified its existence and won recruits where the sterner methods would not.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will you please find room in your columns for the following taken from the Boston Transcript.

W.

LET THE LAWNS BURN

It is amazing to see in the suburbs of Boston many people using their water hose these days with as much freedom as if the reservoirs were filled to repletion. Those who have gardens should at once neglect them, but the watering of lawns that is being done promiscuously by those who have no meters is very wasteful. Very few lawns at the present time are showing any serious signs of being burned, and a good rain, even if they should be burned, would soon bring them up again. But it is this watering of lawns that will be responsible for the dangerous emptying of reservoirs. Even in the case of the unfettered suburbs, householders should be cautioned to the peril of using what they have a perfect legal right to use.

Attention has been called by the press of New York and other cities to the necessity of looking after leaks and neglected faucets. In New York it is proposed to expend a hundred thousand dollars in sending inspectors to householders to warn them about the use of water. This might not be necessary. But the facts are that even if June is a very wet month, August and September will see a great scarcity of water. The most care should be exercised by all users of water. It is a vicious circle that is now in operation. The less rain, the more use of water, the greater depletion of reservoirs and finally the absence of water for any use whatever with all the calamity to health and property that this means. Let the lawns burn! They can be revived—but the result of low and empty reservoirs is frightful and irremediable.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I suppose that the people who earn the cash to pay the bills of this beautiful town must appreciate the thoughts expressed in "Observations" by J. H. C. and the talk he furnishes in town meeting, even if he has lived in Boston for three years.

How do you account, Mr. Editor, for this wise and talented J. H. C. taking so much time in town meeting, when he has been living in Boston for three years as he says?

BASE BALL.

The High school base ball team won its second game in succession last Saturday afternoon by defeating the Chelsea High school team 11-3. When Winchester played at Chelsea they were badly defeated.

Chelsea got one run in the second and four in the eighth inning, gained mostly by rather loose fielding on the part of the home team.

Winchester scored three runs in the second inning by numerous hits, frequent stolen bases, and large number of bases on balls. In the fourth inning Chelsea changed pitchers three times and early in the fifth Winchester succeeded in getting more hits from the new one than from the preceding one, until they had rolled up four runs. The third change had a better result and the fourth pitcher held Winchester down for two innings, when in the sixth, Winchester scored three more runs gained, mostly by the hitting. Again in the eighth inning Winchester scored one run by the loose fielding on the part of the visitors.

NOT EASY TO RUN OVER OPPOSITION.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Notice in the column headed "Observations" printed in your last issue and signed with the initials "J. H. C." a paragraph stating that as the grade crossing bill will soon become a law, steps should be taken to arrange for a town meeting on this question. It is said that "Our Commoner" (meaning me) decided not to kill the bill either before the three committees in the House or Senate, etc., etc.

The character of this town meeting—if the views of J. H. C. are correctly expressed in the closing sentence of the paragraph—is to be such that every citizen of Winchester who believes in a square deal will have cause to be ashamed of it.

The closing sentence of the paragraph is as follows: "Let him (meaning me) look out, however; the steam roller will be well greased and manned." This is plain notice that the meeting is to be packed by those in favor of the purpose of the bill allowing the town to exceed its statutory percentage of the expense of abolishing the grade crossing; that all opposition is to be run down by the steam roller; that the methods by which steam roller legislation is obtained are to be used to their highest efficiency and the taxpayers of the town are to foot the bill, no matter how great it may be.

If I mistake not, it may not be so easy to run over the opposition with the "steam roller" as the writer of the paragraph thinks. There are some few thousands of people in Winchester who will want to know what the effect on the tax rate will be, together with some other embarrassing questions.

Yours truly,
Whitfield Tuck.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Editor's of May 27th has an excellent and timely article by Will Linn on the subject of the Boston press to the big advertisers, ending with a most scathing criticism. As none of the newspapers have referred to it we are justified in believing it true. Too bad.

The Governor had the courage to give the legislature a good spanking in his monkey-bull veto, and it was well deserved. Some organizations should give in the voters next fall a history of members who are candidates for re-election, the same as is done before Boston city elections by the good government association.

I don't know who the Republicans will nominate for representative in this district for the next House, but if Senator Brown is re-nominated, as he probably will be, he will not have a walk-over. A man who will deliberately break his word is hardly the kind of Senator this district should have, and he is away off on some of his votes also.

There should be in next week's STAR a full report of any committee which is going to ask the town meeting of the 12th inst. to either appropriate money or endorse any important town work and the motions to be offered should be printed too, so we should not fall into the ridiculous error we did at the meeting a year ago on the grade crossing matter. Full publicity should be had before voting on all questions of any importance.

It was easy enough to solve the "Angle Worm" signature, but very difficult to solve the reason for the persistency of that spineless worm to feed the fish in our reservoirs.

The World in Boston pagant proved that several excellent actors have been wasting their time in the pulpit. It was a great show and prolocutor Stockdale was certainly immense, as was Mr. Eddy in the character of Livingstone. The dancing however was very evangelistic.

The Boston Transcript says it is not timely that any criticism of the Board of Railroad Commissioners should be made. Well, before the Governor gets through with that board the Transcript may think it would have been much to the public interest if some heed had been paid to criticisms of it in the past, instead of suppressing them as was done. Between the Governor and Norman White the facts are coming out this time and the press will be forced by public opinion to print them.

Boston Common of May 20th printed the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners decision on the North Adams case under the heading "Model Public Service Ruling." This is a very important decision, but no Boston paper would print it.

I have had the surprising fortune of getting all of my legislative bills into law this season, whereas in previous ones they have usually all been thrown out. The powers that defeated them and similar bills of others in the past have cut little ice on the Hill this session, but it was because they didn't dare to use the necessary bait.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The production of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" at the Castle Square will be quite an event. "Little Lord Fauntleroy" itself is a play to delight all those who are fond of hearing or seeing child life. It tells a romantic tale of Cedric Errol, who after poverty with his young mother in New York, finally learns that he is the heir to a great English earldom, and who is taken to England to live with his grandfather. The play is filled with humor, and it is consistently interesting and dramatic. In addition to Miss M. Dannel the cast will contain George Hassell as the Earl of Burin out, Frederic Murray as Mr. Havisham, Donald Meek as Hubbs the grocer, and Gertrude Bitley as Mrs. Errol.

Home Course In Health Culture

XVII. — Stimulants and Drugs In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.

Copyright, 1911, by American Press

Association.

AS far back as the memory of man reaches not to the contrary alcoholic drinks have been termed "stimulants," and yet alcohol is not a stimulant, but a depressant.

Exact laboratory experiments have determined that alcohol acts as an anesthetic upon the higher brain cells that preside over the more complex mental processes. In other words, the man who "wakes up" under the influence of alcohol is really going to sleep, so far as the more useful part of the brain is concerned, and thus the lower and simpler mental processes come more into evidence. Analyze the conversation at some convivial banquet and note how trivial and innate it appears in the clear light of day—puerile when compared with some splendid intellectual debate or discussion bringing into play the higher faculties. But these higher faculties are sometimes overworked and unduly active, denying proper exercise to the simple brain

ALCOHOL IS NOT A FOOD, BUT A POISON.
NOT A STIMULANT, BUT AN ANAESTHETIC.
IT WEAKENS MENTAL AND MUSCULAR EFFICIENCY; IT SHORTENS LIFE.

elements that control the emotions, the play instinct, the tendency to mix with one's kind in relaxing good fellowship.
Something might be said for alcohol as an agent for suppressing that part of the brain which is overworked in the daily struggle for existence and thereby affording opportunity for the nervous balance to be restored by exercise of the simpler faculties.

That some influence is necessary to preserve proper nervous and mental poise is witnessed by the example of philosophers and scientists who have become mentally "toppled," as it were,
by overuse of one portion of the brain or disuse of the other portion. Bar-win's loss of the instinctive faculties and the power of appreciation of music and poetry is a familiar instance. His wonderful taste in literature, which enabled him to enjoy the lightest and fondest novels, was merely the call of his simpler brain elements, neglected and suppressed by the constant exercise of the higher reasoning powers. But is it necessary to employ a poisonous drug for such purpose? It would appear not.

Is Alcohol a Food?

Atwater showed that alcohol in small quantities was utilized by the body as a food. It has long been known that alcohol is burned in the body with the production of energy, but poisonous mushrooms also furnish nourishment. Likewise, as Atwater states, human flesh is digestible and nourishing, but that is no reason for using it as a food.

Experience of Life Insurance.

Life insurance companies are quite particular to exclude not only heavy drinkers, but those whose habits show a trend in this direction. They are taking no chances with alcohol, and they do not want to insure people who "feed" on it. This is a business matter with a life insurance company, and the moral phase is not considered, which means that its action is based upon the facts developed by experience.

The most comprehensive experience that has been published is that of the United Kingdom Temperance and General Provident Institution. In that company the total abstainers were separated from the temperate drinkers in the mortality experience, with the result that a difference of 32 per cent was shown in favor of the abstainers.

Alcohol is no longer used in medicine as a direct heart stimulant. It is of more value as a rapidly available temporary food in the crises of severe illness, fever, etc., when it supplies energy to carry on the body work, but even here it must be used with caution because of its toxic effect on the heart muscle and the fact that it hinders the resistance of the body to the poisons of disease.

Extending the moral phase of this question, therefore, medical judgment, considering solely the scientific evidence available, must pronounce against the daily use of alcohol.

Whether the occasional use of alcohol as a relaxing beverage or anaes-thetic for overactive brain centers is permissible each man must decide for himself. It is fact, however, that the grave risks of even occasional indulgence should be known and remembered. Certainly no man of feeble will power or neurotic family history can afford to take the chances.

Narcotics.

Opium, cocaine, chloral, bromides, all are employed either to relieve bodily pain or stifle the overhasty and worrying brain. But, as in the case of alcohol, the relief brought by these drugs is usually paid for at a high rate of interest. In fact, the troubles which are temporarily forced into the background by such indulgence seem to grow in direct proportion to the degree of indulgence and simply await the next day, when the long expected life burden must be taken up with its added weight of life's journey for ever terminated.

These remarks do not apply, of course, to the intelligent and proper administration of such remedies by a physician. It is part of a physician's duty to relieve pain, both mental and physical, but it too often happens that a misuse properly administered in one instance is carelessly again taken without medical advice, and the foundation of a lifelong habit is laid.

Headache Remedies.

A great deal of harm is done by the self administration of headache remedies, mostly of the vital tar class.
These remedies have their place, but should be used under a physician's guidance. Many headaches can be relieved by simple remedies. Baiting the forehead with a little hygienic rubbing with a menthol pencil, simple rest or a dose of salts will often prove sufficient. The constant use of headache remedies is more than likely to prove irritating to the kidneys, aside from the depressing action on the heart. Aromatic ammonia, strychnine or some other heart stimulant should always be within the reach of those who are so ill advised as to use headache powders more or less regularly.

The causes of headaches are so numerous as to cover almost the entire range of diseased conditions. So called "biliousness" is one of the common causes. This is nothing other than poisoning from the retained products of indigestion. Bile may have little or nothing to do with it, but calomel or some other brisk evacuant will clear the system of the poison and relieve the symptoms.

Eye strain is also a very frequent cause of headache. The folly of swallowing drugs to relieve such trouble is evident. It is comparable to knocking a man senseless in order to relieve his pain. Properly fitted glasses will usually relieve eye strain. But in some cases eye strain is due to overuse or improper use of the eyes. Such cases are readily relieved by rest and attention to proper illumination or position while reading.

Abuse of Cathartics.

As a rule, cathartics should only be used as emergency remedies in acute conditions, as colds, biliousness, indigestion, etc. A tendency to constipation can usually be overcome by natural remedies. Drugging the bowels is very much like drugging the nervous system—the drug becomes master, but the time comes when the slave will not obey the master, and a condition of semi-paralysis of the bowel function exists.

In treating constipation it should be remembered that the intestine is a long muscular tube. This muscle is what is known as an "involuntary" muscle, not under the control of the will but acting reflexly. Certain centers in the spinal cord preside over the bowel function and respond to certain stimuli. One of these stimuli is the presence of a certain volume of waste matter in the bowel. Another is the tendency to rhythmic motion of the spinal center. In other words, spinal centers form habits, just the same as brain centers, and if accustomed to act at a particular time each day will continue to do so if permitted.

The value of a fairly general mixed diet is evident when the structure and function of the bowel are considered.
Concentrated, privileged food would soon abolish the bowel function. Some people eat too little waste matter.
Their food is mostly meat and potatoes. A generous allowance of fruit and green vegetables, especially spin-ach, and the free use of water between meals will set the muscle in such cases. The use of drugs is irrational and positively harmful.

Tea, Coffee and Tobacco.

The use of tea, coffee and tobacco in moderation cannot be regarded as harmful, but even the term "moderation" is here used in a positive sense.
No doubt much dyspepsia and nervous derangement are due to the abuse of these fragrant and cheering substances. What constitutes abuse can only be determined by experiment in each individual case. For the average man one cup of coffee at breakfast and a demitasse in the evening should be sufficient. Two cups of coffee or tea contain a pretty generous dose of the drug caffeine and amount to drugging the nervous system.

Tobacco should also be used according to personal susceptibility. A cigar after each meal will not, as a rule, injure the average man, although some are better off without tobacco or with an allowance of one cigar after dinner.
Constant smoking, no matter how robust or contented the man may be who indulges in it.

Summary.

Alcohol is not a food, but a poison;
not a stimulant, but an anaesthetic. It impairs mental and muscular efficiency. It shortens life, even if used in so valued moderation.

Narcotics make pain and trouble, but do not remove the cause. They destroy the will power more effectively than alcohol, but do not cause the same illness degeneration.

Alcohol and narcotics should not be used in the home, except on a physician's orders.

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the house it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root, it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

A meeting was held in the Knight's of Columbus rooms Sunday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a court of the Daughters of Isabella. There was a large attendance of young women interested in the movement and addresses were made by Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, pastor of St. Mary's Church; Mrs. P. Cogan of Stoneham, district deputy, and Mrs. Frank H. Reynolds, regent of the Stoneham court. A committee, of which Miss Frances O'Loughlin is chairman, was appointed to complete the arrangements for the institution of the court.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. McCarthy left town on Wednesday for a two weeks' stay at Bath, Me., and vicinity.

An automobile owned by Frank Lombard of Medford and driven by a lady who has learned to drive, crashed into the window of Cavell's confectionery store last Sunday night and demolished the plate glass window. Miss Martha Hargrove, employed at the store, had barely left the window when the crash occurred. She escaped uninjured.

The exercises on Memorial Day by A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., as printed in last week's STAR were carried out without a hitch. The day was ideal, and the interest in the movements of the veterans was shown by the many people on the streets and at the cemetery. Mr. Harry Lunt, as is his custom, assisted the veterans and relieved them of much of the work at the cemetery. A feature of the exercises at the Town Hall was the singing by pupils of the schools under the direction of Mr. Ernst Makreline, former supervisor of music in the public schools. Careful drilling was apparent in all the selections and the audience greatly appreciated the efforts of the pupils.

The fire department was called out for a fire in the centre on Wednesday evening at six-thirty, it being the first really serious blaze that district has had for some time. That it was not worse was due to the prompt work of the firemen, who made a remarkably quick stop.

The blaze was in the block next to the river on Main street, occupied by the Winchester Henny Co., Whittington's Harness Store, John McCracken and others. The fire was first noticed by the McCrackens, who gave the alarm. When the department arrived a hot fire was found in the cellar of the Henny Co., which had burned up through the rear of the store. After three quarters of an hour's fight the blaze was extinguished. The Henny Co. was the principal sufferer, the other occupants being smoked up somewhat but otherwise unharmed.

It would hardly seem unreasonable to say that half of the women in this country are in slavery to those who dictate what the fashions shall be, and are obliged to spend money against their wish to avoid being criticized by others, slaves of fashion. When women's conventions talk about emancipation and free love they might consider this kind of slavery. Most of them will admit that it exists, and the apparent hopelessness of being able to throw off their shackles. What a splendid victory it would be if one-half of the women would band together and stick to last year's styles, for a change. If they would do that it would not be long before they would be masters of the situation and not be obliged to pay $20 for $5 worth of material and the balance for style.

MORE REGULATING.

An exchange observes that Germany is endeavoring to so control the fashion in underwear that the different styles of shoes shall be limited in number, and all freak styles done away with. This ought to work in hardship on the wearer and be of great benefit to the dealer, who now is often left with out-of-fashion shoes on hand to his loss. If similar laws could control the fashion of women's hats and clothes, what a blessing to everybody but the milliner and dress-maker, who now derive a large part of their income from their ability to decree that the hickety hat of last year shall become the fash hat of this, and the hickety skirt to be fashionable only long

THE WINCHESTER STAR.

VOL. XXX. NO. 49.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1911.

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

AN IMPORTANT MATTER

That Greatly Concerns the Future of Winchester.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Winchester, Mass., June 7, 1911. The Waterways Improvement Committee have caused to be circulated a report which I have no doubt all citizens have before this had an opportunity to read. Whether the general plan for the improvement of our waterways recommended by their landscape architect is acceptable to the town, or not, the single recommendation for action at this time, contemplating the purchase of the Whitney property, is of great importance to the future of this community. Not only is the acquisition of this property almost imperative, it is the stream to be kept free from pollution, but there are many incidental advantages coming to the town by this purchase which possibly many of our citizens are not familiar with. It should be borne in mind that Mr. Whitney owns not only the mill property and the land and buildings adjacent, but a large area of flowed land, originally meadow land, in the centre of the town, which by draining and gradually filling, would become as valuable as any land in the same locality, and in addition to this ownership certain rights which those familiar with the management of town affairs are fully cognizant of.

The following items should be noted in connection with this purchase: and no doubt there are others which I do not recall:

1 The right to raise the water in the lake and stream below the mill to such height as seems advisable.

2 There is now in force an order of the County Commissioners requiring two bridges to be maintained on Walnut street. By the acquisition of this property one of these bridges could be discontinued.

3 There are now two streams from the Mill pond to Manchester Field. One of these would be discontinued and land acquired by filling the same.

4 The acquisition of a. About 26,000 feet of land, now occupied by various buildings of the Whitney property, which, located in the centre of the town would be very valuable for many purposes.

b. About 1 1/2 acres of land in the pool or pond between Main street and the Town Hall.

c. A strip of filled land between the Town Hall and the stream (about 1,000 square feet, across which the town sewer runs, and there is an agreement that this sewer must be removed at any time that the owners of the property may demand.

d. A small strip of land north of the Methodist Church which is not filled, about the same size as the land next to the Town Hall.

e. About 15 1/2 acres of land in Judkins pond, which, with the removal of the dam and the dredging of the stream, would be drained off and would afford an excellent playground for the north end of the town, and at the same time give a right to put a street from the centre of the town to the Plaza without any land damage.

f. A small amount of filled land back of the present Engine House, which could be used to advantage with the town lot for any purpose.

g. About 14 acres of land between the main line of the railroad and the Woburn branch, which could be filled at a small expense if the dam were removed, and would become available for business purposes.

h. A certain amount of land on the west side of Main street, between the street and Wedge pond, upon which a dam could be built at very small expense to maintain the present water level in the pond, or possibly raise it a little if desirable.

5 When the county ordered Main street to be widened the work opposite Whitney's mill was not completed in accordance with the requirements of the county. Mr. Whitney has an agreement with the town by which, when this part of the street is widened, two bridges must be built and the dam rebuilt and located, relatively to the street, in the same manner as at present, all this maintained by the town forever.

6 As a result of a lawsuit with the Metropolitan Park Commission Mr. Whitney now has the right to enter the Mill pond from the Parkway and build structures over the present pond; and of course he has the same right to enter from Main street; so that it would be possible for a private purchaser to cover this area with buildings of any sort or kind.

7 At the head of the stream which runs into the Mill pond there are about 30 acres of land, commonly known as "Mollie's Pasture." This naturally drains into the Mill pond, but at a nominal expense (probably less than $100) this 30 acres of water-shed could be turned into our reservoir. At present this can not be done without liability of damage to the owners of the Whitney property.

8 By the acquisition of this property it would be possible to divert Long Pond Brook into our reservoir and so add a considerable amount to our available water-shed.

9 The probability that in any of the various plans for abolishing the grade crossing which have been suggested or are likely to be suggested the acquisition of this property by the town would make the problem easier and might result in a great saving in land damages.

In general, the acquisition of this property by the town would assure the control for all time of the shores of our lakes and streams in the hands of the public and free the town from any danger which might result from the property being sold to private parties and built up in such ways as individuals might deem for their personal advantage.

Ever since I have been a resident of Winchester the question of the town's acquiring this property has been frequently discussed, but there has never been before, so far as I know, any opportunity to purchase it. Such an opportunity now exists. It is for the town to decide whether it will take it or not.

Lewis Parkhurst.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

A good idea is catching. The idea of observing in churches a special day for the recognition of children is now quite general, and parents and children are alike interested in it.

It is not easy to say who really first observed it. The honor probably belongs to a Universalist pastor. But the idea was contagious. The Methodists, with the "Immediateness" that is said to characterize them, were the first to put the day to permanently good account. At the celebration of the Centennial of American Methodism in 1880, a fund for Student Aid was initiated, to be gathered from the offerings of the children and others at the yearly Children's Day Service on the second Sunday in June.

In 1873 they began to aid needy students striving for an education. During thirty-seven years, 19051 young men and women have been helped to secure their training in schools and colleges.

Last year 2,072 students, representing 27 different nationalities or races, were aided. Of these young people 931 were preparing for the ministry, 103 for missionary work, 515 for the profession of teaching, and 403 for various other callings, such as engineering, forestry, medicine, law, medicine, etc. All these students were once Sunday School scholars and helped build the fund from which they may borrow now, and as the loans are returned they go out again to help others who could not go to college but for this timely and generous assistance.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The schools will close on Friday, June 23rd.

The High school graduation exercises will be held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, June 20th.

The Wadleigh school graduation exercises will be held in the Town Hall on Friday evening, June 23rd.

An important change will take place on the opening of the schools in the fall in that the offices of the Superintendent of Schools and School Committee will be transferred from the High school building to the Prince building. This change has been made necessary on account of the crowding of the High school, and more particularly by the necessity for more room for the commercial department of the school.

The school committee and superintendent of schools of Providence, R. I., are visiting the Winchester schools today.

There will be a Union Baccalaureate Service in the High School Assembly Hall on Sunday, June 18, at 7:00 p. m. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. John W. Suter.

The honor parts for the graduation day exercises at the High school have been assigned to Miss Eunice Homer, Madge Hovey, Miss Mabel Carlson, Miss Marguerite Waldmyer, Kenneth Caldwell and Harry Donovan.

The Senior Class will give their Promenade on Friday evening, June 16th, at eight o'clock. The committee in charge is Miss Mary Finn, Miss Gladys Spaulding, Lowell Smith and Kenneth Caldwell.

The committee in charge of the class day exercises of the senior class is Miss Marguerite Waldmyer, Miss Hannah Locke, Lowell Smith, and Walter Krauer.

Miss Alice B. Locke graduated from Dr. Sargent's school of Physical Education June first.

THAT WINCHESTER PATIENT.

The Claim is Just and Winchester Will Pay.

The Woburn News in its account of the meeting of the Board of Health of that city last week said:

The case of a Woburn man with settlement in Winchester, who was treated at the Choate Hospital for typhoid was re-opened by a communication from the Winchester Health Board in which they refer to an article published at the time in the Evening News giving an account of the affair.

May 29, 1911.

Board of Health,

City of Woburn, Mass.

Dear Sirs:

In regard to the matter I trust that you do not feel that the Board of Health of Winchester has in any way jeopardized your rights by delay on its part in considering the matter. I write thus for the reason that an article appeared in "The Winchester STAR", evidently reprinted from one of the Woburn papers would seem to give the impression that by delay on our part we have caused you injury, which of course is not so, as the whole question turns on the time and manner of the original notice.

As we have felt that Winchester is morally bound to pay this claim, and as we feel that we have no authority to pay it unless especially authorized by the town to do so, we have arranged to take the matter up at our next town meeting by inserting in the town warrant a vote authorizing us to pay the claim.

Trusting you will appreciate our position in the matter, we are

REV. JOHN WALLACE SUTER

Who has been Rector of The Church of the Epiphany for twenty-five years.

25th ANNIVERSARY.

The 25th anniversary of Rev. John W. Suter as Rector of the Church of the Epiphany occurred Thursday at the church, and was the occasion of a most unusual ceremony when Rev. William Lawrence, Bishop of Massachusetts, outlined six young men to the priesthood. The Arch-Deacon and Rev. Mr. Suter's class at Harvard were also present. Rev. R. Land Cotton Smith, Rector of St. John's Church at Washington, was the preacher. The following young men were admitted to the priesthood:

Rev. George E. Norton of St. George's Church, N. Y.; Rev. Clayton M. Legge of Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge; Rev. Ralph M. Harpet of St. Paul's Church, Boston; Rev. Gilbert L. Penhock of Emmanuel Church, Boston; Rev. Charles P. Otis of All Saints Church, Worcester.

It is an interesting coincidence that 25 years ago, June 8, '86, at this same church, were ordained to the priesthood: Rev. C. P. Mills, educational secretary of this diocese; Dr. R. C. Smith; Rev. G. A. Strong, rector of Christ Church, N. Y.; Rev. Henry Wood, rector of St. John's, Lawrence; Rev. John W. Suter, rector of Epiphany in this town.

These five men were present, as also Rev. W. S. Chase, rector of Christ Church, Brooklyn; Rev. Maximilian L. Kellner, professor of the theological school, Cambridge, who were in the same class with the five men in the theological school at Cambridge.

At 11:45 a. m., following the ordination service, there was the spring meeting of the archdiocese of Lowell.

An elaborate luncheon was served in the Parish House at one o'clock by the guests, arrangements being made to seat one hundred and twenty-five. The china, which was used for the first time, was very handsome and was hand painted for the society by the Misses Edith and Carrie Billings, the color scheme being green and white and gold. The silver and glassware also was used for the first time. The linen and table decorations were loaned by the ladies of the society. The floral decorations consisted of the June garden blossoms and lent a sweet fragrance and color to the pretty scene.

Mr. Suter was taken completely by surprise at his home on Wednesday evening when a box arrived containing a brass holder for a prayer-book, the gift of friends. It was used on the altar on Thursday and is a magnificent design of the Arts and Crafts style.

At the luncheon the tables were in charge of the following ladies and assistants: Mrs. F. D. Cleveland, Mrs. J. W. Suter, Mrs. Geo. W. Fitch, Mrs. Parker Hollbrook, Mrs. Wm. Kendall, Mrs. E. E. Murphy, Mrs. Addison R. Pike, Mrs. E. D. Chadwick, Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde, Mrs. H. D. Campbell, Mrs. Alonzo P. Weeks, Mrs. Joseph Thompson, Mrs. Wm. Sache, Mrs. Henry L. Houghton, Mrs. Carlton Mills, Mrs. Sylvester Taylor, Mrs. Minnie Ely, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. Louis Barne, Mrs. Henry Wilde, Mrs. E. O. Parnard, Mr. Walter Cummings, and Misses Edith and Carrie Billings. These ladies were assisted by the young Epiphany Guild, Miss Elmer Hart, president. Mrs. T. E. Thompson was chairman of the luncheon and successfully carried out the details.

REGATTA AT BOAT CLUB.

The Lawson Trophy Race, paddled by boys from the suburban High schools, will be held on the 17th of June on Mystic lake, and in connection with the event the Winchester Boat Club will hold a regatta and dance.

During the month of May the membership of the boat club was increased by twenty-five and the interest among its members is such as to promise the most active summer in its history. The non-resident membership of the club is up.

The afternoon of the 17th will be given over to the Lawson race and a program of water sports both entertaining and exciting. In the evening the dance will be held. The club holds a regular Saturday night hop this week.

THE WATER PARK QUESTION

A Popular Objection Answered.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On reading the admirable report of the Waterways Committee, the first thought is that the landscape architect and the Committee itself are disposed to be very liberal with the town's finances notwithstanding the great benefit which will eventually come to the town if the recommendations of the report are ever carried out. The second thought is that three-fourths or more of the projected improvements can be well left for future development and only the embryo of the great promise of what may be in the future be taken care of now. The main thing at present is to get public possession of the private mill property which should have passed into public possession long ago. It would seem at first that the price the committee recommend to pay for the mill property, water rights and land is much too generous compared with its assessed value. But when we consider what great benefit the public is to receive which is not assessable, something which will be a joy forever, the price does not seem so high. For instance, would the community think of returning the large amount of money which has been paid the former owners of business plants once situated near the mill property, and restore the old order of things which existed before the playground was established? Not for a moment would the public think of restoring the tannery, coal yards, lumber sheds, tenement houses, freight yard, livery stable, etc., for ten times what was paid for them by the community. Yet assessed values were not much respected when all these properties were taken for public use as the records plainly show. The Hawes Bros. livery stable was assessed for $650 and $20,000 was the price paid for the property for park purposes. The tannery, shut up and out of business, was assessed for $23,800 and $30,000 was paid for the real estate alone. Emerson & Co. lumber and coal yard was assessed at $950 and its value to the public was $30,000. Alexis Cutting received over three times assessed value for his property as did Francis J. O'Hara. Probably these business firms did not net much profit from their sales, liberal as the prices paid seem to be, as the purchase money was largely paid out in purchasing and fitting up new quarters. None of these Winchester citizens had any legal controversy over what they were to receive. They were paid willingly and each award was approved by the Winchester Park Commissioners as the law provides that local park boards shall approve all takings of the Metropolitan Park Commission. Of course the expense of moving and fitting up new places of business is a large element of damages in taking business property, and assessed values have nothing to do with this phase of taking private property for public uses. In thinking these things over, and considering the character of the business carried on at the old Winchester mill and the water power which cannot by any possibility be moved, a sober second thought acquires the committee of being over liberal, over generous in recommending the purchase of the property at a higher price than its assessed value. It is to be hoped that all will support their recommendation to at least purchase the mill property, if nothing more is done toward carrying out other recommendations in their report.

A. B. MILLS' STORE SOLD.

The kitchen furnishing store of A. B. Mills on Mt. Vernon street has been bought by Mr. J. A. Murray of this town, who will continue the business, being now open to former customers. Mr. Murray has been associated with a large kitchen furnishing store in Boston for many years and is thoroughly competent to give continued satisfaction.

Mr. Mills has decided to retire from business. His recent severe sickness had caused the temporary closing of his store, and with his recovery he decided not to continue. At present he is much restored in health, which is a source of gratification to his many friends.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator has heard of a great many ways of keeping flowers fresh, but recently read of a new way, and that is to put a piece of lint sugar in the water into which the flowers are to be placed.

A certain man gave a STAR reporter an item the other day and said: "Don't mention my name; every time my name is printed it makes my wife mad."

A woman carrying a basket walked out of a store with the end of string from the ball in the shoe next to the basket. She walked some little distance from the store before she noticed the string. She freed the string from the basket and walked on leaving the store keeper to wind up the string.

How lonely in these days must be the person who does not understand to appreciate the game of baseball.

Because a woman came near being drowned in a bath tub it by no means follows that bathing is dangerous. Most persons are so constituted that they are not likely to fall away when they come in contact with water.

The Winchester is verily missing half of its life if it does not get up to see these glorious sunrises. The wonderful pictures that are lined against the sky from the moment the early rays begin to tint the clouds until the golden orb is completely above the horizon, compose a series of beautiful panoramas that change every second with all the picturesque variety of the kaleidoscope. Aside from this it is a daily reminder of the fact that the sun is a lot of good to get up early and fill his lungs with the pure air.

The Spectator knows a man who is in juggling his health seriously by trying to save a little money. This is a wrong. It is foolish. No man should try to shut off his economy in the food and drink which is the very foundation and source of a man's success in life. One of such a man has the right idea of the whole matter when he says: "The most precious investment a man can make is to be just as good to himself as he possibly can, and never under any circumstances, pinch or economize in things which can help him to do the greatest thing possible to him. There is no doubt that the efficiency of millions of people is kept down in my part by improper diet. Many a man who thinks he is economizing in time and money because he spends only 15 or 20 cents for his lunch may lose dollars in possible efficiency because of this short sighted economy."

The Spectator suggests a new course of study for the public schools of Winchester. It would not be science or a language, it would be just about Winchester. "The Queen town of the Commonwealth." Some kind of a text book should be gotten up and the teacher could use them to teach the children something about Winchester. The Spectator is firmly convinced that the study of the town would become a very popular one.

A certain youngster cheated Uncle Sam the other day. He was asked to mail a letter. After a few moments he returned and handed the lady two cents which she had given him to pay for the stamp. "I mailed until nobody was looking," he explained, "and then dropped the letter in the box without any stamp."

A little friend of the Spectator's was sitting on the doorstep the other day, when a man came along and said: "Has your mother any matches to mend?" "No," replied the youngster, "but she has stockings to mend."

Every time the Spectator hears of an operation for appendicitis, he feels shooting pains down where he believes his appendix is.

People no longer believe in witchcraft, but can any reader of the STAR really think of anyone who has not some other foolish notion?

The police have children a good deal like children's parents do—think of a good deal more than they do of it.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Spectator and other persons to whom "the boy scout movement does not appeal at all" are evidently misled by some imitation. The real thing is not military and does not depend on drill; it is educational and character-building. Half a million boys are enrolled as Boy Scouts of America under the leadership of Ernest Thompson Seton (who lectured in Winchester not long ago). Everybody interested in boys as future men and citizens would do well to read the official handbook (especially the introduction) and bulletins particularly Nos. 1 and 51. The book is sent by mail for thirty cents. Headquarters are at 124 E. 48th Street, New York; there is a branch office in Old South Building, Boston.

The death of the pet horse of Mr. John W. Larkin was a rather singular coincidence. Mr. Larkin, formerly of this town, with Mrs. Larkin, was spending a few days at their cottage here and had sent for their pet, as they intended shortly to leave for their summer home at the Rangeley's in Maine, where they had taken him with them for a number of years. He had been perfectly well all winter and seemed pleased, as he always did, to get back to his little stable in Winchester. He died very suddenly Monday night. He was 29 years old and had always been owned by Mr. Larkin since he was a colt. For many years he carried his master from his home here in Winchester to the station and back. In all the years since they left here, he never forgot his old home and always gave a longing look toward it when passing. He was very gentle and had been driven by Mrs. Larkin in Boston, for years. It was always their wish he might end his days in Winchester, which he did and was buried on Memorial Day.

Last Friday afternoon at four o'clock the fire department was called to an Italian residence on Cedar street, in response to an alarm from box 25. The fire was caused by a partition in the cellar being built against the chimney at the chimney, had ashes dropping down setting it on fire. The blaze was extinguished with a hand chemical. On Saturday noon the firemen were called to another Italian house on Irving street. Here the woman of the family had attempted to clean a hot stove with benzene. She had a rag saturated with the fluid and a hot bottle. The rag had been up and the bottle exploded. It is thought that she threw the bottle away from her before it exploded, as she was not injured and the explosion appeared to have been in the middle of the floor. Firemen living near the scene had the fire practically extinguished before the arrival of the centre apparatus.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

A Plain Statement of Facts Regarding Street Name.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In order that the citizens of Winchester may understand my position concerning the street recently accepted by the town and formerly called Ogden avenue, I take this opportunity of throwing a little more light on the situation.

When I came to Winchester several years ago, it was with the intention of permanently making it my residence, and I determined even at that early date to become a citizen and voter of the town as soon as that outcome could be brought about. I found, on investigation, that being of English birth this would take several years; but I at once started proceedings and will be eligible to become a voter of this town in a very few months. While in town, I have endeavored to interest myself, so far as I was permitted, in town affairs; I have paid heavy taxes, and it seems to me unfair in view of these facts that criticism should be made of me on the ground that I am not a voter, and not entitled to the recognition which a voter should receive. I am becoming a voter just as fast as the law will permit me, and I ask for fair play.

When the matter of naming the street came up at the last town meeting, the main, if not the only reason why the present name "Symmes road" was adopted, was that it would be a tribute to Rev. Zachariah Symmes, who was one of the ministers of the early English Colony, and who at one time owned three hundred acres in the southern part of Winchester. This was in face of the fact that practically the entire street had been known by the name of "Ogden avenue" for over ten years and that over three quarters of the abutters were opposed to any other name than "Ogden avenue." It has been, I am informed, the inviolable custom in Winchester for many years in naming a street to follow the wishes of the property owners who have property fronting thereon, and this is the first instance in the history of the town where the wishes of the abutters were not considered and complied with.

I have ascertained that the Symmes grant originally covered what is known as the Brock's estate and land, upon which is now located a large part of the territory adjacent to Everett avenue, Church street, all of Baron street, Herick street, Black Horse terrace, Main street from Black Horse terrace to Symmes Corner and beyond, including a large portion in the southern part of Winchester on both sides of the railroad. Most of this land included in the grant has passed out of the hands of the Symmes family, and has been laid out in streets and house lots. Much of the property has changed hands a great many times. The particular tract of land comprising about three acres of farm land developed by me, upon which Ogden avenue, so called, was located, was not purchased by me at the Symmes family at all, but of Harrier and Helen Wellington in 1906, who made no suggestion whatever as to the naming of my proposed streets. In laying out the tract, and in adopting my family name, as a name for a street, I followed what I was informed was the usual custom in town, and not at all had taste; there being a large percentage of cases where the street was named after those who developed the land. "Lloyd street," which is on the grant, was named after the son of a prominent citizen of Winchester without any criticism; and "McCall road," a street laid out on Myopia Hill has been named after another prominent citizen upon land developed by him. That, in view of this circumstance, I should have been so harshly criticized by a gentleman of national reputation at the last town meeting for using my family name as a street designation seems to me to be very unkind, particularly in view of the fact that the learned gentleman was plainly mistaken in stating that there was no precedent for my conduct and that no one had ever heard of the prominent gentleman above mentioned ever desiring to have streets called by their names.

When Lloyd street was accepted there was no objection made, because it was a name, and I have no doubt but that when McCall road is presented for acceptance, no one will ask to have the name changed. Just how it is going to be an honor to the Rev. Zachariah Symmes to have a short street not over a thousand feet in length bear his name, I am at a loss to discover. If the Reverend gentleman is to be honored, would it not be much more in taste to apply his name to Baron street or some street on the original grant of some relative importance. If he were here today and were the Christian gentleman I understand him to have been, I truly believe that he would be the last person in the world to desire to perpetuate his name in the products of another man's energy and enterprise, particularly where the land had some time ago passed out of the control of his immediate family, and the other man's name had been accepted as a street name by a majority of those who lived on the street.

My attitude has always been that I did not absolutely insist upon my name being used, and so far as the abutters were concerned that I would approve of any name the majority desired, and would cheerfully yield my desires to the will of such majority. The attitude of my opponent as announced at the hearing before the Selectmen has been that the street should be called "Symmes road" or nothing; and that if any other name were adopted, he would sue the town for damages, or compel the abutters to pay for the use of the small portion of the street which lay directly adjacent to his premises. This, I have been advised by lawyers is a position which could not be maintained, but it serves to illustrate the bias of my opponent. Adjoining the tract developed by me are several acres of farm land still owned by the Symmes family, and were never located on the original grant; why could not this land be developed and a street opened and named after its owner? Why should they wait for the laziness and energy of others to lay out a street, to which the family name would be applied.

In answer to the criticism that I have got my pay for developing the property, I respectfully acknowledge that such has been largely the case; but at the same time the Symmes family have also been paid for any rights which they had by the reason that the small portion of the street entering Main street was purchased as a right in my fee from them and for a money consideration. It was not required of me to provide any outlet to Main street, the way opened up on the land bought by me at the Wellingtons affording an outlet to Main street which was all that my grantees could require. My purchase of the right of way to Main street was, therefore, a free gift by me to my grantees, and the condition of the purchase was that this small section of the way (140 feet), should be called Symmes road until accepted by the town. Then again, because of my development of the Wellington property, the adjoining property owned by the Symmes family has greatly increased in value, for which increase they have paid nothing and done nothing to secure.

My main reason for setting forth the above facts is that my reputation as a public spirited citizen has been attacked, and that it is to the voters of Winchester that I must make explanation and secure vindication at my position. Had the citizens at the last town meeting been in full possession of the facts, I believe that the outcome would have been different, and that the stamp of public disapproval would not have been placed upon my efforts, which, though actuated mainly by business motives have not been so far commercial but that I have taken care to bring to Winchester a very desirable class of householders and to render attractive a portion of the town which has hitherto not received a great deal of attention.

"THE COLGATE SYSTEM"

OF VACUUM CLEANING

This is the most practical and economical system of Vacuum Cleaning. The Vacuum process has come to stay, but before it could be considered a NECESSITY rather than a LUXURY, there had to be some practical method of applying it.

Previous to "The Colgate System," Vacuum Cleaning was so expensive that a home could be cleaned only once or twice a year, for $25.00, by means of this system, it is economical and practical to have your home cleaned EACH week. This is difficult to believe, but it is a fact which my subscribers are proving for you. ASK THEM!

Earl Wilson's Experiences in New Mexico.

John T. Wilson, Esq., has received the following interesting letter from his son, Earl, which will be of interest to readers of the STAR. Mr. Earl Wilson is one of Winchester's progressive boys whose progress in the affairs of life has been rapid:

Rock Island, N. M.
May 29, 1911.

Dear Father:—

The last time I wrote you was from Monahans, Texas, and I told you I was preparing to go out with the party that was to survey the New Mexico-Texas boundary line. We left Monahans on the 15th of April, arriving at the south east corner of New Mexico a little before noon of the 17th. In the afternoon of the 17th we set the new south east corner. It consists of a solid cement base thirty inches square under ground, a corner of cement thirty inches high above the ground with a brass plate on top. We are now over two hundred and twenty miles north of the south east corner, leaving about ninety miles to go. We have not experienced as much trouble getting water as was expected, although we haven't had all we wanted all the time by any means. The tank wagon has had to make a few rather long trips after water but not many. The outfit consists of three four-horse wagons, one two-horse wagon, one four-horse team, one cow, one dog, one horse, one mule, one pack animal, one surveyor who is the head of the party, the U. S. Commissioner who is Ex-Senator Cockrell of Missouri, the Texas surveyor and assistant, four engineers, one flagman, four teachers, one cook and a banker. While we were down in the sand hills I killed a rattlesnake a little over four feet long having nine rattles. A day or two later another fellow killed a much larger one but it only had six rattles.

We saw several cattle spring roundups and it is very interesting. One night a bunch of cow-punchers were camped within a stone's throw of our camp and so we visited each other, and swapped stories. Our experiences were a good deal more varied than theirs.

We saw several bunches of antelope, which are fast disappearing. People are not allowed to shoot them, but nevertheless lots are shot.

Last night we had a cloud burst and lots of hail. Our camp was neatly washed away. I've never seen rain fall so heavily and so much in such a short time.

We are now camped on the New Mexico side of the line, along which the famous X. I. T. run outfit has its base. The X. I. T. people had, and I guess still have, the largest ranch in Texas. Originally the ranch consisted of 3,500,000 acres but it only has about 2,000,000 left. One of the ranchers from an X. I. T. range house was over here tonight. During the conversation he happened to mention the horse pasture and when asked its size he said it was about 30 by 50 miles; somewhat of a pasture, is it?

Things seem to have quieted down in Old Mexico. I'm glad I saw Juarez before the siege and burning.

Senator Cockrell was a Brigadier general in the Confederate army, he also served thirty years in the U. S. Senate. His war experiences are many and interesting.

Tomorrow is Memorial Day. The great event in the year for you, and my birthday. I hope you will write me and tell how everything went off. I would certainly like to be with you.

Affectionately your son,
Earl.

No false pretense has marked the career of Ely's Cream Balm. Being entirely harmless, it is not responsible like the catarrh snuffs and powders, for minds shattered by cocaine. The great virtue of Ely's Cream Balm is that it quickly and completely overcomes nasal catarrh and hay fever. STRATTON—BANCROFT.

The wedding of Mr. George Raymond Bancroft of the firm of Bowser & Bancroft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Bancroft of Stoneham, and Miss Grace Marian Stratton, daughter of Rev. Frank K. Stratton of Melrose, took place on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the First Methodist Church, Melrose. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. E. C. Bridgman of Springfield, brother in law of the bride.

The bride was groomed in white marquisette over white liberty satin, trimmed with princess lace and wore the regulation veil. She was attended by Miss Kate McMullen of East Boston, who wore blue marquisette over blue messaline. The bridesmaids were Miss Annie Brigham of Springfield and Miss Bessie F. Smeltzer of Norwood, who were dressed in yellow silk muslin. The bride carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and her maid of honor a bouquet of the same flowers in pink. The bridesmaids carried baskets of yellow marguerites to match their costumes. Mr. Fred Herbolzheimer of Reading was best man.

The church was decorated for the ceremony with palms, mountain laurel and daisies, the color scheme being green and white.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple held a reception in the ladies' parlor of the church, continuing until ten o'clock. The ushers for both the ceremony and reception were Messrs. Warren Sleeper of Stoneham, Clarence and Harry Baxter of Belmont, Earl Bucknell of Stoneham, E. Ernest Blittrich of Dorchester and Ralph Bancroft of Melrose.

At the conclusion Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft left for the home at Dr. R. R. Stratton, where a private reception was held until their departure on their wedding trip. They will be at home after September fifteenth at No. 35 Myrtle terrace, Winchester.

WICKER—RICHARDSON.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Postmaster and Mrs. J. Winslow Richardson on Wednesday evening, June 7th, when their daughter Edith, was united in marriage to Mr. Edson M. Wicker of Cambridge by Rev. P. I. Oshorne of the Second Congregational Church.

The bride was dressed in white crepe de chene over messaline and carried white roses. The maid of honor was Miss Harriet E. Day of Boston, who was dressed in white chiffon cloth over pink silk and carried pink sweet peas.

Miss Jean MacLellan of this town and Mr. Edward Hathaway, Jr., of Rev. sang the Bridal Chorus from Lullaby and Mr. Robert M. Stone of Cambridge presided at the piano.

There were about fifty guests present. A reception followed the ceremony, the couple being the recipients of hearty congratulations from their friends.

Upon their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Wicker will reside in Cambridge.

MAKECHNIE PUPILS RECITAL.

The annual violin recital of Mr. Ernst Makechnie's pupils will take place at Chantry Hall, 585 Boylston Street, Boston, Tuesday evening, June 17. This is an event which interests a number of young people of Winchester and their parents, most of whom have already obtained tickets from Mr. Makechnie at his residence, 238 Elm Street, West Somerville. An unusually attractive program has been prepared for this occasion, beginning with Wagner's Tannhauser's March, rendered by the full violin orchestra. Those who heard last year's recital in the same place were very enthusiastic regarding the performance.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Entered at the post-office at Winchester as second-class matter.

An amateur farmer on the west side of the town calls his garden the "cut worm" nursery.

The Woburn boulevard bill has been voted down in the lower branch of the Legislature. It will not pass, however, and next year will see the fight on again. It is a case of taxation without representation, as Woburn is several miles outside the park and boulevard system, and yet is obliged to pay its proportion of their cost and maintenance.

President Taft says that the opposition to the reciprocity treaty comes from the lumber trust and paper manufacturers, and without using names scores a New York firm, some of whose members recently appeared at the hearing before the senate finance committee in Washington ostensibly in behalf of the national grange and objected to the enactment of the agreement.

The Boston Globe says regarding the favorable report of the Mass. Senate Committee on direct nomination: "The passage of the bill means a radical change in political conditions in the Bay State, and machine government will be dealt a severe blow. It will be the most important forward stride that the people have been able to make for many years." As the Representatives and Senators are supposed to be the servants of the people, why should it be necessary to compel them to give the people what they ask and demand. Eliminate the politician and then the people will have true representation.

Apparently the Board of Health of Woburn became needlessly excited over the refusal of the local Board of Health to pay for treatment of a Winchester man at the Choate Hospital in that city, particulars of which were printed in the STAR several weeks ago. Winchester has no desire to shirk its just debts, and this bill would have been paid long ago but for an oversight on the part of the Woburn Board regarding the method and the time limit of presenting such bills. The local Board at the coming town meeting will ask the citizens for authority to pay it—a requirement which is absolutely necessary before the bill could be paid.

Representative to the Legislature.

The discussion that has already arisen concerning the advisability of returning Mr. Fay for a third term is more serious and far-reaching than might at first sight appear. Granting all that can be urged in advocacy of the proposition, it must not be forgotten that the conditions are exceptional, and principles which might apply in normal cases may not hold in this. The long-standing arrangement between Winchester and the Medford wards should not be neglected or even modified until after due deliberation. And indeed at the present time it does not seem desirable to make any change at all.

Town Meeting.

The meeting next Monday evening merits as full an attendance as the annual meetings in March, and every one who can possibly attend ought to be present. Several matters of the deepest concern to the present and future welfare of the town are contained in the warrant. The most vital of all, and one which is not second in importance even to the grade crossing question, relates to the waterways problem. The report of the Waterways Improvement Committee deserves exceptionally careful study and consideration. The Committee itself is brief, but none the less forceful and convincing in its findings. The expert is clear and painstaking, and plainly points at the immense and priceless opportunities to promote the beauty and attractiveness, as well as the health and comfort of the citizens. And all these things have a direct money value as well. Winchester should develop and is likely to develop, as chiefly a residential town; and the improvement of the waterways will contribute more than anything else that can be mentioned toward attracting new residents, improving property, and adding to valuations. The opportunity is now ours; if we neglect it, it may never come again; or if it does come, the experience of countless other towns and cities proves that it comes at an enormously increased cost. For the sake, partially of ourselves, but chiefly of coming generations, let us not allow this chance to slip through our grasp.

An Important Meeting.

The town meeting of Monday evening next will be, perhaps, the most important and far-reaching the town has ever held. The warrant has been distributed; study the articles in it. The Committee on Waterways Improvements asks for $100,000, and if the citizens decide not to vote the money at this meeting, the matter is certain to come up again. Aside from the grade crossing question there is no improvement so important as this regarding the future of Winchester. It is a business proposition, and if carried out will be a good investment for Winchester by drawing here people who desire to live amid beautiful surroundings. If the present deplorable conditions of our waterways remain as they are at present, the tendency will be to drive people away. The expense of the improvements contemplated, if carried out, will be more than returned to the town in a few years.

The committee on new fire station asks for $50,000 for a new station. In view of the fact that the grade crossing question has not yet been settled, it might be well to wait a little longer, so that the citizens could be given an opportunity to see what the conditions are to be after the method of abolition has been finally decided upon.

A measure that should be handled with caution, is that to permit the town to exceed its ten percent of the expense of abolishing the grade crossing to secure the adoption of the so-called town plan. Up to the present time there has been no clear statement of just what this scheme will cost, the expense being variously estimated at all the way from $350,000 to over $500,000. The citizens should know beforehand what it will cost, and to go ahead and do this work under any other condition would be a grave mistake, no matter how able the committee having the matter in charge. The last vote of the town was in favor of gates at the crossing, but this having been deemed impracticable if would seem that the method of abolition is now again before the town.

Other important matters are a new heating plant for the Town Hall; Saturday half holidays during June, July and August for town employees; additional money for maths, and the cemetery, etc. So that from a money point of view, the meeting should have the attendance of every taxpayer in town.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

It was expected that "Little Lord Fauntleroy" would be successful at the Castle Square, but its triumph has far exceeded all anticipation. In consequence Mr. Craig announces that it will be continued for a second week, and that Henrietta McDannel will repeat her notable performance of the title character. Miss McDannel's success in this play has been as remarkable as her success as Peter in "The End of the Bridge," and she contributes no small proportion of its triumph. The other leading roles are acted by Mr. Russell, Mr. Meek, Miss Binley and Miss Coleford.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The reason I have taken up so much time in town meeting is because others have not taken their share. However, I have not used the meetings to advertise "the beesness" nor to get square with those with whom I have had business differences. Come again.

Oh you Commoner! I hope you would take the bait but did not suppose you would swallow it; you are relied upon to furnish a large part of the meat for the steam roller, which you alone have said is used in our town meetings, for figuratively speaking it is a hot air machine. You will also take the part of an eccentric.

The only people who will have any influence in deciding the Winchester end of the expected grade crossing agreement are the registered voters who attend and vote at the town meeting. Make a note on it.

What kind of "spineless angle worms" can there be at Winchester Highlands to allow a contractor to hold them up on a public highway on such a legal holiday as Memorial Day? It is fortunate indeed we did not have such "things" in '64. What do you think would have happened in Ward 8 if such a performance had been attempted? I am glad I have left those parts, but Mr. "By the Alterjona" still lives up there although his "poll, personal and considerable real estate tax" does not seem to have furnished him with any spunk. No wonder the old soldiers are disgusted.

The town meeting will probably be so warm that the Selectmen should consider turning electric fans. One of the warmest nights I ever, will be in remembering Symmes' coal and calling it Ogden road. I once wrote him it Squaw Sachem road.

The gentleman "By the Alterjona" evidently fears I cannot keep posted on town affairs and live out of town, but as I cover the town every few weeks over the electric and steam roads, see the gossips once a month or so and take the STAR, I think I know a little more about them than citizens who take the train at Wedgemere and Winchester Highlands, at the electric, and go through in Boston daily. As I happen to be on the committee to investigate assessing, I am interested to know whether or not the river resident makes a serious objection to that personal property tax refers to.

The Supreme Court said nothing new in the Standard Oil and tobacco cases, but Justice Brandeis' notions had prevailed and could have been enforced we shouldn't have known where we were at. The fact is and of necessity must be common sense.

Some of the big public service corporations are seriously considering establishing publicly owned utilities. There's progress for you. Charles Francis Adams advocated it forty years ago. The World do notice.

Some of the Boston papers say that Mr. Luce will have no serious opposition for lieutenant governor next fall but they are very much mistaken for the Democratic party will fight for every office on the ticket all along the line and Mr. Luce will be opposed by a candidate as honest, able and fearless as himself and also fully as good a campaigner and speaker. Representative and ex-Senator John H. Meany of Blackstone, Worcester County, is the bestorator in the present General Court. Mr. Meany is strong with the farmers and being from Worcester County the Republican candidates for both governor and lieutenant governor leaning from the extreme eastern part of the Commonwealth will help him very much. The Republicans have absolutely no hope of defeating Governor Foss and freely admit it.

The Democrats need to be very much more careful in selecting candidates for the House than they were last year as there is a good chance to elect a majority of the representatives for the first time in over half a century.

We should appropriate $150 more money for the 4th of July observance at next Monday night's meeting as the $400 voted at the annual meeting is rigidly, Winchester wants all of its town functions done in good shape and can afford to have them.

The present plan of the Central fire house committee is to ask the coming town meeting for an issue of bonds to purchase land and erect and equip the building. This might be all right if the grade crossing matter did not have a very important bearing upon it outside of any question of grade and the committee ought to tumble to it and let its report wait till a little later. We might be shown the plans however. J. H. C.

MUSICALES.

Notwithstanding the rain, about a hundred people attended Mrs. Lewis' pupils' recital Tuesday evening in Woburn Unitarian vestry, and enjoyed the program well rendered by eighteen young artists, whose technique and style showed the results of expert instruction. Mrs. Meyer of Wakefield, whose acquaintance Mrs. Lewis made in Germany, contributed a pleasing group of songs.

There will be another recital by pupils of Mrs. Lewis next Tuesday evening, June 13, in Metcalf Hall (Unitarian Church) Winchester.

CENTRAL FIRE STATION.

Report of committee on Central Fire Station.

At the annual Town Meeting of March 12th, 1906, the following was Voted: "That a committee of five be appointed by the Moderator to investigate the matter of building a new Central Fire Station and to report at some future meeting."

Committee appointed: John Challis, Clarence J. Allen, James J. Fitzgerald, Frederick E. Hovey, Nathan H. Taylor.

At the Town Meeting of October 22nd, 1906, this committee reported that owing to the question of abolition of Grade Crossings which was under consideration by the town and Railroad Company

"It was not advisable to proceed, notwithstanding the fact that the new Central Fire Station was a necessity. The meeting

Voted: "That the report of the committee be accepted and placed on file, and the committee continued for the purpose of securing an option in behalf of the Town upon such parcel or parcels of land, as, in the opinion of the committee, will be most suitable for a Central Fire Station; to secure a plan or plans for said station and to report to the Town their action for its approval at a future Town Meeting."

Acting under this vote, the committee presents the following report:

We have looked over available sites for the Station and have secured opinions on same. Have visited neighboring cities and looked at new houses and apparatus.

We believe that the Town requires a FOUR WAY truck house so constructed as to accommodate a steamer, a hose wagon, a ladder truck, a chemical or combination, and have ten sleeping rooms with the necessary furnishings.

Recommendations

a. That the Town purchase for the sum of $8,750.00, plus interest from date of option and necessary cost of insurance and examination of title,—the so-called Davis property on Vine street.

b. That the Town vote to add to this the Water Works property on Vine street.

c. That for the purpose of acquiring land, erecting and equipping the Central Fire Station ready for occupancy, the Town raise and appropriate the sum of $8,000 to be expended under the authority of this or some other committee appointed by the Town.

Estimates.
Land $8,750.00 plus interest and charges
House $3,000.00
Fire alarm $5,000.00

$15,300.00

The committee has not considered any changes or additions in the Fire Apparatus, believing that this committee was intended to consider only the problem of housing.

Votes have been prepared which will be offered later in the evening for your consideration.

John Challis,
Clarence J. Allen,
James J. Fitzgerald,
Frederick E. Hovey,
Nathan H. Taylor, Committee.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The regular June meeting of the local union is to be held Saturday, June 17, at the home of the president, Mrs. G. H. Hamilton, 31 Vine street, at the usual hour, 3 p. m. It is, however, to be held in connection with the outing of a group from the Frances E. Willard settlement of Boston and the day is impracticable both the meeting and the outing will be postponed until the Saturday following. Members are requested to make a note of this.

The children who come bring a basket of lunch, but fruit and drinks, lemonade, etc., are provided and the Union pays the car fares. Help towards defraying this expense will be gladly received if any one wishes to contribute something.

The children will do their share by entertaining those present with songs and recitations. Every one is invited. The Winchester Loyal Temperance Legion is also to participate.

This week Saturday the county convention of the Loyal Temperance Legion will be held in the Methodist Church and all interested are invited to attend the sessions which will be held at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Mrs. Helen G. Rice, State superintendent will be present and other good speakers. There will be a medal contest also and other interesting features. It is unfortunate that two of the local Sunday schools are to have a picnic on that day but it is hoped the others will be well represented. There will be a basket luncheon.

Maine is in the throes of the campaign for the re-enactment of the prohibitory amendment. So many Winchesterites go every year to the Pine Tree State for recreation that they have a personal interest in its laws. It is hoped that this year those who go will pay particular attention to conditions there and judge for themselves whether the open saloon would be an added attraction. Liquor is to be had there, it is admitted, but it is not legally sold and the traffic is not pseudo respectable. A whole generation has grown up unaccustomed to the open bar and its attendant scenes. Would you favor its reinstatement?

THE JUNE BREAKFAST.

Once more a June Breakfast has become a part of the history of Winchester and its Visiting Nurse Association. The fact that last year's scarlet fever epidemic necessitated the omission of the breakfast from the calendar of 1910 seemed to make its revival more popular than ever this season. Over eleven hundred tickets were sold before June 3rd, while over six hundred more were sold at the door. This means that about one-fifth of the residents of our beautiful town breakfasted at the Town Hall in a sort of general family gathering. Can anything more delightful be imagined? We are all more or less familiar with the formal evening banquet, which is the favorite form of entertainment for the men, and with the elaborate and fashionable luncheon which the ladies affect, but who of us would give a pang for either in comparison with a June Breakfast? The very word "June," in itself, is enough to conjure up any number of charming pictures, and when one has only to open his eyes and look about to find most of these pictures actually painted before him in the early morning sun-light, then it's no wonder that he arrives at the breakfast table with a smile on his face and a hearty "Good Morning" on his lips. And what a pleasure it is to find everybody else has come, too,—and in the same happy frame of mind! Nobody is thinking about what the other person has on or what sort of an afternoon speech he is going to make or which fork she is going to use next. Instead, everyone seems to be joking with his neighbor from the other less desirable side of the town, or telling his wife how much better the scrambled eggs taste than those at home, or looking out that the children don't fall into the oatmeal. For the children are there, big and little, and are the best part of it all. They add the finishing touch of sociability which makes the breakfast a big family party.

And a big one it certainly is. When one realizes that there were consumed on Saturday morning 24 hams, 30 tongues, 250 eggs, 50 pounds of butter, 128 doughnuts, 200 rolls, 33 pots of beans, 5 crates of strawberries, 5 bunches of bananas, 30 gallons of cream and 25 gallons of milk,—then it becomes quite apparent that it has taken many hands to plan and many hands to execute so large an undertaking. But experience has proved the best of teachers and the work of preparation is now so systematically planned and executed that everything runs along with comparative ease. Each of the thirteen tables has its head and from eight to ten assistants, while there are about thirty more at supply tables and other work. Altogether a total of over two hundred workers is required to run all the machinery.

But the very fact of working together diminishes greatly the arduousness of the labor and brings wonderfully towards promoting acquaintance and good feeling. In fact the June Breakfast is an excellent social institution. In many ways it works in a more general intercourse among our townspeople. It is a good thing for so many of us to get together in the interest of the same good cause. Just what the financial returns for the Visiting Nurse Association will prove to be cannot yet be positively ascertained but let us hope they may be worthy of the institution. May they be ample enough to warrant our looking forward to another summer for a repetition of that rare delight, a June Breakfast!

ANSON BURTON.

Anson Burton of Cahot street, a well known resident of this town for over twenty-four years, died on Tuesday. He had been in poor health for some time.

Mr. Burton was born in East Cambridge, his parents being Anson and Elizabeth (Harvey) Burton. He was a member of the well known firm of A. & E. Burton & Co., brush manufacturers of Pearl street, Boston. He was a Mason, being a member of William Parkman Lodge of this town and DeMolay Commandery of Boston; a member of the Unitarian Church, the Royal Arcanum, and previously of the Cohasset Club.

He leaves a widow and two daughters, Miss Edith and Miss Ethel Burton.

The funeral services will be held from the residence, No. 2 Cahot street, this Friday afternoon, at 2.30. Rev. William I. Lawrence will officiate. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

The large garage being built for Captain Anthony Kelley of Fletcher street is almost completed. The building is a very attractive one capable of housing two large motor cars.

CORSETS

Like all articles of great merit, P. N. Corsets with cork protected chaps, have many limitations. In P. N. Corsets are embodied the very latest ideas of corset building, ideas that have their origin in Paris, and which are reconstructed to meet American requirements. The multiplicity of models we carry enables us to satisfy the woman who follows fashions every whim and likewise the woman of more conservative taste.

Style 1818, Practical Side P. N. Corsets. Extra quality, corset with compass front chaps, wide ribbon and low trim, six compartments. Double of wheels make breaking lines impossible, these side chaps can be removed without tipping and reversed in pocket from time to time, thus insuring normal and slenderness to corset. This is an extremely smart model for the average figure with a tendency to large hips. It is so cleverly designed that the superfluous flesh about the hips is perfectly controlled and the figure molded to the modish lines of slender grace. Price

Style 1210, P. N. Practical Side Corsets $1.50. Style 824, high bust, Style 812, low bust, Style 806, short, 824, long, 818, summer net. Price

$1.00

WILHELMINA CORSETS

The manufacturers of most corsets spend a vast amount of money advertising and this money does NOT come out of the maker's pocket, but comes out of the retailer's, but if DRESSES come directly out of the corset. Wilhelmmina Corsets are not advertised, the maker preferring to put extra value in the corsets.

Style 880, Wilhelmmina Corsets. The like of which has never until now been shown, is not duplicated in value by any other corset on the market and will probably never be surpassed. Extra length, goal outfit, fine lace trim, four supporters, necked skirt look, draw strings, hook fastener at bottom. Price

$1.00

Style 884, Wilhelmmina Corsets. Long, $1.50. Style 888, Form Adjusting, Price

 Neuna Corsets, model 319, Baliste, low bust, model 321, Corset, medium bust, the two new summer models with "Lastings" side bands. This corset is better than custom made corsets at twice the cost. Price

CONGRESS DISTRICTS

Much Interest in N. W. Ones For Massachusetts

THE LABOR BILL IS VETOED

Governor Foss Held It Was Not Needed—Rights Conferred Already Held —Mayor Fitzgerald as a Ready Critic

The members of the legislature are considering congressional redistricting. The state has now fourteen districts and under the new apportionment which has been authorized by the lower house of congress would be entitled to sixteen. The United States senate has not yet endorsed the bill and thus the matter waits for the time being. Speaker Walker has said that he will divide the redistricting committee exactly between members of the two leading political parties—an attitude which has caused some Republicans to feel that it would be better to have the question of redistricting go over to the legislature of 1912, when a new speaker will be in the chair, especially as it is a delicate matter under any conditions to divide the state into congressional districts and takes considerable time.

If the whole matter does go over to the legislature of 1912 for action it will still be in time for the congressional election of 1912.

How the ongreasmen Stand
So far as known now Congressman Lawrence will be a candidate for re-nomination in the Berkshire district. There is no probability that lines will be so changed as to affect him in that district. It seems a foregone conclusion that however the district may be changed, it will still be Republican in its makeup. The same will undoubtedly be true of the second district, now represented by Congressman Gillett. Mr. Gillett has served the district a number of terms and thus far no intimation has been received of his not being a candidate for re-nomination. The Third district, which includes the city of Winchester, is represented by a Democrat, John A. Thayer, of that city. Radical changes may very likely be made in this district and it will probably be as strongly Republican as at present, no matter how its lines may be altered.

Congressman Wilbur of the Fourth district is willing to serve another term. It would be very embarrassing if, under the redistricting, two congressmen now sitting were to find themselves in the same congressional district. Such a situation might easily arise, especially in eastern districts which have the largest growth. Congressman Ames of the Fifth district, Congressman Gardner of the Sixth, Congressman Roberts of the Seventh and Congressman McCall of the Eighth are each expecting a re-nomination. It is said that a good many of the Boston Democrats would not be sorry if Congressman Andrew J. Peters of the Eleventh district should be lost in the shuffle. His district is made up entirely of Boston wards and has been Democratic during all the years he has been a candidate. Of course, William F. Murray, the new congressman from the Ninth district, might like a re-nomination and so would James M. Curley, now representing the Tenth district for the first time. Congressman John W. Weeks, representing the Twelfth district, would like to continue in congress and so would Congressman Green of the Thirteenth, and Congressman Robert O. Harris of the Fourteenth district. With the addition of two new districts in the state, there ought to be room for all the congressmen now sitting. It is natural that they should be very much interested in the redistricting plans of the legislature and that they should desire to be carefully looked after by their friends in the legislature.

Labor Measure Vetoed
Governor Foss has vetoed another bill which was backed by the labor unions. It was a bill to allow peaceful persuasion at the time of a strike and now that the governor has signed the fifty-four-hour bill, there will probably be no very great exception taken by the labor men themselves in this action, especially as they can bring it up again next year. The governor holds that the peaceful persuasion bill is not needed, as every citizen is already in full enjoyment of his fundamental right to argue peacefully whatever subject he pleases with anyone who will listen to him under conditions to which both agree. He thinks, however, that in matters relating to industrial problems, it often happens that persuasion passes into threats and menacing demands, ceases to be "peaceful," becomes a species of intimidation and compulsion, fosters enmity and leads to acts of violence. He adds that "we must have no statute which can be used to legalize, in the guise of peaceful persuasion, such means of intimidation and moral compulsion as I have referred to."

Fitzgerald as a Scold
Mayor John P. Fitzgerald is becoming a scold. He evidently believes the easiest way to divert attention from one's self is to make an attack on someone else. One day he attacks the city council because it does not immediately act favorably on all the loan bills and other matters which he sends to it, then he gaily turns to the Boston Bar association and criticizes that because some of its leading members opposed his election in the last city campaign. In a recent issue of his newspaper the mayor demands the official heads of Stephen O'Meara, police commissioner of Boston; of Charles Warren, chairman of the state civil service commission; and John F. Moors of the Boston finance commission, and demands the appointment of new men who will "work in harmony" with the city administration. It was only a few days ago that the mayor looked fiercely at Governor Foss and expressed the conviction that he would be a very heavy load for the Democratic party to carry this fall if he vetoed the bill to increase the pay of the Boston primary teachers. He has attacked Police Commissioner O'Meara, he has accused the Boston police officials of having been companions of thieves, and recently he made a bitter attack upon Joseph Lee of the Boston finance commission. To paraphrase the words of a famous couplet, he would:

"Count that day lost whose tow descending sun Views no attack on John A. Sullivan."

The friends of the mayor believe he should cultivate the cheerful spirit. They fear that if he continues in the way he is going, he will develop into a common scold and be amenable to proper punishment under the statutes for such cases made and provided.

BRILLIANCY.
Brilliant men like to have as their helpmates brilliant women. The essence of marriage is companionship, and the woman you face across the coffee urn every morning for years must be both able to appreciate your jokes and to sympathize with your aspirations. If this is not so the man will stray actually or else chase the ghosts of dream hopes through the graveyard of his dreams. Prettiness counts unless it is backed up by intellect. The merdy clever woman is nearly as bad as the clever man. All those people who carry most of their goods in the show window are headed for jobs at the button counter.—Elbert Hubbard.

A RECORD IN GUN FIRING.

The Heaviest Broadside Ever Discharged From a Warship.

The most dramatic incident of the gunnery trials of the new Brazilian battleships Minas Geraes and Sao Paulo, was the firing of an entire broadside simultaneously, making a terrible discharge, the heaviest broadside ever fired and an event unparalleled in the history of battleships. The five turrets of the ship were all trained on the port beam, all the ten guns being given an elevation of seven degrees and loaded with a full charge of 285 pounds of cordite. The ten twelve-inch guns, monster weapons fifty feet long, each discharged a shell of 850 pounds weight, making a total of 8,500 pounds "weight of metal." At the same time were fired the eleven 4.7 guns mounted on the Sao Paulo's broadside, each sending off a projectile weighing forty-five pounds and adding 495 pounds to the discharge, making up a total broadside fire amounting to 8,995 pounds—a record discharge of destructive projectiles. These vessels mount as light guns in addition six three-pounders on each broadside, which fired in action would bring up the total possible weight of metal fired from the ship to 9,003 pounds.

The most notable feature of the Minas Geraes is her superimposed turrets. The wings of the navigating bridge are removed for action, the turrets discarded and the ship swung back out of the way while the guns are being fired.—London Illustrated News.

New Form of Door.
One of the latest of human inventions is the door swinging on hinges at one side. Some evening insects, such as trapdoor spiders, employ a similar device, but nothing is too old or too good to escape the efforts at improvement of modern inventors.

A Belgian inventor has devised a door of a new type consisting of two triangular parts which close together on a diagonal line running from one lower corner of the door opening to the opposite upper corner. The two parts, or leaves, are pivoted in such a manner that when opened they swing into partitions in the ceiling, leaving an entirely unobstructed passage. Being carefully counterbalanced, the leaves require slight force to move them.—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Easy Arrangement.
Wife—Am I, then, never to have my way in anything? Husband—Certainly, dear. When we are both agreed you can have your way. When we differ I'll have mine.

CAUTION.
For he who fights and runs away
May live to fight another day,
But he who is in battle slain
Can never rise to fight again.
—Oliver Goldsmith.

"Thousands are looking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is looking at the branches. When the mortgage is in the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are looking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

In a slow, loose game with Woburn High school at Liberty Field, Woburn yesterday afternoon, the local High school team was defeated 19-0.

Tuck jotted for Winchester after the second out in the first inning, allowing fourteen hits, while Mobbs allowed three. But the heavy hitting was not the only reason for the large score—errors, passed balls, wild pitches, etc. accounted for many of the runs.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Weaver who allowed only two hits. Score by innings:

Largest Meeting and Most Important in History of Town.

Whitney Property Purchased for Town Park Purposes.

The record for the largest town meeting in Winchester was broken Monday evening, and for once the capacity of the great hall, including the small hall, and the galleries, proved to be inadequate to accommodate all who desired to listen to the most important meeting held in the history of the town. The ladies were present in unusual numbers and lined up in the back of the gallery was a long row of standers.

Of course the principal reason for this large gathering of the people was the great and far-reaching waterways question. The minds of the citizens regarding this scheme were made up before they entered the hall, the determination being to push it through regardless of all obstacles, and settle once for all this question that has been disturbing the tranquility of the inhabitants for so many years. The able, educative and convincing articles prepared by Mr. Everett N. Curtis, showing the conditions of the ponds and streams, printed in the STAR last winter, and the engineer's report sent out last week, made the citizens determined to improve conditions no matter what the cost. So that when a vote was taken there were but five dissenters.

In the end this will be found one of the best investments ever made by the town, and the result will be a truly Winchester beautiful.

The proposed new central fire station took up considerable time, and while the citizens were practically unanimous in favor of it, many believe that there should be a further postponement until the method of grade crossing elimination had been decided upon, but the advocates of the measure believe that the present intolerable condition had already existed too long and therefore they would agree no longer to delay.

TOWN MEETING.

The second session of the special town meeting was held last evening, there being a large attendance. The article calling for $50,000 for a new fire station was laid on the table by the vote of 247 to 86. The opinion prevailed that as the method of abolishing the grade crossing was so near, that the question should be held in abeyance. It was voted to pay Woburn $34 for medical treatment given to Matthew Dooley of this town. The policemen were placed under the civil service laws by a large vote. It was voted not to grant Saturday afternoon during June, July and August to town laborers. The Cemetery Commissioners were given $200 to establish a card catalog of interments in the cemetery. It was voted to establish a "Permanent Care Fund for Wildwood Cemetery" from the money given for permanent care of lots. The moth department was given $1200 additional to the amount voted at the March meeting. The question of appropriating $3500 to install new heating apparatus at the Town Hall was laid on the table. Mr. E. L. Braiddock presented a new plan for the elimination of the grade crossing. Pending his explanation, the meeting adjourned to Tuesday evening, June 27.

MARY J. RICHARDSON.

Mrs. Mary J. Richardson, aged 82 years, died at her home in Glengarry on Tuesday, June thirteenth. Mrs. Richardson came to this town in 1894 and for the greater part of the time since has made her home in Winchester. She was the widow of the late Charles A. Richardson for thirty-five years a proprietor and the Managing Editor of the Congregationalist. Though limited greatly by ill health through her entire life, yet in earlier years she was at intervals an able and enthusiastic worker for the best interests of church and community. Her later years in Winchester have of necessity been spent in retirement. She was a woman of large interests, and marked spirituality, and nowhere was this more evident than in her home, where through out-recurring periods of pain and long-continued illness, her buoyancy, of spirit, her courage and her faith never faltered.

The funeral service Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, was followed by cremation at Mt. Auburn. Beside her two daughters, Mrs. William F. Ray of Franklin Mass., and Miss Alice M. Richardson of this town, five grand children and three great grand children survive her.

Miss Marcia Hazelton gave a luncheon of twelve covers on Wednesday in honor of Miss Bernice I. Hilton, whose marriage takes place the twenty-seventh of June. Immediately after the luncheon there was a handkerchief shower and before the party broke up the bride was "showered" again.

There was considerable hostility shown by the citizens to the actions of Mr. W. L. Tuck during the debates, and at one stage of the meeting the Moderator had a strenuous time in trying to hold the indignant citizens in check. Mr. Tuck, it has really desired to assist in good legislation, is making a mistake in the reckless and uncalled-for manner in which his assails respectable citizens. Good and bad measures alike, presented by him, are voted down to show the feeling of resentment against him.

Mr. F. M. Ives was elected Moderator, and after the passage of the customary vote regarding rules for the conduct of the meeting, Mr. John T. Crossgrove asked consent of the meeting to take up article 14, regarding half holidays on Saturdays during June, July and August, to town employees.

Mr. John H. Carter was opposed to the motion, claiming that a deal had been made by the friends of this measure and those in favor of the new central fire station. Some years ago the town went through a similar deal, when the question of kindergarten schools was up for consideration, and then, as now, Mr. Crossgrove opposed the motion.

Mr. Crossgrove denied all knowledge of such a deal, and that there was any in the present case. The passage of this article only meant failing in line with surrounding cities and towns.

Mr. J. A. Lantry spoke in opposition, saying that it would be better to give the men a week with pay in winter when there was no work, than to shut down during the summer, when there was plenty to do, with the resultant illness of horses and machinery.

THE WINCHESTER

ASSEMBLY ROOM.

(Contributed.) "What is so rare as a day in June" may have a distorted but significant meaning when applied to the coincidence that the June breakfast and an overflowing town meeting should fall in the first half of this choicest month. It is hardly possible for one to attend both of these gatherings, one so profitable in fellowship and the other planning for the welfare of a coming generation, without seeing the desirability of the opportunity for periodic gatherings of a more spontaneous character. When one also sees the crowds which congregate on street corners and the overtaxing of the public library because there is no other place of meeting for those who momentarily do not wish to read, the fact is emphasized that it is well for a community not only to have a place for the children to play outdoors, but an equally appropriate space for recreation, instruction and communion indoors.

The proposed Assembly Room, for the conduct of which funds are now being sought, would make a focal point in the community life which would permanently express the spirit which is incarnated in the June breakfast and the town meetings. Whatever criticism one may have of the dilatory methods of a popular democratic gathering and the ubiquitousness of the seekers for the time-fight, such a gathering does inform the citizens and express their will in the way which insures their permanent edification and co-operation.

There are some who are temperamentally so individualistic that it is an effort to participate in such gatherings frequently; there are others who constantly feel the call of their kin; there are many who in their restlessness may become mischievous and who do not understand the stimulus and solace of human fellowship. The Assembly Room is designed to gather these latent communal forces, partly for momentary enjoyment, partly for intensive spiritual and intellectual cultivation, and partly to lay the basis of a sounder and more comprehensive community life.

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Murchick and Miss Jennie E. Skinner were guests at the Wain-Rankin marriage in Central Church, Berkeley and Newbury streets, Boston, on June eighth and at the reception at the home of the bride, 516 Commonwealth avenue, Capt. Homer H. Gram is of the Coast Artillery Corps, United States Army and Miss Rankin a graduate of Smith, class of '03. Captain and Mrs. Grant will tour England and Scotland during the next two months. All the brilliancy and attractive formality of a military wedding and reception, were enjoyed to the fullest by the three hundred or more guests present.

PROTEST BAD GOWN.

Residents of Cutter's Village Meet Board of Health.

The Board of Health gave a hearing Tuesday evening in the small Town Hall on a petition signed by 61 persons protesting against the odors coming from the Beggs & Cobb's tannery on Swanton street. It is a condition that similarly affects Winchester and is due to the inability of the Metropolitan sewer to take care of the sewage. The whole trouble comes from the fact that when this sewer was built the engineers made the fatal mistake of not building it large enough—a blunder that will cost a vast sum of money. Winchester is affected by overflow pipes that enter Black Ball pond when the capacity of the sewer is overtaxed, this filth being allowed to flow down the Aberjona river to Mystic Lake and also to settle on the bottom of the pond, river and lake.

In the case of Messrs. Beggs & Cobb they were forbidden further use of the sewer until all sediment had been removed from the waste water. This required the building of concrete settling pans, according to requirements of the Metropolitan Sewer Board, and these have cost the firm so far over $7000. It is the smell arising from these pans that causes the entire neighborhood of Cutter's Village so strongly to protest. The firm was represented at the hearing by Mr. William E. Beggs and Mr. Harry Cox, the superintendent. They said that the present condition was forced upon them by the Metropolitan Sewer Board because of the incapacity of the sewer, and the settling pans were built by their order. The firm, they said, would be glad and willing to adopt any remedy that might be suggested to suppress the odors. Chemicals to be used for that purpose would not be permitted by the Sewer Board. From their remarks, this large establishment, employing over 500 men, had been placed in a serious position by the command of the Board.

The petitioners to the number of over thirty, men and women, attended the hearing and all testified to the bad odor that caused nausea, sickness and the closing of doors and windows. It is a serious matter to these people, as was shown by the testimony presented by them. Selectmen Pond and Daly appeared and protested against conditions observable from Swanton street, where school children and women were obliged to pass by scintillating men at work close to the street. They thought that a screen or fence should be built to shut out the sights.

Messrs. Beggs & Cobb and the local Board of Health will, no doubt, find some way to overcome the odors, as the desire of the former is to remove all sources of complaint.

Among those who spoke at the hearing were: Patrick Heunessy, David Meskel, David Murphy, John Donovan and his wife, James Stevenson, Mr. Waddell, Daniel O'Loughlin and the Misses O'Loughlin. Edward O'Brien, Miss Nettie Morgan, James Blackham, John Matson.

At the request of the board of health the representatives of the company remained for a conference with the board. It was finally decided by the board that the conditions be adjudged a nuisance and the company be given six weeks in which to abate it. It is proposed to cover the basins and provide in some manner for the odor and gases to be carried away as far as possible.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

PICNIC.

The annual picnic of the Sunday School of the First Congregational Church was held last Saturday. About 250 attended, going by three special electric cars to Riverhurst on the Concord river.

The day was spent with spots of all kinds, ball games and other forms of recreation. Two ball games were played, one between the married and unmarried ladies and the other between the bachelors and benedicts. In both instances the unmarried teams won. The games were such that all could participate, and prizes were given for first and second places of ribbons. An amusing feature of the sports was the nail driving contest for the ladies.

The return was made at six o'clock, the party arriving at Winchester without a single mishap. The Woburn brass band accompanied the picnicers and furnished music during the day.

L. T. L. CONVENTION

About sixty delegates from various regions in Middlesex county north met in the Methodist church last Saturday. Winchester and Arlington were not very well represented owing to the counter attractions of Sunday school picnics, but Somerville, West Newton, Reading, Cambridge and Woburn were among others represented. Mrs. Helen G. Rice, state superintendent, was in charge. Mrs. Ada Frisbie conducted a medal contest, the winner being a little Italian girl who rendered a selection in a manner worthy of a much older person.

son. There was a very good program besides the usual reports. Harold Lutes of Winchester gave the address of welcome and members of the local W. C. T. U. assisted with the refreshments in connection with the basket luncheon. A number of visitors were present and some of them made brief addresses.

KENDALL—LAWRENCE.

The first church wedding for the month of June in this town occurred on Monday noon, when Frank Dana Kendall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kendall, and Miss Dorothy Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Lawrence, were united in marriage at the First Congregational Church. The ceremony was performed at noon by Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the church, and was witnessed by a large gathering of friends of the young people.

The edifice was decorated with palms, bay trees and daisies, the color scheme of green and white being carried out in a complete manner. Miss Jessie Marshall, the organist of the church, played the wedding march for the bridal party.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Lawrence, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Miss Katherine Lawrence, Miss Barbara Davis and Miss Rena Gerish of Malden, Miss Eleanor Wigham of Bedford, Miss Lena Reddon of Portland, Me., and Miss Elizabeth Mansfield of Medford. Miss Marjorie Lawrence and Miss Beulah G. Foss were little flower girls. The best man was Mr. A. Harold O. Foster of Medford.

The double ring service was used, the bride being given in marriage by her father.

The bride was gowned in a dress of white satin and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, her veil being caught with a spray of the same flower. The maid of honor wore yellow satin, her flowers being yellow daisies. The bridesmaids were gowned alike in white silk muslin and wore wreaths of daisies and carried daisy chains. The flower girls wore white dotted muslin over yellow and carried baskets of white daisies, which were strewn before the bride and groom on their way from the altar.

The ushers were Messrs. Harold Ireland of Newton, Horace T. Jenkins of Quincy, Russell Mosely of Boston, Frank Dow of Cambridge and John Tarnell and Harold Rhodes of this town.

A lunch for the wedding party at the home of the bride's parents on Glen road followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kendall left upon their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside at Monticello, Arlington in their new home recently finished.

17TH EVENTS ON THE LAKE.

The 17th will be a gala day for the Winchester Boat club, which will hold a regatta and dance during the afternoon and evening.

The water sports will open at 2 p. m. with the Lawson Trophy Race. This year the prize will be contested for by four crews—Medford, Woburn, Dedham and Winchester High schools. The race was won last year by Winchester high, a new record for the half-mile course being made; 3m. 46 sec. This was 15 sec. better than any previous race.

The race will start at the head of the big lake, opposite the Winchester Boat club, and will finish in front of the Medford Boat club house.

Following this race a program of water sports will be held at the Winchester club, in which the Inuit Canoe club of Woburn and the Medford Boat club have been invited to participate.

The sports will consist of the following:

Single blade, Tandem—lady and gentleman, Tandem, Tandem, Novelty—standing, Relay—2 men, Hurry-scurry, Tiltling.

At eight o'clock in the evening there will be a dance at the Winchester club for members and guests.

FOUR WEEK SESSIONS.

Editor of the STAR: The Highway which leads to Education is, at present, strewn with littered out boys, girls and teachers. Some of them are positively ill. One has swollen glands, another head-aches; one big boy faints while playing tennis; many complain they do not sleep well and one little boy has just discharged from his knee—a boy from a good home, who has always been well nourished, who keeps school hours. His only dissipation has been on much school.

He has been unable to recover from the strain of the six weeks' term of school, to which we were unjustly subjected this season. When Easter comes late, why should the school children wait for it? The writer is one among many parents who would like to see our Winchester schools adopt the plan, now quite general, of dividing the school year into periods of eight weeks—a week's vacation between each period. Of course one of the vacations should come at Christmas and it should be not less than ten days.

"PANDORA'S BOX"

Feta at "Aigremont" Will Be a Most Charming Entertainment

The presentation of "Pandora's Box" by the young ladies of Winchester, under the direction of Miss Mary Kellogg and Miss Hazel MacKay next Monday evening will undoubtedly be a most pronounced success.

Miss Kellogg's arrangement of the mythological story as told in the Star of June 2nd, will be interpreted by the young ladies of her dancing class in a series of charming dances accompanied by suitable music. A group of little girls takes the place of a Chorus; forming a background for the principals and filling in the intervals between the periods of the story's action. The music will be rendered by the Winchester Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. John Little, and as the staging of the performance is under the personal direction of Miss Hazel MacKay, a most artistic entertainment is sure to result.

The proceeds will be given jointly to the Hospital Fund and the People's Primary Assembly Room which it is hoped will be an accomplished fact by Autumn. The business arrangements are in Mrs. Gren Sanborn's able hands, insuring financial success. Everybody seems to be interested in the success of the entertainment and is working hard for it. Mrs. Sanborn has furnished her house and town; Miss Kellogg and her young ladies are giving a tremendous amount of time to rehearsing and Mr. Bicknell and Mr. Little have devoted much thought and time to furnishing music exactly suited to the various actions in the story.

The reserved seats are being taken rapidly but there remains practically an unlimited number of admission tickets which will be found perfectly satisfactory to their holders for the confirmation of the laws at "Aigremont" will afford a good view to a very large number of people.

The following is the cast: Pandora.....Miss Miriam Phinney Elnathem.....Miss Genevieve Robinson Mercury.....Miss Pauline Chamberlain Diana.....Miss Margaret French Minerva.....Miss Frances Elder Venus.....Miss Ruth Phinney Hope.....Miss Mary Kellogg Iris.....Mrs. George H. RECITAL.

The piano recital by some of the pupils of Mrs. Anna Soule Lewis Tuesday evening in Melcal hall was attended by about a hundred and fifty people, who enthusiastically applauded the splendid rendition of the program, which ranged from little pieces played by first-year pupils to various brilliant selections, including elaborate transcriptions from Mendelssohn and Wagner. Parents and friends, who from past experience could judge from a high standard, commented on the progress shown by the year's work, while those who came for the first time expressed amazement at the technique and musical style displayed by these young players. Varied and further enjoyment was added to the program by a group of songs sung by Mrs. Anna Pearl Meyer, whose beautiful lyric soprano voice and pleasing stage presence won great praise from critics in Germany, where Mrs. Lewis made her acquaintance when both were busy in musical Leipzig. About once a month Mrs. Lewis' pupils give an informal recital for their parents and friends, and the larger, more public recital, at the end of the season always gives great satisfaction to those who come to hear what young pianists can do under this teacher's expert guidance.

Among those who took part were Mildred Linscott, Adele Simonds, Amelia Burwell, Kenneth Nugent, Dorris Rodding, Brenda Bond, Hollis Riddle, Esther McCarthy, Consuelo Burwell, Clara Sellers, Ruth Stishop, Gladys Sean, Evelyn Buckman, Dora Gilbert, Langworthy Burwell, George Stearns, Lillian Knapp, Julia Randall, Marjorie Burwell, Barbara Wellington, Avis Sherburne, Evelyn Snow.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The Union will meet tomorrow, Saturday, June 17, at 3 p. m. for a brief business session, after which the children from the Willard settlement will entertain those present with recitations and songs. The Winchester L. T. L. will assist. Everybody interested is invited to see what is being done by the unique settlement. This group is composed chiefly of child workers and those interested in child welfare are especially invited. After the inspiring meetings of the past week, it does not seem as if any thinking person in the vicinity of Boston can fail to be alive to the needs and opportunities in this field.

Those who failed to attend the meetings of the section devoted to "Drunkennes" missed a great opportunity of getting the latest word on this important subject although, as Chairman Robert A. Woods said, it was a packed convention since everybody agreed that drunkenness is wholly bad, there were wide variations as to the best ways of dealing with it. A new plan was proposed by Prof. Hutton of Western Reserve University and evoked much interested discussion. It was to grant license at a nominal sum, and then charge up to the liquor traffic the cost to the community of caring for the effects of the abuse of liquor, the paupers and criminals and insane people directly chargeable to the traffic. This radical suggestion contains much food for thought. Even some brewers and liquor dealers who were present endorsed the plan in general. One of the good features would be the putting up the liquor sellers the responsibility of dealing with those members of the trade who violate the laws and bring discredit upon the others.

The temperance question cropped up again and again throughout the sessions, showing again the impossibility of dealing with any topic of social welfare to the exclusion of others. We stand or fall together in reforms of all kinds.

In the Superior Court at Cambridge Monday, Joseph A. Delorey was arraigned and pleaded guilty to a simple charge of assault and battery. Chiel McIntosh pressed the case against him; the original charge was one of a more serious nature. Delorey was sentenced for three years.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The other day The Spectator had occasion to be in a certain home where a revolver is kept in case of the advent of housebreakers. The revolver was lying on top of the dresser in the chamber of The Spectator's host and while the former was being shown some article of a sentimental interest, the gentleman's fourteen-year-old son entered the chamber and picking the revolver up, pointed it at The Spectator playfully. Of course the youth was merely fooling, but The Spectator can recall instances in plenty where that sort of humor has proved deadly. The parent, who kept a loaded revolver within reach of a minor, was severely rebuked by The Spectator and now that revolver is placed where only the father can reach it.

The merchants of Winchester have what The Spectator is pleased to call "news centers." Things are happening in the stores of Winchester, things that the public is anxious to know about. New goods are being received and the public wants to know what to buy and what it will cost. The merchant, who is unfamiliar with newspaper advertising, is about like an untrained reporter. Just as the latter may walk up and down the town untouched by the suggestions of good news stories springing up on every side, so the singular merchant fails to realize the human interest story in the goods he has for sale. A merchant who fails to advertise, or to advertise adequately and interestingly, makes as little impression on the public's desire to know the store news, as the newspaper with a big staff of reporters and editors who do not know a good news story when they see it in their field.

The Spectator is very anxious to see established a free dental clinic for the children of the public schools. The advantages of the idea are too numerous to point out here. There are many number of children here in Winchester—any reputable medical man will tell you that—who are backward in their studies because of trouble that a dentist could in short order remedy. The Spectator trusts that by the opening of the fall term of school something in this direction can be done.

The Spectator is inclined to argue with his friend, the Philosopher, that a man who brags very rarely makes good.

There are several ways of advertising. For instance, The Spectator dropped into a butcher shop the other day and the apron on the butcher was dirty. That was poor advertising.

The Spectator never thinks of hunting for a soft snap because he knows full well that one will never find a soft snap by hunting for it.

A clergyman tells The Spectator that the Bible continues to be the best seller. There are other "best sellers" of course and some of them are books no Winchesterite should read.

A gentleman argues that we have too many holidays. In the opinion of The Spectator he may be right to a certain extent, but he bends backward over the fence in the opposite direction. He gives The Spectator to understand that he would not object to celebrating Christmas and the Fourth of July, but he wants to bar all the rest. Evidently he forgets that wonderful holiday, Thanksgiving. There is no day in the year other than that, except Christmas, which reunites so many families here in Winchester and elsewhere and take so many minds off the cares of business and digging for money and moaning around in the same old dismal circle.

A gentleman tells me the following interesting story of two lads whose parents are next door neighbors, and who do not get along amicably as might be expected. A few days ago one of the youngsters (we will call him Willie) came hurrying to his mother, his entrance heralded by an anguished wail of woe. "Now what is the trouble?" asked his mother. "Why, boo-hoo, it's Freddie," he shrieked plaintively. "He's making faces at me." "Well," exclaimed mamma, "didn't I tell you not to play with Freddie?" "W-w-well," he sobbed, "I ain't playing with him. He's over in his yard making faces at me." "Oh, well," said his mother, "can't you make faces at him?" "W-w-well, boo-hoo, I did," wailed Willie; "but he's much homelier 'an me that he skins me every time."

The other day The Spectator saw a young lady employed in a store sharpening a lead pencil and he could not help reflecting that a woman sharpens a pencil as awkwardly as a man threads a needle.

A friend of The Spectator had a jumping toothache. Now The Spectator always deeply sympathizes with a person suffering from a jumping toothache and he advised the unfortunate Winchesterite to consult a dentist or he might have to do some lively jumping before Mr. Toothache got through with him. Recently The Spectator came across a very simple remedy for jumping toothache and he will give it publicly in The Star for the benefit of any reader who may fall a victim to jumping toothache.

Fill a small cup with boiling vinegar. Dip a piece of cotton wool into the vinegar and rub the gums; let the vinegar be as hot as you can endure. Stuff the aching tooth with some wool. In five minutes the pain will have ceased. Sometimes, however, two applications must be made.

Passengers on a late Woburn car line Saturday night were shocked when a woman some-what under the influence of liquor opened a handbag and extracted therefrom a flask of whiskey from which she drank copiously.

An automobilist gives The Spectator to understand that the present State automobile law is the very best one that any State has, and that any failures under it are due wholly to the non-enforcement of the statute. On the other hand another Winchester automobilist is willing to admit that a number of changes might be made with good results. The big fight, however, is against the establishment of a speed limit. But speed limit or no speed limit, the irresponsible crazy driver will continue to burn up the roads and slaughter the inhabitants.

Any Winchesterite can make a fairly good argument by letting the fellow who is against him do all the talking.

PLAYGROUND OPENS MONDAY.

The Park Commissioner's plan to open the playground on Manchester Field next Monday provided the weather is such that the final work necessary may be carried on with out delay.

Mr. William L. Caldwell of Dorchester, a junior in the Springfield Manual Training School, has been engaged as supervisor for this summer, and will be on hand to greet the children Monday afternoon. It is the desire of the Park Board that all of the children understand that the money appropriated and the apparatus provided is wholly for their benefit; not for elder people. Mr. Caldwell has many new and interesting games to occupy their attention and desires to have all of the children begin at once to use the playground in order that they may learn at once at the good times in store for them. His instructions from the Park Board are to give the children of Winchester the best summer they have ever had.

The equipment on the playground is being placed in position and will be supplemented this year by six new swings for the younger children.

New Paragraphs.

Waterfield lodge, accompanied by members of Victoria Rebekah lodge, attended a memorial service on Sunday afternoon in the First Congregational church. A special musical program was given by the church quartet and choir, and the pastor, Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, preached an appropriate sermon on the "Personal Touch." After the church service the members marched to Wildwood cemetery, where 18 graves of deceased members of the order were decorated.

Mr. Charles Young of Lincoln street has a new Maxwell touring car.

The Saturday evening hop at the Winchester Boat club last week was largely attended by members and guests, and was one of the best of the season.

Fireworks at Wilson's.

Memorial day was observed by the members of the Winchester firmen's relief association Sunday afternoon. Instead of a parade, as in former years, a committee in an automobile visited Wildwood, Calvary, Woburn, Stanham, Medford and Malden cemeteries and decorated 53 graves of former members of the department. The committee consisted of Ernest Polby, Ernest G. Beaton, Albert R. Liddy, Hugh Skerry, John Hamlin and John Moghnan.

Three more of the fine old "Deacon" elms were removed from the First Congregational Church property this week. The trees had been killed by some unknown cause. Last year an equal number of these trees were cut down for the same reason.

On Wednesday one of the large moulds used for the upright pillars for the new concrete building of the Winchester Laundry Co. fell when being hoisted to the fourth floor level. The huge box fell to the ground without doing any damage, a most remarkable fact in view of the number of men and sightseers constantly about the work.

The fire department was called by telephone during the heavy shower on Tuesday afternoon to the residence of George H. Spikes on Black Horse terrace. The fire was caused by a bag of fertilizer being left against the clean out of the chimney in the cellar, hot ashes dropping down the chimney causing it to ignite. There was no damage other than tilting the house with smoke. The fact that the lightning was very plentiful at that time led to the rumor that the house had been struck.

IMPROVED TELEPHONE SERVICE FOR WINCHESTER.

Telephone service in Winchester will be greatly improved on Saturday night, June 17, when the present switchboard in the central office on Washington street will be abandoned and every telephone subscriber will be instantly connected with a new switchboard of the most modern construction. Not a single subscriber will be inconvenienced by the change which is known among telephone men as a "cut-over."

In connection with the change in switchboards the central office will be provided with an entirely new power plant equipment and a new retiring room for the pleasure and convenience of operators will be attractively arranged in another part of the building.

All these changes have been made absolutely necessary by the great increase in telephone subscribers in town during the past few months. The present switchboard was put into service on Oct. 19, 1907. At that time it was anticipated the board would meet all the requirements of the exchange for some years. But since the new telephone rats went into effect a few months ago there has been a marked increase in local service.

In January, 1901, there were 304 telephone stations and 143 subscribers' lines in Winchester. In 1907 there were 838 stations and 250 lines. In January of the present year there were 1298 stations and 686 lines. During the past six months the subscribers have increased to 1324 in May with 775 lines.

On the present switchboard about 7185 local calls and about 3339 incoming calls from other exchanges are handled on an average every day.

The initial equipment on the new board will care for the requirements of the exchange up to January, 1912, when there will be about 1500 stations in Winchester originating about 8000 originating calls and about 2720 incoming calls every day.

The new board will have a capacity for caring for the needs of the central office until 1925, when it is estimated, there will be about 4000 stations originating 22,000 local calls and 10,000 incoming calls. It is expected that 30 operators will be required to handle all the calls in Winchester in about 15 years.

At the present time Miss Mary E. Cain, chief operator, has 17 assistants under her supervision, of which 11 are switchboard operators and the remainder are clerks. Wire Chief Thomas N. Farrell has two assistants employed in keeping the construction work in the best possible condition.

CHILDREN'S DAY CONCERT.

Children's Day was observed at the First Baptist church on Sunday afternoon by a concert given by the Sunday school. A full and interesting program was given before a large audience. The music of the afternoon was rendered by Miss Helen M. Palmer, organist of the church. Rev. Henry E. Hodge, the pastor, delivered the address on "Secrets of a Happy Vacation."

The following members of the Sunday School took part: Albee Romkey, Ruth Wishman and Rita Goodwin, Katherine Jahneman, Viola Bismarck, Henry Jones, Everett Ryan, John Plummer, Harold Lutes, Edmund Dilworth, Helen Plummer, Gertrude Felber, Ruth Linham, Esther Smith, Anne Skillings, Dorothy Riddle, Miriam Deloria, Ethel McEwen. The new court of the daughters of Isabella will be instituted on Sunday, June 24th.

"THE COLGATE SYSTEM"

OF VACUUM CLEANING

This is the most practical and economical system of Vacuum Cleaning. The Vacuum process has come to stay, but before it could be considered a NECESSITY rather than a LUXURY, there had to be some practical method of applying it.

Previous to "The Colgate System," Vacuum Cleaning was so expensive that a home could be cleaned only once or twice a year, but NOW, by means of this system, it is economical and practical to have your home cleaned EACH week. This is difficult to believe, but it is a fact which my subscribers are proving for you. ASK THEM!

Mr. Lewis Parkhurst offered the following:

Moved, that the Park Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to purchase for and in behalf of the town, for a public park, of Arthur E. Whitney, the Whitney mill property, so called, and described in a certain agreement of sale given by said Whitney to Lewis Parkhurst dated May 22, 1911, as follows, to wit: All those parcels of land including the mill, mill property, fowage rights and other easements belonging to the said Arthur E. Whitney and particularly described in two certain deeds, one given by John R. Whitney and others, trustees, and others, to Arthur E. Whitney dated July 21, 1903, recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 2541, page 201, and the other given by Everett W. Crawford to said Arthur E. Whitney dated August 2, 1910, recorded with said Deeds, Book 2541, page 21, but excluding out of said property the parcels excepted in said deeds, and also so much of said premises as lie between Main street on the west and the Woburn Branch Railroad on the east, with the right reserved to said Whitney to fill said last described parcel and to exclude fowage waters from whatever source; existing, also, all buildings and movable property of any name or nature, including the stone above the level of the ground under the mill on the mill lot, so called, and all stone from the mill dam above the level of the waste way if and when the use of said dam shall be discontinued, all of which buildings, movable property and stone shall remain the property of said Whitney, but with the right to said Whitney to abandon and leave upon said land such part thereof as he may elect; and executing also, to said Whitney the right to occupy, without rent, the said premises and use said mill as he is now accustomed to do, without hindrance for the period of one (1) year from the time of the delivery of the deed by him to the town.

REPORTS INVESTIGATED.

Many inquiries have been made within the last few days relative to the series of reports sounding like blasts or salutes at a distance, which are heard both morning and evening at regular intervals. It appears that the reports are the result of blasting at a large stone quarry in Winchester Highlands. Workmen are engaged in drilling holes varying from 10 to 14 each day and the blasts are set off by means of a battery charge about 7 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock in the evening.

The concern is a private corporation and ships the broken or crushed stone by freight to various points. During the rush season, holes are drilled in the evening or during the night, which accounts for the morning blasts.

There have been various versions relative to the nature or cause of these reports, varying from salutes in Boston Harbor to the war in Mexico.—Wakefield Item.

No false pretense has marked the career of Ely's Cream Balm. Being entirely harmless, it is not responsible like the catarrhic stuffs and powders, for injuries sustained by misuse. The great virtue of Ely's Cream Balm is that it quickly and completely overcomes nasal catarrh and hay fever. Mr. John T. Wilson then called for the previous question. The vote was then passed, yes, 433, no, 5.

Fire Station.

Mr. Freeland E. Torey presented the following motion:

Moved, that the town do build and equip a central fire station on land belonging to the town, now occupied by the water department, and adjoining land belonging to, and to be purchased of Freeland E. Hovey, and that the engine house committee appointed March 12, 1906 carry this vote into effect.

There was a long discussion over the passage of this motion, many citizens urging the meeting to wait until the method of abolishing the crossings had been determined upon and also that the acquisition of the town of the Whitney property might open up a more favorable site, including the present location of the fire station. Those favoring claimed that any elimination of the crossing would not interfere with the site selected by the committee. Realizing that the present intolerable conditions at the centre house had existed too long, Mr. Hovey's motion was carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

MOREY-SUXTON.

Edwin Morey of Nashua, N. H., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Morey of Winchester, and Miss Marlon Patten Buxton, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Buxton of Nashua, were married last Thursday at the home of the bride's parents, 114 Concord street under a floral canopy. The dining room was a bower of Killarney roses, and the stairway was festooned with asparagus vine and carnations.

The single-ring service was used by Rev. William H. Morrison. Leonard Lamb, a classmate of the bridegroom at Tufts college, was best man and Miss Anna Mann of Worcester, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. The ribbon bearers were cousins of the bride, Mark and Ruth Buxton.

The bride was given away by her father. The ushers were William W. Powers, A. H. Cotton, Roy Kendall and Albert Chandler.

The groom's gifts to the best man and ushers were stickpins, and the bride's favor to the maid of honor was a heart locket. The bride's gown was duchess satin trimmed with princess lace, and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of lilacs of the valley. The maid of honor was attired in pink satin and had a bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Morey were congratulated by 50 guests. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Morey will reside at 12 Hall avenue, Nashua.

The charger led at the funeral of a cavalry officer is a relic of the custom when a horse was sacrificed at the grave. An officer led the charger behind the bier to the brink of the grave and it was there slain and thrown upon the coffin. The last occurrence of this kind took place at Treves, Germany, in 1781.

1911 GRADUATION.

Fitting Exercises in the Town Hall Tuesday Evening.

Motto: Win it quite cheap.

On Tuesday evening the graduating exercises of the Class of 1911, Winchester High School, were held before a large audience of parents, residents and friends in the Town Hall. As during recent similar graduating exercises of the school, the capacity of the hall was taxed to its utmost in accommodating all who were interested in attending to the closing event in the history of the class in the Winchester High School.

The program opened about an hour and a half and was well presented. The High School chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Albert Edmund Brown, supervisor of music in the public schools, was as usual a prominent feature of the exercises. Mr. Brown's work in the schools has already received much favorable comment, and the work of this graduation amply fulfilled the expectations and upheld the high standard set in the Winchester schools for this branch of study.

Rev. Frank W. Houghton, pastor of the First Congregational Church, offered the prayer, and Mr. George C. Voth presented the graduates with their diplomas.

The orations delivered by Miss Homer, Miss Carlson, Miss Hurry, Mr. Caldwell and Mr. Donovan were well thought out and presented, owing to a recent illness, Miss Waldmyer, who was to have spoken on "The Conditions of the Factory Girl," was excused.

TUNE: THE WATER ON THE RUINS.

The day to part has come at last
To say goodbye to friendships fast
To teachers kind, and classmates true,
To our dear class we say adieu.
Nineteen eleven, all hail to thee,
Nineteen eleven, still true are we

Ref. Three cheers we'll give to-night for

Three cheers we'll give to-night for

Thou' far we roam, with hands to see Still true to dear old friends we'll be Where'er we go, what we we do,
To our dear class we'll all be true
Fair memories rise of school days past
Of friendships firm which long will last.

Ref. Three cheers we'll give to-night for

Three cheers we'll give to-night for

Then let our banners flaunt the sky
And let us to all dangers fly.

The Latest Plan for Eliminating the Grade Crossing.

PLAN FOR THE ELIMINATION OF THE GRADE CROSSING.

To the Citizens of Winchester:

Upon the request of several who complained that they were unable to understand the map shown at the last Town Meeting, owing to the fact that the red lines did not stand out well at night, I am submitting the above plan and description.

Mr. Vernon street runs straight, does not pass through the center of the town, but passes to the rear of the business blocks, (as shown by heavy lines on the plan), this provides a thoroughfare 50 feet wide and 100 feet long, with easy grades due to its starting and ending on comparatively high ground.

This structure would probably be of recent construction similar to bridges of the Metropolitan Park System. In addition to the main entrance opposite the Town Hall, an entrance can also be made at grade at Winchester place, or grade of Winchester place may be lowered, and an entrance 60 feet wide made east of the Savings Bank Building at grade, and leading into the new proposed park. Such an entrance is shown on a plan at Mr. Seeley. This portion of his plan is to be preferred, as Winchester place is narrow and steep.

Crossing the railroad 15 feet above the tracks, this being the height now required, it then crosses Main street and the tracks at the B. & N. Street R. R. about 15 feet above the level of the street and ends on a line with the rear of Kelley & Hayes' brick building on Park street.

By taking out two small houses on Elmwood avenue, this street can be widened to 50 feet, and by taking a corner off the Congregational Church lot, an entrance from Church street 50 feet wide is provided.

There will also be an entrance from Park street. Elmwood avenue will also be widened north of the bridge landing and carried round to Main street, thus making an easy approach from Wolcott. An ornamental iron fence may be placed on either side of the tracks at the center and a subway provided for foot passenger at the center and R. R. station in line with Common street. The total valuation of all property affected with the exception of a wedge shaped piece taken from the Skillings estate is $58,875, but in several cases only a small portion is taken.

The estimated cost of this proposed avenue and the two subways is $286,000, and can be constructed in six months and will not interfere with business or travel while being built. And in course of time expensive buildings are bound to be built on both sides of this thoroughfare that will add sufficient taxable property to pay the interest on the town's share of the cost of construction.

Street Cars.

The street cars coming from Woburn will pass around the corner at Knights' Drug Store, and run to Sullivan Square via Arlington. The Storchman cars turn at Abner's Drug Store corner and run to Sullivan Square via Medford.

This change will eliminate the grade crossing as far as the street cars are concerned, and by connecting their tracks at Arlington with the Boston Elevated line.

All sections of the town will have through service to Sullivan Square. The running time from Winchester Square to Sullivan, will be the same by either route, when through cars are run via Arlington, and much time will be saved when the cars of each line do not have to wait to cross each other's tracks, as they do at present. This arrangement will be for the best interest of all parties concerned.

If the street cars are left at grade with the steam cars as they now are, thus making it easy to transfer, the interests of the many who must go on foot should greatly outweigh the slight inconvenience of the lesser number who have conveyances, and must go only a few feet further.

Other Crossing Plans.

The plan for a crossing south of the center, to my mind is greatly inferior to the very prettiest approach now on hand to the center, especially after the Whitney mill is removed.

The "Sole turn" plan is objectionable because it buries the Common at present the only beauty spot in the center of the town, and puts an artificial obstruction 10 feet high at least, between the railroad station and the center, admitting that the railroad track is low enough; the requirements at the law at the present time insist that a bridge over a railroad track be 18 feet in the clear. The usual thickness of a roadbed is about 3 feet, thus making the total height of the obstruction 13 feet above grade on the street, which must be climbed by steps more than equal in height to two flights of stairs in an ordinary house, or one must make a detour and walk up a long incline before reaching the center from the railroad station.

Mr. Vernon street is too narrow an approach for a bridge. With teams standing in front of the front stores and a street car waiting there also, Mr. Vernon street is blocked and there is no room to pass now, and it is easy to imagine what it will be when double tracks are laid for the street cars to handle the increased travel that is sure to come in the future. This plan is carried out it will still be a dangerous crossing, particularly for elderly people and children.

Why not better eliminate the danger from both street and street cars while we are about it.

To carry out this plan and raise the buildings will upset the center for two years, and when finished will not have added a dollar to the taxable property of the town.

E. L. Badcock.

OBSERVANCE OF THE 4TH.

Arrangements are now complete for the public observance by the town of July 4th. The morning will be given over to the sports, which will be held on Manchester Field commencing at 9.30, under the supervision of Mr. Caldwell; the afternoon will be given to the ball game, commencing at 3.30, and in the evening at 8 the fireworks will be held. A full band will play during the whole day.

Following is a list of the sports:
Boys under 14 years of age—obstacle race, 50 yd. dash, potato race, sack race, basket ball race, shoe race.

Boys from 14 to 18 years—mile run, running broad jump, 100 yd. dash, standing broad jump.

Girls—50 yd. dash, potato race, obstacle race.

For first prize a gold medal will be given for second a silver medal and for third a bronze medal. Any information regarding the games may be obtained from Mr. Caldwell at the playground any day.

The town has given a contract for its fireworks for the night of the 4th to Ernesto Botrelli, who resides on Swanton street and who is employed by Mr. Henry Weed of the Winchester Mfg. Co. Mr. Botrelli, although unable to speak English, has written a letter in Italian, which, when translated, proves him to be a master in expression of thought and the proper use of words. He makes the fireworks himself with the assistance of a friend just outside the town limits. His knowledge of chemicals and acids, the placing together of which must be so carefully done, both for his own safety and that of others as well as to produce effects when set off in the air, has been a life-time study. Many of our towns people who witnessed the two celebrations given by the Italians of Winchester were astonished to see such beautiful effects in fireworks and the great variety of lights which were so wonderfully effective at the bursting of each shell. Expressions were made then and very often since that nothing like it has ever been in town before. Mr. Botrelli made every piece, even the set pieces, on both occasions, and he has promised the town the very best display that it is possible for him to make for the money expended.

Mr. Botrelli was awarded a prize at the exhibitions in Milan and Rome, Italy, as a pyrotechnical expert. The exhibit should be witnessed by as many of our towns people as can possibly be present.

A REASONABLE QUESTION.

How can you afford to do vacuum cleaning at your present contract rates? This question is being asked me both directly and indirectly.

The answer is that my business at present is being supported by customers numbering in the hundreds instead of in the tens and therefore, each patron has to contribute a very small portion towards the running expenses, whereas, a year or more ago the rate per hour had to be greater in proportion to the number of patrons.

Without a short while I shall have a new set of cleaning rates which will make vacuum cleaning an absolute necessity to everyone both from an economical and sanitary standpoint.

These new rates will be open to everyone and many of the customers who have adopted "The Colgate System" of regular cleaning will find their cleaning bill to be less.

Mr. J. A. Laraway is carrying a broken arm about with him as a gentle reminder that all autos do not crank as easy as the ended Buick. Oblivious to a party of ladies with a stalled engine is said to have been the provocation.

COMING EVENTS.

June 23, Friday, Wadleigh School graduation exercises in Town Hall at 8 p.m.

June 24, Saturday, 3.30 p.m., on Manchester Field, Winchester vs. Mendenham Athletics.

June 24, Saturday, Vesper team match at Winchester Country Club.

June 26, Thursday, Ladies' Golf at Country Club. Mixed foursome in charge of Mrs. Edgett.

NEW TRAIN TIME.

The summer time for the steam trains will go into effect on Monday. This year, instead of the usual increase of trains, four trains have been taken off. Other important changes have been made in the running time of the trains and anyone accustomed to use the trains constantly should acquaint himself with the new schedule.

The trains which have been discontinued are the 6.30 a.m. and 6.55 a.m. and the 12.00 p.m. and 12.15 p.m. out-bound.

Inbound changes of time are: 11.37 a.m. to 11.50 a.m. and 1.05 p.m. to 1.13 p.m. and minor changes.

Outward changes include the changing of almost all of the early trains in the forenoon from 2 to 2.45 minutes, the changes of a few minutes in the arrival of the middle afternoon trains, the 11.20 p.m. to 11.17 and the 11.55 to 11.25.

The last change places the town on the same schedule as it was some time ago, when considerable agitation caused the last train to leave thirty minutes later. Winchester patrons of the theaters will again be obliged to attend the early shows to catch the last train.

A new feature is that many of the trains will not run on holidays. As there will be but two during the summer—July 4 and Labor Day—this will not be greatly noticed.

FLY THE FLAG.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

An old soldier wishes to inquire why no American flag was to be seen at the High school graduation exercises. He also observes that there were no flags flying on the public schools on Flag Day.

TO OWNERS AND LOVERS OF CATS AND TO THE PUBLIC.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society, while its office is to do all in its power to protect the birds, and while it believes that cats are among the most destructive of all the agencies of bird-destruction, yet recognizes the fact that cats and cat-owners have rights that demand respect. The present letter is intended to point out a few methods of dealing with the situation so as to mitigate the evils which result from the superabundance of cats and the lack of restraint upon their bird-killing propensities.

John Burton, Jr., says that cats probably destroy more birds than all the other animals combined. Mr. William Dutcher, President of the National Association of Audubon Societies, considers the wild house cat one of the greatest causes of bird-destruction. Mr. Edward H. Forbush, State Ornithologist for Massachusetts, in "Feral Birds and their Protection," puts the average yearly game-birds of the mature cat in good hunting-grounds at fifty birds and calculates that in Massachusetts seven hundred thousand birds are annually killed by feral cats alone. He quotes Mr. A. C. Dike as saying that a cat owned in his family killed fifty-eight birds in one season, including the young in five nests. A writer in bird lore (Dr. Anne L. Perkins of Gowanda, N. Y.) says that one cat brought in meadowlarks, chipping sparrows, blue birds, a Wilson snipe, an oven bird, two hummingbirds, a flicker, a swallow, and a young partridge within a few days. On the island of No Man's Land off the coast of Maine, cats exterminated an entire colony of petrels during the summer of 1909.

Instances of such destructiveness might be multiplied indefinitely. Doubtless the greater part of the damage is done by homeless cats, run wild in the woods. The homeless cat is a pitiful creature as well as a nuisance to be avoided. Feral cats are immediately put out of existence each year by the Society for the prevention of cruelty to animals and the animal rescue league, and all good citizens should cooperate with these organizations to reduce their numbers. They may be caught in box-traps baited with catnip and then disposed of as thought best. If neighbor's pet cats are caught, action will be governed by ordinary common sense. Bird-houses within reach of cats and trees containing nests should be protected by wire, net, or zinc, and cat-proof fences may be erected around gardens where birds nest in numbers. Above all, good citizens will take care not to add to the number of stray cats by deserting their cats or giving them away to irresponsible persons. Many persons on leaving the city for the country or vice versa, or making any change of residence leave their cats to starve for themselves. This is cruel to the cats and inhuman to birds.

The house cat must be fed regularly and fed well. It allowed to lounge for itself is certain to make birds a large proportion of its diet. An undisciplined cat is a public menace.

Only one cat should be kept in a household, that preferably a male. If a female cat is kept, all but one male of the kittens of each litter should be destroyed, and that one should be disposed of as soon as possible after it is weaned. Every cat should wear a bell attached to a collar or ribbon during the spring and summer. This will not save the helpless young birds in or out of their nests but it so adjusted as to ring with the slightest motion of the wearer it will give cat warning to abstain from adult birds. Cat collars may be obtained for ten cents and upwards in any department store or hardware store. A cat with a collar carries with it the evidence of being a pet cat and is much less likely to be killed as a stray animal than a collarless one.

It is also very desirable to confine cats when out of doors in cages or pens of chicken-wire during the season when young birds are about, from May 1st, say till September. It may seem to some unkind to deprive the cats of their liberty thus, but this is what is usually done in the case of valuable cats, and the pens should be large enough to allow some freedom of action. For those who object to confining their cats in any way for all the time, the suggestion of Mrs. F. G. Floyd, Local Secretary of the Society at West Roxbury, is recommended, viz., that the cats should be kept in the house or in wire pens until noon every day in May and June so as to give the birds a free time for feeding in the morning when they are always most active. It would doubtless be better to confine this practice through July and August to protect the second and third broods of young, which are raised by some birds, also to keep the cats in during the late afternoon as well as the morning.

Remember that the cat is by nature a carnivorous animal, and very destructive to bird life. Don't blame him for it, but restrain him.

LAWSON TROPHY RACE.

At the tenth annual race, held on Mystic Lake last Saturday afternoon, June 17th, to the trophy in bronze of a miniature canoe, given by Mr. Thomas W. Lawson, Dedham High School, for the sixth time, crossed the line a winner. Winchester came in second, about a length behind Dedham, and Medford third, a half length behind Winchester. The race was twenty seconds slower than last year, when a new record was created, although there was a slight wind blowing down the lake.

Winchester took the course second to the east shore and finished next to the outside on the west, thus losing a great deal by going diagonally across the lake. It had not been for this, Winchester would undoubtedly have won.

Medford and Winchester were in the lead until about a hundred feet of the finish when Dedham made a sprint and came out ahead.

Winchester contested this year for the first time, entering two crews, but as they had had no former experience they were unable to come in ahead of the others.

The Winchester four deserves great credit for paddling as well as they did. After Capt. Wheatly left school, all hopes seemed to be gone, but nevertheless they worked all the harder and came out very near the first.

The crew picked up as follows: Sumner, stroke, back 2, Elmer 3, Evans 4. J. B. Howard of Medford was starter. Fred Broadbeck of Dedham, H. D. Murphy of Winchester and B. F. Jacobs of Medford were the judges.

SCHOOL NOTES.

For the school year beginning in September, the sixth grades will have two sessions and will be located as follows: one in the Wyman, two in the Prince, one in the Chapin, and one in the Washington. For several years previous to this, the sixth grades have all been in the Prince and in consequence of the long distance of the building from the homes of many children, one session has been a necessity. For the present year one sixth grade has been in the Chapin and the rest in the Prince. It has been felt that it would be better for all children of this age to be in schools nearer home.

Teachers.

The teaching force will continue as for the present year except as noted below: This school, Miss M. Frances Harriman returns after a year's leave of absence spent in study at Simmons College. Miss Harriman will not replace anyone and the High School will thus have one more teacher than at present.

Miss Leila M. Whittemore of Bristol, New Hampshire, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and of Kenyon Institute, will be in charge of the first business College, will be in charge of the second business College, in place of Miss Margaret R. Brooks, who has resigned to be married. Miss Whittemore is now teaching in Watford, New York.

Mr. Clifford A. Watson, of Gouverneur, New York, a graduate of St. Lawrence University, succeeds Mr. Amasa Bowles in charge of the Science Department and of athletics. Mr. Watson has had successful experience as principal and teacher and has been active in college athletics.

Wadleigh, Miss Bernice E. Oliver, of Garland, Maine, a graduate of Farmington Normal, now teaching in Sanford, Maine, will have a seventh grade in place of Miss M. Estelle Sprague who has been granted a year's leave of absence to study at Simmons College, and Miss Zana E. Prescott, of St. Albans, Maine, a graduate of Farmington Normal, now teaching in Hallowell, Maine, will take Miss Mary J. Hill's seventh grade. Miss Hill has been granted a year's leave of absence on account of her illness.

Chapin, Miss Kathryn E. Mawn, of Winchester, a graduate of Lowell Normal, who has been teaching in Peterboro, New Hampshire, for the last five years, will have the third grade now in charge of Miss Janet C. Hanson, she being transferred to the third grade in the Gifford to succeed Miss Gertrude L. Symmes, who resigns to be married during the year.

Washington, Miss May 12, Plough, of Chittenden, a graduate of Farmington Normal, will have the second and third grades. Miss Mary J. Davis, the present teacher of these grades, will have the fourth and fifth grades, and Miss Mary E. Bart, the principal, now in charge of the fourth and fifth, will take the sixth.

Wyman, Miss Elizabeth Hopkins has been transferred from the Prince sixth to the fourth and fifth, in order to enable Miss Carrie L. Mason, the principal, to take the sixth.

Miss Ruth B. Merriam instructor in the Massachusetts Normal Art School, has been engaged as assistant to the Supervisor of Drawing, Miss Margaret E. Hill. The work in drawing in the High School has increased so greatly during the last two years that it is impossible for Miss Hill to give sufficient time to the grades. Miss Merriam will in particular supervise the work in grades one to six, inclusive.

Miss Emma C. Diehm, a graduate of the Milwaukee Normal, Wisconsin, and of the Crane Musical Institute in Potsdam, New York, will be Supervisor of Music in place of Mr. Albert E. Brown, who resigned to give full time to the work in Lowell Normal school. Miss Diehm has been a supervisor of music in Malone, New York.

The following repairs have been authorized and will be made during the summer months:

At the High School repairs will be made in the basement, there will be a new transformer, rectifier and storage battery for clock system, new arm chairs will be placed in one recitation room, additional commercial desks will be added and one teacher's desk and chair.

At the Prince school one room will be plastered and the new offices installed with a stock room.

At the Chapin school the boy's sanitary will be plastered, the ventilator painted, an outside gong installed and a new fence built.

At the Gifford school new slate blackboards will be installed.

At the Highland school new slate blackboards and chalk troughs will be installed.

The Mystic school will have its cellar windows screened. The Rumford will have direct heat pipes for two rooms and ram water conductors. The Washington will be double curtained in one room and minor repairs will be made at the Wyman building.

JOHNSON-SPRINGER.

John Whitthrop Johnson of this town and Miss Florence Elesta Springer, daughter of Mrs. Marcellus Patten Springer of Newton, were united in marriage on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock at Grace Episcopal Church, Newton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Laurens LaLure, rector of Grace Church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The maid of honor was Miss Mildred Springer of Newton, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Miss Eleanor and Miss Emily Springer of Newton. Mr. Frederick C. Johnson, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride was given in marriage by her mother.

The ushers for the ceremony were Messrs. Daniel A. Johnson, of Plymouth, Charles R. Leonard of New York City, F. Roger Thomas of West Newton and D. Robert Whitehill of Newtonville.

Upon their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home in Winchester.

SENIOR RECEPTION.

Last Friday evening the Senior Class of the High School gave their annual reception in the Town Hall. The hall was tastefully decorated in black and gold the senior class colors.

On either side of the green curtain on the stage were hung the banners representing the Senior and Junior class pins. The affair was enjoyed by many friends and undergraduates. A full orchestra furnished the music for the occasion.

The matrons were: Mrs. John J. Finn, Mrs. Estelle H. Brigham and Miss Eva M. Palmer, and the committee in charge was Miss Mary Finn, Miss Gladys Spaulding, Lowell Smith and Kenneth Caldwell.

Newsy Paragraphs.

Winchester, as a municipality or incorporated town, has been in years past, and is now, pursuing a financial course, or executing a wisely planned financial policy, which is to make it the finest and most attractive place in the suburbs of Boston. By a judicious expenditure of money, begun more than 30 years ago, it has grown from little more than a hamlet to an organized community of some 7,000 inhabitants, and these are not of the lower stratum of society, but members of the learned professions, scholars, financial leaders, journalists and men of that character, business, and influence. Only last Monday evening a special town meeting voted to appropriate $50,000 to purchase the old Whitney Mill property with a view of building a boulevard from Manchester Field to Wedge Pond, just one mile long, which will cost the town, when completed, $250,000, the most expensive piece of highway in New England. And it will pay Winchester big interest in the end. (Winchester Journal.)

REGATTA AT BOAT CLUB.

The annual June 17th regatta of the Winchester Boat Club was one of the most successful in the club's history. The water sports were participated in by members of the Medford Boat Club, Dedham Boat Club and Innonu Canoe Club of Woburn and were closely contested. In several events intense races were in line at the start. The sports were run off at the close of the Lawson trophy race to the bay opposite the club. The club house, shores and lake were thronged with spectators.

Following is a list of the events and winners:

Single blade—Won by Manson of Medford.

In the evening a dance was held in the club hall, attended by a large gathering of members and guests.

BASE BALL FINANCES.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

If you can find space in this week's STAR would you kindly publish the following:

In passing the hat around on Manchester Field in support of the base ball game, I have been asked by several citizens what it was for. In the short space of time I had mentioned a few items of expense. Now so all the base ball fans and others can understand I will quote, for instance, our opening game with Medford, April 19th. Collected on the field $17.15, total receipts. Expenses: guarantee to Medford Club $10.00, umpire $2.00, police $2.00, baseballs $2.25, total $20.25. Ticket $2.00. We have played five home games and May 30th was the only game we came out ahead on, and that surplus has been used to make up the loss on other games.

As we have picked no demon to battle with our boys this year, and I think the fans who have seen our games so far will agree with me, it will cost us at least $20.00 on every game. We have looked just as last years to come here as the five teams that have been here. The Winchester's will be strengthened where it is necessary and I feel confident they will win their share of games this season. But we must have the support in order to have a successful season.

Yours for clean sport.

Geo. H. LeDuc, Manager of Winchester B. B. C.

J. A. C. WINS.

The Junior A. C. won an exciting contest of twelve innings with the Medfords on Wednesday. In the twelfth inning Tenney of the Junior A. C. hit a three runner. Capt. H. Bingham made a hit, but got out on first, and brought Tenney in which made the winning run.

Jackson, the Medfords third baseman, stopped the ball that Bingham hit and threw it to first base and Tenney came in making the score 8-7.

The line-up: Junior A. C.—H. Bingham, c. G. Bingham, p. P. Bingham, 1b, J. Tenney, 2b, R. Fenno, ss, M. Cummings, 3b, A. Woods, Jr., V. Farrow, 4b, W. Caldwell, cf. Medfords—J. McLaughlin, c. R. Clark, 1b, O. Clark, 1b, J. Plummer, ss, K. Bean, 2b, B. Jackson, 3b, G. Bird, 4b, D. Eldredge, cf, R. Murphy, cf.

In the seventh inning H. Bingham hit a Texas leaguer and R. Clark hit and then jumped in the air and caught it and then fell down but held on to it. In the same inning Eldredge was hit by a pitched ball in the eye.

W. H. S. NOTES.

The High school base ball team ended its season a week ago Thursday at Reading in a very well played game, but after a poor season. Out of sixteen games played, eleven were lost and five won, giving a percent of .3125. The team lacked co-operation and spirit besides being given poor support by the High school pupils.

Miss Mary Finn was elected Alumni Editor of the Recorder for next year. This was omitted in last week's STAR.

Mrs. John E. Emery was called to Chicago last week for the funeral of her uncle, Captain Andrew Emery. During past visits to Winchester Captain Emery made many friends here, all of whom were much grieved at the news of his death.

INTO THE LAND OF DARKNESS.

Eunice Homer.

Few people who are able to perceive the beauty of this wonderful world about us, can possibly realize the utter loneliness and absolute seclusion of those from whom the light is forever shut away. What is it that those who through some misfortune are compelled with sightless eyes to grope their way through the labyrinth of wonders which surround them,—what is it that the blind need? Is it the pity which is so freely bestowed upon them? No, indeed. Pity is as offensive to them as contempt would be to us. They want help,—help to take their places in the world in spite of their stupendous handicap.

For some years there has been an increasing tendency to develop the talents of the blind and to kindle a light within even if that from without is excluded. It is the opinion of such eminent people as Carmen Sylva, queen of Rumania, Dr. Howe, and Michael Anagnos that their rights should be respected, and that those privileges should not be denied them which are granted to their more fortunate brothers.

Never have the blind found a firmer friend in their distress than Valentine Haney, a Frenchman. One evening as Haney was passing through the streets of Paris he came upon a number of blind beggars who were entertaining a crowd of spectators. Amid the jeers and plaudits of the audience, the plight of these poor fellows forced to give amusement to the crowd, unable to discern that they were ridiculed, was indeed most pitiful, and the heart of kind Haney was wrung with sorrow for their sufferings. He perhaps realized in a measure what later investigation has proven, that more than fifty percent of the blind are born with sight, and lose it by accident. He perhaps felt in his heart what someone has so aptly phrased "the majority of blind children are those of poor parentage, born in the ways of ignorance and depravity, in the folds of misery and vice, in an environment where they are kicked, cuffed, and driven about; where the bread they eat, the air they breathe, the talk they hear, are either injurious to their health or poisonous to their character." After pondering for some time over methods of bettering the conditions of these unfortunates, Haney founded a pioneer school for the blind in 1782. His very first pupil afterwards became a well known musician. For years Haney struggled on, keeping the school together by his own efforts, until finally it was merged into a new management and the work prospered from that time on.

The next institution of the kind to be established was in Great Britain, and it was not until 1832 that the first school for the blind was founded in America. A year later another was started in Boston. Since that time, all through the United States, millions of dollars have been expended in establishing these institutions until America now leads the world in this branch of education. As typical of these institutions let us visit those of our native city.

Come with me to the Boston Nursery for Blind Babies, which was started in 1900. Situated on rising ground, overlooking beautiful Jamaica Pond, the nursery is one of the pleasantest places imaginable. As it is such a hot day most of the babies are out of doors, so after making a hasty survey of the interior of the building, we will join them. Now we pass down the little, four-inch steps, used by the children, out through the cool, airy rooms, through the breezy sun-parlor to the yard. Here we see a bamboo slide, a merry-go-round, and, best of all, a big tent where the children are gathered listening to stories. See the bright look on their poor little faces as they listen to the nurses, each of whom has her own "family," so the idea of institution is lost, for no mother could be kinder to her own flock than these nurses at the home. Several of the children run towards us in their hesitating little way to "see" the visitors, a process which consists of running their fingers over our hands and clothing. One tiny blind chap will sing for us in a high, sweet voice, and others will entertain us in various ways by fearlessly sliding down the bamboo slides, regardless of the fact that they are unable to see whether they are going. Everywhere is contentment, merriment—nowhere will you find a healthier, more joyous group of children than right here at the Blind Babies' home.

Now we shall visit the kindergarten for blind children, which is but a short distance beyond, on Perkins Street. The nursery's main object is to make useful citizens of those who might so long be unaided that the possibilities of life would be lost. Let us step into a room in the kindergarten. Here is this attractive, sunny apartment with about thirty-four little ones working busily at clay modeling. See how well they do it! Observe some of the other work done from time to time by the children. Does it not seem incredible that those who are unable to see, can sew these caps, weave these mats, and exercise their ingenuity by fanciful designs with blocks. With difficulty we leave this fascinating room to visit an advance primary grade. Examine with me the books of raised type, over which the little fingers glide quickly, and the number work which these same little fingers, unaided by sight, have done; in fact, almost anything accomplished by seeing children is possible to these blind ones. Out in the yard we see again bamboo slides, swings, teeters, merry-go-rounds, children running to and fro, picking flowers or resting under the shady trees, always accompanied by a motherly-faced woman; for the home life of the institution is especially to be praised. The children are surrounded by love and sympathy, and are given the pleasures and privileges of other children as far as possible. As in children with normal sight great variety in inclinations is discernible. Some are imitative, others initiative. As an example of this is the boy who has rigged up a battery which to us seems impossible to one in his condition. They also express an appreciation of the subtle things of life. For instance: when one of the blind children was asked what his idea of an old maid was, he replied without hesitation, "A pet animal that has been kept a very long time." From this kindergarten has graduated one of the most remarkable quartets ever seen: Helen Keller, Elizabeth Rubin, Edith Thomas, and Tommy Stringer. Think of these men and women who might now be helpless burdens; instead they are able to give to the world the wonderful inspirations of their own beautiful soul!

From the kindergarten we shall follow the development of these unfortunates in the Perkins Institute. Here we see the same happy, contented spirit as in the other two institutions. The instruction is practically that used in all schools for the blind. Come into the various workshops and see what a busy world of sightless ones we have within this institution. Some are busily caning chairs, others are making brushes, baskets and similar articles. In fact, each one is learning something which will help him to fill a useful place later in the world.

The results of this education for the blind are too numerous and wonderful to estimate. Increase in cheerfulness, self-reliance, and buoyancy of spirit are all among them. A woman once said reproachfully to an official at the institution, "The idea of allowing them out alone in the streets after dark!" What difference to them whether it be night or day? They go about with the same cheerfulness and self-confidence. Instead of sheltering them as heretofore, let them go out like that world-famed blind football team of Kentucky, which, out of nine games with teams able to see, gained one victory and tied three. Let them enter the struggle with the spirit to win which means success.

THE EVOLUTION OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER.

Harry Donovan.

When we buy our "Journal" or "Herald" from the little urchin who stands at the street corner crying his vari ous editions we seldom, if ever, give a thought of the long process of evolution through which the American newspaper has passed.

The very first step toward a newspaper on this continent was in 1639, when the printing press of the early settlers was brought to the Massachusetts Bay Colony from England, but for a long time on account of the stringent laws made by the authorities the colonists were not allowed to print the news or even the laws. About 1690, however, an adventurous pioneer attempted a paper called "Public Occurrences."

This was a little sheet of three printed pages, two columns to a page. It was announced to appear "once a month," but the authorities forbade a second issue.

Not until 1704 did a newspaper become established in the new world. This paper was called "The Boston News Letter," and was in the form of a half sheet about 12 by 8 inches, printed in two columns. Its printer was Bartholomew Green, and its proprietor was John Campbell, a Scotchman, who was postmaster of Boston, and who may well be called the founder of the American newspaper. "The Boston News Letter" appeared weekly for nearly three-quarters of a century. During the troubles of 1770 it ceased to exist. At this time there were thirty-seven newspapers in the colonies, all weeklies, with one semi-weekly. The Revolution was fought and independence was won without a single daily newspaper. The first daily was established in Philadelphia in 1784.

Our early papers were almost reprints of the old English papers. Local news was confined largely to time tables of coach lines and the movements of sailing vessels. Foreign Winchester never looked more beautiful than it does today, and it is the best vacation town in Boston's suburbs.

Of the twenty-four Senators who voted against direct election of U. S. Senators, Henry Cabot Lodge was one who helped to make up the list.

State politics will be lively this summer. Already three Republicans prominent in party councils are seeking the gubernatorial nomination.

The town meeting of next Tuesday evening is to be one of great importance, and every citizen should be in attendance. Among the important questions to be acted upon is that of the grade crossing.

Madden Companies have offered to furnish Wakefield with gas for 90 cents and electricity for 11 cents. With its municipally owned plant the cost for the former is $1.30 and the latter 15 cents. In addition the Wakefield plant is worn out.

The motion offered by Mr. Edward I. Bradlock at the town meeting last week Thursday evening that a committee of three be appointed to further consider plans for the abolition of the grade crossing, is one that ought to meet with favorable consideration. By acquiring the Whitney property the entire aspect has been changed, so that what appeared to be the best scheme two weeks ago, may not now be so advantageous. There has been a woeful lack of cooperation by the citizens in this entire question because of a lack of real information as to cost and the best method. The cart has been before the horse from the start, over six years ago. Had a first class civil engineer been employed at the beginning to study the entire situation, instead of listening to the suggestions of landscape architects, this whole question would have been settled long ago. As an example of this, note what the Waterway's Committee accomplished. They went about it in the right way. Now let us start right by the appointment of a committee as suggested by Mr. Bradlock, and they in turn secure the services of an expert to study out the method and cost, and report as soon as possible. Then the citizens can act intelligently.

Publicity recorded a notable triumph at the Town Meeting last week when it was voted to purchase the Whitney property. To Mr. Everett N. Curtis is due the credit for bringing to a climax this long considered improvement through the series of articles printed in the STAR last winter.

While he believed these articles would receive careful and thoughtful consideration and that they might bring forth fruit at some time in the future, yet he had not the least expectation that his hopes were so soon to be realized. Indeed the placing of an article in the warrant for the March town meeting, calling for the appointment of a committee to investigate the entire matter, was done only at the last minute. This able committee, headed by Mr. Lewis Parkhurst, Mr. Curtis and Dr. C. J. Allen, did their work thoroughly and well, and yet, too, the hope among them that the town would carry out their recommendations was far beyond their anticipations. And yet publicity had done the work so thoroughly that the largest meeting in the history of the town, with but five dissenting votes, enthusiastically supported the committee. This publicity accomplished in a short time what numerous committees in the past had failed to do because of the failure to resort to this great power

A CORRECTION.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

While newspaper controversy is extremely distasteful to me I feel that I cannot, in justice to myself, allow the article in the STAR of June 9th signed by George C. Ogden to go uncorrected. The statement in the question is completely untrue and the support by appearing to prejudice, and it allowed to stand uncorrected may be accepted by many as the correct version of the difference that has arisen in connection with the naming of Symmes road.

An attempt was made a few months ago to have the street in question named after him. It was set down in a meeting, after a fair and full discussion. Not being satisfied with the verdict rendered by the town through its most potential channel, my opponent now seeks to re-open the case. Failing in his communication of June 9th to advance any good and sufficient reason for changing the authorized name of Symmes road to that of Ogden Avenue, beyond the simple one that he wishes it, he seeks to enlist sympathy by claiming he is being persecuted because he is not a naturalized citizen of the United States. Such an appeal, the annals of which is very evident, will not be heeded by those who know the history of Winchester and have in fact played a fine game. Nine years before my opponent developed any of this property I built a portion of Symmes road. It is true that he bought that property from my niece, the Misses Wellington. (It is true that he later bought four lots from me that divided my home lot from his already developed property.) But it is not true that he bought the section between those four lots "for a money consideration" as he says in his communication of June 9th, nor for any consideration. The fact is I gave that section for highway purposes, just as I gave the section of Symmes road lying near to Main street. I am claiming no credit for this. I simply wish the people of Winchester to know that it was not the generosity of my opponent which furnished the road, and that the fact is mistaken when he says—

"... the small section of the street containing Main street was purchased as a right of way by me from them and for a money consideration. It was not required of me to provide any other to Main street, the way opened up on the land bought by me of the Wellingtons affording an outlet to Bacon street which was all that my grantees could require. My purchase of the right of way in Main street was, therefore, a free gift by me to my grantees."

The statement of my action in the matter of this section of street may be verified by the papers of record passed at the time of the transaction. Mr. Ogden is a developer of real estate and a promoter of suburban residential sites. For everything he has done to develop the town and add to her material prosperity I give him full credit, but I am afraid he weighs everything in commercial scales. To him a stretch of greenwood, or a bit of upland with a wide-reaching view is simply so many opportunities for structural development. With him, I fancy, old time associations and local history must be subjected to the rigid rule of the plumb-line, the try-square and the level.

I confess to a deeply rooted love for all that is good in the old as well as in the new. We of this generation cannot add to, or detract from, the statue of the Rev. Zachariah Symmes, nor can we by town meeting vote affect the fame, whatever that may be, of the family that has owned the ancestral acres for two hundred and seventy years. Symmes' corner from time immemorial has had a local significance. It took its name from its earliest settler and landholder. I do not seek to perpetuate it, in asking the town to retain the name of Symmes road, because I chance to bear it, but I do feel that the name is a constant reminder of the foundation of the town. It is a bit of history that teaches its own lesson, and teaches it daily to the up-growing generation.

In the rush and bustle of the present it is well, by the retention of these older names with which the history of the town is intertwined to hark back to the days of the pioneers, whose sturdy character gave stability to the settlement, and whose courage and perseverance laid the foundations upon which the structure of our country's growth and development has been built. There is an element of sentiment in the matter, but it is not a selfish one seeking self-glory, or notoriety, and I believe that the town of Winchester where I was born and where my life has been spent, will view this matter as I do, and refuse to re-consider its action whereby it established the name of Symmes road.

Charles T. Symmes.

TO THE VOTERS OF WINCHESTER.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Regarding changing the name of Symmes road to Ogden Avenue as article No. 25 of the town warrant reads: On June 19th, 1911, the undersigned made a personal canvass of the abutters and residents on Symmes road, and obtained the signatures of seventeen (17) out of the twenty-five (25) who are perfectly satisfied with the name Symmes road and do not want the name changed.

Of the remaining eight (8) four (4) are indifferent, which leaves only four (4) who desire the change.

This seems the best reason why the name should be allowed to remain Symmes road, and we trust the voters will give us their support when the article comes up for action at the adjourned meeting, Tuesday, June 27.

W. H. S. NOTES.

Henry Harris, manager of the foot ball team for next fall has nearly completed his schedule. He has a practice game arranged with Waltham as last year, a game with Everett and Somerville. Undoubtedly the game with Everett will be one of the best of the season, as last year it was a close one, and this year Winchester will have practically the same team as last, whereas some of Everett's best players will leave school. The game with Somerville is a question. They say that their team will not be anywhere near up to their usual standard so it may not be so bad for Winchester as it sounds. Foot ball practice will begin the first day that school opens in the fall.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The bill of Rights of the people of Massachusetts declares: "To the end it may be a government of laws and not of men." Four hundred and eighty-three votes to five cannot make an illegal vote valid and on Election should satisfy themselves by the advice of the best legal talent before having any bonds sprung or offered. This whole Whitney property purchase business has been going on about in a go as you please fashion although its importance would seem to call for the greatest care. Our present town counsel finding the town's general law matters without system, established one and also had the town clerk look up and make a list of various statutes which had been accepted by the town in the past, but it had done the work himself he would have discovered that the town did not accept in a legal manner probably this very park act under which the town voted to purchase this Whitney property. There is a bone for the legal lights to pick between now and the town meeting Tuesday night. As a ruling of the right under the park act to take a water power. And the law is common sense.

I withdrew my motion to refer back the water power and grade crossing matters because I knew Monday night's meeting would not listen to it, but I still present it. Tuesday night and at this writing I rather think it will be agreed to. The Whitney purchase is not in proper shape, the grade crossing matter will not be for sometime and these two and the engine house should go along together till later on. It's plain enough if you want to see it.

The Town Hall boiler was inspected by both the Hartford Company and the Commonwealth last year, no defects in pressure was ordered or new boiler called for. Remember what was said by the Steam Committee and the Selectmen about the boiler last March. Last Mr. Whitney to look at this boiler plant again. He knows.

I shall make another short Tuesday night to knock out that rule requiring consent of the meeting to speak more than once on a motion. We don't want government by committee or cliques or gag laws in New England town meetings. After we want an umbrella and full information and then let the majority rule. It is not safe to blindly follow men who have made a success in their own line of business for in public affairs they are often anything but safe leaders to follow.

Many people would have agreed with Mr. O'Leary, if they had been present, but they were inavoiably detained elsewhere, some serving short terms and others longer ones, due to the activities of our Chief of Police and his minions. However, neither the Chief nor the patrolmen appointed themselves.

Oh, no Mr. Editor, Monday night's meeting was not the largest we have had. Away back in 1894 one hundred and ten more votes were cast on the Manchester Field proposition than were recorded Monday night. Some of our old timers have some memory yet, we can even remember within a year or two of when the Town Hall building was erected. We can also remember when important matters were fully and freely discussed in town meetings before being voted upon. That was before the day of gag laws, however.

The walk from the centre to the Winchester railroad station is illuminated(?) with two oil lamps on one side of the tracks and on the other by the moon, when it shines. On the station side there are many ravines in the concrete for the way and unwary alike to stumble over. There are no lights at all on the Manchester Field walk to Mystic Avenue. Is it the lovers or the loquacious who object?

Let Mr. Bradlock present his plans to the Selectmen for their consideration. If he wants to, but we don't want another committee on the grade crossing abolition, we have had two without profit and the Selectmen, who are the permanent committee upon this question, should be competent, with assistance of the Town Counsel, to handle it for the future. Besides, this plan is nothing new and was discarded long ago.

The General Court, formerly called the Great; still drifts along, neither doing much nor doing it very well. The Republicans hope in some way to put the Governor in a hole, but every one they dig he promptly deposits them into, to the satisfaction of the people. The Democrats are well organized in each branch, with able leaders, but are wrong on measures fully as often as their opponents. The Republicans have got to fight for all state offices and for the Senate and House next fall, but the governorship is hopeless for them.

For the second time we have voted to pay outlawed bills to the city of Wolcott and for jerily, but we can't get similar bills once in awhile? A certain public service corporation has escaped taxes on some of its real estate for many years, why should we not ask it in equity to pay those back taxes?

Why should the rate of interest on the Whitney purchase bonds be fixed? It should read not more than four per cent.

Curiously enough section fifteen of chapter 28 of Revised Laws, being the park act, reads: "A second meeting for the purpose of voting upon the acceptance of said sections (accepting the act, etc.) shall not be called within twelve months after the first, unless the first meeting fails through illegality or irregularity in the proceedings." This seems to fit our case. Of course we can accept the act over again, but would it not be better to get a special act under which we might use the property purchased for other purposes than for a park? Think it over. It would then be legal, too.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

There will be a double event at the Castle Square next week—the production of "The Genius" and the return of Howell Hansel, Mr. Craig having engaged Mr. Hansel for a limited number of appearances during the summer, that popular actor will appear assured of the heartiest of welcomes. No actor who has ever played at the Castle Square has excelled Mr. Hansel in popularity, and his engagement is to attract no little attention and to assure a continuation of crowded houses. "The Genius" is a farce of the merriest and funniest kind, said to be even more productive of laughter than "Charley's Aunt." In addition to Mr. Hansel, Mr. Craig will cast the play to the full strength of his company, including Gertrude Blinlev, George Hassell, Donald Meek and Mabel Colcord.

"PANDORA'S BOX."

There was a time when the gods, now relegated to the pages of mythology, played an active part in the lives of mortals. It is, indeed, a rare experience to us in this age of materialism, when the era of wonders lies so many centuries behind us, to catch a glimpse of that world of fantasy where immortals walked among men, sharing their joys and sorrows, and mingling with them in their sports.

Surely, the crowd which gathered on the slope of the natural amphitheatre on the west side of the beautiful residence of Mr. Oren Sanborn, will never forget the artistically arranged pageant of "Pandora's Box" as it was presented by the young ladies of Winchester last Monday evening.

All things "in heaven above and in the earth beneath" seemed to lend themselves to the success of the presentation. The night was perfect—a cloudless, starlight sky; a mild, refreshing atmosphere. The place was ideal, the broad, many pillared porch, the sloping lawn, and evergreen screens, all most admirably adapted to the appearance and disappearance of the line, silent figures of the gods, goddesses, maidens and children. No troop of ancient revelers could have found a setting more auspicious for a merry making. Nor could a group of musicians from Mt. Ida itself, have chosen music better fitted to the charming dances in the sprightly frolic of the children and maidens, than that from Gluck's Opera "Daphnis," rendered by the Winchester Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Little. Nothing contributed more in the execution of the tableaux and dancing, however, than the exquisite costumes. The soft, clinging, silken draperies highlighted the artistic effect of the graceful movements of the dancers and gave to the whole scene a picturesqueness which defies description.

The work of the entire cast was remarkable. Mrs. Root, who took the part of the Messenger Iris, gave character and vitality to the nymph in her dancing and miming a strong background for the pantomime. Pandora, herself the central figure, was not only the embodiment of maidenly loveliness and grace, but a very clever actress as well, and sustained the interest in each part of the story with unflinching skill. Epimetheus showed equal ability, and presented a difficult character very effectively. Mercury was all that he should be, dashing and full of spirit—and his dance in the second act was one of the best features of the pageant. Miss Kellogg's dance in the closing scene, where as "Hope" she came to console the stricken Pandora, promising her presence and comfort in all the future, was a fitting climax. Her conception of the radiant character of "Hope" in the cleverness and consistency was delicately and forcibly expressed in her dancing.

The pageant was arranged by Miss Mary Kellogg, and her presentation of the mythological story of Pandora and the mysterious box was given largely by the young ladies of her dancing class.

A group of little girls took the place of a chorus, forming a background for the principals and filled in the intervals between the periods of the story's action.

The following was the cast:
Pandora Miss Miriam Plimney
Epimetheus Miss Geneva Robinson
Mercury Miss Pauline Chamberlain
Diana Miss Margaret French
Minerva Miss Frances Elder
Venus Miss Ruth Plimney
Hope Miss Mary Kellogg
Iris Mrs. George H. Root
Vulcan Mr. B. Streeter

Maidens—Misses Eleanor Barto, Sylvia Gidderson, Emma Farnsworth, Rhoda Young, Margaret Barr, Georgia Young, Elizabeth Clark, Gertrude May, Celma Cox, Dorothy Farnish, Estelle Davis, Helen Sanborn, Marion Barry, Hester Noyes and Mary Cobb.

Children—Gemma and Leslie Brown, Harriet Houghton, Elmer Hale, Priscilla Swetser, Carleia Murphy, Myrtle Dunn, Melora Davis, Ruth Hammond, Ruth Caldwell, Virginia Massman, Anne Zuelken, Elizabeth Levick and Gretchen Ginn.

The proceeds will be given jointly to the Hospital Fund and the People's Primary Assembly Room, which it is hoped will be an accomplished fact by autumn. The business arrangements were in Mrs. Oren Sanborn's able hands, insuring before-hand financial success. Everybody seemed to be interested in the success of the entertainment and worked hard for it. Mrs. Sanborn provided her house and lawn, Miss Kellogg and the young ladies gave a tremendous amount of time in rehearsing and Mr. Bicknell and Mr. Little devoted much thought and time to furnishing music exactly suited the various action in the story.

On June 24th, there will be a carnival on the grounds of Mr. G. W. Benjamin, on the corner of Highland Avenue and Reservoir Street. There will be special musical attractions. The proceeds will go towards the Flaming Hospital.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.
Last Saturday was a gala day with the Winchester Union, for Mrs. Hamilton, the president, was the hostess to a group from the Frances E. Willard Settlement and as many more, to the total of three scores, came from the L. T. U. and the local union. In the morning the children enjoyed various games and sports, including boat riding on Wedge pond and in the afternoon they entertained the Winchester contingent with songs and recitations. The basket luncheon which the children brought was supplemented by a liberal allowance of lemonade and later in the afternoon light refreshments were served for all, of the sort that might be jarred of without doing violence to the Levitical law. Winchester is a favorite resort with the Settlement people, Miss Hill, the resident worker who was in charge, told the members of the Union and certainly both the looks and actions of the children corroborated her statement. Many of these children work every day so that only on holidays do they have any play time. To assist in guiding them in the paths of righteousness is one of the pleasant features of the W. C. T. U. work which believes there is more value in prevention than in reform or attempted cure. Miss Smith, the leader of the kitchen garden work, directed the class that accompanied her in various evolutions, showing how manners, morals and methods of housework are all taught together, with the inevitable result that good food, well cooked, will help to keep men from the saloons in the homes of which these girls are a part.

Not For Himself.

"It does me good to see a pompous man get his," said a stockbroker. "I have a friend who just about believes the Lord created the earth in seven days for his especial benefit. He has a fine home on Long Island, with a retinue of servants, but his wife is a saintly little thing, and it falls to the lot of Mr. Pompous to execute various commissions for her in the city. The other day she asked him to stop at a clothing store and get a couple of white duck jackets for the father. I happened to be with him when he entered the store. Striding majestically up to a sallow little salesman, he said, with much impressive dignity: 'I wish to purchase a couple of white duck jackets for my wife's father.' 'Yes, sir,' said the little salesman. 'What size do you want?'"

"Mr. Pompous got red in the face, spluttered and coughed, and then as if fearing to trust himself to speech turned on his heel and strode from the place. He left me at the next corner, and has avoided me ever since."—New York Sun.

An Experience at Hall House.

Even death itself sometimes fails to bring the dignity and serenity which one would have associated with old age. I recall the dying hour of one old Southwestern whose long service as a "keep respectable" had so embittered her that her last words were gibes at those who were trying to minister to her. "So you came in yourself this morning, did you? You only sent things yesterday. I guess you knew when the doctor was coming. Don't try to warm my feet with anything but that old jacket that I've got there; it belonged to my boy who was drowned at sea high thirty years ago, but it's warmer yet with human feelings than any of your conformed charity hot water bottles." Suddenly the harsh gasping voice was still in death, and I waited the doctor's coming, shaken and horrified.—June Adams in American Magazine.

Empty Titles.

William Jennings Bryan once joked about our American fondness for titles. "You all know of the colonel," he said, "who got his title by inheritance, having married Colonel Brown's widow? But I once met a general who got his title neither by inheritance, nor by service, nor by anything you could mention."

"General," I said to him, "how do you come by this title of yours, anyway?"

"Why, sir," said he, "I passed my youth in the flour trade and for twenty-seven years was a general miller."

"I know another titled man, Judge Greene."

"Are you, sir? I once asked him, 'a United States judge or a circuit court judge?'"

"I didn't neither," he replied. "I'm a judge of loss racket."

Fear.

Fear causes more disease than do microbes, more deaths than famine, more failures than paucity. It costs more than war, is always a failure and is never necessary, said a medical man. Fear weakens the heart's action, induces congestion, invites indigestion, produces poison through decomposing foods and is thus the mother of auto-poisoning, which either directly causes or greatly aids in the production of quite 100 per cent of all our diseases.

Simplified Spelling.

"Why did you take Emma away from school, Aunt Mahaly?" a lady asked her cook one day. Aunt Mahaly smiled significantly.

"Called me teacher. Ain't satisfactionary that no, Miss Mahaly. What you reckon she tell dat cille yesterday? She 'low dat IV spell four when even a idiot 'ud know dat it spells Ivy."

Not Strong Minded.

"Your wife, Clark, is, I should say, a strong minded lady."

"There you would be wrong. I don't rather describe her as little minded."

"Little minded?"

"Yes; she's been giving me pieces of her mind for years."

Her Suit.

"You have to have different built for different I-I, don't you, may?"

"I guess so. I know I caught a lobster with muslinette."—New York Press

PRIZE AWARDED.

The prize of a medal offered by the Legislature Committee of the Forthrightly for the best essay written on one of a number of given subjects about Civil Service, was awarded to Miss Margaret Mason last Monday morning in the Town Hall before a large number of High school pupils. Mrs. N. M. Nichols, president of the club, made an address and read a letter from the committee, appointed by the Forthrightly to judge the best essay, saying that they had unanimously agreed that the essay written under the pseudonym "Mr. of Raymond" was the most meritorious. Mrs. Nichols then presented "Mr. of Raymond" and a beautiful bunch of Mountain Laurel.

The committee to judge the essays consisted of Mrs. Frank B. Tary, Mr. George C. Coot and Mr. Charles N. Harris.

Cardinal Gibbons: "The Lord's day to the Catholic heart is always a day of joy. The church desires on that day to be cheerful without dissipation, grave and religious without sadness and melancholy. She forbids, indeed, all unnecessary servile work on that day, but she allows such work whenever charity or necessity may demand it. The true conception of the Lord's day is expressed in the words of the Psalmist: 'This is the day which the Lord hath made; let us be glad and rejoice therein.'"

FOR THE PEOPLE

The conservation movement met with no opposition so long as its promulgation was done in general terms and limited to teaching. When, however, we began to translate the idea into action opposition developed. Every man, woman and child is bound to repose on nature's resources. So does every man, woman, child and the conservationists have been bound to be incompatible in the long run. I do not object to using them for the benefit of the few rather than for the benefit of the whole people.—Gilford Pinchot CONSCIENCE.

What stronger breastplate than a heart untried? Thrice he armed that hath his quarrel just. And he but naked, though lock'd up in steel, Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted. —Shakespeare.

CENSURE.

Censure and criticism never hurt anybody. If true they show a man his weak points and forearm him against failure and trouble; if false they cannot hurt him unless he is wanting in character. Gladstone.

A Bell Puzzle.

Workmen who were putting in a new floor in a store at Rockland, Me., found underneath the old floor a large bell, which was afterward recognized and claimed by Alfred Murray. Years ago Mr. Murray kept a store in the neighborhood and had the bell mounted on the roof. Every time the sales amounted to $10 the bell would be rung and the person making the last purchase received a present of 50 cents. The bell was stolen a number of years ago on a fourth of July night and so mysteriously hidden that it has only just now come to light. Now every one is wondering how the boys got the bell under the flooring of the neighboring store. Boston Globe.

CONSERVATION.

news consisted entirely of matter reprinted from the old London papers which were not received in America until long after publication. The editor once expressed a regret that he was thirteen months late in giving the news from Europe. I wonder what the people would say today if they found such a regret in their morning paper. Of course it must be remembered that the conditions were not very favorable at this time for periodicals of any kind. Postmasters were the editors for their offices were the centers of news.

They printed their papers by hand on wooden presses. There was little freedom of the press. Newspapers were tolerated as long as they gave no offence to the Colonial authorities, as they still are in Germany and other countries of continental Europe.

The early journals were not newspapers so much as they were vehicles for publishing moral or political essays. The editors were in no hurry about printing the news. The Declaration of Independence adopted by Congress in Philadelphia, July 4th, did not appear in the chief paper of the town until the thirteenth, and did not appear in a Boston paper until the 22nd. Imagine such an important event taking place today and not being published until weeks afterward. Preference was given to controversial matter. A communication from a man of national reputation was considered far more important than any amount of news. The papers of the revolutionary period were simply instruments for stirring the people to action. Afterward they flourished as the organs of parties and politicians bringing about the era of personal journalism, and of editors who were greater than their paper.

At the opening of the nineteenth century there were two hundred and fifty newspapers in the colonies, in spite of the conditions of the country, with daily editions in four or five cities. After another decade the number had increased to three hundred and sixty, of which more than twenty were dailies. By 1830 the number had increased to one thousand, in spite of the fact that as yet there was not a railroad or power press in the country.

The first noteworthy departure from old-time methods was made by the "New York Herald," founded by the elder James Gordon Bennett on the small capital of five hundred dollars. In his very first issue he announced that his paper was to be independent, and not a party organ, as former papers were, and as many of the present day are. Mr. Bennett worked on the theory that the people wanted news and not views. He worked hard to this end and spared no labor or expense in getting news. He was the first to use illustrations as a news feature. From the beginning he printed "money articles," or reports of the transactions on Wall Street. Today the financial page is one of the most important in every paper. His jealous contemporaries had some cause for the way they unanimously assailed him, but they overlooked the fact that the "Herald" contained the germ of the greater journalism. From this was gradually evolved the modern newspaper with its many different departments.

A FIFTEENTH CENTURY MORALITY PLAY.

Madge Hovey.

"Good morning, neighbor, art thou, too, on the way to London town to see the great morality play, they call 'Everyman'?"

"Aye, truly; else why should I, an honest miller, leave my work on a Saturday morning and turn my horse towards the city?"

We are in 15th century England. Although it is early in the morning, still two or three hours before dawn, two country travelers are already on their way to London where the morality play, "Everyman," is that day to be presented.

The first speaker is a kindly, simple franklin, well-to-do, if his gorgeous yellow doublet and breeches, his hearty, well-fed appearance, and his sleek, though slowly-blinking farm-horse are not entirely erroneous signs. The other is a prosperous, country miller, rickety and jovial, and on this gala occasion arrayed in a gorgeous costume of civil scarlet. Self-complacency is written on every feature and, too, a trace of careless indifference. In contrast, his companion is plainly impatient, curious and excited.

Suddenly, as they are hearing a cross-road bell beats are heard. The miller grows pale, rears up his horse in terror, then nervously, though with a show of bravado, toys with his stout cudgel. The franklin, however, keeps his head, and rides pluckily forward, sword in hand.

"Come, good friend," he cries, "let's fight the insolent rascals, highwaymen though they be; not for ten shillings would I turn back and miss the play."

But it is not necessary to turn back or to fight, either, for the "rascals" are only Lord Bayne and his retainers, who are likewise pilgrims to London. Immediately, the would-be warrior takes off his cap, and with all reverence for wealth and rank, allows the whole cavalcade to precede him. The miller, now reassured and bland as ever, rejoins his companion, and the two spur on their horses.

After riding for four hours through ill-kept roads, the travellers reach London, the franklin keyed up to the highest pitch of excitement and anticipation, and even the stolid miller showing a slight degree of interest. Having left their horses at a convenient hostelry, they hasten to the square where the play is to be presented, the franklin by tacit agreement, in the lead.

"Prithce, look upon the crowds of people! Didst thou ever see such a vast multitude, or such a brave array of color and splendor? Come, come, let us hasten, thou art ever provokingly slow."

Without waiting for reply, he skillfully leads the way through the throng, and by dint of shoving and jostling, finally secures a position from which he can easily see the stage.

The miller, hot and out of breath, hastens to the side of his friend, whom he finds gazing, in delighted anticipation, at the stage. It is a large, wooden structure, mounted on which, containing two distinct stories, the lower, a dressing room, and the upper, the stage proper. But heaven preserve us. On one side of the platform is a huge pair of dragon jaws, painted bright red, and belching forth smoke and flame. Hell-mouth! Suddenly from this dread aperture, issue horrid shrieks and groanings, terrifying to the last degree.

As soon as the franklin's eye has grasped all the details of the stage, and his ear has grown accustomed to the protracted wailings, he improves the time before the beginning of the performance by silently examining his chance neighbors. Close at hand, stands an Oxford student, wretchedly poor, yet enthusiastically eager to see and to learn. But his learned mien does not impress this ignorant countryman nearly so much as does the bluff, hearty pomposity of a wealthy merchant in gleaming red costume, with jaunty cap, tight-fitting, plain coat, and high, spurred boots. All about stand lords and ladies, elaborately dressed in gay velvets and satins; squires, affable and jolly; lean, poorly-paid parsons; fat monks and friars, with shaven crowns and long, loose brown robes; good-hearted farmers, and anxious tradesmen. There, too, he sees the canny doctor, the learned man of law, the sailor just home from sea, the church clerk, regaled with ale, and the sheriff, bated and feared on account of his unjust extortions from petty land owners. The rascally pardoner is also in evidence, carrying on a thriving business, selling pardons for sins to credulous country folk, and poor, religious parsons. But all in all, it is a good-natured, happy crowd. Prince and pauper, all are alike eager and impatient, all more or less ignorant, credulous, and superstitious.

But hush! The messenger is already delivering the prologue. Our friend, the franklin, nudges his companion, and expectantly fixes his attention upon the stage. And not once throughout the entire performance does his eager interest flag. The carefree Everyman makes his entrance, laughing and singing, his spirits bubbling over in the mere joy of living. Our franklin's spirits, too, have risen buoyantly in response.

But soon his light-heartedness is changed to sympathetic sorrow. For he sees Everyman, a moment before so thoughtless and gay, kneeling before the grim and awful figure of Death, the divine messenger sent to summon him to undertake a tedious, painful journey. Everyman begs, pleads, beseeches to be spared, but Death is inexorable.

And now the wretched Everyman tries to induce the friends of his idle hours, Fellowship, Kindred, Cousin, and Goods, to accompany him on his hazardous pilgrimage, but he receives refusals on every side.

When at length Everyman's last friend, his Good Deeds, in spite of her weakness, promises to aid him in his dire need, the compassionate franklin feels nearly as much gratitude as does Everyman himself. Now the faithful Good Deeds brings in her sister, Knowledge, upon whose advice Everyman appeals to Confession, and gains himself a precious jewel, called Penance.

From this point, the franklin can no longer keep back his tears. The one little and happy Everyman is overcome by a mortal weakness as he begins his journey. One by one, his companions forsake him, Beauty, Strength, Discretion, and the Five Wits. Only Good Deeds and Knowledge remain by the side of the helpless pilgrim as he still stumbles forward.

These stanch friends tell Everyman that he has endured no more than all mankind shall endure, and that Good Deeds shall secure his salvation. At last the weary Everyman falls; for him all suffering is ended. A choir of angels is heard singing anthems, as one of them descends to bear away the ransomed soul to its rest.

Intense silence, broken only by stifled sobs, follows Everyman's departure. Simple and unlettered as the audience is, the significance and moral appeal of the allegory have come home with tremendous force. Quiet and subdued, the crowd disperses to the four corners of England. In its midst we catch a glimpse of the miller, for once solemn and awed, and of the franklin, thoughtful, reverent, and filled with the light of understanding.

Kenneth Caldwell.

Today, in various parts of the world, great engineering feats are being accomplished. Frequently they are on a large scale and are completed in the face of tremendous difficulties. The Cape Cod canal, the tunnel under the North River, the dam in Arizona, and the Panama Canal are at present among the most familiar. But there are others also of far reaching importance. Among these is the Madeira-Manoie railroad of South America, which will carry on its roadbed more traffic than the African and Pan American railroads combined.

The necessity for this railroad is evident. Central Bolivia is probably the most productive portion of South America. It contains rich deposits of gold, silver, copper, tin, lead, and mercury. The silver deposits alone have yielded over two billion dollars in twenty years, and still there is no decrease in the output. Besides its minerals the country yields immense crops of tobacco, India rubber, cotton and sugar cane are also abundant. But Bolivia is very unfortunate in lacking any convenient means of exportation. For many years her entire commerce was carried on through the port of Callao, on the Pacific Coast, which can be reached from interior points only by means of a very hard passage over the Andes. Here the penetrating cold and the rugged and dangerous paths were almost unbearable to those accustomed to the warm climate of the lower altitude. Only a very small cargo, transported usually by mules, could be carried over this route. It can be easily seen, moreover, that the importation of heavy articles such as machinery for mining purposes was out of the question. In the early sixties, efforts were made to build narrow-gauge railways over the mountain passes, but these failed.

In later years the exportation of Bolivia's products was attempted by a route on the Madeira, Manoie and Amazon rivers. But this route, though far more feasible than that used in former years had its serious drawbacks. For nearly 200 continuous miles the Madeira and Manoie rivers are broken up by a series of rapids and falls, and because of these the cargoes have to be carried over rough portages. After passing the falls they are reshipped and carried easily 1500 miles to Para. To overcome the difficulties of these portages two great but unsuccessful attempts were made, the first by an English company in 1869, and the second by an American company in 1878. Very little progress was made in either case, only a few miles of track being laid and that very poorly. Both these attempts were abandoned because of deccase and lack of funds.

In the year 1906 the present work of construction was begun by an American-Brazilian company. The projected route, which runs from the cities of Porto Velho in Bolivia and San Antonio in Brazil, is estimated to be 200 miles in length. In addition to other grants, the Brazilian government agreed in 1910, to the construction of a branch line about twenty-four miles long to a point above the Esperanza Falls, which will obviate the necessity of portages around the falls on the Beni River in Bolivia.

To begin the work about two hundred and fifty laborers were hired; most of these were either Portuguese or half-breed Indians, and they make excellent workers. The office men, although comprising three or four nationalities, were as a rule American. The company has numerous steamers on which the most up-to-date and best machinery was at once shipped to Manaus, the headquarters of the company. There no time was lost in setting it up for use. At Manaus, also, the men found portions of the machinery left by former companies. Two locomotives on being repaired were nearly as good as new and aided greatly in the progress of the work. The junior officers prefer work at the front. Here, where their duty is to cut "pickets" or trails through the dense jungle, the overhanging limbs and vines keep the sun from them. In the rear the sun beats down fiercely upon the cleared paths and roadbeds. Owing to the extreme heat many of the laborers cease

FISHING IN RESERVOIRS.

Town so Voted at Town Meeting Monday Evening.

Symmes Road Will Remain—Special Committee on Grade Crossing.

The final session of the special town meeting was held Tuesday evening, there being a large attendance. The ladies continued to show their interest in town affairs by filling the gallery assigned to them. The business transacted was important, and several attempts were made to amend articles previously acted upon, but the citizens were determined to abide by the previous action. This was particularly so in the attempt made to call up the article relating to a new fire station. It looks now as if the principal finance to building the station, was the grade crossing, and if allowed to continue as an obstacle, would prevent final action for many months. In the meantime the townsmen will be obliged to live in a house, which, if owned by private citizens, would not be allowed by the Board of Health. From information gleaned at the meeting the question of abolishing the grade crossing is practically the condition that it was at the time of commencing proceedings, almost six years ago. It was a mistake not to have given the committee appointed to consider all the plans presented the $500 asked for in the vote to secure an expert engineer to study the entire situation and prepare a plan and specifications. As it is now, it looks as if the final plan would be the creation of the engineers of the railroad. So it is surmised that the town will be compelled to receive what is given it.

Fishing in the reservoirs has again received favorable consideration, under suitable restrictions. This measure was taken and forth from year to year, and if past action is a criterion, adverse measures may again be taken later. Altogether, it was a profitable and interesting meeting.

Moderator Ives called the meeting to order, and the first business was on motion of Mr. John H. Carter, to take up article two—which related to the rules governing the meeting adopted at the first session. He said that the section limiting debate to five minutes, unless permission was given by the meeting for further time, should be knocked out. It was too arbitrary and contrary to intent of the New England town meeting, where the fullest discussion should be permitted.

Mr. Ralph E. Joslin opposed taking up the article, which question, he said, been fully thrashed out at the first meeting.

Mr. W. L. Tuck favored Mr. Carter's motion. The vote was against taking up the article.

Grade Crossing.

Previous to adjournment of the last meeting Mr. Edward I. Braddock was speaking on his motion under article 19, regarding a grade crossing plan that he had brought forward. This motion was laid on the table, and a motion was made Tuesday evening to bring it again before the meeting. This was opposed, but on a rising vote of 63 to 85, it was decided to take Mr. Braddock's motion from the table. This motion was as follows:

Voted, that a committee of three be appointed from the floor to appoint a committee of five to further examine into the grade crossing question at the centre of the town, to carefully examine all plans submitted to them, to have plans and surveys made of such routes as they deem advisable, to ascertain the cost of construction, including land damages, and report at a future town meeting.

On speaking on his motion, Mr. Braddock said that it was for the purpose of considering all plans to see if something could not be evolved that would meet with the approval of all the citizens. An expert engineer should be employed to study the entire situation, prepare a plan and make a report to the town, which had not been done during the entire controversy. The town is tired of theories, it now wants facts, so as to act intelligently and know what the situation of the crossing will cost to a dollar.

Mr. W. L. Tuck said that the time was coming when cities and towns would not be called upon to pay a cent for this work, and a measure was now before the legislature to this effect.

Town Counsel Joslin said that under the new management of the steam railroad a situation had arisen that would cause delay in settling the grade crossing question, so that he saw no objection to the appointment of the committee. The railroad is to create a board whose duties will be to study all the crossing problems on the entire system. This board would not be ready to take up any situation until the late autumn or fall, when,

was not carrying out the wish and will of the town in the matter at the present time as they should "grant" some fishing permits also. The result of absolutely forbidding fishing of any kind is seen in the reservoirs today where the big overgrown black bass are killing off all the small fish which feed entirely on vegetable matter injurious to the water. The big fish survive as a nuisance when they should be caught and killed. Mr. Whitney clearly stated that the water works men are continually taking out dead fish from the reservoirs at this season of the year with a rake which have been killed by the black bass. Many of them are decomposed before taken out and many sink to the bottom and are never caught on a rake or anything else and add a decided fish flavor to our drinking water. Not a word of this kind of fishing has ever been reported by the Water Board to the town, but it has been going on year after year. The Chairman of the State Fish and Game Commission, Mr. George W. Field, informed the speaker that the town would sometime be obliged to take out all the large black bass if it wished to preserve the purity of its water supply. Mr. Field is an authority in such matters and he allowed Mr. Whitney to quote him and ask the meeting which was the better way, to catch on the large, live fish with hook and line or allow them to kill each other and all rot in the water excepting those fished and partly decomposed by a rake in the hands of a water works employee. Mr. Whitney claimed the present practice of the Water Board did not prevent fishing in the two hundred acres of our reservoirs. Fishing is continually going on there by a few people who do not respect the edict of the Water Board. The personally knew of four persons fishing there last week. Most respectable citizens who would like to fish in a gentlemanly way and who do not want to go to court over the matter are thus barred out from such fishing as they would like and such fishing as would benefit the water, not harm it. Salem, Beverly and many other towns and cities were referred to by Mr. Whitney as municipalities who had applied to the State Board of Health for just such rules and regulations as his motion called for. He claimed that the Water Board would not call for such rules or ask for a conference on the subject with the State Board and the only way to bring about a desirable action was to pass the vote presented to the meeting. It was perfectly safe to leave the matter of making sanitary rules governing fishing in the reservoirs, which the town has heretofore voted for, in the hands of the State Board just as many other Massachusetts towns had done during the past few years.

Mr. Whitney spoke over the allowed limit but was granted more time and was listened to with marked attention. His grasp of the subject and his historical knowledge of the whole matter stood him in good stead. No ready whatever was made to his assertion. The vote which followed the debate was strongly in favor of Mr. Whitney's motion.

Mr. A. H. Russell moved indefinite postponement, saying that the people were tired of so much of this question. His motion was lost.

FROST—LOCHMAN.

Miss Anna P. Lochman and Mr. Henry A. Frost both of Cambridge, were united in marriage at the Unitarian Church on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock by Rev. Joel Metcalf, the pastor.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. Joel Metcalf and of Mr. George H. Lochman. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about seventy-five relatives of the couple. They were attended by Miss Emma Hayden of Cambridge, maid of honor, and Dr. Richard Miller of Fitchburg, groomsmen. The church was attractively decorated with palms, asparagus ferns, festoons of mountain laurel and bunches of marguerites.

The bride was dressed in white embroidered tulle, trimmed with duchess lace and wore a large white hat with white feathers to match. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a dress of yellow chiffon over yellow satin and carried yellow marguerites. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Myron A. Lochman of New Rochelle, N. Y.

A reception at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Metcalf, No. 3 Crescent road, followed the ceremony, the couple being assisted in receiving by Rev. and Mrs. Metcalf and Mr. and Mrs. Frost of Fitchburg, the groom's parents. The ushers or both ceremony and reception were Mr. William H. Lochman of Somerville and Mr. Bebe of Cambridge. Following their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Frost will reside in Cambridge, Mr. Frost being a professor in the architectural department at Harvard College.

Miss Dorothy Kerrison and Miss Eleanor Barba are at Camp Wyandgonic, Bridgeton, Me. They will be joined next week by Miss Charlotte Stone, Miss Miriam Foster and Miss Constance Lane of this town and Miss Margaret Walker of Providence.

FAVORS PUTTING TRACKS IN SUBWAY.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I, with doubtless many others, was interested in "The Latest Plan for eliminating the Grade Crossing" as shown in last week's STAR and while the plan is in some ways ingenious yet it would not seem to convenience the people doing business, or residing southeast of the square, while the disfigurement of the town by the proposed cement superstructure and the fact that the "Latest Plan" does nothing towards the removal of the B. & M. tracks in the square, puts the idea, orally, on a par with Lynn's "Discarded Plan."

Those hideous cement structures at Lynn, so violated the canons of good taste and civic beauty that the people with one accord voted them positively criminal, a judgement in which even Mr. Mellen fully concurred; upon investigating the matter after his accession to power in R. & M. affairs. And now, after seeking a good deal of money, the proper treatment for relief from the grade crossing evil in the "Shoe City" is by common consent wisely found, in track depression.

It appears to me that the only difference between Lynn's and Winchester's grade-crossing-elimination problems, is one of degree.

Now let us glance for a moment at a place where for over 40 years to my knowledge the trains have been running a part of their way under the city and another part of their way in an open top called in subway.

Why not apply these lessons to our own situation and first of all absolutely refuse to harbor any scheme that promises either disfigurement of the town or merely temporary relief.

In these days of water-proof-cement—construction of both subways and tunnels and with the abundance of this building material within our borders, is there any conceivable engineering or financial reason why the B. & M. tracks should be allowed at or above grade through the centre of this town.

Let us consider the B. & M. tracks (going southward through the village). I can imagine no fundamental reason why beginning prior to the point where the Walnut Branch and Southern division converge, these tracks cannot begin to depress and continue to depress until a subway level is reached by the time the tracks have reached the northwest corner of Main street and the Square.

To this point the subway with open top (as down the incline from North station) to the Emergency Hospital at Boston), thence under Winchester Square just as the construction is under the city square at Salem, but immediately the square is passed the subway to have an open top, void of any roof from the southeast corner of the square and Main street until Walnut street is reached. Here the construction would comprehend Walnut street crossing above the tracks, a consummation devoutly to be wished.

The tracks should continue in the subway level to just beyond Winchester station when they would begin to incline and attain the surface again at a point opposite the Manchester Field. Winchester station should be treated to a cemented basement with tram floor at track level, with cement platform at east side of tracks. Easy "Government-tread" stairways to and from the present station ticket floor, and from the east platform to Walnut street. Thus Winchester square would be made safe for vehicles, trolley cars and pedestrians, and the square would regain its natural proportions and even beauty—unmarred by a plurality of gates and flag stanchions, which might well be replaced with a slightly shaft dedicated to the Town's fallen heroes.

Moreover a much desired thoroughfare would be made of Walnut street from Church street to the Boulevard and Unitarian Church, while danger from trains through the heart of Winchester would be entirely eliminated, and the twin nuisances, of noise and flying dirt, reduced to the minimums.

DANFORTH—HILTON.

Miss Bernice Snow Hilton and Mr. Gordon Ribblet Danforth of Somerville were united in marriage on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Hilton of No. 3 Stratford road. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock, in the presence of over one hundred guests, by Rev. D. Augustine Newton, pastor of the Reading Congregational Church.

The residence was decorated for the wedding with a parasol fern, laurel, palms and bay trees. The only flowers used were Kilmory roses, which were displayed profusely about the rooms and the ceremony was performed in front of a curtain of asparagus fern and roses, making a fitting and attractive background.

The bride was dressed in ivory satin with pearl passementerie trimming. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and her veil was caught with a spray of the same flower. Miss Beatrice Hazlett of Detroit was maid of honor. She wore a dress of white marquisette over pink satin and carried pink Kilmory roses. Mr. Frank Strank of Brookline was best man. The couple were attended by Miss Helen Snow of Somerville, the little flower girl, who wore a white embroidered robe over pink, and carried a basket of pink Kilmory roses.

The wedding party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by a stringed orchestra and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Following the ceremony a reception was held until ten o'clock, attended by about two hundred. The couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Hilton and Mr. and Mrs. George R. Danforth of Somerville, the parents of the bride and groom. The ushers for the ceremony and reception were Dr. Roy Given of Somerville, Mr. Norman Kennard and Mr. Albert Waldron of Somerville and Mr. Kenneth and Mr. Roy L. Hilton, brothers of the bride.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Danforth will reside at No. 120 Powder House Boulevard, Somerville.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S ASSEMBLY ROOM.

The Executive Committee in charge of the movement to establish an Assembly Room for the use of the young people of Winchester, held a meeting in Rev. Mr. Hodgdon's study in the Congregational Church yesterday morning.

The general plan and scope of the movement was briefly set forth and ways and means for its successful carrying out were fully discussed. The financing of the movement was discussed at great length and a comprehensive plan which will be set forth in detail in next week's STAR was adopted. The Committee already has the nucleus of a fund in the proceeds from the entertainment given by Miss Kellogg at the Sanborn residence two weeks ago. Another entertainment will be given sometime in the autumn for the benefit of the fund under the direction of Mr. Sylvester Taylor and it is thought that certain funds that have been raised for philanthropic and educational purposes in Winchester which are now idle may be made available for the Assembly Room when its importance is fully understood.

The Assembly Room is neither a Socialistic movement, a charity nor a bid. Briefly it is to serve as a substitute for the street corner, the drug store and the town library as a meeting place for young people who don't know what to do with themselves evenings in the winter and who naturally crave some amusement or at least occupation during their leisure hours. The desire for social intercourse sends them into the streets and without a recognized meeting place they are apt to drift hither and yon with results that if they are not positively detrimental are at least not beneficial.

The Assembly Room will be a recognized meeting place for social chat and intercourse with each other; athletic games and exercises will be provided for those who enjoy them; table games and reading matter will be available for those who prefer quiet amusements, and entertainments if desired will be organized in which the boys and the girls can take part for the amusement of themselves as well as their companions.

It is an educational movement in the right direction and should have the support of every public spirited citizen of the community.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

In the course of a conversation on the subject of woman's rights a prominent gentleman said that woman's place is the home. Where, The Spectator would like to ask, is the man's place? It takes two to make a home just as it does to make a quarrel. It is a very one-sided home where the woman remains while the man roams. The true philosophy of life is in knowing when to go out and when to return on the part of the party of the first part and upon the part of the second part. A right-minded or withheld is in the nature of a stalemate. Taking advantage of an element in political economy is like taking the "coppers from a dead man's eyes." Equity is the keystone to political honesty. To be inequitable is to be unfair and over the verge of dishonesty. Somebody, or a lot of somebodies, is taking advantage of our women and are utilizing the lack of courage to their best or his material benefit. Woman is exploited easily, when politically helpless than she would be with the ballot, and therein is found the key to the whole situation. There are active exploiters of women and there are passive ones. Passive exploiters are the more numerous, therefore, the most harmful. The Spectator cannot see where there is much equity in denying the woman the ballot. There is not one iota of equity in it. There is little to be gained in it. If woman was unrestricted in her rights, and was then excluded in political action—then and then only would men have reason to be proud of their achievements. As it is, political action are not such resplendent things that women have to feel as the perfection of law that, but rather scorn them as the projects of law given.

A gentleman who not long ago returned from a tour of the world informs The Spectator that he hopes the work of preparing a more powerful navy by the building of additional battleships will not bring any abatement. This gentleman spent a period in Japan and he closely watched the maneuvers of the forces on the high grounds and the prominence and efficiency with which the various movements are executed, and the thorough discipline of the army, he informs The Spectator that in all this strenuous practice of military tactics the Japanese have constantly in view above other objects the coming conflict with the United States. "In the light of the history of the past it is not impossible that in the course of time, when they have reached a degree of naval and military strength to insure them with a reasonable hope of success, China and Japan, forming an alliance, may seek a conflict with this potent nation to revenge their real or imagined injuries and compel a fuller recognition of their equality," this gentleman points out to The Spectator. "It is therefore imperative that this country should continue her military and naval development that no weakness on her part should invite an attack. The President of France himself has recognized the wisdom of thorough preparation in the statement: 'When a strong man armed keeps his peace his goods are in peace, but when a stronger than he shall come upon him and overcome him, he taketh from him all his armor wherein he trusted and divideth his spoils.' A few millions spent annually for battleships as a precaution against war is a small outlay compared with the thousands of millions that would have to be expended in the event of war. And not alone from the Far East is there the possibility of conflict."

A thinking gentleman with whom The Spectator frequently spends a profitable period, the other day called attention to the necessity of men and women mingling for the betterment of humanity and for their own upliftment. He pointed out to The Spectator that at the present time there is a marked antagonism between the sexes, due to erroneous conditions and the emancipation of women, and that the consequences will be serious indeed if the race does not recognize the fundamental principles of life. This gentleman makes a strong plea for a liberal education of young girls, that they may be prepared for the responsibilities of married life. He also calls attention to the fact that it is an outrage to relegate married women, between 50 and 75 years of age, to only women's clubs and not accept their ideas accumulated through years of experience.

One day recently a Jewish gentleman arrived in Winchester and in endeavoring to dispose of his wares from door to door was humiliated several times because he was a Jew. Now, in the opinion of The Spectator the worst blot on Christian history has been the persecution of the Jew. The other day The Spectator discussed this subject of the Jew with a prominent clergyman and he called attention to one verse offered, namely, that the Jews crucified Christ. Just suppose that he did, would it be just to hold the modern Jew responsible for a crime which his fathers committed before he was born? But the Jewish race did not crucify the Christ. It there were 2,000,000 Jews living at the time of Christ, how many of them must have gathered in the early morning before the judgment hall of Pilate and cried "Crucify him!" Not a million, nor a hundred thousand, nor ten thousand, nor even a thousand—were handful at the Jewish race did the work. It is time that the rulers of the Jews were leaders in the movement. But are we to hold a race responsible for what a little political clique did? Certain it is that as a citizen of Winchester The Spectator should hold it as unreasonable if his children should be hounded because a political ring in his day might be grating in the town house. The Jew has been hounded because some even here in Winchester have supposed that these people were clannish and grasping. Well, who made the modern Jew what he is but misguided Christians? For 2000 years they have been hounded, ostracized and regarded him, compelling him to get a living by any possible means.

Physical roughy is not the only kind to which the wife may subject the husband or the husband subject the wife. The Spectator might cite many other varieties of which the married woman or man may be made the victim. Some of these pass current in the law courts but many do not, though almost all of them may be productive of more real suffering than would be occasioned by physical assault. One of the chief offenders of this class is the man who virtually reduces his wife to a condition of slavery through selfish management of the family finances.

Brutality of this sort is often taken as a matter of course. There is mental, but seldom any verbal, protest on the part of the suffering victim. A man may support his family well, keeping always within the law, and yet publicly humiliate his wife by the manner in which he performs his duty to her. So may the husband and the part of the wife in ignoring his wife socially, treating her as if she were a part of the furniture of the home. Women probably complain of their husbands on all other grounds less frequently than on this one. The man who refuses to recognize his wife's right to a voice in the management of family social affairs and in the question of how the evenings shall be spent may be just as cruel as the other less-reformed husband who uses his fists in asserting his mastery. And then, on the other side, there is the nagging woman, the woman who forever talks, the woman who criticizes her husband when company is present, the woman who refuses to try to be economical, the woman who must be proved out of bed in the morning and a half humiliated other women who make no effort to curb their tempers or to attain themselves in harmonize with life conditions. Cruelty of this nature is not rare; there are few families here or elsewhere in which it has not or does not at sometime manifest itself. And often it is infinitely more brutal than random physical violence. There is cruelty of word and attitude as well as cruelty of fist.

The Spectator.

DID YOU EAT YOUR SHARE?

Did you eat three dozen bananas last year? If you did not you did not get your share. Over 40,000,000 bunches, or more than 3,000,000,000 bananas were imported into the United States in 1910. The immensity of this shipment can be more readily grasped by the statement that it would cover an area 20 feet wide, reaching from New York to San Francisco, or, placed end to end, would extend thirteen times around the earth at the Equator. The "slip" in the peels would launch the ships of the world. The wholesome value of the 1910 importation, at the point of export, was over $12,500,000 while at all probability the consuming public of the United States expended over $35,000,000 for this delicious fruit.

During the past ten years the number of bananas consumed in the United States has more than doubled, and the increased tropical acreage under cultivation assures even more startling figures for the next decade. Many European countries are importing large quantities of bananas; last year Great Britain consumed over $8,000,000 worth, Germany, over $1,000,000 and France $5,000,000.

HONORS TO A WINCHESTER MAN.

Mr. Herbert W. Kelley, Harvard 1911, of this town, left for England last Friday night as a member of the American college track team chosen from Yale and Harvard men. The American team will compete with a team chosen from the English University, Oxford and Cambridge. The selection of Kelley to run the quarter mile is a fitting reward for one who has made a remarkable record during his college course. A consistent performer, Kelley has shown his ability in both dual and intercollegiate meets. Credit is also due to Kelley not only for his remarkable work in athletics but also for his academic work which shows that it is not necessary for the one to interfere with the other.

A VICTORY.

The Winchester Highlands Athletic Club won its sixth game by defeating the Castle Camelot K. O. K. A. 5192 base ball nine, by a score of 21 to 18. It was a halting test, thirty-six hits being made off the three pitchers. Individual batting stars for Winchester Highlands were Murphy, Penabaz, and McElhinney. Penabaz's home run went far over the left fielder's head and rolled down Forest street. For the opponents, Bradwick, McDonald, Little and Wilson excelled.

With the score against them 18, the home team went to bat, and by five singles and three doubles, scored eleven runs.

A justice in a court just outside of Boston has ruled that if you buy a five pound box of butter and find that it contains less than weight you will have no redress, at least in his court. You are buying what the dealer chooses to call a five pounds box of butter, and not in reality five pounds of butter. Should this decision hold good it will upset all preconceived ideas that you are getting and paying for what a package is supposed to weigh.

A resolve has been introduced in the Mass. CLOSING EVENTS OF LADIES' BETHANY SOCIETY.

Very seldom a group of ladies are to be found who so thoroughly enjoy themselves and at the same time are doing good. But it is an unmistakable fact that the good women of this society know how to do both.

The fair and lawn party which was given the 15th on the grounds of Mrs. Geo. R. Nugent, one of the members, was a success both socially and financially and a good sum was added to the treasury. The ladies had worked faithfully and while working were entertained at the homes of Mrs. Charles Forsaith, Mrs. J. K. Murdock and Mrs. Herbert F. Butler. Those having charge of the tables were: Mrs. George Nugent, Mrs. Louis A. Clafin, Mrs. Edward S. Everett, Mrs. John B. Boyce, Mrs. Henry A. Smalley, Mrs. Joseph C. Adams, Mrs. Wm. R. McIntosh, Mrs. Cowie, Mrs. Charles Forsaith, Mrs. Edward Ray, Mrs. Melvin A. Fogg, Mrs. Joseph Belleville, Miss Sadie Dutton, Mrs. Geo. Benjamin, Mrs. Fred Twombly, Mrs. Albert McLellan and Mrs. Tolman.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

One thing that new-comers to our town meetings have introduced should be severely called down by the moderator, and that is hissing. It is something new to this town and should not be tolerated.

I have not been able to find another town where a citizen has to get permission of the meeting to speak more than once in a motion, in one where it requires seven persons to doubt a vote. A citizen who has not yet registered and who had to sit in the small hall told me after this meeting that he had always heard of the fairness of Winchester meetings, but judged by this one, which was the first he had attended, it was the narrowest and most unfair he had ever seen, and he thought that the above mentioned rules were worse than absurd.

So we have voted to build an engine house on a certain piece of land we don't own and have resented to vote the money to buy it. Talk about consistency. If we had voted to take the Whitney property and then had resented to vote the money for it, there would have been some sense to that, but the engine house, which all admit we need, we let go by default.

So we are to have one more grade crossing committee. Well, let it all be public meeting next fall and see how many different plans are supported by different groups who will not agree to any other plan. I wonder why we did not have a committee made up of about six each of engineers, architects, real estate experts, property owners in the centre and members of the bar?

Some novices print under the article the motion that is to be offered. This is a great help to intelligent action, as frequently many present do not know what they are voting on. It also enables more intelligent consideration before the meeting comes on. Let's try it.

Lay a motion on the table to get more information and then resented to take it from the table so the members of the Board who had the information could give it. That's what happened to Selectman Belcher on the Town Hall building heating plant matter. It was a weird meeting surely. Our fish and game commissioner having disposed (perhaps) of his ancient point rights now is seeking to transfer his activities to the reservoirs and establish fishing preserves. Of course this means we will soon be called upon to make an appropriation to restock our waters. They should be stocked with suckers.

The New York Alderman asked, What is the constitution between friends? We apparently ask, What of the law when we want to put something through? We put the Manchester Field bonds through in defiance of the law and some one was willing to buy them, but did that legalize the action? We tried the same performance on the school bonds in 1903 and Governor Bates vetoed it. We are now trying to put through the Whitney purchase vote in the same style, using the park act as a subterfuge. Perhaps some one will buy those bonds, and then again perhaps they won't, but that won't legalize it and any property owner can stop it.

Mr. Ogden made a good speech up to a certain point and had the meeting with him, but then he characterized it as an uncivilized community the feeling at once changed. I wonder why our "hostler" who lives near the Stoneham line was so much interested in naming a small street near the Medford line?

Our representative did not hold up on legalizing act, but the presiding officer, at my request that it be put through till the town meeting Tuesday night. As it had to pass another stage in each branch Monday and Tuesday and then be signed by the Governor it could easily have been held up elsewhere if there had been any chance of its becoming a law before Tuesday night. There was no hearing on the bill at all.

It is unfortunate that the Braddock plan was referred to a committee instead of to the Selectmen, but why the town counsel should have had the subject matter of the other two grade crossing articles referred to the committee instead of the Board is incomprehensible. It is similar to our action of last year when we voted under the lead of prominent citizens to dismiss the petition. What is the matter with us?

Speaking of prominent citizens, one reason I went as far as I did Tuesday night in regard to illegal actions is that I am not willing that p.c.s should do these illegal things and get away with them and then turn around and call down on a prominent p.c.'s minor short comings. Our Manchester Field vote was illegal and the bonds to pay for it were issued in direct defiance of our laws and in my opinion our action on the Whitney purchase is just as illegal and will not hold if contested.

Tomorrow the local ball team will meet the Medford team on Manchester Field at 3.30. This team was the first one played this season, Winchester losing by the score of 3 to 2. A wool game is anticipated. The local team has ordered a set of new uniforms which it is expected will be used for the first time on the 4th. Manager LeDuc desired to express his thanks to those who by their contributions have made this possible. The toll amount necessary has not yet been contributed, and further funds will be welcomed. Mr. LeDuc is an old ball player and an umpire of considerable note, and his efforts to give the town a series of games which will be appreciated should receive the support of everyone.

"KEEP THE CHANNEL DEEP AND THE BANKS LOW."

In the province of Szechuen in China, close up to the borders of Tibet is a remarkable piece of engineering work which dates back two hundred years before the birth of Christ. On one side of a mountain spur was a river which in spring and summer was swollen into a torrent by the snows melting in Tibet. On the other side of the spur was a plain that suffered much from drought. A Chinese engineer dug a cut through the mountain spur, and a great canal through the plain to a bend of the river far below. By means of this canal the water is drawn off from the upper river in time of freshet and made to irrigate the plain. A great bar of iron was placed in the bottom of the canal, with instruction that the water must be shut off every year, and the canal cleaned down to the iron bar. Near the head of the canal is a temple built in honor of the engineer, and on its walls are many of his sayings, among them this one: "Keep the channel deep and the banks low." That Chinese engineer of the olden time knew that if the people allowed the channel to fill up, and tried to compensate for it by building up the banks, there would be constant danger of turning the plain into a swamp, hence his sage advice which has passed into a proverb.

The motto of the Chinese engineer reaches down to fundamentals, and might have many applications. In education attempts are always being made to introduce ornamental studies, which are well enough in themselves, but may lessen the time and attention given to fundamentals. It is all right to teach a child how to draw and color, provided he is taught at the same time how to spell his mother tongue with accuracy, and write it with clearness and precision. It is beautiful to know about the birds and flowers but absolutely essential to have a ready use of the science of numbers.

There can easily be a municipal application of the proverb. Beauty of landscape and attractive scenery are very desirable, but the health and safety of a community are of first consideration. In theology the motto of the Chinaman rings like the text of a prophet. It is easy to allow the silt of endless living, and the detritus of speculation, to fill up the deep channel of religious truth. The souls of men may be solved by ceremony or quieted by theories, but they can be healed only by repentance for sin, by a life of vigorous righteousness, and by a sincere and continuous faith in the Saviour of men.

RUSHING LEGISLATION

Lawmakers in Boston Have Many Large Measures Left

AN EARLY FALL CAMPAIGN

Ex-Congressman O'Connell Says Mayor Fitzgerald is "Down and Out" and Favors His Recall in January—New England Manufacturers Disturbed at Threats of Tariff Revision

There is no indication that the great and general court will be prorogued much if any before the 15th of July. There are still a great many very important matters to be considered by the legislature. Many of these cannot properly be rushed through without danger to the commonwealth. Many corporations prefer when they have a job which they wish to rush through the legislature that it should be considered in the closing days of the session. At such times these measures are not likely to be as carefully scrutinized as they would be some months earlier. It is very much easier for that reason to get through the legislature corporation bills which favor the interests rather than the people, than at any other time. Members of the legislature are always somewhat disturbed by the clamor of newspapers for an early prorogation. At the same time they realize that in the natural course of events it is not possible to properly complete the work of the legislature according to the calendar. Some years there is less important business than others and the session which has to consider the most important legislation is naturally longer than the other.

Some of the important appropriation bills have only just come to the legislature from the governor, which he has taken months to consider. Some members of the legislature feel that there is a purpose to rush important matters through the two branches of the legislature with scant time for proper consideration. They are unwilling to accept whatever blame may attach to a late session, as they feel that the governor is largely responsible for that condition of things and that the union therefore should not be laid wholly upon the members of the great and general court.

An Early Nominating Campaign

The passage of the primary election bill for the entire state is likely to result in an early opening of the fall campaign. Already Lieutenant Governor Frothingham is active in promoting his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination. He has been given a reception at the home of ex-Senator Frank Selbert at Jamaica Plain, at which 150 or 200 Republicans were present. Both Speaker Joseph Walker and Representative Norman White of Brookline are also active and speaking several times each week in various parts of the commonwealth.

Ex-Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell

believes that Mayor Fitzgerald is "down and out." Although he supported the mayor for reelection two years ago he now declares that he favors a city election next January and the recall of the chief executive. Mr. O'Connell says he believes that either James J. Storrow, Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara, Bernard J. Rutwell, Louis K. Brandeis, ex-Congressman John A. O'Neill, ex-Congressman John A. Kellher, Chairman John A. Sullivan of the finance commission, Congressman Andrew J. Peters or Judge Joseph J. Corbett could defeat Mayor Fitzgerald. He declared that he was only one among the Democratic leaders who favored a city election and the mayor's recall. The statute expressly provides that the question of a city election must go on the ballot on state election day in this form: "Shall there be an election for mayor at the next municipal election?" This must be answered yes or no. It requires only a majority of the registered voters for an election. As there are about 112,000 in Boston it will require about 56,000 votes to bring about an election.

Mr. O'Connell believes that 35,000 of those who voted for Mr. Storrow will vote yes at the state election and that "it is fair to assume on account of the tremendous distrust which still exists against the mayor," that more than 33 percent of those who voted for him last time will quietly join the army of those who will vote yes on election day. Mr. O'Connell makes this very significant statement:

"It should be borne in mind that Mr. Fitzgerald won the election two years ago principally because he executed in this city what amounted to no more or less than a race and religious war. He has been practically all of his life in the line of race and religious war, and can only be invoked by a man who is always crying for sympathy."

Manufacturers Are Disturbed
The manufacturers of New England are apparently a good deal concerned over the possibility that there may be an immediate revision of the tariff at the present session of congress. Some of them say that if they are to expect this as a result of a coalition between the Democrats and the insurgent Republicans it will mean that they will have to curtail operations until after this has been accomplished. It is said by those who speak from experience in such matters that a considerable lowering of the tariff would mean a large loss on any stock of goods in hand and that for this reason it is the part of wisdom for manufacturers to produce their goods only in such quantities as are needed by the trade, and thereby save the loss which would otherwise result from falling prices on a large stock in hand. Probably the business and industries of no section of the country is more sensitive to tariff changes than those of New England and especially of Massachusetts, which is essentially a manufacturing state. It is claimed by the woolen men that a great proportion of the woolen goods manufactured in the country are made in this commonwealth. The same is also true of cotton goods of the finer grade, as well as boots and shoes. It is quite natural that the curtailment of production along all lines of business which would be affected by the tariff should result in a growing volume of unemployment. Manufacturers say that in ordinary times they are accustomed to manufacture goods and pile them up in storehouses against future demand. When they cease to do this labor naturally suffers loss of employment and wages to a considerable extent and that is the case at present. An assurance that no changes would be attempted in the tariff until the next session of congress, aside from the passage of the reciprocity measure, would undoubtedly do a great deal to aid the mills of New England working full time or nearly so.

Governor Foss and Charities

Governor Foss has sent a message to the legislature criticizing the conduct of the state charitable institutions and declining to approve the increase in appropriations asked for by the state board of charities. His comment is directed against the policy of caring for advanced cases of tuberculosis and lack of businesslike safeguards in helping the adult poor. He also criticizes the present system of boarding out children by the state. The Boston Herald takes up the governor's criticism and editorially comes to the conclusion that the governor does not know what he is talking about. It denies his claim that the four state sanatoria for consumptives were originally intended for only indigent cases and adds that this is true only of the Rutland institution. The Herald also calls attention to the fact that tuberculosis is now regarded as a contagious disease and as such, isolation is imperative, and that advanced cases as well as others must be cared for in a special institution. The Herald also repeats the criticism of the care of neglected children, declaring that the state board of charity must take care for the children which the courts assign to it. The Herald also points out various other errors in the message of Mr. Foss and appears to show that the governor was, in the least, under a serious misapprehension when he wrote it.

Fishing Firms Locate in Provincetown

The probability of the passage by congress of the reciprocity agreement with Canada has been greatly feared by the fishermen of Gloucester. As a result one of the largest fish companies doing business there has decided to establish a branch of its business in Louisbourg, Cape Breton, if the agreement is finally ratified. It is considered quite probable that the action taken by this concern will be followed by others in order to parry the effects of the reciprocity agreement when ratified. Naturally the people of the maritime provinces are a good deal elated at this result of the treaty, and are glad to welcome American business concerns, as shown by the million of the town council not to tax the business of the company for five years if it would locate in that place; also to recommend a bonus of $1000 a year for five years to the company.

Considerable agitation is being manifested in the Cabinet Club over the addition of two new bowling alleys. The matter has been thoroughly investigated by Judge Littlefield and will probably come before the club in the earliest possible date. The bowling at the club has become so popular that the committee has had considerable difficulty in even arranging for the matches of the regular tournaments, leaving no evenings open for individual bowling. It is proposed to extend the present alleys out on the north side of the club house.

Six years ago last Wednesday Julius Hovey, one of the brightest boys of this town, was struck by a train and killed at the centre railroad crossing. At that time it appeared that public indignation over the existence of this death trap would insure its speedy removal. The crossing exists today exactly as it did at that time, with the exception that a few more trains pass over it daily, and each day records an increasing number of the narrow escapes from death. The children of the town are as exposed to this danger now as they were six years ago and the prospects of removal appear to be equally distant.
